Local law enforcement, ALEA come together to promote road safety in Cullman County

CULLMAN, Ala. – On Thursday, Cullman County Sheriff Matt Gentry, Cullman Police Chief Kenny Culpepper, Hanceville Police Chief Bob Long and Alabama Law Enforcement Agency (ALEA) Senior Trooper Chuck Daniel came together at the Cullman County Sheriff's Office for a press conference to promote road safety and new traffic laws going into effect soon.

Gentry opened the presentation by warning watchers that texting while driving is "just as dangerous as being intoxicated or impaired," and that even people who have legally prescribed drugs should be aware of the potential effects of those medications before they try to drive after taking them.

Daniel shared statewide statistics:

- As of Aug. 28, State Troopers have worked 21,000 crashes on Alabama roads.
- Troopers average a call to a wreck every 16 minutes. Daniel noted that this number has been typical "for the last four or five years."

- Crashes in 2019 have resulted in over 8,200 injuries.
- This year's crashes have led to 350 fatalities, so far.
- Cullman County has seen 11 traffic fatalities this year.
- The county saw 53 fatalities in 2017 and 2018 together.

Daniel said, "These are families. These are families that have lost loved ones, and it has a lasting effect, not just on the families. It has a lasting effect on troopers and on sheriffs' deputies and on police officers when we have to--when we're assigned the task of notifying families at the end of that crash that their loved one's not coming home."

Daniel referred to the period from Memorial Day at the end of May to Labor Day at the beginning of September as the 100 deadliest days on Alabama roads, and told watchers that law enforcement officers could get through the Labor Day weekend without having to deal with tragedies if:

- Drivers and passengers wore safety restraints
- Drivers obeyed speed limits
- Drivers avoided distractions
- Drivers avoided intoxication

New laws going into effect

Daniel took time to talk about the two new traffic laws starting Sept. 1:

- Drivers will be required to drive in the right lane on four lane highways or the right two lanes on wider roads, and will only be allowed to drive in the left lane for up to 1.5 miles while passing. Troopers will give warnings during the first 90 days, then they will begin issuing tickets.
- All persons in a car will be required to wear seat belts. Even back seat passengers can be ticketed for failure to wear restraints.

Cullman chief warns about distracted driving

Culpepper told watchers that the city of Cullman had seven traffic fatalities in 2018, "the most I've ever seen, and I've been with the department for 41 years." He touched on commonly listed causes of accidents--following too closely, running stop signs and lights at intersections--but zeroed in on what he termed "a common denominator in just about every one of our accidents," - distracted driving.

Said Culpepper, "You're not paying attention; you're distracted, looking at your cell phone, and you run into somebody because you don't know they're stopping. Somebody in front of you in the turn lane is on their phone.

"The light changes, the turn signal; they make it, you don't, because they hesitated a second or two because they were distracted. And it frustrates you, the driver, so then you go through the light or you're driving a little bit faster."

Long told watchers that Hanceville has seen 74 wrecks so far this year, and noted that distracted driving seems to be the major culprit in those incidents. He said that Hanceville officers have begun taking a more aggressive approach to drivers not wearing seatbelts, and called on area residents » PAGE 8

Buckle up and keep right: New highway safety laws in effect this Labor Day holiday

Allison Green
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – As traffic volumes increase on Alabama highways this Labor Day holiday weekend, the Alabama Department of Transportation (ALDOT) is making motorists aware of two highway safety laws that go into effect Sept. 1.

New Alabama highway safety laws take effect Sept. 1, 2019

• Everyone, buckle up. All passengers in a vehicle must wear a seat belt. Previously, adults in the rear seat were not required to wear a seat belt. The Alabama Legislature amended the law this year to include those riding in rear seats. In Alabama, 60 percent of people dying in vehicle crashes are not wearing a seat belt.

• Keep right, except to pass. Drivers on Alabama interstates must travel in the right lane. Drivers are no longer allowed to be in the left lane for more than 1.5 miles unless the driver is passing another vehicle. There are exceptions for road hazards, traffic congestion and moving over for emergency response vehicles.

ALDOT is also doing its part for highway safety by having no temporary lane closures on Alabama interstates after noon Friday, Aug. 30 through midnight, Monday, Sept. 2.

"With so many people heading to football games or to the beach or lake during the holiday weekend, it's even more important to focus on driving safely," said Allison Green, Drive Safe Alabama coordinator with ALDOT. "Buckle up every seat, every trip. A seat belt is your best defense on the road."

Safe driving tips are available on the Drive Safe Alabama Facebook page.

Motorists planning their holiday travel route can find Alabama traffic and road condition information at www.ALGOtraffic.com or by downloading the ALGO Traffic app.

ALDOT asks motorists to use ALGO Traffic responsibly. Drivers should never text, tweet or use a mobile device while operating a vehicle.

Bulldogs set to host Aggies, local teams preparing for road matchups

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

There are just three home games on the docket this week but one of those is a local showdown. Fairview and Hanceville will face off at Ray Talley Stadium this Friday while Holly Pond and Good Hope prepare to host Ider and Priceville respectively. Cullman and West Point will be back on the road Friday to take on Mortimer Jordan and Arab in a pair of non-region showdowns. The Bearcats, Broncos and Aggies are looking to bounce back with a win this week and the Raiders and Bulldogs will try to build off last week's momentum and move to 2-0 this Friday.

Cullman (0-1) (6A Region 7) at Mortimer Jordan (0-1) (5A Region 5)

The Bearcats renewed their rivalry with the Jasper Vikings last week and fell behind 21-6 but fought back to make it a 21-19 game late in the fourth quarter. Cullman took it down to the wire but couldn't overcome the early Jasper lead and dropped the season opener on the road by two points.

Bearcats quarterback Max Dueland tossed an 83-yard bomb to wide receiver Isaiah Jones and added six more points on the ground with a yard out.

Jamar Kay found the end zone from 13-yards out on a reverse late in the fourth quarter and Jaylen Hughey led the Cullman offense with over 100 yards on the ground.

After falling behind early, the Bearcats defense settled in and gave the offense a chance to get back in the game.

Cullman put together a solid performance against a strong team, but things won't get any easier this week.

Mortimer Jordan is coming off a 12-2 season and an appearance in the semi-finals of the AHSAA state football playoffs. The Blue Devils fell in their season opener at Pleasant Grove but with their brand-new playing surface making its debut this Friday, the Bearcats will be walking into another tough environment looking for their first win.

Holly Pond (0-1) (3A Region 5) vs. Ider (2A Region 8)

After falling to New Hope on the road last week, the Broncos will be happy to return home for this week's matchup. Holly Pond will host Ider Friday in what will be the season opener for the Hornets. Ider is coming off a 3-7 season but with a new head coach, the Hornets will be anxious to get their season underway against the Broncos.

Holly Pond led the way 22-10 at the half against New Hope but turnovers and some defensive lapses allowed the Indians to chip away at the lead.

The Broncos managed to get in front 30-23 in the fourth quarter, but New Hope railed off 21 unanswered points to pull away from Holly Pond and hand the Broncos a loss to start the season.

Holly Pond will be looking to collect its first win of the season Friday night, but the Broncos will have to improve their ball security and finish all four quarters to put away Ider.

West Point (1-0) (5A Region 7) at Arab (1-0) (5A Region 8)

The Warriors got things started on the right foot last week when they edged out Fairview to win this year's Brandin' Iron Bowl, but they'll have to gear back up and hit the road again this week to face Arab.

The Knights are coming off a tight road win as well, opening the season with a 28-21 win at Boaz and now they'll host West Point for the home opener.

The Warriors were able to do enough to win at Fairview last week but had to overcome some struggles on offense.

Quarterback Will Cochran collected a pair of touchdowns through the air, including a 49-yard strike to Kobe Bowers in the third quarter, but West Point was held to just 71 yards on the ground. The Warriors narrowly defeated Arab 27-26 a season ago so the Knights will be anxious to see West Point on their field with a chance for revenge this week.

Good Hope (1-0) (4A Region 5) vs. Priceville (4A Region 7)

After falling behind 2-0 against Carbon Hill in last week's season-opener, the Good Hope Raiders tore off 28 unanswered points to put down the Bulldogs and start the year 1-0.

The Raiders' defense smothered Carbon Hill, holding the Bulldogs offense scoreless until late in the fourth quarter when the varsity unit had left the field.

Colton Bagwell delivered as much punishment running the ball as he did rushing the passer, racking up 102 yards and a touchdown on just 15 carries in the win.

Quarterback Tanner Malin was effective in his starting debut as well, tossing a pair of touchdowns to Drew and Cole Maddox in the first half and taking one in himself from 25-yards out to put the game away in the third quarter.

The defense looked to be in midseason form last week, but they'll have to show up and perform again against Priceville on Friday to continue building some momentum early in the season.

Fairview (0-1) (4A Region 7) at Hanceville (1-0) (3A Region 5)

The only local clash this week will be in Ray Talley Stadium Friday night when the Hanceville Bulldogs host the Fairview Aggies. Both teams are coming off tight games but only one of them could secure a win. The Aggies were held out of the end zone on the final play of last week's Brandin' Iron Bowl against West Point and the Bulldogs put away Sumiton Christian on the road with a touchdown in overtime.

Despite coming up short in the season opener against West Point, the Aggies had some success moving the ball, particularly on the ground.

Running backs Tyler Simmons and Tyvn Ellis collected 80 and 79 yards on the ground respectively and Fairview totaled 262 yards of offense in the loss while holding West Point to 227 defensively.

The Aggies defense was also able to force a safety in the first half against the Warriors.

The Bulldogs will be coming off a 32-26 overtime victory at Sumiton Christian in which quarterback Bo Joles completed 17 of his 32 passes for 192 yards and two touchdowns while running for two more scores, including the game-winner.

Hanceville running back Logan Guthery added 73 yards and a touchdown of his own in the win.

The Bulldogs offense will get a little more of a test this week when the Aggies arrive and Fairview's offense will be anxious to find the end zone after moving the ball but being held to just eight points last week against West Point.

At this early point in the season, both teams are still trying to get off to a fast start and this game will be critical to make that happen.

Aggies topple Warriors, Eagles in tri-match

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

WEST POINT, Ala. – Both the Vinemont Eagles and Fairview Aggies traveled to West Point High School Wednesday afternoon for a tri-match with the Warriors and the Aggies managed to collect wins over both opponents. Fairview knocked off Vinemont after three competitive sets and edged West Point in two sets that were about as close as you will see in a rematch of last year's Cullman County Volleyball Championship Match.

West Point 2 – Vinemont 0 (25-10) (25-16)

The Warriors and Aggies got things started and thanks to a pair of strong sets, West Point swept Vinemont to grab an early win. Molly Pendley posted five aces, four kills, three digs and assist in the match while Lexi Shadix led the Warriors with seven kills and three blocks.

Ryleigh Jones racked up eight assists, two aces and a kill and Gracie Thompson added seven assists to go along with three aces and a kill.

Mikayla Golden collected three aces, three kills and two blocks in the loss while Olivia Johnson added two kills and Jordan Chambless posted an ace and two assists.

Fairview 2 – Vinemont 1 (25-14) (22-25) (15-8)

It took three sets for the Aggies and Eagles to decide a winner Wednesday but in the end, it was Fairview toppling Vinemont in the second match of the day.

The Aggies were on top 8-1 at one point in the first set but the Eagles were able to cut the lead to 12-9.

Fairview found its rhythm after that and started to pull away, winning it on three straight aces from Katie Ball and winning 25-14.

Vinemont bounced back in the second set against the Aggies, jumping out to a 16-8 lead midway through the contest and extending that lead to 22-15.

Fairview mounted a come from behind effort and chipped away at the lead, but the Eagles were able to pull away and win it 25-22.

The Aggies responded in the tiebreaker set, building an early 13-5 lead and taking the match with a 15-8 win in the final set.

Micah Means posted 19 assists and a kill, Daisy Manasco added four kills and three aces and Kate Ball finished the match with three aces, five kills and two digs.

Jacy Gorham racked up seven kills and a block, Cassidy Hutchison chipped in with five kills of her own and KT Thrasher scored three aces.

Olivia Johnson collected a pair of kills in the loss for Vinemont and Gracie Kennedy added a pair of aces. Mikalya Golden finished the match with a pair of aces as well.

Fairview 2 – West Point 0 (25-23) (25-23)

Wednesday's final match consisted of two of the tightest sets we've seen at this early point in the season.

The Aggies edged the Warriors 25-23 in both sets to pick up a big win, but it could've gone either way at several points in the match.

Fairview got on top 8-6 early in the first set but West Point managed to tie the game up at 12.

The game stayed tied for nearly the entire match after that, moving from 17-17 to 22-22 before the Aggies found a way to make a few crucial plays and took the set 25-23.

Fairview took an early 7-5 lead in the second set, but the Warriors responded and took a 9-8 lead.

The Aggies retook a 14-11 lead after that and maintained a 19-18 advantage late in the set.

West Point tied the game at 23 shortly after but after the Aggies moved ahead by one point, the match ended on a called fault against the Warriors and Fairview held on to take the set 25-23.

Manasco finished with 12 kills, two aces and two digs in the win while Micah Means added another 18 assists and two aces.

Ball posted nine kills, five digs and two aces for the Aggies and Isabella McGukin collected four kills and a block.

Lexi Shadix posted nine kills, two aces and two blocks in the loss while Gracie Thompson racked up a team-high 11 assists.

Molly Pendley added two aces, five kills and two digs for West Point as well.

The Aggies will be back on the floor when they travel to Southside Tuesday, the Warriors will be back in action at the Labor Day Classic in Foley on Friday and the Eagles will travel to Fultondale Tuesday.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

Cullman's John Tillman, part 3

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – After a year in the jungles of Burma, World War II was coming to an end and it was time for John Tillman to return home to Cullman. He arrived home on the General Collins, the same ship that took him back to Korea a few years later.

Tillman was out of the service for about five years. During that time he made one cotton crop, went to St. Bernard for two years majoring in science and went to Florence State (now UNA) and earned his bachelor's degree in science. He applied to teach at his alma mater, Fairview, but the superintendent at the time thought it was too soon after Tillman's own graduation to come back to the school as a teacher.

His next two choices for a teaching job were Cold Springs and West Point. Tillman chose to teach at West Point High School. He speaks fondly of his time teaching at West Point. During the summers off from teaching, he attended Peabody (at Vanderbilt) to work on his master's degree.

He explained, "I stayed on the Vanderbilt campus for three summers and I stayed one summer before I was recalled to active duty working on (my) school administration (degree)."

"I was a surgical technician and I got recalled to active duty during the Korean conflict. I went back in as a sergeant and I decided I had better make the most of it while I was in and they had plenty of surgical technicians. I learned I was capable or able to apply for directive commission and I thought that would be easier than going through OCS and all this other stuff," said Tillman. "I filled out the papers and they put me in front of a board of officers, and I had covered everything in the medics during World War II that was in the books. I just moved right on through and about 30 days (later) I got a notice that I had been accepted. One day I was a staff sergeant and went in the next morning without any chevrons on and the colonel swore me in. I became a second lieutenant."

Tillman was assigned to the 45th Division in a medical battalion, and unlike WWII, there were mobile Army surgical hospitals (MASH) in Korea. He was the motor, mess and supply officer.

He said, "I was always able to take and try to maneuver something. That deal over in Korea, the officers wanted a mess hall located in the side of the hill. I worked something around and we built that in the side of the hill with a 30-inch window that ran across there. First class!"

During a stalemate period in the conflict, Tillman went on a short leave to Tokyo. Things had changed drastically when he returned.

He said, "When I came back, they told me that the medical officers and all officers were pulling patrol duty. I thought they were joking, but they weren't. The next night I had myself in charge of a seven-man crew. You had your second line of defense. Well our situation was covering that patrol area because some people had been slipping through there. The first night we were exposed out there, but we came out OK."

After the war, Tillman had several months of active duty left. The Army assigned him to Ft. Sam Houston as an instructor in the Medical Field Service School. His assistant instructor was a medical doctor.

Tillman laughed, "If we got in a question/answer type deal and someone shot me a question that I didn't feel capable of taking care of, all I had to say was, 'Doctor?' and he'd take over."

Tillman retired as a colonel and returned to education.

"I found out there was an opening at Cullman High School and I left to come back. I don't regret it. The first two years I was at Cullman High School I was a chemistry, physics, biology and general science teacher," Tillman recalled.

He was assistant principal for six years while still teaching four classes a day. In 1962 he became the principal.

He said, "That was 27 years I stayed at Cullman High School. Then I went to the central office as an administrative assistant to the superintendent for six years. I retired with 39 years in the school system. While I was up there at Cullman High School, I passed out probably about 4,000 diplomas."

Tillman said still runs into former students regularly, but Paul Lamar is the one that stands out.

"I was out in California at the National Teachers Meeting for Secondary Schools. I got my ticket for a tour of Universal Studios and Beverly Hills High School. I thought that would be good to compare Beverly Hills High School with Cullman. I might pick up something," he joked.

"We were taking a break and a young man walked around and said 'Mr. Tillman, you may not remember me. My name is Paul Lamar.' He'd been out there about two years and he decided that Sunday afternoon that he would tour Universal Studios. About four to six years later, I was down in the Mobile area and I was out there looking at the submarine. There was a young man up there at the periscope. I said to him, 'Actually a smaller person would be better suited for this than a larger person would be.' I looked up and it was the same guy. I said, 'Where we going to meet at next time?"

Tillman said he attended almost every football game during his time at Cullman High School. He is proud of the school in which he spent so many years teaching and leading. He is proudest of watching his vision for Cullman High School come to fruition.

He explained, "As assistant principal, I made the master schedule and assigned the students to their classes. In that decision, I could see on the wall that pretty soon we needed some more space. On a field trip, I happened to see space where the new (current) high school is located. It was a sage patch. The superintendent at that time was my high school coach at Fairview and a science teacher. Every time I got a chance, I'd plug for it. There was this land over here and it fit right in the middle. I talked it up enough that the board finally got interested in it. They bid it and they bought it."

He continued, "I also realized we needed some transportation for all the athletics we had and field trips. We worked out a way that the county schools were nice enough to let use some buses. I wanted to get some for Cullman High School and the Cullman City Schools system. I came up with a plan and asked the superintendent to approve for me to purchase three buses with Cullman City Schools on them- black and gold. We would charge a fee for each group that worked with it. I so started off buying the first three buses and getting those set up."

Tillman continued to keep his eye out for available land. He bid on the land where the tennis courts are now located.

He said, "When I bid, I announced I was bidding for Cullman City Schools, and I think that helped that some of them that could have bid on it just kind of backed off. We got the bid for $10,000 less than we had."

Tillman was able to purchase three more acres with the $10,000.

KIM HALL

John Tillman with Cullman High School Principal Kim Hall

Tillman made another critical decision: "One of the board members wanted to put the tennis courts on the back of the gym. Well, I didn't want it to be put in the back of the gym because I thought 20-30 years down the line, you're going to need another gym. That worked out."

Tillman also negotiated the plan that allowed Cullman City Schools to purchase the eight additional acres that are now home to Cullman Primary School and the soccer field.

"It all fit in there and you couldn't find a better place for those tennis courts," Tillman said with a little smirk.

He talked about his family.

While at St. Bernard, Tillman met his wife, Lillian Fay Bailey from Baileyton. She had taught school for three years. She wasn't interested in teaching or going to college, so she was a stay at home mother with their daughter, Charlotte. Charlotte graduated from Cullman High School and then attended the University of Alabama in Birmingham.

Tillman said, "Charlotte majored in medical technology and worked down at the blood bank at the hospital for four to five years, I suppose. She said, 'Daddy, I don't want to do this for the rest of my life. Would you pay for another college education?' I agreed on it, so she started looking and wanted to get into pharmacy. She found a little school down in Lee County in south Alabama that she enrolled with and graduated. She got her degree from Auburn University."

When asked who he cheers for, Alabama or Auburn, Tillman laughed, "I'm for both of them. I've got an investment in both colleges."

His wife passed away in 2006. He has one grandson, Nikolas Tillman Gutowski.

Tillman said kids today aren't much different than those of past generations. His advice? Stop worrying about other people's business.

"Growing up is a deal," he said. "How did we ever get grown? All the chances that we take, young and old. We've just got to be more concerned about the other person and not extending into their privileged space."

Pantry (from Front)

school meal programs or other means--could still have very real needs for assistance due to unforeseen circumstances. For that reason, committee member Amy Gable founded Bulldog Pantry, an emergency supply service for families of Hanceville students.

Gable shared with The Tribune, "This is our third year having the pantry. We are an emergency service for families of the Hanceville school children. A lot of times families may not have a need for food stamps or to visit a local food bank when it's open (but) later find themselves in a bind.

"They may have an unexpected visit to the doctor or car repairs that cuts the family's paycheck short. Now they are in need of assistance. All they have to do is contact the school counselor and let her know they need help. She lets us know and we set up a time and day to meet."

She continued, "The pantry was blessed in the way Knapsacks allows us to share a room with them at the Hanceville Civic center. This allows parents to meet us there to pick up food and hygiene supplies. No child wants the other children to see their parents leaving school with a box. To many, it's embarrassing. They don't see it as they should: the community pulling together to help one another. The saying is 'It takes a village to raise a child.' Well, in order for that to happen, everyone has to help one another. Not a handout but a hand up. We are here to let the families know there is help."

Gable said the Bulldog Pantry serves up to 20 families per month.

"We serve anywhere from five to 20 families a month. I know five seems low. I had someone ask, 'Why do it for just five?' Well, that's five families that aren't hungry. Five families' worth of children that aren't hungry at school and distracted or acting out. Five families that may now help someone else in turn. When you receive help, you are more willing to help others."

Bulldog Pantry gives boxes of goods containing varying amounts, depending on the size of each family.

According to Gable, "We try to make sure each box has vegetables, rice, beans, pasta, pasta sauce, canned meats, and when available, snacks. We also try to give toilet paper, dish soap, laundry detergent, toothpaste and bar soap. Everything we give depends on what we have had donated."

Get involved!

Bulldog Pantry is accepting donations of grocery items including:

- Beans
- Canned fruit
- Canned meats (ham, tuna, chicken, etc.)
- Canned pasta (SpaghettiOs, etc.)
- Canned vegetables
- Cereal
- Cookies
- Cooking oil
- Corn meal
- Crackers
- Flour
- Jell-O
- Jelly
- Macaroni and cheese
- Pasta
- Pasta sauce
- Rice
- Soups

The group also accepts home cleaning and personal hygiene products including bar soap, deodorant, dish soap, laundry detergent, shampoo, toilet paper and toothpaste.

Said Gable, "We run purely off donations, so we accept anything people want to give."

Those interested in donating can send a message through the Hanceville Knapsacks for Kids Facebook page at www.facebook.com/HancevilleKnapsacks/.

Best Bets

6:30 p.m. on TNT
Movie: Doctor Strange

Benedict Cumberbatch already had become a global superstar via his blockbuster TV success with "Sherlock" when he tapped into another huge fan base with this 2016 Marvel Comics-based smash, which casts him as gifted yet arrogant surgeon Stephen Strange, whose career is cut short by a near-fatal car crash. Subsequently, he becomes a master of the mystic arts. Chiwetel Ejiofor, Rachel McAdams, Benedict Wong and Tilda Swinton also star in the film, which earned an Oscar nomination for its visual effects.

7 p.m. on FX
Movie: X-Men: Apocalypse

This ninth entry in this Marvel franchise finds Professor X and Raven (James McAvoy, Jennifer Lawrence) leading a team of young X-Men to stop the immortal mutant Apocalypse (Oscar Isaac) from destroying mankind, an endeavor that will require the current crop of mutants to set aside their differences and pull together in this 2016 action movie. Michael Fassbender, Nicholas Hoult, Rose Byrne, Sophie Turner, Olivia Munn and Lucas Till also star.

7 p.m. on MAX
Movie: Life of the Party

Much against the wishes of her daughter, Maddie (Molly Gordon), recently divorced mom Deanna Miles (Melissa McCarthy) goes back to college to finish work on her degree at the same Atlanta university Maddie is attending in this good-natured comedy, which McCarthy also co-wrote with her husband and director, Ben Falcone. The strong ensemble also includes Gillian Jacobs, Maya Rudolph, Matt Walsh, Julie Bowen and Stephen Root.

7 p.m. on LIFEMOV
Movie: Who Stole My Daughter?

Five years after her 12-year-old daughter Katie vanished from school without a trace, Janet Sullivan is overjoyed when Katie, now 17, reappears, albeit severely traumatized and unable to account for her absence. When strangers begin following the Sullivans around, Janet grows apprehensive that Katie's kidnappers have returned in this 2019 thriller. Samaire Armstrong, Sierra McCormick and Kieren Hutchinson star.

8 p.m. on FOOD
Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives

In the new episode "Triple D Nation: A Family Affair," host Guy Fieri goes on a quest to find some of the best family-run eateries available, starting in Honolulu, where siblings are preparing to take the best of their mom's Filipino dishes and roll them all over the island. In San Diego, three generations of diners have enjoyed taquitos prepared the same way at one of the city's most popular taquerias, while Kansas City, Mo., is home to a brother-and-sister team serving up fantastic Asian food.

8 p.m. on FREE
Movie: Freaky Friday

Jamie Lee Curtis copped a Golden Globe nomination as best actress in a comedy for her hilarious performance as 40-ish psychotherapist Tess Coleman. She switches bodies with her rebellious teenage daughter, Anna (Lindsay Lohan), thanks to a most inconvenient magic spell that hits the pair just a few days before Tess is to marry her handsome fiance (Mark Harmon) in the superior 2003 remake of the 1976 Disney comedy.

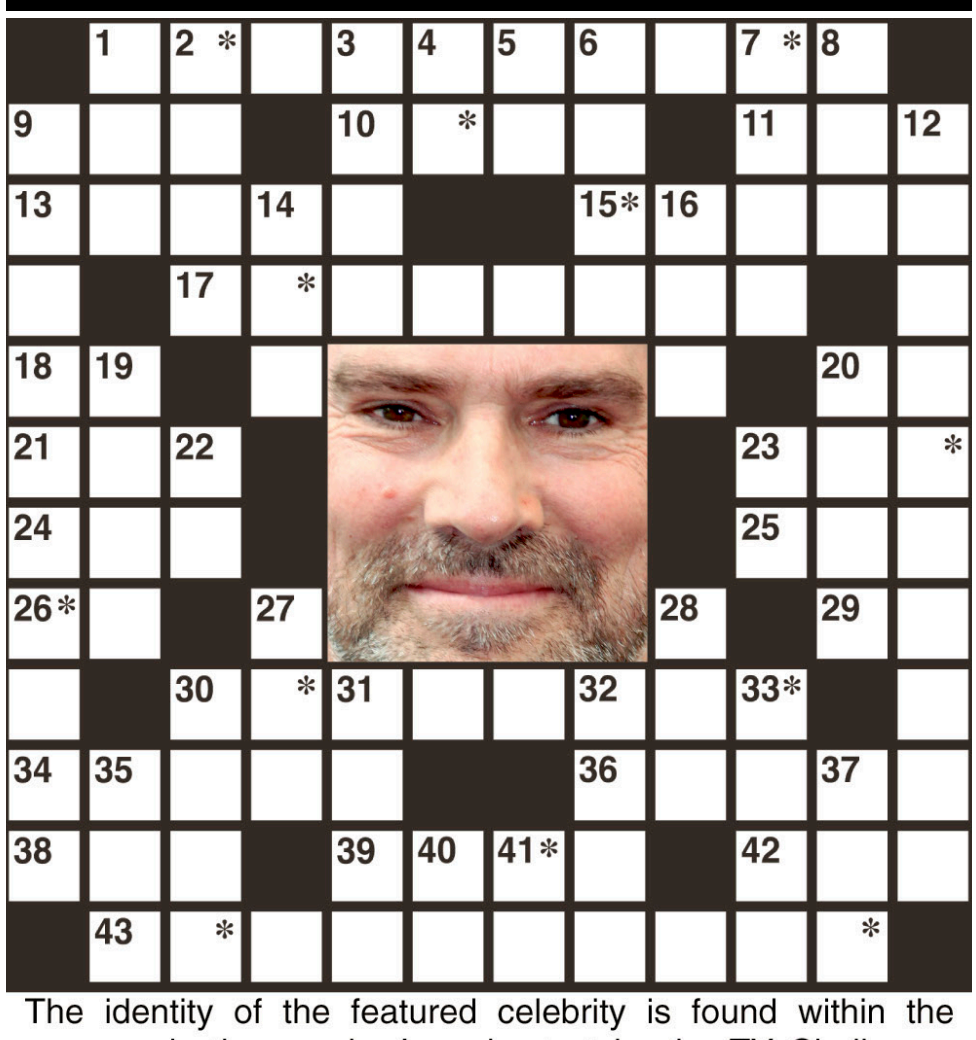

9 p.m. on WBIQ
Big Family: The Story of Bluegrass Music

Actor and bluegrass music enthusiast Ed Helms ("The Office") narrates this new documentary, which explores the Scots-Irish and African-American roots of this musical genre, the pioneers who influenced and shaped its sounds and the growing international appeal of bluegrass, as well as its pop culture impact. More than 50 musicians appear in this film from producer Matt Grimm and Nick Helton, including Alison Brown, Dale Ann Bradley, Sam Bush, JD Crowe, Bela Fleck, Ricky Skaggs, Laurie Lewis and Bobby Osborne, among many others.

Alison Brown appears in "Big Family: The Story of Bluegrass Music" Friday on PBS.

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Sweet Tater Festival returns to Smith Lake Park this holiday weekend. The event will take place Sunday, Sept. 1 from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. and Monday, Sept. 2 (Labor Day) from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Slated for both days are live entertainment, food vendors, arts and crafts vendors and, of course, plenty of sweet potatoes.

The Sweet Tater Festival Car Show will take place Monday from 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

Admission is $5, and armbands will get visitors in both Sunday and Monday.

The Smith Lake Park pool will be open, and the park will also be renting out kayaks, canoes and paddle boards.

Cullman County Parks & Recreation Director Doug Davenport shared a brief history of the festival.

"It started 23 years ago at Dowling Memorial School after the school had burned down and they, I guess the (Cullman) County School Board, decided they were going to rebuild the school back," he said.

"The citizens in that community wanted to do something to help people heal and get over the process of the school being burned down because it's kind of an icon to that community in Crane Hill.

"So they started having a festival and it transferred into the Sweet Tater Festival, which was held there until six years ago and they about outgrew it."

Continued Davenport, "I had actually called and talked about us partnering with them and having it at the (Smith Lake) park.

"It was just the elders in the community and they're just like, 'Well, this is a God-send, we've been praying for someone to take over; we'd love to give it to parks and rec; we know y'all will always be around.' Well, six years ago we moved it to the park."

Davenport said the festival will go on, rain or shine.

"This is a rain or shine event. It seems like about every other year it rains, so we have hay on standby for any areas of high traction in the case it gets muddy."

When asked what brings people back to the festival each year, Davenport smiled, "I think it just brings people back to the time of grassroots where everybody came from. You know, my grandparents were instrumental in farming at some point in time.

"It's more of a bluegrass, country, gospel-type of entertainment event."

Question on 278/831 intersection

During the question and answer time, Gentry was asked about the intersection of U.S. Highway 278 and County Road 831, which has received much attention recently. The sheriff told reporters that local law enforcement and ALEA have been talking to the area's legislative delegation who are working with the Alabama Department of Transportation to find a long-term solution. He encouraged drivers on CR 831 to look carefully before pulling out onto the highway and drivers on Highway 278 to slow down as they approach the intersection.

County roads and highways particularly dangerous

Answering a question about dangerous roads, Daniel pointed out that the official speed limit on county roads is 45 miles per hour, though many drivers assume the limit is 55.

He noted that such roads are often narrow and winding, and the geography makes fast-moving vehicles prone to crossing center lines, leading to head-on collisions.
