Ben South unveils Alabama-inspired art for upcoming exhibit

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – On Wednesday, artist and Tribune contributor Ben South stopped by O.F. Richter and Sons paint store in downtown Cullman to display six recent pieces featuring Alabama flowers painted in color palettes chosen by the store's in-house color expert Maria Richter Schultz. She also helped South choose a specific color and hue to represent each of Alabama's 67 counties as part of his Alabama 200 Bicentennial project to spotlight the local flavor of each county, and the artist presented Schultz an Alabama map with each county marked with the color she chose.

The six pieces, which South said were inspired by the works of Georgia O'Keeffe and Kenneth Noland, will be heading to Birmingham, along with paintings by Cullman artist Susan Oliver, for a joint fall exhibit at Mountain Brook's Grand Bohemian Hotel.

South shared: "Before the new paintings from my 'Alabama Garden Colors' series leave my studio in Cullman and head to the Grand Bohemian Hotel Art Gallery in Mountain Brook, I wanted to publicly express my deep and sincere gratitude to Maria Richter Schultz, who is the best color consultant in America. I'm not exaggerating when I say this. I've been an artist in top galleries in Atlanta, Birmingham, Nashville, Seaside for 40 years. Collectors buy my paintings for what one art critic called my "bodacious use of color." I love color, especially the sun-infused colors found in Alabama gardens and farmers' markets. I've never met a color I didn't like.

"However, when I want to explore the intricate nuances of colors and hues and shadings, I defer to Maria Richter Schultz. She is 'The Contessa of Colors.' Cullman has a lot of talent and we had that today in our gathering. Tony Glover, who was with us and is the Cullman County coordinator of the Alabama Cooperative Extension System, is perhaps 'the best plantsman' in Alabama.

"I wanted Tony Glover and Rachel Peinhardt Dawsey of the North Alabama Agriplex to be with me today because they have been so helpful in my Bicentennial project, 'THE 67-COUNTY, ALABAMA GARDEN PARTY' which runs in The Cullman Tribune. What I presented to Maria today was a map of Alabama where she helped me identify a unique plant color for each county. Think Cullman County strawberry, Montgomery County camellia, Mobile County azalea and 64 others.

"The 'Alabama Garden Color' paintings will first be unveiled to the public with an opening reception on Friday, Oct. 4, from 5-7 p.m. at the Grand Bohemian Hotel in Mountain Brook. Please know all of Cullman is invited. This is a two-person show and the other artist is also from Cullman: Susan Oliver, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Oliver. Susan and I have been creating art for decades, but we still create new works with new perspectives, hence the show title, 'EVERWONDERLAND.'"

Fairview council meeting raises question of property de-annexation, how it could happen

Maggie Darnell, W.C. Mann
Tribune Staff

FAIRVIEW, Ala. – On Tuesday evening Dr. Josiah Daily, assistant fire chief of the Fairview Volunteer Fire Department, who owns both the Fairview Quick Stop and The Hutch Restaurant, addressed the Fairview Town Council, requesting to have his properties de-annexed from the Town of Fairview.

"Y'all have done nothing to help businesses grow in this community," he said.

Daily also cited personal attacks and a malpractice accusation he said Mayor Keith Henry made against him at August's month's council meeting.

(Background: www.facebook.com/CullmanTribune/videos/400472020823977/)

Can de-annexation happen?

The short answer is "yes," but the longer answer begins with "sometimes."

Just within the last few years, the city of Memphis, Tennessee successfully de-annexed certain Research with postmenopausal women found a 57.8 percent rate of metabolic syndrome among women presenting vitamin D insufficiency or deficiency. The results of the study were published in the journal Maturitas. A previous study analyzed the association between vitamin D deficiency and breast cancer in postmenopausal women. Levels of vitamin D were sufficient in 33.9 percent of the patients and insufficient or deficient in 66.1 percent. A higher proportion of those with vitamin D insufficiency or deficiency had high-grade tumors or metastatic disease.

Could omega-6 fatty acids protect you against premature death? The answer is yes, according to a recent study published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition. While protecting against death, omega-6 fatty acids also keep cardiovascular diseases at bay.

Opioids are not among the most effective – or longest lasting – options available for relief from acute dental pain, a recent examination of the results from more than 460 published studies has found. Ibuprofen and other nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) alone or in combination with acetaminophen are better at easing dental pain, according to the new research. The study examining relief of acute pain in dentistry – recently featured on the cover of The Journal of the American Dental Association – evaluated the safety and efficacy of dozens of pain-relief options. Each day, more than 115 Americans die as a result of an opioid overdose, according to the National Institutes of Health. The research found that, for adults, a combination of 400 milligrams of ibuprofen and 1,000 milligrams of acetaminophen was superior to any opioid-containing medications studied. The study also found that opioids or drug combinations that included opioids accounted for the most adverse side effects – including drowsiness, respiratory depression, nausea/vomiting and constipation – in both children and adults.

CULLMAN, Ala. – After many years in Paris, France, Vincent and Brooke Desnoës decided the time had come for a move to her hometown of Cullman. A 1986 graduate of Cullman High School, Brooke brought with her countless years of experience and international accomplishments from the art of ballet.

She danced mostly in Birmingham during her school years.

"I went to college and danced with the Alabama Ballet and the Gainesville Ballet. Then I went off to Scottish Ballet," she explained. "Afterwards I met my husband, who is French, and we just stayed in Europe."

The couple decided to leave Europe, moving back to the United States in 2018.

Things were changing in Europe and we were just ready for a change," she said.

Brooke had a job offer from the Wichita Ballet to help develop its company from the regional to the national level.

She was prepared to become its artistic director but had a few second thoughts.

She said, "I realized from visiting the community that it was a lot like Cullman. I just thought it was a bit of a shame to put so much work into a community that I didn't really have any ties to.

"They were super nice in Wichita but I got to thinking. I contacted Wallace (State Community College) and asked if they had ever thought of doing an advanced program, and they had.

"The second part of that would be opening a school in town to foster. Wallace would be the pre-professional section for kids, and the school here to get kids ready for the pre-professional program or to get kids ready to go straight into company life or summer programs."

Brooke recalled growing up in Cullman and the obstacles she had to entering the dance world. She said she has nurtured many relationships within the dance community and can now help other young dancers make connections to more opportunities.

"Very often you need a contact. Making that jump into the professional world was difficult and I thought it would be really nice to help spread the good news of dance and help those kids that are really talented make that connection," she said.

The dance industry has grown tremendously over the past few years with many more opportunities.

Brooke said, "When I was growing up, becoming a dancer was the only job opportunity that dance could give you.

"Now, it's teaching at every level, right up to the university level; it's writing, because there are so many dance magazines now and dance books.

"It's costume design, set design, outreach, because you have dance programs going into elementary schools, going into community centers.

"It's also health, because you've got dance fitness classes and dance medicine classes. You can go in many, many, many different areas with dance."

Brooke has also observed more dance companies forming as the audience has also grown.

She stressed, "Ballet is the base. Your Broadway dancers will have done a ballet class in the morning before they put on their character shoes and go on Broadway Your modern dancers will have done ballet class in the morning before they do contemporary dance.

"I had a good friend who was the director of the leading contemporary dance in New York.

"His dancers started at class every day at 10 a.m. with ballet. Ballet is the base, and if you have the strong base, you can go any way. Even gymnastics, a strong ballet base will help them."

She laughed, "In Paris, the rugby team even sent their sons to us. With that strong kind of coordination base, they knew they were going to be better rugby players. So we didn't have just dancers. It can help everyone."

The Brooke Desnoës Ballet Academy offers both group classes and individual coaching. She believes that learning is about having fun even in a disciplined environment.

She promised, "The old-fashioned images standing at the bar with the teacher with a stick and no one smiling, those days are gone.

"I'm a big believer that you catch more flies with honey than vinegar."

Brooke compares her approach to teaching dance to the Montessori approach in education. explaining, "If you layer it thin enough so that every day they have gotten better... 'Every day I have done this, and look what I can do now!'... It's just a different way of looking at it.

"Instead of 'This is so hard and I'm going to have to work so hard,' let's give it in thin layers and make it easy so they want to do better and better and do more."

Brooke met Vincent, who is French, in Maine after her senior year of college. He was teaching photography and she was teaching dance at an international summer camp for teenagers.

They chose to go back to Europe, where they lived for 25 years. According to Brooke, Vincent was the more enthusiastic one about the move to Cullman.

Brooke was the founder and artistic director at the Academie Americaine de Danse de Paris, the largest private school in Europe with more than 900 students.

She said, "We had a children's program, an adolescent program and pre-professional program. We were producing about 10 dancers a year who would either go straight into company or into universities, many of them on scholarship."

Vincent was born in France and had traveled throughout Europe extensively. After meeting Brooke, he said they moved to England and then to Paris. They moved to Washington, D.C. while he earned his Master of Arts in Literature at George Mason University. He also worked as a photographer for the university.

He was a photographer for the French Army when he was doing his national service in Germany.

He said, "What I had to develop was the artistic side over the years. It takes a lifetime."

He was a photographer in East Germany before the wall came down.

"I always said when I left the eastern side that it would never change. I think it was two years later everything changed. The wall came down and the USSR was dismantled and we looked at the world in a different way," said Vincent.

After a few years in England they moved back to Paris.

He said, "It made sense to go back to Paris. I was French so we moved. I wanted to go back to school so we went to Washington.

"She taught for the Washington School of Ballet and did some great work there. Me, I took the master's in literature which helped me with my photography because the more you know about culture, the better it is. Being a photographer is just being like a writer except you use images."

Vincent was the Paris correspondent for Wine Australia and Gourmet Australia.

"So anything to do with French food for the Australian magazine, that was me. It was fun- a lot of good meals, a good time with Brooke. She doesn't regret any of that," he laughed.

He did that for many years while teaching part-time. Brooke's school in Paris grew quickly and he joined her team working in publication.

He said, "I was a photographer for her, but sometimes I was doing other work, especially in the music world and always the dance world.

"I was a photographer, but my main job was working with Brooke for Brooke when she had that huge school over in Paris."

Vincent and Brooke have two daughters. Eglantine, 16, and Sidonie, 14, both attend Cullman High School. Their parents preferred to see them educated in the United States, which they say was a main factor in their decision to move to Cullman.

Vincent described his girls as "brilliant."

The family had visited Alabama throughout the years. Vincent and Brooke were married at Sacred Heart in 1993 and in Paris in 1992.

He said, "I married Brooke at the Catholic church in town. We would come every summer. Brooke was still attached to the town. She never thought because she moved to Paris that somehow, she had forgotten her links to the South in Alabama.

"She's quite proud of it, actually. When the kids became older, we always came back here.

"We always made sure they spent time with the grandmother and grandfather. We never felt completely disconnected from the South."

When asked about any troubles the family had in transitioning to Alabama, Vincent said, "They NEVER indicate when they turn! it drives me crazy. They turn left, they go right."

Vincent had a photography studio in Paris and is starting over here now. His studio is in the rear of the ballet school.

"I can do portrait, corporate, artistic. I can do anything. I've been doing it for 30-something years. You have to be flexible.

"If you ask me what I like to do, it's portrait, but not always the kind of portrait people will like. You have to be commercial on one side and a little more truthful with what you like."

Richard Avedon, Irving Penn, Robert Frank and Annie Leibovitz are among the photographers Vincent calls his "big heroes."

He laughed, "I always try to look at the best ones. I don't try to copy anyone but the best ones."

He added, "It's a passion."

He is very proud of Brooke, smiling, "What Brooke is doing as a dancer and as a teacher is opening the mind."

Both Vincent and Brooke are teaching at Wallace State Community College. Brooke is teaching ballet while Vincent will be teaching a DSLR photography course for Workforce Training Solutions.

The Brooke Desnoës Ballet Academy is located at 306 First Ave. SE in Cullman. The Academy is now accepting students, from children through high school ages. Reach the Academy at 256-338-6401.

De-annexation (from Front)

outlying neighborhoods, and Johnson City, Tennessee allowed a certain community to leave.

Kinston, North Carolina saw an upscale neighborhood representing $150,000 in annual tax revenues de-annex despite its best efforts to keep it in the city.

Just this year in Alabama, a bill to de-annex several small tracts from the Town of Owens Crossroads in Madison County passed the Legislature and was signed by Gov. Kay Ivey; the de-annexation officially took place Sept. 1.

So de-annexation can happen, but it is no easy feat.

Memphis basically went through the entire procedure twice for the one de-annexation it did, and the efforts in Kinston and Owens Crossroads succeeded through the outside intervention of the respective state governments.

The process can happen by two different means, neither of which is simple or quick, and neither of which usually involves a single citizen and a single official at odds with one another.

How can de-annexation take place?

De-annexation can be accomplished by the combined actions of a municipal council, probate judge and residents in the affected area; it can also happen via legislation.

From the April 2013 Alabama Municipal Journal:

Alabama law provides two (2) ways for a municipality to reduce its corporate limits or otherwise "de-annex" property. One method is by a legislative act by the Alabama Legislature. The other process, which involves the municipal council, is found in Section 11-42-200 through 213 of the Code of Alabama 1975.

If the council determines that the public health or public good requires the reduction of its corporate limits, Section 11-42-200, Code of Alabama 1975, requires the council to pass a resolution defining the proposed corporate limits.

Once the resolution is adopted, the mayor or council president must file with the probate judge a certified copy of the resolution, a plat or map defining the proposed corporate limits, and the names of all registered voters residing in the territory proposed to be excluded from the area of the proposed corporate limits. Section 11-42-201, Code of Alabama 1975.

If no one in the affected area objects to the reduction, the probate judge will order the corporate limits reduced. Section 11-42-202, Code of Alabama 1975.

If residents in the affected area show a reasonable cause as to why the reduction should not take place, the probate judge will order an election.

Cities or citizens seeking de-annexation give several reasons, including:

- on the part of cities, to reduce and consolidate the area over which municipal services and resources must be spread
- desire to annex into another adjoining municipality
- desire to relocate from a municipal school district into a county system
- desire to withdraw from responsibilities to a municipality due to lack of services--often utilities--from the municipality (the alleged reason in Fairview)
- desire simply to be free of municipal restrictions

At Tuesday's Fairview Town Council meeting, Henry told Daily that the council will consult with an attorney on his de-annexation request.

4 local squads gearing up to host week 3 matchups

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

There are just four local teams playing at home this week and they are spread far and wide. Meek is returning home to play South Lamar, Addison is hosting Winston County, Southeastern is travelling to Cold Springs and Cullman will play its home opener against Decatur. All of them except for Addison will be facing region opponents.

(1-1) Addison (2A Region 7) vs. (2-0) Winston County (2A Region 5)
The Bulldogs did not play their best game at Piedmont last week, turning the ball over seven times in a 28-16 loss. Addison lost a little more than just the game at Piedmont last week as well. Junior Logan Wilkins will be unavailable due to an injury and senior Luke Waldrep will miss time with an injury as well.

Winston County is coming off big wins over Meek and Hackleburg in which the Yellow Jackets won by a combined 48 points. Junior running back Austin Owens finished as an all-state player in 2018 and racked up 195 yards and three touchdowns in their win over Meek last week.

Owens now has seven touchdowns in just two games this season so containing him will be the key for Addison on the defensive side of the ball. Offensively, the Bulldogs will have to focus on taking care of the football if they want a chance to start region play with a win.

(1-1) Cold Springs (2A Region 5) vs. (1-1) Southeastern (2A Region 5)
After shutting out Meek on the road to start the season with a win, Cold Springs hit the road again last week but couldn't return home with another victory. The Berry Wildcats handled Cold Springs 43-15 to give the Eagles their first loss of the season.

The Cold Springs defense kicked the year off with a dominant performance in Arley but couldn't maintain that level of play in week two. Southeastern fell in its season opener against Appalachian 34-32 but responded in week two by thrashing Brindlee Mountain 49-0. Even in a loss, the Mustangs were able to put points on the board, so it'll be critical for both the Eagles offense and defense to bounce back this week and start to hit their stride now that region play is here.

(0-2) Meek (1A Region 6) vs. (1-0) South Lamar (1A Region 6)
The Tigers have gotten off to a bit of slow start in 2018, opening the season with a 25-0 loss to Cold Springs and a 38-18 loss at Winston County last week.

The Yellow Jackets racked up over 400 yards on the ground against Meek in week two and that's something that the Tigers will have to correct defensively now that region play has begun.

Quarterback Stuart Waldrep tossed a pair of touchdowns in the loss, but it wasn't enough to chip away at the Winston County lead. The ground game will have to become more effective for the Tigers this week if they want start region play by taking down the Stallions at home.

(0-2) Cullman (6A Region 7) vs. (0-2) Decatur (6A Region 7)
The Bearcats have started the season 0-2 but have fallen by a combined five points to a pair of strong playoff teams from a season ago. With region play starting this week, there is still a lot for Cullman to play for this season. The Red Raiders are 0-2 as well but have lost to Huntsville 45-14 and Austin 56-14 in their first two contests. Both teams are anxious to collect their first wins after slow starts and get region play going on the right foot.

Jaylen Hughey has been the biggest factor for the Bearcats on the ground so far, collecting 209 yards and a touchdown on 20 carries in the first two weeks and Isaiah Jones has been the favorite target on the outside.

Both quarterbacks Max Dueland and JT Blackwood have connected with Jones for touchdowns this season and Jake Dueland and Jayden Sullins have been targeted frequently as well. Cullman's defense has played well up to this point and if the offense can continue to settle in and find a rhythm, the Bearcats will have a great chance to start region play 1-0 on Friday.

Former Holly Pond standout named Huntingdon football team captain

Huntingdon College
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – Huntingdon head coach Mike Turk officially announced the football team captains on Tuesday.

Four seniors and one junior were selected by a vote of their teammates.

The 2019 captains are offensive lineman Reed Crosby, quarterback Michael Lambert, defensive linemen DeAnte' Griffith and Red Hinton and linebacker Drew Schlemmer.

"All five captains are guys who have been around our program and have made an impact on our program in one way or another," Turk said.

"On offense, Reed is entering his third year as a starter and Michael is entering his second season as a starter.

"On defense, we have one player (DeAnte') who has started and made plays for us since his freshman season and two guys (Red and Drew) who are not starters but have played and are tremendous leaders.

"It speaks to the character of this team that we chose guys who have different leadership styles, but whether they are on the field or off, they are viewed as guys their teammates can trust and count on."

Huntingdon opens the season at home on Saturday against Guilford College. Kickoff is set for 1 p.m.

7 p.m. on WBRC
Spin the Wheel

Executive producer Justin Timberlake is widely regarded as one of the nicest guys in show business, and this summer show — which ends Season 1 tonight with a two-hour finale — just bolsters that image, given that the contestants who get a crack at winning heaps of cash by spinning a giant wheel have something in common: They're all Good Samaritans of one kind or another being rewarded here for their good acts. Tonight's contestants are Yaya Genfi and Levi Ponce. Dax Shepard is host.

7 p.m. on TCM
Movie: Dr. No

TCM makes a relatively rare foray into the world of secret agent 007 with this first James Bond film, made in 1962, which kicks off a month-long Bond festival unfolding each Thursday night. This initial adventure finds Agent 007 (Sean Connery) in Jamaica trying to stop master fiend Dr. No (Joseph Wiseman) from sabotaging rocket launches. Ursula Andress also stars. Four other 1960s Bond outings, all with Connery, immediately follow: "From Russia With Love," "Goldfinger," "Thunderball" and "You Only Live Twice."

7:15 p.m. on WVTM
NFL Football

The Monsters of Midway — today's Chicago Bears — host the NFL Kickoff Game by welcoming their biggest rival to town: Aaron Rodgers and the Green Bay Packers. For all the hype surrounding Rodgers, it was the Bears led by quarterback Mitch Trubisky who with a 12-4 record won the NFC North last season. They split a pair of games with the Pack, who finished 6-9-1. Rodgers begins his 15th NFL season in this Thursday night season opener.

8 p.m. on HIST
Mountain Men

Season 8 concludes with a new episode called "Seize the Day," which finds Tom Oar in Montana building an authentic Native American bull worth that will be worth a pretty penny when finished. Meanwhile, Jake Herak continues hunting for a mountain lion spotted lurking near a school bus stop. Elsewhere, Morgan Beasley struggles to move a ton of greenhouse supplies through miles of dense Alaska forests. In North Carolina, Raleigh Avery and Eustace Conway race to fill an urgent rush order for lumber.

9 p.m. on NGC
Activate: The Global Citizen Movement

Hugh Jackman, Rachel Brosnahan ("The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel"), Gayle King and Darren Criss are among the stars participating in this new weekly six-part docu-series aimed at raising viewer awareness about some of the causes — and possible solutions — to extreme poverty around the world. In the series premiere, "Eradicating Extreme Poverty," Jackman, Priyanka Chopra Jonas ("Quantico") and singer-actress Becky G join Global Citizen activists in campaigns to persuade world leaders to enact meaningful anti-poverty policy changes.

9 p.m. on TLC
Brides, Grooms and Emergency Rooms

In a new episode called "Come Hell or High Water," Erik and Ashley's pirate-themed wedding takes an "arrrrr-ful" turn that winds up sending them on a treasure hunt for an emergency room. Elsewhere, Ellie and Taylor's plans go up in smoke when their poised walk down the aisle collapses into a sprint toward safety, while Connor and Sabrina's big day gets — quite literally — swept away.

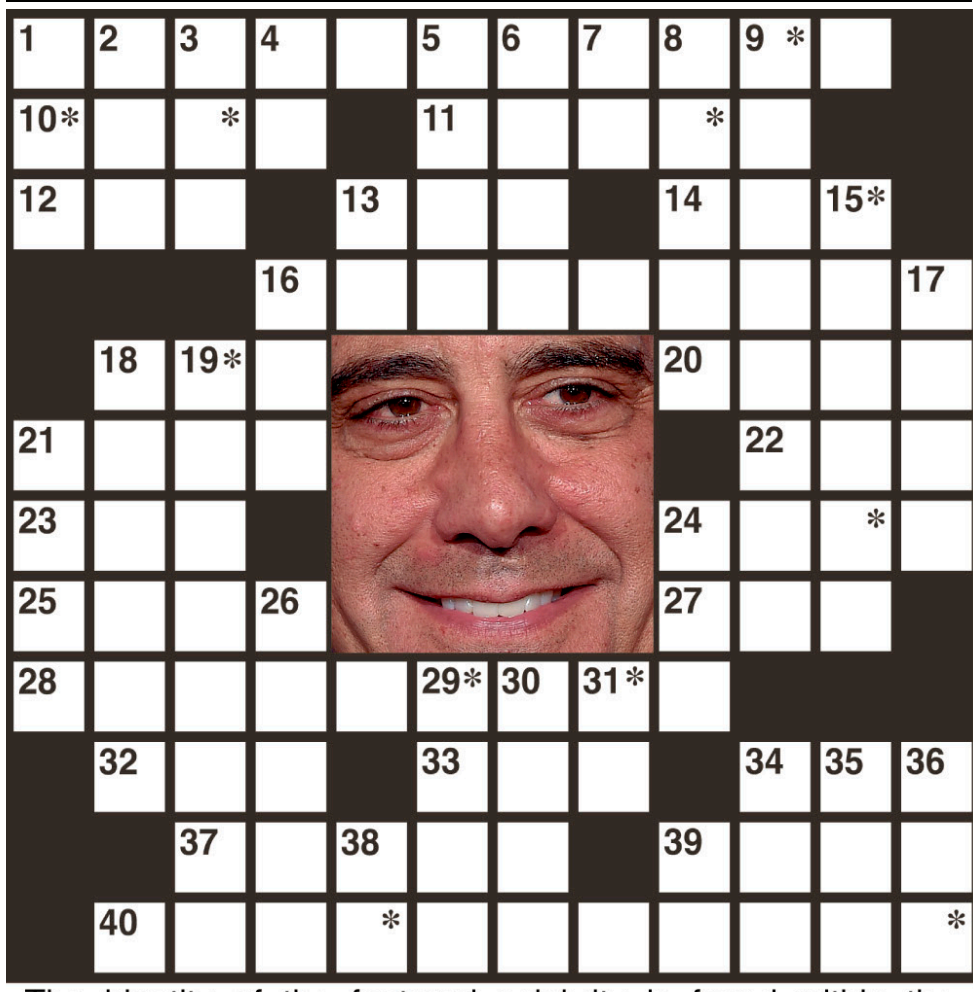

9:30 p.m. on FOOD
The Flay List

This new episode finds Bobby and daughter Sophie Flay in the mood for "Burgers," so they start their tour of favorite spots at his pick on the Upper East Side, J.G. Melon, followed by a quick subway ride downtown for gelato at il laboratorio del gelato, another of Bobby's picks. Later, on Sophie's recommendation, they sample the justifiably popular burgers and crazy shakes at Black Tap Craft Burgers and Beer.

Dax Shepard hosts "Spin the Wheel" on Fox.
