FAIRVIEW – Monday morning was a busy one at Fairview High School as parents, grandparents, coaches and dozens of students gathered in the library to celebrate two student-athletes signing scholarships. Hunter McKelvy and Alex McDonald each signed athletic scholarships from Wallace State Community College, Hunter for golf and Alex for cross country. McKelvy and McDonald wanted as many of their teammates and friends at the signing as they could fit into the library, so it made for a fun atmosphere during the ceremony.

McKelvy was up first and after signing his scholarship he talked a little about his time at Fairview and how his coaches have prepared him to compete at the next level. He's also very familiar with the coaches he'll be working with thanks to his ties to the local golf community.

"They've worked with me a lot, Coach (Kurt) Knight and Steven (DeBoer) and Ches (Harris) and Coach (Dan) York have helped me out a lot, too and just studied hard and worked at," McKelvy said. "I work at Cross Creek Golf Course so I'm around Ches and Coach York just about every day and they really encourage me to be better and strive. I couldn't be more thankful for the blessing that God has sent me and my family."

His head coach at Fairview, Kurt Knight, reflected on McKelvy's time at Fairview and how he has seen his skills develop from his freshman season to today.

"Well he's growing and getting longer off the tee because he's stronger and he's more of a leader, of course he's always been a leader. He's been a great person and worked hard, I mean he's been doing it non-stop since the first day really," Knight said. "Before he was even able to play with us he was always around, but the biggest thing is length and consistency. Length and consistency I would say is the biggest difference."

Coach Knight has been really happy to see how close the golfing community is in Cullman and believes it has been a great help to himself and McKelvy.

"Coach York and Coach Harris and Steven and everybody it's kind of like a big family. We go there and practice one day a week and they help us, and it's just been a great group and we've been like that for a while so we're really proud to be able to associate with » PAGE 3

PET OF THE WEEK

Help Ernest T. find his forever home

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmansenes.com

CULLMAN – Donna Ruttkay introduces us to the Cullman County Animal Shelter's Pet of the Week.

Ernest T. is a Rottweiler mix, smaller than average but full-grown at around a year and a half in age.

He's laid back with a low to medium energy level, and is submissive to his caregivers.

Though he's not tiny, he does enjoy cuddling and is very affectionate.

His adoption fee is $90 and that includes the following: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neuter, microchip, free 45-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Please consider adopting to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or visit them at 935 Convent Road NE.

Reach them by email at cullmancountyanimal-shelter@gmail.com.

Gentry kicks off 2018 re-election campaign in style

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmansense.com

CULLMAN – On Saturday, Republican Cullman County Sheriff Matt Gentry officially kicked off his 2018 re-election campaign with a community celebration at the Cullman Civic Center. Guests were treated to free barbecue dinners, and Round 2 provided live entertainment.

With the campaign season underway, other local incumbents came out to join in the fun and shake a few hands, including Cullman County Commissioners Garry Marchman and Kerry Watson, and State Rep. Corey Harbison, R-Good Hope, among others. Alabama Sec. of State John Merrill even came up from Montgomery.

Merrill took the stage to endorse Gentry's run, saying, "I have a chance to get to know the sheriffs from all over the state. I have a chance to see the programs that are going on all over the state of Alabama.

"And one of the things that I have become convinced of, without any effort at all, is what an outstanding job Matt Gentry is doing. Not only is he bringing new technology, new innovations for programs, efforts in crime stopping to Cullman County, but, with the Sheriff's (Citizens') Academy that they've implemented, with the enhancement of the rodeo opportunity, with all of the things that they're doing, they're setting a standard and a precedent that other communities in the state of Alabama are choosing to follow."

Gentry himself addressed the audience, telling the crowd, in part, "One of the things I believe in is our community. I had somebody ask me the other day, and they said, 'Are you getting ready to run for sheriff again?' And they said, 'What do you like about it the most, running for office?' I said, 'Well, what I like about it is we live in the greatest county in the state of Alabama, hands down.' We live in the greatest county, and it's because of our people."

As folks lined up to get their barbecue, the sheriff took a moment to speak to The Tribune.

What do you want people to remember about your first term?

"The biggest thing is that we had a mission and a vision, and we accomplished those goals. The mission was to return the office of sheriff back to the people. The vision we had: what we wanted to do for drug enforcement, and what we wanted to do with sex offenders, what we wanted to do with the victims' service deputy.

"And setting that tone, the drug offenders: we worked on all levels--you know, from the lower level to the upper level. In the history of Cullman County, we have our first federal indictment on a murder charge for a guy that sold drugs out of Birmingham, and we had a victim in Cullman County. That's never been done before, and that's why we're proud.

"Sex offenders: we went from checking them once a year to homes, to we check them every month. We're doing over 3,000 checks a month, to make sure that they're in compliance with the law.

"The victims' service deputy: you know victims--everybody thinks about the bad guy. Everybody thinks about that, but nobody thinks about the victims. And so our victims service deputy was a very, very important position that we ran on, that we would create: for somebody that handles victims and their problems, because they're always left out in the process.

"But that's not going to stop.

"I mean, what we have tried to accomplish: returning the office of sheriff back to the people, all of our community-oriented events--whether it's Citizens' Academy, firearms safety classes, the trainings that we do--everything is about the community. And that's what we want to accomplish, because with the community we gain strength.

"But for us, this is just a beginning of what we want to accomplish this next term. You know, we're looking at a vision of what we can do to enhance what we're already doing, and then what can we do that's new that will help affect the community in a positive manner. And that's very important to us."

Governor Ivey urges employers to hire veterans, apply for federal designation

Daniel Sparkman
Contributor

MONTGOMERY – Gov. Kay Ivey joined U.S. Labor Sec. Alexander Acosta and Alabama Labor Sec. Fitzgerald Washington in urging employers to recruit and employ Alabama's veterans.

A new federal program, the HIRE Vets Medallion Program, expected to officially kick off in 2019, is designed to encourage employers' commitment to veteran careers, including hiring, retention, and long-term development.

In preparation for its launch, the U.S. Department of Labor is asking employers to apply for its HIRE Vets Medallion Program Demonstration, an effort that will recognize up to 300 employers for their investments in veteran hiring.

"Veteran employment is an issue that is very important to me and my Administration," Ivey said.

"We are committed to making sure that those who have volunteered to serve us and our country have worthwhile opportunities to establish long-lasting careers.

"I know that Alabama's employers care deeply about our veterans, and I encourage them to pursue this federal designation, so that Alabama's veterans will know how deeply their commitment lies."

The program will recognize employers across three categories: large, medium, and small, and will be available at two levels, platinum or gold, based on the criteria they meet. The criteria are available at www.hirevets.gov.

The designations will be available to the first 300 applicants across all categories (large, medium, and small employers) and applications will be available online at www.hirevets.gov on Jan. 31.

Any employer with at least one employee on staff is eligible to apply. There is no application fee.

Those recognized in 2018 will also be eligible to apply for the 2019 program.

"We know that veterans bring many valuable skills to the workforce," added Washington.

"Employers who have this designation will be that much more attractive to veterans seeking work. It would be wonderful to have dozens of Alabama employers recognized in this first group of designees."

The demonstration will use the same criteria as the full HIRE Vets Medallion Program and enable more employers to prepare to successfully complete the medallion award application for the full implementation of the program in 2019.

The program utilizes the requirements of the Honoring Investments in Recruiting and Employing American Military Veterans Act of 2017 (HIRE Vets Act) signed by President Donald Trump in May 2017 to determine awardees.

Employers seeking further information should contact hirevets@dol.gov.

great people," Knight said. "We've all worked together; Steven has had him for a long time, since 10th grade, so I mean everybody's worked together to help and he's done all of it on his own, but everybody's worked together to help get everybody where we want them to be. We would like to thank Coach Harris, Coach York and Steven DeBoer, our swing coach, along with Cary Craig at Chesley Oaks for all of the support."

Wallace State head golf coach Dan York touched on some of the good things that he sees in McKelvy and some areas that he looks forward to improving with him.

"Being a local young man like he is, I've known Hunter for several years. The thing that has really impressed me, not only is he an outstanding young man, but his work ethic," York said.

"He's a very hard worker and you can just continue to see him improve each and every year so it's a great opportunity for us to offer a local young man an opportunity to continue his education and represent Wallace State on the golf course; we're excited about it. It's a maturing process, it's learning how to play the golf course. Typically, you're going to get longer as you get older because you get stronger, but yes, he's spent a lot of time on his short game and in reality that's 75 percent of your strokes are from 100 yards in, so I'm excited that his short game is getting better and better also."

One of Hunter's coaches at Fairview also happens to be his father, Mark McKelvy. His challenges as a coach are a little different than his colleagues' as he has to balance coaching and parenting on the golf course. The elder McKelvy hasn't had any difficulties playing both roles and credits a lot of that to his son.

"It hasn't been a problem. Hunter's always worked hard, and I've never had any problems with him so he's good enough that I can just let him do what he wants to do, and I can spend my time working with a lot of the other kids. That way there's not a big conflict between me and him and I just kind of let him do his own thing; if he needs help he'll ask for it and I'll help him."

Mark McKelvy has proudly watched as a coach and a parent as his son's skills have developed over the years and earned him the opportunity to compete at the next level.

"It's really unreal the way he's grown because he didn't start playing until he was in seventh grade and I think the first round he went out and shot like 130 or something," Mark McKelvy said.

"Then he just started working and it seemed like every season he was dropping 10-15 strokes and he got to where he's shooting in the high 60s and low 70s now, so he's just worked real hard and had good people- Steven DeBoer, Coach Ches Harris gave him lessons- and he's just worked hard and had good people working with him to help get him to this point."

Alex McDonald was up next and with her came a whole new crowd of friends, family and coaches. McDonald said feels like Fairview High School and her coaches have been a big part of her preparation, but she also believes self-motivation may be even more important.

"It's prepared me a lot. I mean our coaches run us a lot, but I feel like training on my own, a lot of it is self-motivation and my dad really helps motivate me too. I guess I just want to make him proud," she said.

McDonald said she values her relationships with her teammates more than anything and believes that might be what draws her to compete in team sports.

"I'm going to remember the team more than anything," she said. "Just being with them, I love having them here. I look forward the most about having a team, I love that. That's probably the thing I would miss the most about not running."

Wallace State Cross Country Coach Stan Narewski was in attendance and talked about the qualities that he sees in McDonald that excite him the most as a coach.

"Tony Crider and I have seen her race several times and maybe the most impressive thing was her focus. She ran in a race earlier this year and a yellow jacket stung her on the ear I believe and that hurt like fire and she never slowed up, she competed, it was just a momentary distraction and she got back on task and when she got through she was hurting," Narewski said.

"Number one, to run that fast you're tough, but to run that fast after a yellow jacket has stung you, she's pretty tough. She is not afraid to work, she's a hard worker and she just wasn't sold on the idea of running to begin with, and I think she thought about that team thing.

"About what the team meant to her, what being in a program meant to her and I think something I said to her, and this applies to all these folks, I said if you come to college and run, for the rest of your life you will be categorized as a college athlete and that makes a difference in life. It gives you confidence; people sometimes will sit up and take notice because you did everything they did and you ran 50 miles a week and that separates you from the pack."

Narewski is very familiar with Fairview's program and the community. He is always excited to be able to bring in young men and women from a community that he believes produces great people, and he may already have another Aggie on his radar.

"It's a great family, great school; you know we've got Jacob (Guthrie) at our place and in fact my first signee from Fairview was Coach (Hobson) Hite's daughter, Tracy Hite, and it's just like family, and to have another Fairview athlete I think is important.

"I won't say who, but we're already interested in another one here, so we hope we can continue to get some good athletes. They seem to produce them; these guys like to run, and they're prepared.

"They don't just run them and don't know anything; they prepare these kids to race and understand what they're doing, not just blind mileage, so we like that, it makes them easy to coach. When we get a person from Fairview they're good people because they won't keep knuckle heads around, and I like that. You get somebody from here, they're a quality person. I sure like the coaches here, they're good people. I'm always happy to see the Fairview staff at meets."

Like McKelvy, McDonald has a parent working with her in athletics. Her father, Ricky McDonald, is the head coach for the Lady Aggies Cross Country program, and like McKelvy's father Mark McKelvy, Ricky McDonald said his child made it easy on him as a coach.

"She made it easy; she's real self-motivated so I didn't necessarily have to push her as hard as sometimes you might have to," Ricky McDonald said.

"She made it easy, she led by example a lot; she's a great kid at home and of course she's a great athlete to coach too, so it was good all the way around for her."

Ricky McDonald is excited to see his daughter move on to a program that he has a lot of respect for and expects her and the program to thrive in the coming years.

"To me the quality of the guys that are there, Coach Crider and Coach Narewski, that was one of the determining factors about us deciding to go that route is that we trust those guys," Ricky McDonald said.

"The success has always been there with Coach Narewski and the character that they have. There are not a whole lot of things you can improve on with what these guys can do, so we're excited about the program coming back and we're excited about where it's going because we really think it's going to be successful, big time."

Aggies snag 9th-grade boys title over Vinemont, 43-38

Sammy Confer
Tribune Correspondent

HANCEVILLE – Championship Saturday of the 2018 Cullman County Basketball Tournament kicked off with the Ninth-Grade Boys Championship Game, featuring the top-seeded Fairview Aggies and third-seeded Vinemont Eagles. After a back-and-forth contest, the Aggies came up with the title, 43-38.

Both teams started out strong on offensively as Fairview's Jack Brown and Vinemont's Collin Teichmiller led their respective squads in the opening period, with Brown putting eight of his 15 in the quarter, and Teichmiller tallying six of his 10 in the period as well.

A Brown layup made it a 10-8 advantage for the Aggies, but an Austin Riddle free throw, followed by a layup by Caleb Sharpe, gave the Eagles an 11-10 lead after one.

The second period was more of the same for both squads, back-and-forth, with neither team gaining a huge advantage, the largest lead being five for Fairview at 24-19 after a three, then a pair of free throws by Owen Yarbrough, who finished with 18 for the game.

But, just like the first quarter, Vinemont finished strong, with a pair of free throws and then a layup by Teichmiller, and that made it a 24-23 game at the half.

A Curtis Kennedy trey to begin the third period gave the Eagles a 26-24 lead, but after that, both teams went into shut-down mode on defense, allowing a combined 13 points in the period.

A Yarbrough three, followed later on by a Brown free throw, gave the Aggies a 30-28 lead, but Bosten McDuffee tied the game at 30 on a layup, which was the score after three.

Fairview went inside to start the final period, as two layups by Clayton Strane and one by Peyton Bailey gave the Aggies a 36-31 lead, then 39-31 on another Yarbrough trey.

The Eagles refused to quit, however, as they cut it to 39-35 after layups by Riddle and William Rhodes.

A big 3-point play off an offensive rebound by Riddle made it a 41-38 game with 42.8 seconds remaining.

But a pair of Brown free throws with 7.1 seconds remaining clinched the championship win for the Aggies.

Yarbrough and Brown earned All-Tournament honors for the Fairview Aggies, while Teichmiller and Kennedy made it for Vinemont.

Michael Owens earned honors for Good Hope, while Carter Thornton and Brannon Bright made it for West Point.

JV Lady Aggies claim county title over Cold Springs, 29-24

Sammy Confer
Tribune Correspondent

HANCEVILLE – The Fairview Lady Aggies and Cold Springs Lady Eagles met Saturday in the 2018 Cullman County Basketball Tournament for the JV Girls Championship. In the end, the Lady Aggies took the win, 29-24.

The opening quarter was a defensive battle, with a combined three baskets scored, the last coming on a three by Daisy Manasco for Fairview, giving the Lady Aggies a 5-3 lead after one.

The second quarter started out close as it went back and forth in the scoring and turnover department. Fairview started out the quarter on a 9-2 run, which ended with a pair of free throws by Manasco and a trey by Molly McKelvy, to increase the Lady Aggies' advantage to nine at 14-5, but five straight points by the Lady Eagles, a layup by Lacey Rice and a Brooke Crider three, cut the deficit to four at 14-10.

The Lady Aggies finished the quarter on a 6-0 run to take a 20-10 lead at the half.

The third period was identical to the first, with both teams struggling to get it going offensively.

Cold Springs started out on a 5-0 run with layups by Kyla Aaron and Rice, and Ember Sellers added one from the line to make it a 20-15 game, but the Lady Eagles couldn't close the gap any further, as Fairview pushed its lead to nine at 24-15 to end the third.

An Isabella McGukin shot made it a double-digit lead at 26-15, but the Lady Eagles made yet another run to get back in the game.

Five straight points by Aaron, followed by a Sellers layup, cut it to 26-22.

Sellers finished with seven points for the game and muscled her way to 13 rebounds in the contest, but turnovers and bad shot selection plagued Cold Springs.

Fairview went 3-of-4 from the charity stripe to take home the championship trophy.

Four out of the last five championship games saw Fairview and Cold Springs do battle, and the Lady Aggies have a 3-1 advantage over the Lady Eagles.

McKelvy finished with eight points and a steal, and she joined teammate Manasco on the All-Tournament Team.

Jacy Gorham had a big game, finishing with six points, eight boards, a block and two key steals. McGukin added six points as well for Fairview.

Rice ended up with seven points, three rebounds and a pair of steal for the Lady Eagles.

Aaron (seven points, five rebounds, a steal and a block) and Sellers made it to the All-Tournament Team for Cold Springs. Savanna Burney got the honors for Good Hope, while Sydney Smith and Ryleigh Jones got the honors for West Point.

JV Broncos win title in 1-point thriller over West Point, 44-43

Sammy Confer
Tribune Correspondent

HANCEVILLE – Game three of the 2018 Cullman County Basketball Tournament's Championship Saturday saw the top-seeded JV Holly Pond Broncos against the second-seeded JV West Point Warriors. The Broncos bested the Warriors by just one point, 44-43. It all came to do an amazing final quarter.

The Broncos forced the Warriors into four turnovers early on, but could only muster a three by Isaac Ludwig. Tyler White hit one for West Point to get the Warriors on the scoreboard. It was a battle of early momentum in the period. Six quick points by Holly Pond after the White three gave the Broncos a 9-3 advantage, but the Warriors battled back to take a 10-9 lead on a layup by Will Cochran. Ludwig nailed a trey before the buzzer to give the Broncos the lead right back at 12-10 after one.

A 5-2 Warrior run gave them a 15-14 lead to start off the second period in what was one of three lead changes in the quarter. The last one came for the Warriors as well when Cochran scored five straight to take a 20-19 lead at the half.

Holly Pond jumped on West Point to start off the second half, as a 9-2 start to the third quarter, which started on a Parker Sellers layup, and ended with back-to-back layups by Tyler Ring and Gabe Fortner off of back-to-back Warrior turnovers, gave the Broncos a 28-22 lead.

But they couldn't shake West Point, as Kobe Bowers and Cochran scored the final six Warrior points to finish on a 6-2 run to make it a 30-28 game after three, setting up for what was a frantic final period.

Cochran gave the Warriors a 31-30 lead on a banked-in three from the right wing to start off the fourth.

The Broncos, though, started on a 10-2 run, which saw them force three Warrior turnovers, turning their one-point deficit into a 40-33 lead. After West Point cut it to 40-37 on a pair of layups by Cochran and White.

Things then got really interesting after that.

After Tucker Gambrill hit a layup, he got a technical on the play, then he converted the 3-point play to make it a 43-37 game. White hit the technical free throws, then a three later on, to make it a 43-42 game. After Holly Pond went 1-of-2 from the line, later on, with two seconds left, White got fouled attempting a three, but he only made 1-of-3 from the line, and the Broncos hung on to win, 44-43, to take the JV Boys title.

Sellers and Ludwig (All-Tournament) each ended up with 11 points for the game, while Gambrill (All-Tournament) chipped in with nine. Sellers added seven rebounds and three steals as well.

Ludwig added three rebounds and a steal, and Gambrill added four rebounds and three steals. White (All-Tournament) finished with 14 points and six boards, and Will Brown joined White on the All-Tournament team for West Point.

Cochran ended up with 16 points and eight boards. Hanceville's JR Isbell, and Fairview's Landon Talley and Dow Nichols got the honors as well.

Broncos take 2nd-straight title, 3rd in 4 years, beat Warriors 66-46

Sammy Confer
Tribune Correspondent

HANCEVILLE – It was the final game of the 2018 Cullman County Basketball Tournament, and the Broncos made history, taking back-to-back title for the first time ever, and winning their third title in four years. Final score: Holly Pond 66, West Point 46.

Early on, each team traded baskets and turnovers. After a Kolton Sapp layup gave the Warriors a 6-5 lead, McKinley Garrett hit one of his own to give the Broncos the lead right back, and from there, Griffin Morris took over for Holly Pond, scoring the final 11 points of the quarter, giving the Broncos an 18-11 advantage after one.

A Sapp layup cut the deficit to 24-15 in the second quarter, but then a 6-0 Bronco lead increased their advantage to 30-15, and both teams traded baskets and points the rest of the quarter. Holly Pond took a 36-21 lead into the locker room.

Both teams traded baskets again to start the third period. Austin Dubberly hit a pair of layups for West Point to make it a 38-25 ballgame, but then Holly Pond completely took over from there, as a Jake Harris three started a 16-0 run for the Broncos to widen their lead to 54-25 and a Coby Sullins trey ended the Bronco run and Whit Laney completed an and-one for West Point, but the damage was already done by Holly Pond as they would take a 56-35 lead into the final quarter.

West Point continued to fight and claw its way back into the game in the fourth, outscoring the Broncos, 11-10, in the final period, but the deficit proved to be too much for the Warriors as Holly Pond took home its third county championship title in the last four seasons.

Morris ended up with 19 points and a pair of steals, and he earned a spot on the All-Tournament team, along with his teammate, Zach Shaw, who finished with 11 points, three boards and two steals.

Harris also scored 11 points of his own. Garrett chipped in with six points, six rebounds, two steals and a block. Chaney had five points, five boards, two blocks and a steal, and Boatright added five points as well. The Broncos will go home to take on Arab next Tuesday.

Dubberly led the way for West Point with 10 points, four rebounds and a steal. Sapp finished with eight points and two steals. Whit Laney also finished with eight points and added two rebounds. Sullins finished with six points and a steal. The Warriors will head home to take on Cold Springs next Tuesday on senior night.

Morris and Shaw were joined by Fairview's Luke Yarbrough and Bryson Fletcher, Good Hope's Isaac McDonald and West Point's Sullins and Sapp on the All-Tournament team.

Morris and Garrett were named to the All-County team as well, and they were joined by Good Hope's Cole Maddox and McDonald, Fairview's Fletcher and Yarbrough, West Point's Sapp and Dubberly, Cold Springs' Hunter McClendon, Vinemont's Katch Johnson and Hanceville's R.J. Evans and Brendan Flanigan.

McDonald won the Eli Thomas Memorial Scholarship Award for $1,000, while Morris won the Joe Schults Award.

Lady Aggies muscle past Lady Eagles, 52-29, win 2nd-straight title

Sammy Confer
Tribune Correspondent

HANCEVILLE – In a rematch of last year's Varsity Girls Championship Game, the Fairview Lady Aggies took on the Cold Springs Lady Eagles for the 2018 Cullman County Basketball Tournament title. The Lady Aggies won easily, 52-29.

Fairview jumped out to a quick 6-0 lead before Cold Springs' Elizabeth Hill nailed a three for the Lady Eagles' first points of the game.

After a Taylor Yeager layup gave the Lady Aggies an 11-5 lead, Camryn Crider nailed back-to-back treys to keep her Lady Eagles in the game as part of a 6-1 run to make it a 12-11 game.

But that was the last basket that Cold Springs would hit for a while as Fairview, on the strength of two free throws by Abby Schnittker, one by Abbi Taylor, and a trey by Yeager, made it 18-11 after one.

The second quarter was very low-scoring, as there were a combined six points scored, all by Fairview; the Lady Aggies held the Lady Eagles scoreless for the entire eight minutes, and they widened their lead to 24-11 at the half. Cold Springs was held to just four made field goals in the first half.

And Fairview continued to apply pressure on Cold Springs in the second half, holding them to just six field goals and outscoring them, 28-18, to win back-to-back titles after winning their first in more than 35 years last season.

Yeager led the way with 16 points, two boards and two steals in what was a balanced scoring effort by Fairview.

Taylor ended up with 14 points, seven boards, two steals and two blocks. Schnittker finished with 12 points, five rebounds and two steals.

Valentina Klocker chipped in with five points, two boards, two steals and a block. Yeager and Schnittker were each named to the All-Tournament team.

"I'm really proud of these girls for making it back-to-back championships and I'm extremely relieved that it's over now," Fairview coach Mary Lauren Hartline said.

"We had a different game plan for Cold Springs in this game and I'm really proud of them for playing great defense. This win was a big momentum builder moving forward and I'm really happy for the seniors."

"We had to start out with intensity and keep it going throughout the game," Yeager said. "It helps us when we are in really tight situations."

Crider (12 points) and Hill (12 points) were both named to the All-Tournament team, along with West Point's Miriam Oldacre and Lexi Shadix and Hanceville's Kelly Pickett and Kierra Merriweather.

Fairview's Schnittker, Yeager and Taylor were named to the All-County team, along with Crider and Hill from Cold Springs, Good Hope's Kate Kent, West Point's Olivia Ball, Miriam Oldacre and Shadix, Hanceville's Kelly Pickett and Holly Pond's Makenna Folds.

Cold Springs' Zoe Strawbridge won the Charlotte Cummings Memorial Scholarship Award for $1,000, and Yeager won the Bill Shelton Award.

The Ark Encounter is one of the stops during the Wallace State Alumni Association's fall trip to the Cincinnati, Ohio area. The largest timber-frame building in the world, it is made up of three decks that include teaching exhibits and displays of incredible craftsmanship.

Wallace State Alumni Association plans trip to The Ark Encounter and Creation Museum

Gail Crutchfield
WSCC

HANCEVILLE – This fall, the Wallace State Alumni Association will offer its first group excursion to the Ark Encounter and Creation Museum in Kentucky and combine it with experiences featuring the German culture of nearby Cincinnati, Ohio. The four-day, three-night trip is planned for Sept. 13-16, 2018, and includes a brief foray into Indiana.

On tap for the tour are visits to the Genesis Creation Museum and Ark Encounter, dinner and entertainment at Hofbrauhaus German Restaurant, a tour of Cincinnati featuring German Heritage, a riverboat dinner cruise, visits to the Newport on the Levee, Findlay Market, and Schimpff's Confectionery in Indiana.

The cost of the trip includes motorcoach transportation, lodging, five meals (3 breakfasts and two dinners), a tour guide, luggage handling and all gratuities.

"This should be a great trip," said LaDonna Allen, WSCC alumni coordinator. "The Ark Encounter opened in July 2016 and is a sister attraction of the Creation Museum located about 40 miles apart. We've heard lots of good things about both."

The Ark Encounter is a full-size Noah's Ark built using the dimensions given in the Bible. It's 510 feet long, 85 feet wide and 51 feet high.

It includes three exhibits: the ark itself, the craftsmanship in the woodworking, and teaching exhibits. There is also the Ararat Ridge Petting Zoo and Screaming Eagle Zip Lines on the museum's campus.

The Creation Museum is a 75,000 square-foot facility that lets visitors "experience earth history as God has revealed it in the Bible." There are 150 exhibits including animatronic dinosaurs, a world-class Allosaur fossil, talking heroes of the faith, and professional displays that honor God's word. There is also a planetarium, petting zoo, nature trails, zip lines and more.

The cost for the trip for Alumni Association members is $749 per person for triple occupancy, $839 for double occupancy, and $1,079 for single occupancy.

Non-members are charged an additional $100 per person, but can join the Alumni Association for $25 ($15 for students) to take advantage of the member discount.

Optional travel insurance is also offered.

For more information, contact Allen at 256-352-8071 or ladonna.allen@wallacestate.edu or visit www.wsccalumni.org/ark18 to see the itinerary and register.

Mitchell gifts Wallace State $372K for endowed scholarship for female students in need

Gail Crutchfield
WSCC

HANCEVILLE – The Wallace State Community College Future Foundation recently accepted a $372,000 planned gift from the estate of the late Vervil Lovene Mitchell of Hanceville.

"We are extremely humbled by Ms. Mitchell's gift to the Wallace State Future Foundation," said Suzanne Harbin, director of advancement at Wallace State.

"Her thoughtfulness and foresight in including the college in her estate planning will help many students achieve their dreams forever."

Established as an endowed scholarship, the gift will fund up to four scholarships each year for tuition and fees.

Ms. Mitchell asked that the scholarships be offered to female students in need of financial assistance to complete their educations.

Ms. Mitchell passed away in June 2016 at the age of 93. She was born in Cullman in 1923 to W.J. and Mattie Rice Mitchell. She was a retired professor from the University of Florida and authored many books dealing with estate planning, insurance, personal finances and child rearing.

She was also a talented wood carver. One of her nephews, Gary Mitchell, presented the gift to Wallace State President Dr. Vicki Karolewics. "We are very grateful to Ms. Mitchell for her investment in Wallace State," said Karolewics.

The Wallace State Future Foundation was established in 2004 and provides scholarships to students whose educational needs cannot be met by their current resources.

Through generous gifts and fundraising efforts, the Future Foundation now has more than 40 endowed scholarships and more than 80 named and endowed scholarships.

Since 2007, the Future Foundation has awarded more than 2,000 students scholarships totaling more than $1.3 million.

For more information about the Future Foundation, visit www.wsccfuturefoundation.org or contact Suzanne Harbin at 256-352-8144 or suzanne.harbin@wallacestate.edu. For more information about Wallace State Community College, visit www.wallacestate.edu or call 256-352-8000.
