CULLMAN, Ala. – It was an exciting beginning to the new school year at East Elementary School Wednesday morning.

An enthusiastic Principal David Wiggins said, "This is my cup of coffee!" as he welcomed each student with his trademark laughter and high five.

Helping greet the students was Student Resource Officer Rick Thiot. The East Elementary Student Council helped direct traffic, ensuring a smooth drop-off process.

Wiggins said, "We have the best plan and the benefit of not having all the other roads around us. Traffic is over in 20 minutes."

As the last kids entered the building, he grinned, "Ahhh! That's the best EVER! The first day, they come in either excited and pumped up and in a couple of weeks start settling in or they come in very nervous and then build up. We only had one that was a little nervous, and momma walked her in but walked back out in five minutes."

Wiggins said he couldn't sleep Tuesday night due to the anticipation of a great first day.

"All that summer paperwork we have to do, it's important," he smiled, "but this right here, that's why we are here."

Cullman City Schools, Cullman County Schools and Sacred Heart School all started back to school Wednesday. St. Bernard Preparatory goes back Aug. 12, Cullman Christian School Aug. 13 and St. Paul's Lutheran School Aug. 14.

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman County Animal Shelter volunteer Donna Ruttkay told The Tribune its most recent Pet of the Week, Scout, has been adopted, so she shares a bonus canine friend:

Char-Coal is a 5-year-old terrier mix. He's a laid-back, low- to medium-energy pet whom Ruttkay described as "my new best friend." He's a polite pup with wonderful manners, a colorful appetite (According to shelter staff, he enjoys "yogurt, raw chopped sirloin, salmon with a bit of rice and a splash of kibble.") and a craving for human companionship.

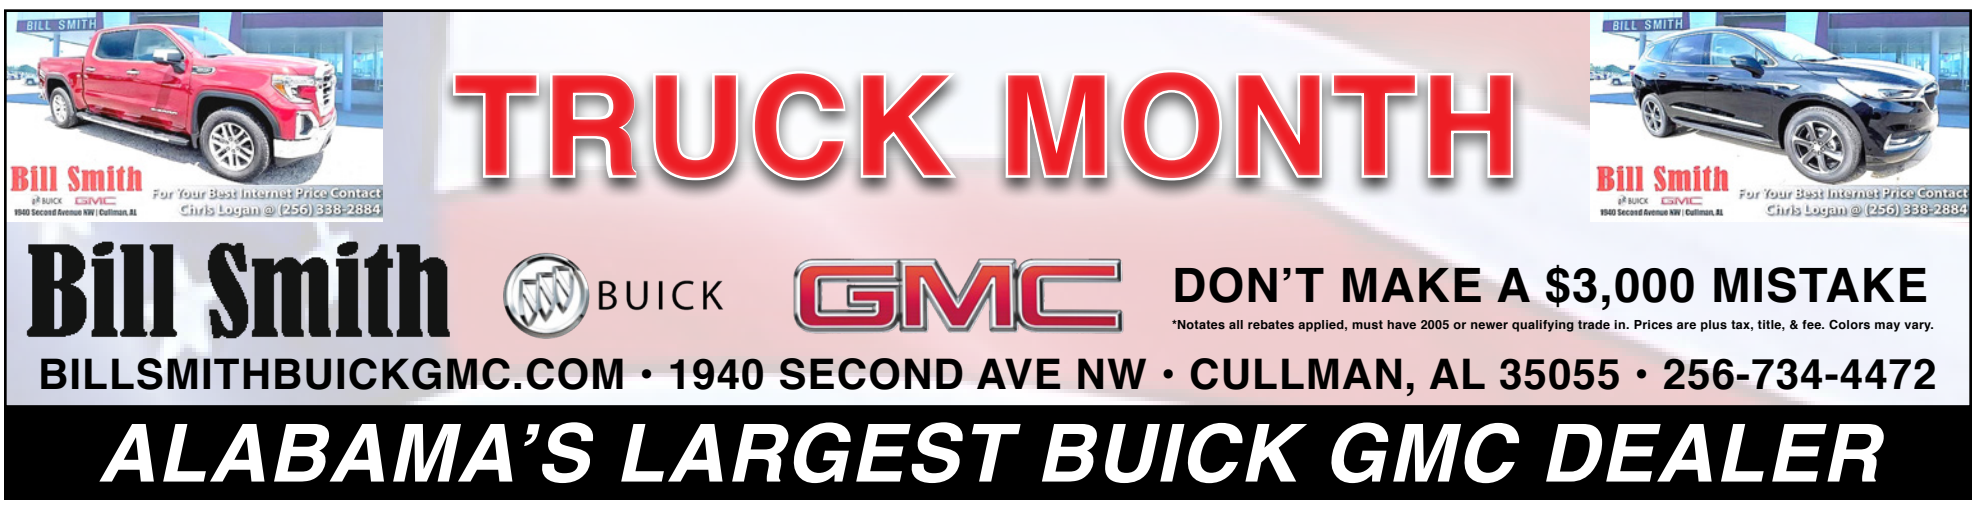

Char-Coal has the makings of a good companion, emotional support or reading dog.

Discount doggie!

Char-Coal has already been neutered, so his adoption fee will be greatly reduced. Check with the shelter for details and cost.

Gudger, Shedd visit Holly Pond for town meeting

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Sen. Garlan Gudger talks with Holly Pond Mayor Bill Oliver before Tuesday night's meeting.

HOLLY POND, Ala. – Rep. Randall Shedd, R-Fairview and Sen. Garlan Gudger, R-Cullman on Tuesday night visited Holly Pond for the first in a series of community meetings sponsored by the Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce to bring the legislators face to face with their constituents.

A good sized crowd filled the Guy Hunt Library conference room, including concerned citizens and municipal officials from Holly Pond, Baileyton, Berlin and Cullman. The Chamber's Jennifer Taylor introduced the speakers.

Gudger talked about legislation he advocated and helped to pass during the last legislative session, including a mental health bill that can extend the commitment/supervision period for mental health patients in outpatient treatment programs.

Gudger spoke of this as one of his proudest achievements during the session, and noted that he and Shedd will receive an award on Aug. 24 for their sponsorship of the bill.

Cullman County Probate Judge Tammy Brown was present, and spoke during the question and answer time to commend and thank the legislators for getting the bill through.

Gudger briefly mentioned his support for the abortion ban (the Alabama Human Life Protection Act, which was signed into law in May 2019) and the national attention it has garnered.

The law makes performing an abortion a felony in nearly all cases and does not have exceptions for rape or incest.

Gudger said he would be willing to address the matter further during the question and answer period, but the crowd seemed satisfied and did not raise any questions at that time.

Shedd talked about Alabama's rise in national rankings in economic development fields, including:

- Third in business climate
- Second in economic growth potential
- Second in workforce training
- Fifth in manufacturing based on workforce concentration
- Sixth for automotive manufacturing

He also admitted that Alabama ranks low in a number of areas like education, and said the state needs to continue to work on such things.

Shedd complimented Gov. Kay Ivey for addressing issues head-on "without pandering to the next election."

He also touched on some of the legislation he supported in the last session, including promotion of rural broadband and rural hospitals, and noted his good relationship with the agribusiness industry and farming community.

During the question and answer phase, the legislators address questions about:

- Fighting opioid abuse versus taking care of people who truly need pain management. Both expressed an understanding of the difference and said they would work to protect patients.
- Getting a second community college or four-year college extension center in Cullman County. Shedd spoke briefly about previous efforts and said he would look into it.
- Spending money on concrete street medians and roadside barriers along U.S. Highway 278 through Cullman, as opposed to projects like the widening of Alabama Highway 157. An audience member and Gudger engaged in a long but well-behaved exchange over issues of federal, state and local funding and jurisdictions, the completion of Highway 157 and the 10-cent gas tax. Gudger shared statistics indicating Cullman County will get more than $1 million more per year for roads under the tax plan, and that the county's municipalities will see gas tax revenue increases of up to four times what they currently receive. Both legislators spoke of their support for the gas tax in terms of their desire to improve transportation infrastructure in their districts.
- Passing lanes on Alabama Highway 69 between Fairview and Baileyton. Shedd recognized the safety issue, and said that increased revenue from the gas tax could make such a project possible.
- The possibility of a Highway 157 southern bypass. Shedd told an audience member he would like to see a southern bypass, but noted projects on 278 and 157 North that need to be done before new projects could come up.
- The higher tax rate on tags for electric and hybrid cars than gasoline-only vehicles. Gudger pointed out that these taxes will help build infrastructure such as electric car charging stations statewide, and that electrics and hybrids still use the same roads as other vehicles and pay a higher tax to make up for the fuel taxes they pay less of or not at all.

The Chamber's next community meeting will include Gudger and Rep. Corey Harbison, R-Good Hope, from District 12 and will be held in Good Hope at Good Hope City Hall Thursday, Aug. 15 from 6-7 p.m.

The final meeting will include Gudger and Rep. Scott Stadthagen, R-Hartselle, from District 9 and will be held in West Point at West Point Town Hall Thursday, Aug. 22 from 6-7 p.m.

Alabama Football announces 2020 schedule

UA Athletics
Contributor

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. – The 2020 Alabama football schedule was finalized Wednesday and includes seven games at Bryant-Denny Stadium plus four Southeastern Conference road matchups in addition to a neutral site pairing with the University of Southern California.

In SEC play, Alabama will host Georgia, Mississippi State, Texas A&M and Auburn, while traveling to Ole Miss, Arkansas, Tennessee and LSU next season. The Crimson Tide also welcomes three non-conference opponents to Bryant-Denny Stadium, including Georgia State (Sept. 12), Kent State (Sept. 26) and Tennessee-Martin (Nov. 14).

The Crimson Tide opens the 2020 campaign against USC on Sept. 5 at AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas.

It marks the eighth consecutive year Alabama has opened the season with a neutral site game with UA holding a perfect 7-0 mark in those contests.

Alabama then begins a three-game stretch at home, first with Georgia State on Sept. 12 before SEC play starts with a matchup against Georgia on Sept. 19.

Following a third home pairing, this one with Kent State (Sept. 26), Alabama will travel to Oxford to take on Ole Miss on Oct. 3 for the first of four straight SEC games prior to a bye on Oct. 31.

In addition to the contest with the Rebels, the Crimson Tide will also travel to Arkansas (Oct. 10) and Tennessee (Oct. 24) while hosting Mississippi State (Oct. 17) heading into the bye week.

The Crimson Tide returns to action on the road against LSU on Nov. 7, then stays at home for the remainder of regular season with games against UT-Martin (Nov. 14), Texas A&M (Nov. 21) and Auburn (Nov. 28).

The 2020 SEC Championship Game is slated for Saturday, Dec.5, at Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta.

- Sept. 5 – vs. Southern Cal (Arlington)
- Sept. 12 – vs. Georgia State
- Sept. 19 – vs. Georgia
- Sept. 26 – vs. Kent State
- Oct. 3 – at Ole Miss
- Oct. 10 – at Arkansas
- Oct. 17 – vs. Mississippi State
- Oct. 24 – at Tennessee
- Oct. 31 – Bye
- Nov. 7 – at LSU
- Nov. 14 – vs. UT Martin
- Nov. 21 – vs. Texas A&M
- Nov. 28 – vs. Auburn

In one of the largest-ever research reports of how a pregnant woman's diet affects her baby's allergy risk, scientists assessed over 400 studies involving 1.5 million people. They found that when pregnant women took a daily fish oil capsule from 20 weeks pregnant and during the first three to four months of breastfeeding, risk of egg allergy in the child was reduced by 30 percent. The team also found that taking a daily probiotic supplement from 36-38 weeks pregnant and during the first three to six months of breastfeeding, reduced the risk of a child developing eczema by 22 percent. The researchers published their meta-analysis in the journal PLOS Medicine.

There is a link between serum vitamin D levels and lower plasma cholesterol levels in primary school children, new research shows. The findings were reported in one of the leading journals of endocrinology, the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology and Metabolism. Vitamin D may also improve plasma lipid levels and have beneficial impact on other risk factors of cardiovascular diseases.

For people living with both Type 2 diabetes and heart failure, taking an aspirin each day appears to lower the risk of dying or being hospitalized for heart failure, according to research presented at the American College of Cardiology's 67th Annual Scientific Session. Aspirin is strongly recommended for patients who have previously had a heart attack or stroke. Aspirin interferes with blood's ability to clot, by reducing the activity of platelets, which aggregate during clot formation. Heart failure and diabetes cause changes in the blood that make clot formation more likely, which is why these conditions are associated with a higher risk of heart attacks and strokes.

CULLMAN, Ala. – In July, Cullman High School laid out a new policy banning cell phones from classrooms, and the Cullman County Board of Education (CCBOE) issued a similar policy statement of its own on the day before the start of the new school year this week.

The letter sent to Cullman City Schools parents said, "To establish a learning environment where teachers and learners are free from distractions, we will no longer permit student use of cell phones and personal electronic devices in the classrooms. All students have been issued a Chromebook to aid in the teaching and learning process. Students will be permitted to use phones as needed during their morning break time and during their lunch period. In recent years, we have seen an increase in distractions due to cell phones in the classrooms. Our goal is to create a safe learning environment, decrease cyberbullying, increase learning, increase student engagement and to provide academic, social and emotional support for students. Please discuss this change with your student and help us as we make this transition."

In a recorded call to parents on Tuesday, CCBOE Superintendent Dr. Shane Barnette explained the county system's new system policy:
"Elementary and middle school students have already been asked in the past years not to bring cell phones on campus, but now we're asking our high schools, as well. If your child does have a cell phone, we're asking if they'd leave it in their vehicle or lock it in their locker and keep it. We want them to power it down and put it away during the instructional day. They're welcome to bring them in the morning if they need them, if they drive to school or whatever, and they can take them back out after the last period of the day. But during the instructional day, we're asking that all students power these devices down and keep them locked away.

"A few reasons for that: we're going to cut back on our cyberbullying that's began as a growing problem in America right now. The second reason is we hope it'll reduce the disruptions of instruction."

On Wednesday, Barnette sat down with The Tribune to talk about the policy. He noted an informal study done at Good Hope High School last year, in which students were allowed free access to their devices throughout the day, with teachers and staff keeping track of what happened. Between social media "dings," texts and other occurrences, teachers reported an average of 52 events per class period.

Barnette's Tuesday message to parents continued, "And then, the third reason is we want to better prepare our high school students to be college and career ready. Many employers have shared with us that young people are addicted to their phones and they can't do their jobs, and things like that, so we're going to try to make a dent in that."

Barnette told The Tribune Wednesday that employers increasingly report issues with device usage affecting the quality of employees' work, saying, "I talked to one manager of a fast food restaurant, and they go around and they collect the cell phones from every one of their employees in a basket and lock it in their office during their shifts. And somebody else had shared with me that the number one reason that they terminate their young employees is because they can't put their cell phones down, or things they do on their social media, or things like that. So I feel like that we've got to help turn that curve, as well."

New security at county schools, updated vaping policy
Barnette told parents in Tuesday's all-call, "Most people have already heard about our Raptor system. It's our emergency management system that we have at each of our campuses now. But one component of that is, as visitors and parents visit our schools, they'll be asked to scan their driver's license or any other government ID that they have, and they'll do a simple background check.

"And the main reason for this is just to keep our kids safe and make sure we know who's in our building at all times. So, that'll be something that'll be new on each of our campuses, so be patient with us as we roll this out."

According to the Raptor Technologies website, "Raptor has the most reliable and up-to-date U.S. sex offender database check available.

"Every visitor is instantly screened against registered sex offender databases in all 50 states," can check visitors "against custom school or district databases, which can contain custody alerts and/or banned visitors," and can record information and check-in history for each visitor, as well as performing other functions depending on the particular package purchased.

On Wednesday, Barnette told The Tribune that the version of Raptor introduced by CCBOE this week includes three components:
- Scanning of driver's license or other official photo ID which begins a brief background check. Should an issue be identified, office staff will be notified immediately and discreetly. Said Barnette, "It basically allows us to know who's in the building all the time, and that they have a need and a right to be in that building."
- A student tracking and reunification system that will help teachers locate and account for each student in the school in the event of a lockdown or evacuation, and communicate that information instantly to the rest of the faculty and staff. The program will help parents locate and pick up their kids outside the school after an evacuation, and will let the rest of the faculty and staff know that the parent has picked up the student.
- An emergency management component that will allow faculty and staff to communicate easily during an emergency. This component also contains special features that will not be shared with the public for security reasons. Simply put, there are features of the schools' security systems that bad guys will not find out about until they try something.

Barnette also addressed the system's vaping policy, telling parents:
"The other thing is, something that we wanted to address this summer is vaping. It's a growing problem with our young people now, and we want to encourage our parents to really talk to your kids about not vaping and not bringing any of these devices to school. There is their own discipline ladder for vaping now. If they bring the devices or use any of these devices one school campuses, there will be consequences for that. So we want to encourage you to have this conversation with your children; ask them not to bring these devices on our campuses."

Barnette told The Tribune that vaping has always been prohibited on CCBOE campuses and that the updated policy simply outlines the progression of disciplinary actions to be taken. It also sets forth more serious disciplinary measures to be used if a vaping device is found to contain any type of drug residue.

At Citizens Bank & Trust, we take an elevated view of good banking.

Our deep Cullman roots provide stability you can depend on.

With all the big chain banks today, it's easy to forget you can still bank where people you know actually run things. Where great banking products are equal to the big guys, and you get local decisions only a community bank can offer. At Citizens Bank & Trust, we believe local means local and we plan to stay that way. We're the small bank with a big difference, and we're taking banking to a higher level for Cullman.

Come see us at the corner of 2nd Avenue SE and 3rd Street.

WEST POINT HIGH SCHOOL

Members of the West Point High School marching band practice prior to the start of the 2019 season.

Get ready to rock with the West Point Warrior Band

Heather Mann
heather@cullmantribune.com

WEST POINT, Ala. – To prepare for the 2019 marching season, members of the West Point marching band are channeling their inner rock stars.

Director Bobby Patrick described the show as "some of the biggest classic rock songs ever on one football field at the same time."

The band's show will include rock classics like "Free Bird," "We Will Rock You," "Purple Haze," "Stairway to Heaven," "Bohemian Rhapsody," "Crazy Train," "Ironman," "Paint it Black" and "Dream On."

Patrick is pleased with the work his students have put in, saying, "All of the camps went well. This is a hard-working group that has made huge strides so far.

"We're excited to finish up the show and get it out there for everyone to enjoy. Folks, check these kids out at halftime - You won't want to miss it!"

He continued, "This is my 24th year in education. In all that time, I've never had a group of students that have worked so hard.

"These students are truly my rock stars.

"The best part is, we get to share their hard work and talent with our wonderful community at West Point and on the road at away football games as we support our football team and as we represent West Point and Cullman County Schools at marching competitions."

The West Point Warrior Band will also be performing at the Mud Creek Marching Festival in Hanceville, the Southern Hospitality Marching Festival in Hartselle and the Tennessee Valley Marching Invitational in Muscle Shoals later this year.

Two Sentence Horror Stories

Jim Parrack ("True Blood"), Nicole Kang ("Batwoman") and Aleyse Shannon ("Charmed") are among the stars of this new anthology series, which serves up contemporary tales of terror, inspired by the viral fan fiction phenomenon of the title: horror yarns that deliver a thrilling jolt in just two sentences. Stories, settings and characters will vary from tale to tale, but each shares common roots in universally held primal fears and social insecurities. Another episode immediately follows.

8 p.m. on HIST
Ax Men

The Ryggard Logging team must cross a deep valley on their longest road yet as they fight to fix an irregular skyline in the new episode "The Longest Road." While running his first job site on his own, Danny Pihl pushes himself to the limit both physically and mentally. Wade Etienne doubles down on his risky plan to custom-fabricate a unique log hauler, and Frank Harkness' waste-no-time work ethic proves too much for his equipment to manage while working on a steep, snow-covered mountainside.

8 p.m. on LIFE
Little Women: LA

In the new episode "Totally Shady," Elena makes big strides in her career by producing a photo shoot on her new eye shadow palette, as well as having the first public reading of her children's book. With all that going on, however, Elena also has to devote time and energy worrying about whether Terra and Christy are likely to blow up one of her big moments if she ever allows them in the same room together. Another new episode follows.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE NOTICE

Default having been made in the terms of that mortgage executed on June 5, 2006 by David E. Morris and Deborah B. Morris, husband and wife, to EvaBank, which said mortgage is recorded in Book MTG 1475, Page 967 in the Probate Office of Cullman County, Alabama, and default continuing, and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, the following described property will be sold at public outcry, for cash, to the highest bidder, in front of the Courthouse door of said County, in Cullman, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale on August 30, 2019:

The south half of the Northwest Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section 10, Township 12, Range 3 West, containing 20 acres, more or less.

Subject to an easement fifteen feet in width granted to Cullman Electric Cooperative for underground utility service as set forth in instrument recorded in Deed Book 557, Page 132 in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Cullman County, Alabama.

Said sale is made for the purpose of paying the mortgage debt and cost of foreclosure.

Alabama law gives some persons who have an interest in property the right to redeem the property under certain circumstances. Programs may also exist that help persons avoid or delay the foreclosure process. An attorney should be consulted to help you understand these rights and programs as part of the foreclosure process.

Said property is commonly known as 777 County Road 557, Hanceville, AL 35077.
Should a conflict arise between the property address and the legal description the legal description will control.
Said property will be sold subject to any outstanding ad valorem taxes (including taxes which are a lien, but not yet due and payable), the right of redemption of any taxing authority, all outstanding liens for public utilities which constitute liens upon the property, any matters which might be disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property, any assessments, liens, encumbrances, easements, rights-of-way, zoning ordinances, restrictions, special assessments, covenants, the statutory right of redemption pursuant to Alabama law, and any matters of record including, but not limited to, those superior to said Mortgage first set out above. Said property will be sold on an "as-is" basis without any representation, warranty or recourse against the above-named or the undersigned. The successful bidder must present certified funds in the amount of the winning bid at the time and place of sale.
Alabama law gives some persons who have an interest in property the right to redeem the property under certain circumstances. Programs may also exist that help persons avoid or delay the foreclosure process. An attorney should be consulted to help you understand these rights and programs as a part of the foreclosure process.
The sale will be conducted subject (1) to confirmation that the sale is not prohibited under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code and (2) to final confirmation and audit of the status of the loan with the holder of the Mortgage.
