Gov. Kay Ivey, U.S. Census Director visit Cullman to promote 2020 population count

CULLMAN, Ala. – Next year's census is vitally important to Alabama, both in terms of federal funding and representation in Washington. To that end, a special event was held Wednesday at Cullman Regional, where Gov. Kay Ivey, U.S. Rep. Robert Aderholt, R-Alabama and U.S. Census Bureau Director Steven Dillingham addressed a large luncheon crowd about the need for an accurate count, especially in rural areas.

Elected officials from counties and towns across north Alabama, along with the Cullman area's entire state legislative delegation, were on hand to welcome the governor and census director and hear what they had to say.

Aderholt told the audience, "What we want to make sure is that our numbers reflect the true population for the state of Alabama," as he talked about the relationship of census numbers to federal funding for the state. The state receives $1,600 in federal funding for each resident, and Aderholt pointed out that for each Alabama resident not counted, his or her $1,600 will go somewhere else.

"Having an accurate and complete census is vitally important because of the correlation between the participation rate and the federal funds we get that go to health care, infrastructure, education and on and on," Ivey said.

"Folks, if we turn out at the rate we did in 2000, we will lose two congressional seats. If we turn out to the rate we had in 2010, we'll lose one. My goal for this census is to reach at least 80% participation rate, set a record and stand up and be counted."

Dillingham commended Ivey and her staff on their progress toward the 2020 census, and addressed how the census will attempt to reach areas that are typically hard to count, including rural areas like much of Cullman County. He emphasized the ease of the current census approach, noting that residents can respond by mail, internet or smart device. He said census workers will personally reach out to known residents who do not respond.

He was careful to point out that information gathered during the census is protected by federal law and cannot be used by any other agency. He talked about the security technologies that constantly monitor all data coming into the United State Census Bureau to guard against access by outside parties.

The bureau is currently canvassing addresses using a combination of existing address lists, satellite imagery to locate dwellings and census workers knocking on doors to verify residency.

Dillingham also spoke to common census count issues, saying that the bureau is taking steps to count children, native populations, non-English speakers and even homeless populations.

"It is vitally important that Alabama have a better census participation rate than we did in 2010," said Aderholt. "That year, only 72% participated. We must do better than that. Alabama has the population to maintain the federal programs our people need, but it is essential that the people of this great state are counted accurately in order to continue to qualify for the health care, transportation and education programs our state needs."

Continued Aderholt, "I greatly appreciate Director Dillingham coming to Cullman to hear the concerns many of us have about making sure people who live in rural areas have the same opportunity and ability to complete their census forms as those who live in large, metropolitan areas. Every American citizen should be counted no matter where they call home."

CULLMAN, Ala. – Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, a wonderful group of ladies meets at the Donald E. Green Senior Center ready for dance classes, but what the women get out of it is much more than just learning a few new dance moves. These ladies have created a sisterhood and they are hoping other senior ladies will join them.

Led by instructor Sherry Boatright, the classes are broken into beginners, improvers and intermediate line-dancing.

Many say they had never danced at all prior to participating and worried that they might be making a huge mistake. Instead, they realized dance classes were everything they needed.

Gwyn Blackburn comes to every class and has for nine years.

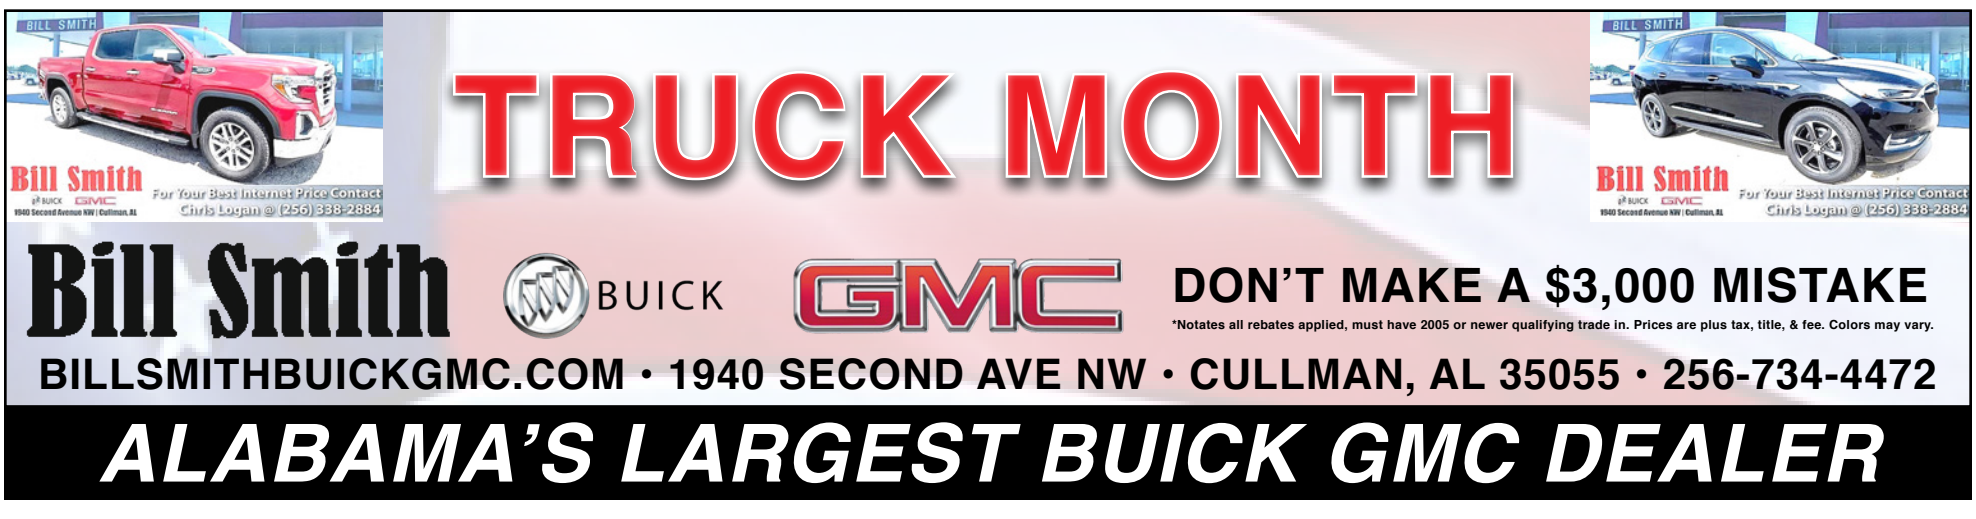

She said, "I'm from Arley and that's almost 30 miles one way, so that gives you an idea how much I love this class. It's such fun and it's such good exercise, but your body doesn't know it's exercise because you're having fun!"

The Tribune sat in on the Improvers class recently and met the lovely dancers.

Barbara Young has been dancing for five years.

"I had retired and I was like, what am I going to do?," she said. "Someone told me about this and I came up here. Everybody was so friendly and it just

According to a report from the University of Gothenburg, researchers have demonstrated that probiotics, dietary supplements with health-promoting bacteria, can be used to affect the human skeleton. Among older women who received probiotics, bone loss was halved compared to women who received only a placebo. Brittleness of the bones or osteoporosis, is characterized by porous and weak bones, which can cause them to break even when subjected to low loads, such as a fall from standing height. The proportion of the population with osteoporosis increases with age and a majority of women over 80 years of age have the disease.

An estimated 10 percent of couples in the United States struggle with infertility. While a variety of factors can make it difficult for some people to get pregnant, ovulation disorders are a leading cause of female infertility. Now, researchers have found that zinc deficiency can negatively affect the early stages of egg development, reducing the ability of the egg cells to divide and be fertilized. This may affect fertility months in the future. The researchers presented their results at the American Physiological Society annual meeting. The World Health Organization estimates that 17 percent of the global population is vulnerable to zinc deficiency in their diet. This estimate may not include cases of marginal zinc deficiency (people with some zinc in their diet, but less than recommended).

An Open Letter to the Residents of Hanceville and the Surrounding Areas:

RIVER VALLEY INGREDIENTS™

On June 6, our River Valley Ingredients facility experienced an accidental release of wastewater due to a mechanical failure in temporary piping installed by a contractor. Since that time, there has been a lot of information shared through both traditional and social media. A great deal happened quickly but not all facts were apparent. While we provided early comments to news media, I want to directly provide area residents with some additional information.

First and most importantly, we understand that events like this are unacceptable. We strive to be good stewards of the environment and we take that obligation seriously. While this was an isolated event, I want you to know that we've taken measures to improve our operation at this facility.

In August of 2018, Tyson Farms, a part of the Tyson Foods family of businesses, bought the Hanceville, Alabama facility. During the past year, we've worked hard to improve and upgrade the location. Tyson Foods has a high level of commitment to Hanceville and to all of Alabama. Under the Tyson banner, we look forward to continuing to execute on our corporate commitment to continuous improvement, environmental stewardship and sustainability. We are committed to making the facility better than we found it in August 2018.

The facts of this event are that an estimated 220,000 gallons of partially treated wastewater was released from temporary piping we had a contractor install. Since it had not yet completed the treatment process, the water that reached the Mulberry Fork caused the oxygen levels to drop. Fish died as a result of the decrease in oxygen levels. We want residents to understand this was due to low levels of oxygen in the water and not because of the release of man-made chemicals. The oxygen levels in the water returned to normal within a short time of the incident and fish are starting to return.

We continue to have discussions with the Alabama Department of Environmental Management, and Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources about the incident and its impact. We are actively assessing conservation and community projects that we may undertake to further our efforts in the area of the release and in Alabama generally.

We've also opened dialogue with property owners, elected officials, The Nature Conservancy, Black Warrior Riverkeeper, Friends of the Locust Fork River and various other groups. We recognize there are many of you concerned. We will remain engaged in the community and work hard to make this right.

Finally, I want to thank my friends and team members who live in the area and work at our Hanceville facility. I appreciate them for their long hours, hard work and dedication over the course of the last couple of months. With sustained commitment to our core values and working together, we'll get through this and improve along the way.

Sincerely,

Shane Parks

Cullman native Melissa Warnke named Alabama State Bar director of communications

Phillip McCallum
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – The Alabama State Bar has hired Cullman native Melissa Johnson Warnke as its director of communications.

In the newly created position, Warnke will oversee the Alabama State Bar's internal and external communications, media relations, social media and public relations efforts.

In her prior role, Warnke served as communications manager and spokeswoman for the Alabama Retail Association. Before that, she spent nearly eight years at WSFA 12 News as reporter and anchor for the local NBC affiliate.

"We are thrilled to add Melissa to our team," said Phillip McCallum, executive director of the Alabama State Bar.

"Her strong relationships, creativity and unique skillset will allow us to better tell the story of the good work being done by lawyers throughout the state and take the Bar's communications efforts to a new level."

Warnke is also active in her community and industry, serving as the current president-elect of the Public Relations Council of Alabama in Montgomery, a committee chair for the Alabama Council of Association Executives, and a member of the Junior League of Montgomery.

In addition, she is a graduate of the Leadership Alabama's Alabama Leadership Initiative Class II and Leadership Montgomery's Torchbearer Class V.

A native of Cullman, Alabama, Warnke graduated from Auburn University with a mass communications degree.

She and her husband, Adam, live in Montgomery and have two daughters ages 2 and 3.

enlightened my life. We love what we do. I can't say enough about our teacher, Sherry Boatright. She is just there for us and it's like a support group even. She plans things for us to do and she's such a part of us and we are all just really great friends."

For those who aren't sure if they are ready to lace up their dancing shoes, there are other activities available for them at the Donald E. Green Senior Center, including games, exercise gym, music and art classes and other special activities throughout the year.

Said Young, "When I first came here, I couldn't even move my feet. It was just so encouraging to me and I could see I was going to have so much fun. My favorite thing was, I walked in the door and I didn't have one person that was negative. Everyone welcomes you and it's wonderful."

Nancy Thompson said Young was one of the first ladies she noticed when she visited the senior center, and Young was inspired by watching her dance.

"My mother actually found this place for me after my dad passed," said Thompson. "My mother and I came some summers and I learned the dances. Then, my mother got where she couldn't dance and things happened in our lives."

Several years passed and Thompson and her mother came back in 2012 for the Sacred

Harp singing classes at the center.

Thompson said she would hear the music coming from the gym and wanted so badly to join the line dancing.

Thompson's mother told her in 2017, "You oughta get out and do something!"

Thompson said, "I knew exactly what I want to do! I want to line dance. So, I did. Oh and the ladies are so accepting. I didn't know the dances and they never laughed. I love it here so much."

Teresa Pritchard moved to Cullman after living in Chattanooga for almost 20 years. She didn't know many people despite being born in Cullman.

She explained, "I'm retired and didn't have anything to do. I was bored. I had a lot of things on my mind. My sister had died early at only 42. Line dancing... whatever you have going on in your brain that's not good: sad, depressed and upset, you come here and line dance and you forget it all. Just concentrating on the steps and learning the steps just alleviates the pain.

"That has helped me heal. My mom passed last year and the same. I was still dancing and had all the support and love from everyone here. They are really close friends to me and I appreciate this center and everything it has done for us."

One of the newer members, Dona Adams, discovered the dance classes when she came to the center to walk seven months ago. She decided to join the ladies on the dance floor one day and fell in love with it.

"I told her (Boatright), 'Listen, I'm not a morning person. I can't come to the beginner's class,' but the next time we were supposed to be here, I was here early. It has changed my life. I needed something," Adam's said with tears in her eyes. "It has been a wonderful thing for me. I have made so many great friends."

Vickey Smith added, "We all have problems in our life. This is the place we all come and we forget about those problems. It's good exercise on top of all that."

Smith pointed out that learning the dances and steps takes time, but anyone can do it.

"I feel wonderful. I go to the doctor one time a year. I don't have high blood pressure and I'm not diabetic. I haven't gained weight and its helped muscle mass," Sue Burns said of the health benefits she has experienced.

Burns is also one of the many Spirit Kickers looking forward to their Kicking Cancer event coming up on Oct. 26.

"Dancing is good for your body and good for your brain. My doctor told me, 'You are my example for everyone else to just keep dancing because it keeps you going.' It's been great for me. It's very good for you mentally to be around other people," said Burns.

Shirley Nelson, who is 87 and looks amazing, couldn't say enough about the positive things dancing has done for her overall health and well-being.

"You have to keep active and keep moving!" said Nelson.

Rachel Scroggins retired from Redstone Arsenal in 2017 and moved home to Cullman.

She said, "I am grateful to have a place to come for exercise that's free!"

She encourages others to come join them.

Some of the dancers are part of the Senior Spirit Dancers and Kickers and perform outside of the senior center. The Spirit Kickers are scheduled at several places including Senior Day and the Cullman County Fair.

Young said they will be doing "Uptown Funk" at the fair and a few other amazing routines.

The dance classes are free at the Donald E. Green Senior Center. The classes are every Monday, Wednesday and Friday and are open to ladies 50 year and older. The beginners class is from 9:15-10 a.m. Improvers dance from 10-11:15 and the Intermediate class follows from 11:15 until 12:30 p.m. For information, call 256-734-4803 or stop by the center at 1625 Cleveland Ave. SW in Cullman.

7 p.m. on WTTO
The Outpost

Talon and Zed (Jessica Green, guest star Reece Ritchie) embark on a quest to return to Talon's childhood home in a new episode called "Because She's Worth It." Elsewhere, Gwynn (Imogen Waterhouse) gets proof of how valuable Tobin (guest star Aaron Fontaine) can be, while Janzo (Anand Desai-Barochia) experiments with plaguelings. Meanwhile, Naya's (guest star Amita Suman) Prime Order connections come back to haunt her.

8 p.m. on WABM2
Family Food Fight

Just two more challenges stand between either of the final two family teams and victory as this entertaining culinary competition series reaches the end of Season 1 with an episode called, logically, "The Finale." First up is an amuse bouche challenge that is tasted and judged by some familiar faces. The episode climaxes with a "60-45-30" challenge that requires them to use ingredients hand-picked by judges Cat Cora, Graham Elliot and host Ayesha Curry, while coping with severe time restrictions.

Million Dollar Listing New York

In the new episode "Tech-nical Difficulties," Ryan Serhant pitches a brand-new listing for a Chelsea townhouse as a smart-home paradise for fans of the latest tech advances, only to find himself squaring off in a tense negotiation with Steve Gold's boss. Elsewhere, Luis Ortiz explores the idea of re-teaming with former assistant Ronita Kalra to become business partners, but they discover that two years apart have changed them both.

Chasing the Cure

If you missed last week's premiere, there's still plenty of time to jump aboard this groundbreaking new medical series that aims to help people suffering from medical mysteries that have been either undiagnosed or misdiagnosed in earlier physician visits. Anchored by Ann Curry, each live 90-minute episode of this series offers insights from a panel of top medical experts, as well as contributions from the home viewing audience (via social media) who may have valid insights from their own experiences.

When Sherlock Holmes creator Sir Arthur Conan Doyle wanted to end his literary series about the great detective, he had his hero plummet to his death while fighting an enemy over the Reichenbach Falls. It's fitting, then, that Holmes (Jonny Lee Miller) ends his TV adventures in this contemporary reboot fighting a tech billionaire named Otto Reichenbach (James Frain) in the series finale, "Their Last Bow." The teleplay is by executive producer Robert Doherty, who has been with "Elementary" since its 2012 premiere. Lucy Liu also stars.

MasterChef

If the special guest in tonight's new episode — Marley the Pig — seems a mite ill at ease, chalk it up to the sausage theme in the new hour "Pigging Out." Judge Aarón Sánchez gives the remaining contestants a quick demo on how to make his family recipe for chorizo sausage, then the cooks have just under an hour to prepare a dish incorporating their own version of homemade sausage. Gordon Ramsay and Joe Bastianich also evaluate their efforts.

Lucy Liu stars in "Elementary" Thursday on CBS.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE NOTICE

Default having been made in the terms of that mortgage executed on June 5, 2006 by David E. Morris and Deborah B. Morris, husband and wife, to EvaBank, which said mortgage is recorded in Book MTG 1475, Page 967 in the Probate Office of Cullman County, Alabama, and default continuing, and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, the following described property will be sold at public outcry, for cash, to the highest bidder, in front of the Courthouse door of said County, in Cullman, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale on August 30, 2019:

The south half of the Northwest Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section 10, Township 12, Range 3 West, containing 20 acres, more or less.

Subject to an easement fifteen feet in width granted to Cullman Electric Cooperative for underground utility service as set forth in instrument recorded in Deed Book 557, Page 132 in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Cullman County, Alabama.

Said sale is made for the purpose of paying the mortgage debt and cost of foreclosure.

Alabama law gives some persons who have an interest in property the right to redeem the property under certain circumstances. Programs may also exist that help persons avoid or delay the foreclosure process. An attorney should be consulted to help you understand these rights and programs as part of the foreclosure process.
