Remembering Rev. Jim Walker (1933-2019)

Former St. John's Pastor Bob Kurtz remembers his friend and co-laborer

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN – Taking time out of a trip to Orlando, former St. John's Evangelical Protestant Church Pastor Bob Kurtz (pastor 1993-2012) on Wednesday spoke to The Tribune about his years of service with his friend and Minister of Music Rev. Jim Walker, 85, who passed away on Jan. 22.

Kurtz shared, "Jim and I worked together almost 20 years, as I was senior pastor and he was the minister of music. But for me, he was always absolutely an equal; in fact, he had so much experience and wisdom, I relied on him a lot. And all the things that happened with St. John's over the last 20 years--the building of the new addition, the increase in attendance, the growth of the church--all of that is a major tribute to Jim Walker.

"I give him so much credit. He was always innovative, and he got us doing so many things. He started our Tuesday morning men's breakfast. Goodness gracious, we had a big golf tournament--St. John's Golf Classic--he worked with me on that.

"Let me tell you one thing he did that was unique: for 10 or 12 years, we had three services all in the sanctuary, and we had a full choir for every service. I don't think there's any church in the country that has a full choir for three services back to back to back. How he did that, I was always in awe. He just never let the choir know that this was unusual! And I think that was absolutely wonderful! So the music was such a vital part of our worship, that that was a major part of our growth experience, also.

"You can tell that I have the utmost affection and appreciation for Rev. Jim. And, like I said, it was almost as if we were co-pastors; he had such an important role in the growth of St. John's. There was significant growth from 1993 when I came, until 2012--goodness gracious, we went from about 150 in attendance to nearly 700, and consistently kept building renovations and additions, just so much, including the new addition that's done so well. And he played a major part in all that.

"So, in terms of church growth and new church life, he was an important player."

When people come to St. John's years from now, what lasting legacy of Jim Walker will they encounter?
"I think, just absolutely the sense of worship, how important worship is to our life and legacy. It's important to St. John's, and he played a crucial part in that, just through the music, through the liturgy, through the wondrous awe and respect you have just coming into the sanctuary. And he really--that meant a lot to him. And he had such dignity and bearing, and that strong bass voice of his as he led the worship and led the music; he had a great impact on people's lives and their worship experience."

County commission talks elevators, addresses mental health services for inmates

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN - The Cullman County Commission met Wednesday morning with 14 items on its agenda, plus one added during a brief recess after the meeting started.

• A bid for repairs to the courthouse elevators that was initially granted to a non-licensed general contractor was rescinded, and the commission voted to take new bids with the specification that the winning contactor would have to have a general contractor license, by request of County Attorney Chad Floyd.

• Sheriff Matt Gentry was authorized to sign a memorandum of agreement with WellStone Behavioral Health for mental health services for inmates at the Cullman County Detention Center. (Look for separate story on this item.)

• The commission set a date of Mar. 26, 2019 for a public hearing on a petition for the County to vacate a portion of County Road 1614 in Berlin.

• The commission approved renewal of county inmate re-insurance with Unimerica Insurance Company at a cost of $77,837.76, a six percent increase due to an increase in the number of inmates in the detention center.

• At the request of Cullman County Emergency Management Agency (EMA) Director Phyllis Little, the County's contract with the RAVE weather alert system was canceled due to low participation rates by county residents.

• Commission Chairman Kenneth Walker was authorized to sign a contract with Post Panda Productions for entertainment at the Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day/Sweet Tater Festival events at Smith Lake Park.

• Replacement of a security door by ADS at the water department was approved, in the amount of $5,984.

• Based on a previous agreement between the County and Wallace State Community College, the commission approved a payment of $6,000 to the school for a portion of the cost of sheriff's deputies who provided security for the 2018 Regional Basketball Tournament.

• The commission released the bond on Hidden Shores subdivision and County Road 71, and accepted road maintenance for that road as well as County Roads 2101, 2104 and 2107.

• Resurfacing and striping of County Road 1141 from County Road 1147 to County Road 1246 was approved as a Federal Aid Project. The 3.2 miles are expected to cost $663,000, for which the County is seeking a federal grant.

• The commission accepted the proposed plat for phase two of Stillhouse Point subdivision in District 2 off County Road 71.

• An existing bid for bituminous plant mix asphalt with Good Hope Contracting was extended, as was a bid for herbicides with Helena Chemical.

• The Cullman County Probate Office was authorized to purchase a used full-size SUV from Bill Smith Buick GMC in the amount of $28,515.

• In the added agenda item, Genesis Roofing Company was awarded a contract to re-roof the sheriff's office impound building and the water department maintenance shed. The amount was not disclosed.

The next Cullman County Commission meeting will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 12 at 10 a.m. in the commission meeting room at the Cullman County Courthouse. The public is welcome to attend.

Program (from Front)

CULLMAN – On Wednesday morning, the Cullman County Commission authorized Sheriff Matt Gentry to sign a memorandum of agreement between the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) and WellStone Behavioral Health for a pilot program to provide mental health services to repeat inmates who may suffer from mental illness or addiction, in an effort to reduce rates of recidivism, the repeated commission of offenses.

The County Commission agreed last summer to support local participation in what is known as the Stepping Up Initiative (www.cullmantribune.com/articles/2018/06/12/cullman-commission-passes-resolution-increase-local-mental-health-services). With County support, WellStone CEO Chris Van Dyke applied for and received a $50,000 grant, making the mental health care provider one of a handful of companies in the state to participate in the pilot program (www.cullmantribune.com/articles/2018/09/10/cullman-s-wellstone-behavioral-health-awarded-50k-grant-stepping-initiative).

When the grants were awarded to WellStone and other providers, Alabama Department of Mental Health Commissioner Lynn Beshear issued this statement:

"Today our local jails and hospitals - neither of which have it as their mission - are serving as mental health providers, which is creating a dire situation that is both dangerous and unsustainable.

"It is incumbent upon communities and regions to work together in partnership to reduce the number of individuals with mental illness in jails and ERs and to direct these individuals to the appropriate care. It will be a win for those individuals, a win for the community and indeed for the entire state and prison system."

WellStone began planning and setting up the program in October, with a goal of providing service both to repeat offenders at the jail and to recurring visitors to Cullman Regional's emergency room who exhibit signs of mental illness or substance abuse. Actual services have begun this month.

On Wednesday, Van Dyke told The Tribune, "We have a staff person who will go work with people in the jail who've been back multiple times, and a precipitating factor in that is mental illness or substance abuse. She does the same thing with the hospital; if there's somebody in the ER that's been coming back repeatedly, and it might be because of mental illness or substance abuse, then she tries to figure out what services in the community are needed to keep this person from coming back again. Then we'll try to link them with those services, provide whatever services we can, and then measure our results over time, to see how many fewer trips to the ER and the jail people have."

According to Van Dyke, WellStone is one of six providers in the state providing this service. The pilot program was intended to run for one year, but he expressed the belief that it could become a longer-term project.

Gentry shared, "For us, we average three calls a day where somebody's suicidal or homicidal, you know, and it's every day for us. We're dealing with that every day. So mental illness is a huge factor for us in what we deal with every day at the sheriff's office, not only in our jail, but just out on the street."

Colony recognized by Morehouse School of Medicine for community garden

Community food pantry seeking clients

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

COLONY - As the Colony Town Council met Tuesday evening, Mayor Donnis Leeth showed off town hall's newest decoration: a 2019 Healthcare Champion award from Morehouse School of Medicine in Atlanta, given as part of its Healthy Communities Initiative.

Colony received the award for its development of a community garden, designed to provide residents with healthy foods, as well as fresh air and exercise for those who come to help tend the town's collection of raised garden beds.

Leeth, who traveled to Atlanta last week to receive the award, told The Tribune, "They presented about 10 of them. Mine was for the community garden.

So, when we went and did that award, we had to do a speech talking about how important this was to your community, how important it was to you, to be presented something like this, you know, from a college.

"I told them it's an outstanding day for me, because it made me feel good. I told them I love all of them. Without them and God, this wouldn't have happened. I said I just love them to death, you know, and thanked them for what they do for people."

On Monday of this week, Colony kicked off its community garden project by hosting a planting day, as kids from the community and around the Cullman area came together to plant seeds in flower pots, in preparation for transfer to the garden beds later on.

The community garden's produce will include tomatoes, okra, squash, cucumbers, collard greens, cabbage, turnip greens and peppers, and it will include a handicapped-accessible bed that can accommodate gardeners with canes, walkers or wheelchairs.

Community food pantry seeking clients and volunteers

Town Clerk Patricia Ponder reported that Colony's Carpenter's Cabinet food pantry has an opportunity to purchase large amounts of food at deep discounts, in addition to the regular deals it gets at the North Alabama Food Bank, through a USDA program.

The problem is that minimum purchase requirements will give the town more food than it can distribute to its current clients.

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Colony Mayor Donnis Leeth displays the award presented to Colony by Morehouse School of Medicine for the development of the town's community garden.

So, as Colony looks into the program, it is seeking more clients. Expanding service will also require more volunteers. Anyone interested in helping out or applying for services from the pantry can contact Ponder at Colony Town Hall at 256-287-1192.

The Colony Town Council meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, at 6 p.m. at Colony Town Hall, with work session at 5:30. The public is invited to attend.

During pregnancy, use of the antiepileptic drug valproic acid has been associated with worse outcomes – including fetal loss, impaired growth, major congenital malformations, increased risk of developmental problems and autism – compared with all other antiepileptic drugs. A new Epilepsia study has found that when human placentas are exposed to valproic acid, they express lower levels of transporters for compounds essential for fetal growth and development (such as glucose and folic acid).

In a recent Alimentary Pharmacology ad Therapeutics study, arthritis patients taking nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) for pain plus a stomach acid-reducing medicine called esomeprazole (Nexium) had infrequent gastrointestinal side effects. Co-prescribed with esomeprazole, celecoxib (Celebrex) had better overall gastrointestinal safety than ibuprofen (Advil) or naproxen (Aleve). NSAIDs are often used to treat pain and joint inflammation in people with arthritis, but they can cause damage to the intestinal tract including ulcers and bleeding from the stomach or intestine. Patients who also needed to take aspirin (for preventing heart attacks or strokes) had only slightly more gastrointestinal problems than those who took only the arthritis medications.

Wallace State's John Wilson named Chef of the Year by Alabama Chapter of American Culinary Federation

Russell Moore
WSCC

HANCEVILLE – Wallace State Chef John Wilson has been named the 2018 Chef of the Year by the Alabama Chapter of the American Culinary Federation (ACF).

Wilson has worked in the culinary industry for 35 years and has served as the program head of Wallace State's Academy of Culinary Arts program for five years.

The Birmingham Chapter of the ACF annually recognizes a top student, chef, educator and apprentice within its organization.

"It was a complete surprise and an award most people never win in their lives. It's hard to get, so I feel very lucky to have won," Wilson said. "I was honored that many of our students were in attendance at the awards ceremony, and they're the inspiration to do what I do on a daily basis."

Wilson, a Boston native, has worked as a chef in Alabama for 15 years, including his time at Wallace State. Under his direction, the Wallace State program serves lunch to the public and campus each Wednesday during the fall and spring semesters and provides meals for special occasions on campus and throughout the community.

Additionally, the program is a year removed from having graduate Diane Wood recognized as the ACF Student of the Year and Byre Forbes earn a gold medal at the state Skills/USA competition and a silver medal at the national competition.

"We're trying to grow this program more and more. It's gratifying knowing the successes we've been having," Wilson said.

Hanceville's Malia Howell (13) sprints past a pair of Good Hope defenders in the Lady Bulldogs' 62-36 win over the Lady Raiders Tuesday night.

CULLMAN COUNTY BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Warriors advance to JV championship; Lady Bulldogs, Warriors on to semi-finals

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE – The Cullman County Basketball Tournament resumed play Tuesday afternoon and by the end of the night, three more teams were knocked out of contention. West Point knocked off Hanceville in convincing fashion to advance to the JV boys' title game, the Lady Bulldogs of Hanceville knocked off Good Hope to advance to the semi-finals and in the varsity boys' bracket, West Point fought off a Cold Springs comeback to advance to the semi-finals as well.

West Point 61 – Hanceville 24 (junior varsity boys)
The Warriors opened the game with an 8-0 run and held the Bulldogs scoreless until the 3:00 mark of the first quarter. West Point continued to pour it in on the offensive end and led things 20-7 at the end of the first.

The Warriors continued to fill it up from 3-point range early in the second quarter, starting the period with a 10-0 run to stretch the lead to 30-7. A transition layup from Brannon Bright made it 41-14 West Point with just over a minute to play in the half. Branson Smith knocked down the Warriors' ninth 3-pointer of the first half just before the buzzer to put West Point on top 44-14 going into the break. Logan Selby led the Warriors with 19 points in the first half.

The Bulldogs had struggled all night on the offensive end and couldn't get anything going in the final period either. Hanceville was held to just three points in the fourth quarter as the Warriors pulled away to win it 61-24.

Selby led West Point with 19 points, Mason Walls followed him with 12 and Elvis Arroyo finished with nine. For the Bulldogs, Izayah Glenon led the way with nine points, followed by Dawson McRae with five.

West Point will face (5) Vinemont Saturday at 4 p.m. in the junior varsity boys' championship game.

Hanceville 62 – Good Hope 36 (varsity girls)
The Lady Bulldogs of Hanceville took the drama out of Tuesday night's second matchup almost immediately. Hanceville jumped out to a 22-3 lead on the Lady Raiders after the first quarter with 11 of those points coming from Kelly Pickett.

The Lady Bulldogs made it 27-3 early in the second quarter and stretched the lead out to 31-5 by the midway point of the period. Desiree Odachowski nailed a 3-pointer at the top of the key to cut the lead down to 31-8 but Hanceville still held a daunting 35-9 lead at the halftime break. Pickett doubled up Good Hope herself with 18 points in the first half.

The Lady Raiders were able to shave the lead down to 40-20 late in the third quarter but two free throws from Pickett put the Lady Bulldogs in front 42-20 going into the final frame. Hanceville got off to a slow start in the fourth but a basket from Malia Howell midway through the period put the Lady Bulldogs ahead 50-26 and put the game out of reach for Good Hope. Hanceville held on to win it 62-36.

Pickett led Hanceville with 27 points in the win, followed by Kierra Merriweather with 13 and Howell with 10. For the Lady Raiders, Savanna Derrick led the way with 18 points, followed by Odachowski with nine.

Hanceville advanced to take on (2) Fairview in the semi-final round Thursday night at 7:30.

West Point 45 – Cold Springs 42 (varsity boys)
In Tuesday night's final showdown, (3) West Point took on (6) Cold Springs for a chance to advance to a semi-final matchup against the winner of Wednesday night's game between (2) Hanceville and (7) Vinemont.

Neither team got off to a fast start offensively and the score was locked at five midway through the opening quarter until the Warriors reeled off 10 straight points to go up 15-5 late in the frame.

The Eagles were able to add one more basket in the quarter to cut the lead to 15-7 going into the second.

Two free throws from Kolton Sapp stretched the West Point lead to 19-7 midway through the second quarter and Sapp added a three-pointer at the buzzer to give the Warriors a 26-12 lead at the halftime break. Sapp led all scorers with 14 at the half.

Freeman knocked down two free throws with a little over four minutes to play in the fourth quarter to trim the lead to 37-36. The Eagles took their first lead since the start of the game 40-39 after Mason Harris converted an and-one play with just over a minute to play but Tyler White responded with a basket on the other end to put the Warriors back in front 41-40.

Cold Springs got the lead back 42-41 after Freeman generated a steal and hit two free throws with less than 30 seconds to play. Tyler Thompson then went to the free throw line for West Point with 10 seconds to play and made both to put the Warriors back in front 43-42.

Cold Springs turned the ball over on their ensuing possession and Sapp went to the free throw line with seven seconds remaining. Sapp nailed both from the charity stripe and West Point led by three with just a few seconds to play. The Eagles got one more look at a three-pointer to tie it but couldn't get it to fall and the Warriors held on to win it 45-42.

Sapp led the Warriors with 18 points, followed by Thompson with nine points and Jones with six. For Cold Springs, Freeman led the way with 21 points and Harris finished behind him with eight.

West Point will be back on the floor Friday night at 7:30 to face the winner of (2) Hanceville v. (7) Vinemont for a chance to play in this year's varsity boys' championship game.

Judge Michelle Thomason to discuss veterans court at Wallace State event

Gail Crutchfield
WSCC

HANCEVILLE – Wallace State Community College will welcome Baldwin County District Judge Michelle Thomason as a special guest speaker on Thursday, Jan. 31, at 9:30 a.m. in the Burrow Center Recital Hall. Thomason will be speaking about the Baldwin County Veterans Court, which she founded in February of 2014. The event is free and open to the public.

The Baldwin County Veterans Court program was developed to help veterans achieve total abstinence from drugs and/or alcohol, be diverted from prison/jail, and to have a more productive, healthy, law-abiding life.

The veterans court is designed to reduce re-arrests, promote self-sufficiency through employment and education and to assist veterans with remaining in the community as a productive and responsible member of society.

Thomason is in her 13th year on the bench. Although she is a district judge by title, she is a circuit judge by special appointment, as the majority of her caseload involves family court cases such as divorces, custody, child support and domestic violence.

She also presides over the misdemeanor domestic violence dockets.

Thomason has a business degree from Mobile College (now the University of Mobile), and before her career in law, she was in banking and finance for 10 years.

She received her law degree from Tulane Law School. Prior to becoming a judge, she was a partner in the law firm of Pearson, Cummins & Hart, where she practiced civil litigation and family law for over 11 years prior to taking the bench.

Thomason attends Graceport Church in Fairhope, is a Paul Harris Fellow and member of the Fairhope Sunset Rotary Club.

She is on the Board of Directors for the University of Mobile Foundation, past president of the Alabama District Judges Association, the co-chair of the State's Judicial Education Committee, on the Supreme Court Judicial Rules Committee, the Judicial Re-allocation Commission and is very active in other civil and charitable boards and organizations. She was also recently named Judge of the Year by the Alabama State Bar Family Law Section.

Thomason is married to Tony Thomason. She has one son and daughter-in-law and three grandchildren.
