PET OF THE WEEK

Say hello to Mr. Miles!

CULLMAN COUNTY ANIMAL SHELTER

Mr. Miles

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman County Animal Shelter Volunteer Donna Ruttkay shared that last week's Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week, Gus, has been adopted, and now she introduces us to a new canine friend:

Mr. Miles is a mix, but has many classic traits of the Carolina Dog, an ancient Native American breed known for its fishhook tail, tall standing ears and pack mentality that makes it fiercely loyal to the humans who form its family. Less than 2 years old, Mr. Miles is a medium-sized, laid-back, low- to-medium energy pet.

In her notes on her new canine friend, Ruttkay wrote, "Mr. Miles accompanied me for a good part of the afternoon. He slept, as business was conducted in the office, asked to go out." She described him as "an alert, but unassuming, happy sort of fellow who likes being with you."

She also said, "This is one amazing dog, folks!"

Mr. Miles has the makings of a good companion, emotional support or therapy dog.

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior. Several of the shelter's dogs have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Mr. Miles's adoption fee is $90 which includes: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neutering, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

UNFAIR DEAL!

Stolen Cullman County Fair tickets offered for sale, will not be honored at Fair

Valid tickets go on sale Sept. 10 at Fair office and Peoples Bank

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Late last week, 12 All-in-One Passes to the 2019 Cullman County Fair turned up for sale on the "Cullman County Buy, Sell and Trade" Facebook page. At an asking price of $7 below the regular price, it had the makings of a great deal, but there was one big problem: Fair tickets do not go on sale until Sept. 10 and, at present, the Cullman Lions Club only plans to distribute them through the Fair office at the fairgrounds and through Peoples Bank.

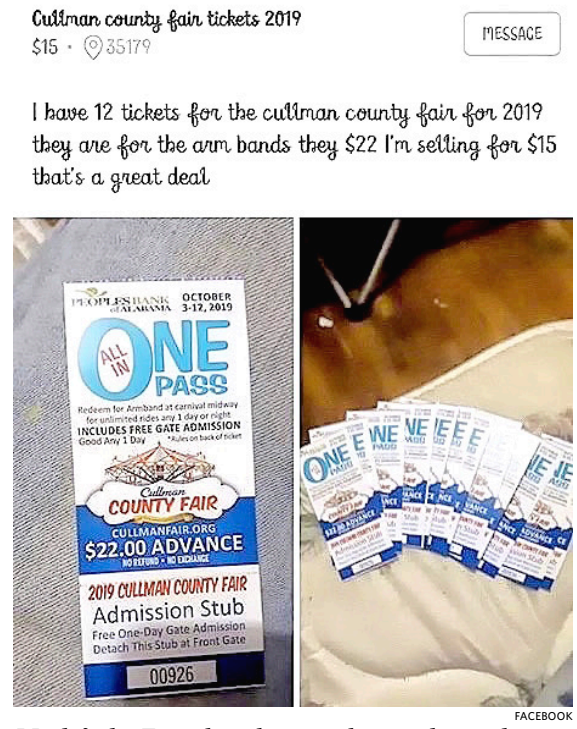

The tickets were posted by a Facebook member whose name The Tribune has withheld, a resident of Vinemont.

At first, rumors circulated that the tickets were counterfeit, but they turned out to be real. Cullman Lion Charlie Childers explained: "We had a book of tickets get picked up illegally, of 25 tickets, and then they showed up on Facebook for sale.

"They made a nice enough picture to give me the ticket number, so when we tracked down, it was actually a book that had been lifted off of a desk. They're actually real tickets."

He continued, "We actually notified the sheriff's office. They tried to contact them, the person that had them listed.

"I don't know that they ever made contact with them. But it has been posted several times, and I actually » PAGE 7

Ivey awards $3.35M to Alabama CASA

Mike Presley
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – Gov. Kay Ivey has awarded a $3.35 million grant to support advocacy services for abused, abandoned and neglected children in Alabama.

The grant to Alabama Court Appointed Special Advocates, or CASA Network Inc., will provide trained, caring volunteers to advocate for a child's best interests in court proceedings.

The advocates work with judges, attorneys and social workers to ensure the child receives appropriate care and support while in foster care.

"No child should ever be unsafe at home, but when those situations unfortunately occur and the child enters the foster care system, they need a caring person to advocate for their best interests," Ivey said.

"I commend the Alabama CASA Network for serving and supporting children in need."

The advocates conduct independent, objective investigations into the life of the child and interview adults and those involved with the case.

That information, along with legal, medical and psychological records, provides the means to make recommendations to the court until the child can be placed in a safe, permanent home.

The nonprofit organization serves 34 counties: Autauga, Baldwin, Calhoun, Chambers, Chilton, Coffee, Colbert, Cullman, Dale, Dallas, DeKalb, Elmore, Escambia, Etowah, Geneva, Henry, Houston, Jackson, Jefferson, Lauderdale, Lee, Limestone, Madison, Marshall, Mobile, Montgomery, Morgan, Randolph, Russell, St. Clair, Talladega, Tallapoosa, Tuscaloosa and Walker.

CONTRIBUTED

The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs is administering the grant from funds made available by the U.S. Department of Justice.

"ADECA joins Gov. Ivey in commending the Alabama CASA Network and supporting their efforts to ensure that children receive advocacy and other important support services during very difficult circumstances," ADECA Director Kenneth Boswell said.

Along with grants, many nonprofit agencies rely on private donations to ensure that their services remain readily available throughout the year.

PREP FOOTBALL

Six local teams preparing for road matchups Friday

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

Nearly all of our local teams now have a pair of games under their belt this season and are starting to work out some of their strengths and weaknesses. Most of them will be forced to travel this week to face another test in an unfriendly environment. Hanceville, West Point, Good Hope, Holly Pond, Vinemont and Fairview will all be on the road Friday night and all but one of them will be kicking off region play.

(1-1) Hanceville (3A Region 5) at (0-2) JB Pennington (3A Region 5)
After a thrilling win in week one and a tough loss in week two, the Hanceville Bulldogs are 1-1 and looking to get back in the win column this week when they head to Blountsville. The Tigers are coming off a pair of road losses to Jacksonville and Susan Moore so this home opener will be a critical one for them to start turning this season around.

Hanceville's offense was kept out of the end zone against Fairview last week, with the Bulldogs only score coming on a 74-yard kick return by Brodie Malcom. JB Pennington's offense was shutout last week as well, and the Tigers will be just as anxious to turn things around. Hanceville will have a chance to start region play 1-0 if it can bounce back offensively and continue to improve on the defensive side of the ball.

(1-1) West Point (5A Region 7) at (1-0) Hamilton (5A Region 7)
The Warriors kicked things off two weeks ago with a big win at Fairview but dropped a very tough matchup at Arab last week. West Point held a 35-14 lead in the third quarter but 35 unanswered points from the Knights led to a dramatic comeback and a heartbreaking loss for the Warriors. They're now 1-1 after two games but have a chance to start region play 1-0 when they head out for their third straight road game.

The Warriors offense was explosive for most of the game Friday, led by quarterback Will Cochran who racked up five total touchdowns in the first three quarters, three through the air and two on the ground. Despite a fast start, West Point couldn't maintain that production for four quarters and couldn't keep pace with the Knights' comeback effort. The Warriors defense will have to regroup and respond this week to get back on the winning side of things and start region play on the right foot.

(2-0) Good Hope (4A Region 5) at (0-2) Cordova (4A Region 5)
As the only two-win team in Cullman County, the Good Hope Raiders are riding high after toppling Carbon Hill and Priceville to start the season with region play beginning Friday night. Cordova is coming off a pair of losses to Hamilton and Dora and will be anxious to get collect its first win and knock off the Raiders. Good Hope's defense was dominant in their week one win over Carbon Hill and in week two, the Raiders offense tacked on 41 points to hold off Priceville.

Expectations are high for Good Hope this fall and starting region play 1-0 will be a big step towards reaching those playoff aspirations.

The running game was close to unstoppable for the Raiders a season ago and the offense has gotten off to a good start once again with Tanner Malin and Colton Bagwell running things in the backfield. If the Raiders defense can continue to play well and the ground game remains effective, Good Hope has a good chance to start region play with a win.

(0-2) Holly Pond (3A Region 5) at (1-0) Midfield (3A Region 5)
The Broncos have started things off with a pair of tough losses to New Hope and Ider but they have a chance to start region play with a win this week. The Patriots kicked their season off last week with a 22-0 win at Tarrant and defeated Holly Pond 36-30 a season ago.

The Broncos offense was held scoreless against Ider last week, with their only points coming a safety in the opening quarter. The running game is always the focus for Holly Pond's offense and quarterback Kyler Chaney and his offensive line will have another tough test in front of them Friday night. If the Broncos can bounce back and settle in offensively and defensively, they'll have a chance to get back in the win column and start region play with a road victory.

(1-0) Vinemont (3A Region 5) at (2-0) Westbrook Christian (2A Region 6)
The Vinemont Eagles are off to an exciting start to the season after a big win at Falkville last week but now, they'll have an even tougher road test to take on this Friday. The Eagles will travel to play Westbrook Christian and the Warriors are coming off a pair of big wins, giving them a 2-0 start to the season.

Vinemont's season opening victory came in large part due to a phenomenal rushing performance from Eagles running back Dallin Dinkle. Dinkle racked up 267 yards and four touchdowns in the win and if he can provide half of that again this week, it'll be another great showing for the senior. With region play looming next week, this Friday's trip to Rainbow City will be another great chance for Vinemont to establish its identity for the season.

(1-1) Fairview (4A Region 7) at (1-1) D.A.R (4A Region 7)
After falling to West Point in the season opener, the Fairview Aggies bounced back with a 41-6 win at Hanceville last week to move their record to 1-1. However, the Aggies will be away from home once again this week when they travel to face region foe D.A.R. The Patriots are 1-1 on the season as well and are coming off a 49-12 thrashing of Douglas.

Fairview fell to D.A.R 52-15 last season so the Aggies will be ready to see the Patriots again with a chance for revenge. Fairview collected nearly 200 yards on the ground against the Bulldogs last week and quarterback Parker Martin tossed a pair of touchdown passes. The Fairview defense also pitched a shutout with Hanceville's only points coming on special teams. If the Aggies can duplicate a balanced performance on offense and stingy defense, they'll have a great shot to start region play with a win.

Alabama coaching staff selects six players of the week following Tide's win over Duke

Two selections on offense, three on defense and one on special teams

UA Athletics
Contributor

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. – The Alabama coaching staff selected six players of the week following the Crimson Tide's 42-3 win over Duke in the 2019 Chick-fil-A Kickoff Game last Saturday in Atlanta, Ga.

Jerry Jeudy and Tua Tagovailoa on offense; DJ Dale, Anfernee Jennings and Xavier McKinney on defense; and Henry Ruggs III on special teams all earned the recognition from the coaching staff for their standout performances against the Blue Devils.

OFFENSE
Jerry Jeudy
• Paced all Alabama wideouts with 10 catches for 137 yards with one score
• The 10 receptions were a career-high total for the junior and marked the first 10-catch performance by a Crimson Tide receiver since ArDarius Stewart had 10 catches against Auburn on Nov. 26, 2016.
• The touchdown reception moved Jeudy into a tie for fourth place on the Alabama career list for touchdown catches where he is joined by Henry Ruggs III and DJ Hall (2004-07).

Tua Tagovailoa
• Accounted for 351 yards of total offense with 336 passing and 15 on the ground
• He finished 26-of-31 for 336 yards and four scores, averaging 12.9 yards per completion.
• Tagovailoa completed a pass to nine different receivers, including five wideouts, two tight ends and two running backs.

DEFENSE
DJ Dale
• Earned his first career start as a true freshman, finishing with three tackles including half a tackle for loss.
• Made an impact along a Tide defensive front that allowed just 107 rushing yards on 32 carries.

Anfernee Jennings
• Tied for second on the Crimson Tide defense with six stops against the Blue Devils
• Provided consistent pressure off the edge and helped the Alabama defense limit Duke to only 97 yards through the air as part of a 12-for-22 effort with two interceptions by Tide defensive backs.

Xavier McKinney
• Led all Alabama defenders with eight tackles from his starting safety spot
• The eight stops were a new career-high mark for the junior, passing his previous high of seven which he had accomplished on three occasions, most recently against Clemson in the 2019 College Football Playoff National Championship Game.
• Directed a Tide defense that forced three turnovers and limited Duke to only 204 yards of total offense

SPECIAL TEAMS
Henry Ruggs III
• Started at kick returner for the Crimson Tide, totaling 22 yards on his return to begin the day's game

Cullman Planning Commission backs off new subdivision amid problems with plan, protests from neighbors

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – On Tuesday evening, the City of Cullman Planning Commission got an earful from residents of the Fox Meadow and Carroll Acres subdivisions who live on lots adjoining the planned Meadowbrook subdivision in southeast Cullman.

Four neighbors came forward with concerns about the proposed project, including:

- Dust and dirt from development activities
- Smoke from debris fires
- Increased traffic in an area that already has three subdivision entrances in close proximity
- Privacy and potential property value loss due to destruction of woodlands behind houses and the lack of a buffer between the neighborhoods
- The possible population impact of a new subdivision in that area on Cullman City Schools

The biggest issue, though, was a question about stormwater drainage from the site. In addition to protests made by residents, the developer's plans themselves indicated that water drainage rates from the site will be higher post-development than before development. Commission Chairman Mike Voss said that this was the first time in his tenure that he had been asked to approve a plan with higher post-development drainage rates, and that the City's policy is to require drainage rates to decrease with development.

City Engineer Erica York answered a question about maintenance of drainage areas in the plan, saying that the homeowner's association (HOA) would be responsible. No one, though, could say if the developer's plan included a HOA. In the end, the commission decided that a high likelihood existed that the City would end up being stuck with the maintenance work and cost.

With other questions still hanging in the air, the pre- versus post-development drainage issue was enough for the commission to deny the subdivision request, though it did invite the developer to submit a revised plan at itss next meeting.

New hotel

The commission also approved a site plan for a new Fairfield Inn and Suites hotel on Hayes Drive Northwest, contingent on the removal of a lot line through the site, that was added some time back while the current project was on hold.

The City of Cullman Planning Commission will meet next Oct. 7, 2019 at 5:30 p.m. in the Cullman City Hall auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

FAIRVIEW, Ala. – The Fairview Town Council had a light agenda for its monthly meeting, held Tuesday evening instead of the usual Monday, due to the Labor Day holiday. While there were not many items to discuss, the public comments portion of the meeting was heavy.

Dr. Josiah Daily, assistant fire chief of the Fairview Volunteer Fire Department, who owns both the Fairview Superette and The Hutch Restaurant, addressed the council, requesting to have his properties de-annexed from the Town of Fairview.

"Y'all have done nothing to help businesses grow in this community," he said.

Daily also cited personal attacks and a malpractice accusation he said Mayor Keith Henry made against him at last month's council meeting. From his perspective as assistant fire chief, Daily addressed concerns the council had from previous discussions. He then addressed malpractice accusations he said Henry made against him. (Background: www.facebook.com/CullmanTribune/videos/400472020823977/)

"If I remember correctly, Mr. Mayor, you were the one that actually said you witnessed all these events about the malpractice you accused us of providing. As medical director for the fire department, that goes against me personally and my personal medical license in the State of Alabama for that. We do not carry NARCAN (a narcotic which can treat narcotic overdoses) on the trucks. NARCAN would not have worked (with) what this patient had done. We were not the ones to allow the patient to sign the refusal-and-leave, that was Cullman EMS. I have here the run report that was documented. I was also on the phone with members of the fire department who were on scene during that time."

Daily continued, "We took care of the patient to the best of our ability and within state protocol we were allowed to take care of this patient. The malpractice accusations that you did were completely false."

He added, "You're making accusations of stuff that you knew nothing about."

Councilman Charles Banister, speaking to the last meeting's discussion surrounding concerns about the bus parked behind Fairview Fire Station 1, located along Alabama Highway 69, which the council said has been the subject of many complaints from town residents, said of the Fairview VFD's finances, "What we're saying is, y'all probably operate off more money than we are, I don't know, but you're operating off $40,000, a little here and there can go into that building."

The bus is occupied by a volunteer fireman who resides at the department. There are living quarters inside the fire station, but Fire Chief Doug Williams has said they're being used for storing medical records and the showers need to be pulled out and redone.

Daily responded, "You realize that $40,000 out of our operating budget is also for paying for all of our utilities. We have to pay for all of the fuel for the vehicles, we have to pay for maintenance on those vehicles, we also have to pay for certifications done for all those vehicles and to maintain the certifications for all those vehicles. All of that has to be done with that $40,000 operating budget."

Daily asked if a new lease contract will be signed between the fire department and the Town for Fire Station 1. Henry said that he will consult an attorney.

Henry also said the council will consult with an attorney on Daily's de-annexation requests.

The council welcomed another guest, Mike Patton, who approached the council to discuss his plans for a drive-through restaurant in Fairview. Patton said he will be renting the property on the corner of Welcome Road and Wesley Avenue. He said the entrance to the drive through would be on Welcome Road and the exit on Wesley Avenue.

"I just wanted to introduce myself to everyone this evening, and share my business plan," Patton. "We want to bring a business called Taco Granero to Fairview where it's a drive-through option for the people of the community, where we're going to offer fast, affordable food options and we know a lot of people enjoy Mexican food and so we just want to bring that to Fairview."

No action was taken by the council.

The Fairview Town Council meets on the first Monday of each month at 6 p.m. at Fairview Town Hall. The public is welcome.

Holly Pond talks drainage, recording keeping, town website

Maggie Darnell
maggie@cullmantribune.com

HOLLY POND, Ala. – The Holly Pond Town Council had a light agenda for its monthly meeting Monday night. Mayor Bill Oliver addressed a water drainage issue at the Holly Pond Senior Center.

Oliver said he wants a concrete specialist's input, but one suggestion was the installation of a grate, which would cost an estimated $4,000.

Oliver said he has not received an official estimate for the job, but he wanted to bring it to the table for consideration in the event an estimate was given. No action was taken.

In other business, the council discussed record keeping for any money the Town of Holly Pond is set to receive for its transportation plan projects, funded by new revenue from Gov. Kay Ivey's Rebuild Alabama Act, passed by the Alabama Legislature this year.

Every year, counties and municipalities will be required to adopt a plan that clearly outlines how state transportation money from the new 10-cent fuel tax increase revenue will be spent.

Oliver said he wants to be open about how the Town spends the funds, so he suggested the implementation of a public records request system, so if a citizen wants to see the records, he or she can put in a request with the Town and will receive the records.

No action was taken on this item.

The council also discussed again the creation of a Town website for visitors and citizens.

Oliver said he spoke with Berlin Mayor Patrick Bates about advice for building the website and said he's received a recommendation for someone who has done work for other elected official offices in the County. Oliver said once the website is built, someone will need to maintain it. No action was taken.

The Holly Pond Town Council meets on the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Guy Hunt Library and Museum. The public is welcome to attend.

Cullman First UMC launches 'Fusion' service

Johnny Kampis
Contributor

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman First United Methodist Church recently began offering a new and unique service called Fusion that blends traditional worship liturgy with classical and modern church music. This service that fuses together contemporary and traditional worship is held at 8:30 a.m. in the church sanctuary and is designed to reach more people and change lives by the grace of God.

Fusion makes tasteful usage of digital media in the sanctuary, using a screen in the choir loft to project messages during the service.

Rather than being led by the choir, the congregation is led by a mix of traditional church instruments such as the piano and more contemporary instruments like the guitar. Each service features both traditional songs out of the hymnal and songs one might hear today on a contemporary Christian radio station.

Senior Pastor Rev. Todd Henderson said the service has been a success during its soft launch, helping boost church attendance.

"Everyone that has attended has said they like it, young and old, traditional or contemporary background," Henderson said. "It's a broader diversity of attendees. Some of it's the hour. Some of it's the style."

Cullman First UMC now offers four worship services on Sundays, which includes Fusion at 8:30 a.m. and three services at 10:30 a.m. – traditional (Traditions), contemporary (Elevate) and a Hispanic led ministry. Small-group sessions are held at 9:30 a.m.

ADPH seeks input on maternal and child health care needs

Tammie R. Yeldell
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – The Alabama Department of Public Health (ADPH) is asking for input from Alabamians to assess the health needs of women of childbearing age, infants, children and youth in the state. One way the public can assist is by participating in anonymous online surveys that are to be completed by families, youth and health care providers.

Other ways ADPH is collecting information are through key informant interviews and focus groups hosted around the state by the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

The purpose of collecting this data is to ensure that public funds are being used wisely and to meet the requirements of the federal Title V Maternal and Child Health Services Block Grant Program.

State Health Officer Dr. Scott Harris said, "We need women and families caring for children to complete the survey of families; we need all healthcare providers to complete the survey for providers; and we need youth to complete the youth surveys.

"The valuable information that you provide will assist the Title V program in serving Alabama's mothers, children, including children with special needs, and their families."

The anonymous surveys that take about 15 minutes to complete can be accessed online at:

- www.ADPHfamilysurvey.com
- www.ADPHproviderssurvey.com
- www.ADPHyouthsurvey.com

Survey findings will be used to identify priority health issues, assist with strategic planning, and outline the allocation of resources as these areas relate to the health and well-being of the maternal and child health population.

A needs assessment is conducted every five years.

For more information, contact Tammie R. Yeldell, M.P.H., director, Maternal and Child Health Epidemiology Branch, Bureau of Family Health Services, ADPH at 334-206-5553 or mch@adph.state.al.us.

Board of Trustees election
Three positions on the co-op Board of Trustees are up for election. Board member Sheila Sizemore is running against Kathy Scruggs in District 2. James Fields (District 4) and Daryl Calvert (District 6) are running unopposed.

Candidate profiles
DISTRICT 2 — Sheila Sizemore has worked as vice president and chief accounting officer at Peoples Bank of Alabama for the past 16 years. She is responsible for regulatory reporting and the daily accounting functions of the bank. Sizemore graduated from Vinemont High School, earned her associate degree from Wallace State and her bachelor's degree from Athens State. She also earned a graduate degree from the Louisiana State University School of Banking. She has been in the Kiwanis Club for 20 years, is an active member at Seventh Street Baptist Church and is a member of the Cullman Women Sing group.

Sizemore has successfully completed the curriculum of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association to become a Credentialed Cooperative Director.

"I have learned so much about the electric energy industry and enjoy working together with the other board members to strengthen the co-op," Sizemore said. "I want to continue the work of making Cullman Electric the best electric cooperative in the state."

DISTRICT 2 — Kathy Scruggs is a retired educator, having worked for 25 years as a teacher in Cullman. Today, she and her husband, Steve, are co-owners of A-1 Pool Service.

Scruggs graduated from Cullman High School, earned her bachelor's degree in education from UA-Huntsville, and earned her master's degree from UAB.

She is an active member of Cullman Church of Christ, and has previously served on the board of the Cullman Community Concert Association.

Scruggs said her experience as a teacher and small business owner have taught her valuable lessons in managing finances and building relationships with people.

"My entire life I have been taught that a life of service is a life worthwhile," she said.

"I want to serve the people of my community, my friends and neighbors anyway I can. I would love to have this opportunity on the co-op board of trustees to do just that."

DISTRICT 4 — James Fields is a graduate of Hanceville High School. He continued his education at Jacksonville State University where he earned a B.S. degree in Law Enforcement and Sociology. During his career with the Department of Industrial Relations, Fields worked as the assistant administrator and North Alabama supervisor in the department's Fraud Unit.

Fields has successfully completed the curriculum of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association to become a Credentialed Cooperative Director, and has gone further, earning his NRECA Director Gold Credential as well.

With the business knowledge he has gained through the years and his concern for the community, Fields believes he brings strong leadership qualities to the Cullman EC Board of Trustees.

"I hope to continue the contributions I have made to Cullman Electric Cooperative and its members during my years on the board," said Fields.

DISTRICT 6 — Daryl Calvert retired from Wal-Mart Fleet Maintenance as shop supervisor after more than 20 years of service. Today, he is owner and operator of a small lawn care business, DC Lawn. Graduating from Cold Springs High School in 1974, Calvert worked as a diesel mechanic for 27 years and farmed for 10 years.

He feels these experiences allowed him to develop good people skills and a strong work ethic. Calvert enjoys lawn work, hunting, fishing and woodworking. In addition, he likes to spend time with his children and grandchildren. Calvert has successfully completed the curriculum of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association to become a Credentialed Cooperative Director.

"I would appreciate the opportunity to continue serving my community on the Cullman Electric Cooperative Board of Trustees," said Calvert.

Chase (from Front)

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Two men led the Hanceville Police Department and Cullman County Sheriff's Office on a multi-mile chase Sunday afternoon. The chase ended when the suspects crashed their truck into a CCSO deputy's vehicle. The deputy was not injured.

Douglas Lowery, Jr., 24, of Crane Hill and Colton Gilley, 22, of Cullman were arrested on County Road 702 near Shaw's Trailer Park (now Harmony Mobile Home Park) in Phelan.

Lowery, Jr. was charged with third-degree burglary and possession of drug paraphernalia. Gilley is facing the same charges, along with a charge of attempting to elude.

The pursuit stemmed from an alleged burglary in the 1000 block of Section Line Road in Hanceville, according to Hanceville Police Chief Bob Long.

"We received a call that there was a robbery in progress," said Long.

"They (the caller) observed someone stealing a 3-gallon air compressor with a hose (worth approximately $160) and a Black and Decker drill (worth approximately $50). The guy who called it in actually followed them (the suspects) and gave dispatch their position.

"When the police got there, he got out of their way and the officer initiated a traffic stop."

The suspects fled in their truck, and the HPD was joined in the pursuit by the CCSO.

He continued, "There was a high-speed pursuit that ran all the way up toward Shaw's Trailer Park, over in the Phelan area. The driver of the (truck) crashed into a county deputy's vehicle, causing substantial damage to it."

Long said Gilley was the driver and Lowery, Jr. was his passenger. The men's accounts of what happened did not match.

"Gilley said that he saw Douglas throw a red air compressor into the bed of the truck.

"Lowery stated that Colton Gilley told him to get the air compressor and put it in the back of the truck," said Long.

"While conducting inventory, officers found a .22 caliber revolver, but it was not functional, and a syringe used for narcotics.

"Neither party claimed the gun or the syringe," he said.

Both men remain in the Cullman County Detention Center.

When this sitcom launched in 2015, even people who liked this story of a 40-ish editor (Sutton Foster) struggling to survive in a youth-obsessed New York publishing world wondered how long the show could sustain its premise. Well, the answer turns out to be: indefinitely. Viewership for Season 6 — which wraps tonight — has gone up, especially in key groups, so TV Land has re-upped the comedy for a seventh season. Hilary Duff, Miriam Shor, Peter Hermann and Debi Mazar also star.

Kary Brittingham stars in "The Real Housewives of Dallas" on Bravo.

sent a note directly to that person.

"I didn't accuse them of stealing them; the sheriff's office suggested I not accuse them, but to go ahead and tell them that those particular ticket numbers would not be honored at the Fair."

The All-in-One Passes in question are numbered 926 through 950. Twelve of the tickets were advertised for sale.

- The ticket book is believed to have been removed from a shop in Cullman where they were printed.

As of Monday afternoon, the seller had not been accused of stealing the book, and he himself said in a social media conversation with one of his customers and with a prospective customer that he had found the passes, though a statement from one witness contradicts that claim.

Lindy Nicole Bennefield contacted The Tribune Monday afternoon.

She purchased six of the passes from the seller, then began seeing social media posts indicating a problem. Bennefield shared an image from the conversation thread she and the seller had online when she asked if her passes were valid or stolen.

The seller replied (unedited): "No the tickets were never stolen I (f*n) found them while walking down the railroad tracks I figured it would be away to make money to get my jeep outta impound I put it on my kids"

The seller agreed to refund Bennefield's money "if they don't work."

In a comment on The Tribune's online story Monday night, a separate would-be customer posted a photo of a conversation thread from shortly after midnight on the morning of Aug. 29, in which the seller wrote (unedited), "I found them walkin down the railroad tracks like 20 mins ago."

The Tribune also spoke with Melissa Mosteller, who purchased four passes, numbers 926 through 929. According to her statement, the seller made the same claim about needing money to get his vehicle out of impound, but he contradicted his claim about finding the passes.

Said Mosteller, "I responded to his ad. You know, he said he was selling them for $15 apiece.

"When I questioned that, he told me he had a buddy that worked for the fair, and the buddy had given them to him.

"But then his Jeep had been impounded, and he needed cash to get his vehicle out more so than he needed fair passes, so this was just a way for him to make a little extra money."

According to Mosteller, the seller told her he had only received 12 passes from his friend. She said he offered to refund her money if the passes were no good.

Since sales have not begun, if you have an All-in-One Pass, it is not valid. Should you receive one at any time with a number from 926 to 950, it will also not be valid.

Those planning to go to the Fair are encouraged to purchase their tickets or passes at the Fair Office or Peoples Bank, starting Sept. 10.

Litterbugs, beware: new law means higher fines, other penalties

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Litter in Alabama and you could face much harsher penalties now due to a new litter law passed earlier this year by the Alabama Legislature. The new law went into effect Sept. 1, bringing with it higher fines, community service and even possible jail time.

Littering had been a Class C misdemeanor, but the new law makes it a Class B misdemeanor. Introduced as HB500 by Rep. Margie Wilcox, R-Mobile, the law targets littering from vehicles and watercraft.

The first littering offense carries a fine of $500, doubling the previous amount. A second offense could result in fines up to $3,000, up to six months in jail and up to 100 hours of community service picking up litter.

The bill states:

"Related to littering to amend Sections 13A-7-29, 23-5-6, 32-5-76, 32-5A-60, and 33610, Code of Alabama 1975, to provide additional penalties for littering of cigarettes, cigars, containers of urine, restaurant food containers, and other specified waste items; to include within the enhanced penalties increased fines and mandatory community service requirements when littering is committed from a motor vehicle...."

The bill also adds that there will be no defense for those who did not intend to litter or are unaware of the act.

Hanceville Police Chief Bob Long said litter laws have been on the books in Alabama for years and if his officers see someone littering, they will pull them over.

"We pick up tons of litter up and down the highway all the time," said Long. "One of the worst problems we have is stuff falling off the log trucks.

"From LP to City Hall, they pick up 5-gallon buckets of their tickets all summer and all year long."

Long pointed out that a private company owns the log trucks, not LP (Louisiana-Pacific Corporation).

Rep. Corey Harbison, R-Good Hope shared with The Tribune, "Litter is one thing I despise.

"I have been to a lot of states and Alabama has some of the most littered roads in the country.

"It's a shame that people don't have any more pride in their community than to purposely throw garbage out on the roads and waterways.

"I'm usually for smaller government with less interference in to our daily life, but I'm for passing whatever it takes to help combat our growing litter problem.

"I am amazed at the people who will throw trash out the window or go and dump a load of garbage on a rural road and not think twice about it.

"A lot of tax dollars are spent every year cleaning up people's mess. This is money that could be going for better roads, parks, schools, etc.

When I was the mayor of Good Hope, the employees would aggravate me and say my slogan is 'Trash and grass.' I was obsessed with having nice clean streets. I would encourage anyone that doesn't think we have a litter problem to go clean up trash for a mile.

"Then go back a week later and see just how much garbage has been thrown out in a week's time.

"I bet most people would be shocked if they really pay attention. Let's work together and keep our roads and waterways clean."

NASA selects proposals to advance understanding of space weather

maggie@cullmantribune.com

NASA has selected three proposals for concept studies of missions that could help us better understand the dynamic space weather system driven by the Sun that manifests near Earth. The proposals examine what drives different parts of that system and ultimately could help us predict and mitigate its effects on spacecraft and astronauts, as NASA's Artemis program looks to send the first woman and the next man to the Moon by 2024.

"NASA's research to understand the space we travel through relies on exploring key details about a vast system from the Sun, to Earth, to the edges of the solar system," said Peg Luce, deputy director for heliophysics in the Science Mission Directorate at NASA Headquarters in Washington. "Each of these proposals could add a significant tool from a unique vantage point to help us understand that system."

Each of these Heliophysics Mission of Opportunity proposals will receive $400,000 to conduct a nine-month mission concept study. After the study period, NASA will choose one proposal to go forward to launch. Each potential mission has a separate launch opportunity and time frame.

The proposals were selected based on potential science value and feasibility of development plans. The total cost for the mission ultimately chosen will be capped at $55 million and is funded by NASA's Heliophysics Explorers' program.

The selected proposals are:

Extreme Ultraviolet High-Throughput Spectroscopic Telescope (EUVST) Epsilon Mission

EUVST would aim to provide an answer to a fundamental question in solar physics: How does the interplay of solar material – a hot plasma – and magnetic fields drive solar activity and eruptions, such as solar flares and coronal mass ejections? The mission would launch with the Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency's Solar-C mission, planned for 2025. EUVST would observe simultaneously, for the first time and over a wide range of the lower solar atmosphere, how magnetic fields and plasma interact. Those observations could help us learn more about how the two systems contribute to the dynamic atmosphere around the Sun. The principal investigator for EUVST is Clarence Korendyke at the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory in Washington.

Aeronomy at Earth: Tools for Heliophysics Exploration and Research (AETHER)

AETHER would explore the ionosphere-thermosphere system and its response to geomagnetic storms. From a position aboard the International Space Station, it could gather observations of the ionosphere – the area of our atmosphere that overlaps with the lower regions of space. These observations would be complemented by ground observations of electrons in the same region. The mission would provide information on how the neutral, terrestrial-weather-driven thermosphere interacts with the ionosphere's charged particles. Understanding how the neutral atmosphere affects the ions and vice versa is key to better understanding the complex space weather system surrounding our planet, which affects spacecraft and astronauts flying through it. The launch of AETHER would be no later than 2024. The principal investigator for AETHER is James Clemmons at the University of New Hampshire in Durham.

Electrojet Zeeman Imaging Explorer (EZIE)

EZIE would focus on an electric current known as the auroral electrojet, which circles through the atmosphere around 60 to 90 miles above Earth, near the poles. Using three SmallSats to measure magnetic fields, EZIE would observe the structure of electrojets and explore what causes them and how they evolve. Electrojets are part of a larger space weather system that can lead to oscillations in Earth's magnetic fields, creating geomagnetic storms that can interfere with spacecraft and – at their most intense – utility grids on the ground. Knowing how electrojets form and grow could contribute to ultimately predicting such storms. EZIE would launch as part of the agency's CubeSat Launch Initiative. EZIE also would launch no later than 2024. The principal investigator for EZIE is Jeng-Hwa Yee at the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory in Laurel, Maryland.
