Cullman City Council approves sale of civic center

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman City Council on Monday night approved an ordinance allowing the sale of the Cullman Civic Center to Desperation Church.

When the ordinance was presented for its first reading at the last council meeting, Cullman Parks, Recreation and Sports Tourism Executive Director Nathan Anderson told The Tribune, "Several years ago, when we started planning this sports and events complex, one of the things that we identified early on that was necessary was to consolidate the operations with the civic center and the new complex. It doesn't make sense to run two large event centers like that simultaneously.

"When we purchased the Marvin's property, we also at that same time had a new renter with Desperation Church, and they just fell in love with the civic center. And, as we've gotten closer to the point where we can get to the nuts and » PAGE 4

PET OF THE WEEK

Homer's looking for a home!

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman County Animal Shelter Volunteer Donna Ruttkay introduces The Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week.

Homer is a 1-year-old pointer/lab mix. He's a laid-back, low- to medium-energy pet who craves human companionship, minds his manners and is good on the leash.

Ruttkay described him as "a real gentleman!"

Homer has the makings of a good reading, companion, therapy or emotional support dog.

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior.

Several of the shelter's dogs have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Homer's adoption fee is $90 which includes: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neutering, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

CRIME

3 arrested after high-speed chase across Cullman County ends near Baileyton

CULLMAN COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE

craig@cullmantribune.com

BAILEYTON, Ala. – Shortly after midnight Sunday morning, a suspect led officers from the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO), Cullman Police and Morgan County Sheriff's Office on a high-speed chase across Cullman County, through areas around Berlin, Simcoe, Fairview, Gold Ridge, Hulaco, Joppa and Baileyton. When the suspect vehicle appeared to be headed toward Arab, Marshall County authorities were also notified.

At one point, the suspect's vehicle stopped long enough to let one passenger out on a remote county road. Law enforcement officers immediately behind continued to pursue the car when it sped away, while officers farther behind searched for the passenger.

The pursuit ended on County Road 1570 near the intersection with Grandiflora Road/County Road 1595, north of Parkside Elementary School. The driver and two passengers were detained at the scene.

The CCSO released the identities of the suspects Monday morning.

Matthew James Sandifer, 35, of Simcoe, the driver of the vehicle, was charged with attempting to elude, expired driver's license, illegal possession of alcohol, open container in vehicle, possession of drug paraphernalia, reckless driving, reckless endangerment, speeding and unlawful possession of a controlled substance. CCBOE approves $103M 2020 budget; Barnette's contract extended 2 years

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman County Board of Education (CCBOE) on Monday evening approved its budget for fiscal year 2020 in the amount of $103,065,916.39. The budget was built on an anticipated $103,757,419.96 in revenues, and is expected to raise the system's ending fund balance next Sept. 30 to $21,002,858.01, a $1.9 million increase over its starting fund balance of $19,101,993.86. The numbers represent a slight increase over the initial presentation of the budget at its first hearing last month (https://www.cullmantribune.com/2019/08/21/cullman-county-board-of-education-reveals-102m-proposed-fy2020-budget/). According to system Chief School Financial Officer Ed Roberson, the increases came in federally-funded programs.

According to Roberson, the highlights of the new budget include:

- New home economics building addition for Holly Pond
- Replacement of window air conditioners in multiple schools
- Installation of air conditioning units in school gyms
- Repaving at multiple campuses
- Security improvements including fencing, entry systems and camera systems
- Completion of the Child Development Center playground

Instructional and instructional support account for 80% of the new budget, including slightly more than $50 million for salaries.

Superintendent's contract extended

The board also voted to extend Superintendent Dr. Shane Barnette's contract for two years, through the 2021 school year.

Community meetings announced

Barnette announced that the CCBOE will hold community meetings in the following locations. All meetings will take place at 6 p.m.

- Holly Pond HS lunchroom, Monday, Sept. 16
- Good Hope HS lunchroom, Thursday, Sept. 19
- Fairview HS auditorium, Monday, Sept. 23
- Hanceville HS gym, Thursday, Sept. 26
- West Point HS auditorium, Monday, Sept. 30
- Cold Springs HS gym, Tuesday, Oct. 1
- Vinemont HS lunchroom, Thursday, Oct. 3

The next regular meeting of the CCBOE will be Thursday, Oct. 10, work session at 5:30 p.m., meeting following immediately. The public is invited to attend.

Baileyton Town Council talks new town hall

Maggie Darnell
maggie@cullmantribune.com

MAGGIE DARNELL/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

The Baileyton Town Council met Monday evening.

BAILEYTON, Ala. – The Baileyton Town Council had a light agenda at its September meeting Monday evening, but it did discuss a few items regarding the new town hall under construction.

Mayor Johnny Dyar informed the council that the wiring for the security cameras for the new town hall is finished. The council also approved a payment plan on the structure. The Town will pay three payments of $95,000.

As far as the interior of the new building, Councilwoman Myra Martin suggested refinishing the Town's display cabinets to hold the miniature historical building structures that are featured in the current town hall before they're moved to the new building. Some discussion took place, but no action was taken.

Another suggestion was to display a plaque for each past mayor and council in the new town hall. Again, no action was taken. The council voted to set business license fees at $100. The council also approved the listing for sale of a lawnmower for $1,000.

Town Clerk Patricia Gilbert noted a representative with Lifeguard Ambulance Service left contact information for Dyar to reach out and speak with, however the council voted to table the discussion on the services until its next meeting.

Good Hope council implements new School Fund Grant process

GOOD HOPE, Ala. – The Good Hope City Council on Monday night voted to implement a new way of helping the Good Hope Schools through a School Fund Grant. In addition to the yearly donations the City gives the four Good Hope Schools each year, the City will distribute as additional $15,000 from alcohol money to school projects through a grant application process.

Councilwoman Susan Eller explained, "What we are trying to do, is people come and come and come, so we are trying to limit that. One time a year we are going to have $15,000, and instead of people coming, it will be a grant, and everyone can apply."

Each year Good Hope High School receives a $15,000 donation from the City and the remaining Good Hope schools (middle, elementary and primary) each receive $4,000.

"This additional $15,000 is brand new and we are implementing it into our new budget," said Mayor Jerry Bartlett. We also, anytime any of our organizations go to state, we pay $250 on their expenses. We will still do that. We just decided we are going to take (an additional) $15,000 and we are going to distribute it as best we can, fairly."

Eller added, "When we passed the alcohol sales in Good Hope, one of the things we wanted to do was give it back. We put that money aside in a special account for special projects."

The applications will be reviewed by a five-person board consisting of two school administrators, two members of the city council and Good Hope's Cullman County School Board representative or an appointee of the school board member. The administrators and council members will rotate each year when applications are reviewed.

The council also discuss new personnel changes for city employees. but no action was taken. The proposed ordinance was tabled until the next scheduled meeting. Major changes to the personnel policy include health care benefits, cell phone safety guidelines, medical protocols and the offering of Hepatitis B shots.

The proposed change in health care benefits is for the City of Good Hope to pay for family insurance. Bartlett said he hopes the change will be a great incentive to help keep valuable employees in a highly competitive job market.

CHRISTY PERRY/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

The Good Hope City Council normally meets on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

He said, "We've got an excellent crew of workers. I would like to do what we can to keep them."

The City currently pays for employees' coverage only.

The mayor and council also went in a 20-minute executive session to discuss an economic development project. Joining the mayor and council were Rep. Corey Harbison, R-Good Hope Cabin Fever Beverages Co-Owner Joseph Fisher and City Attorney Rita Nicholas. There was no further discussion about the executive session upon their return.

Civic Center (from Front)

bolts of the design of this new complex, we realized that there's a lot of interest from Desperation Church to acquire this property. So, we started discussion, and they had a lot of interest in purchasing it."

The former Marvin's store on Main Avenue Southwest is slated to become a multi-use sports and event venue that will also connect Heritage Park to the Cullman Wellness & Aquatic Center, Field of Miracles and Ingle Park, creating a multi-facility recreational corridor in southwest Cullman. The sale of the civic center will help fund the construction and operation of the new facility.

According to Anderson, "We had an appraisal on the property, and they gave us a full appraised value offer, and this will free us up to allocate staff necessary to run the new complex. It'll also free up overhead, as a 30,000-square-foot building is expensive to run. We'll be able to allocate those expenses to go towards the expenses of the new complex; it's a pretty significant down payment on a new complex, as well."

Nancy Wright, daughter of former Cullman Mayor Robert McGukin, who spearheaded the effort to build a civic center in Cullman, addressed the council before the vote. The City had extended her family an offer to memorialize her father's efforts, either at the site or at the new complex, and she thanked the council for that consideration. She also gave her approval for the new use that Desperation Church will make of the facility.

According to the ordinance, "Property is being purchased in 'as is' condition."

According to Anderson, "The intentions of Desperation Church are to improve the site. Their plans consist of a multi-million-dollar renovation to the facility, so they will be making a lot of improvements to the building, outside and inside, which will be great for the area neighbors of that property, and great for the community."

Desperation Church Pastor Andy Heis was present Monday night and addressed the council, expressing thankfulness for the opportunity to move his congregation into the facility, and talking about plans the church has for its use. He also invited Wright to attend the dedication of the facility, an invitation which she accepted.

After approving the sale, the council voted to move voting precincts that were at the Cullman Civic Center to the Donald E. Green Senior Center at 1625 Cleveland Ave. SW.

Other council business

The council approved several special event requests:

- from Keith Peinhardt of Buettner Brothers Lumber Company to hold a Customer/Contractor Appreciation Day Sept. 20, 2019 from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.
- from Sue Turner of Life Chain Cullman to hold the 16th Annual Cullman Life Chain Oct. 12, 2019 from 12:30-2 p.m. on the sidewalks along U.S. Highway 31 around the Cullman County Courthouse.
- from Stephanie Wood of A21 to hold an event to raise awareness of human trafficking Oct. 19, 2019 from 8-11 a.m. on the sidewalks around the Cullman County Courthouse.
- from Edith Smith to hold a car show to benefit Christmas Love of Cullman Nov. 9, 2019 from 8 a.m.-2 p.m. in Depot Park.

The council also approved requests from Chipotle Mexican Grill located at 1821 Cherokee Ave. SW and from Newk's Eatery located at 410 Second Ave. NW, for restaurant alcohol licenses. Both establishments received favorable recommendations from the City of Cullman Alcohol Review Committee.

Additionally, the council approved a resolution to accept a FEMA grant to purchase 51 new radios for the Cullman Fire Rescue. The $255,000 grant will receive $12,000 in matching funds from the City.

The Cullman City Council meets on the second and fourth Mondays of each month at 7 p.m. in the Cullman City Hall auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Tuberville brings robust crowd to Cullman Republican meeting

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Tommy Tuberville stopped in Cullman Saturday to speak at the Cullman County Republican Party meeting at the Elks Lodge. A robust crowd came out for breakfast and to hear the former Auburn Football head coach as he explained his motivation for running for the U.S Senate.

"Wasn't too many years ago, I said that when I get out of coaching, if I feel good and got the energy, I'm gonna try to make a difference. That's the reason I am here today," Tuberville said.

Not being a career politician, Tuberville said he believes he is better qualified to be a voice for the people of Alabama. He described himself as a lifelong "Christian Conservative" with a focus on God, family and education.

"We have taken our eye off the ball. I'm running because I don't need a job," he said. "Folks, I could be playing golf. I could be fishing, and I am not taking a paycheck. I wish every one of them that went up there didn't take a paycheck. They wouldn't stay long."

He reminded everyone that voters are the ones who can initiate change, promising, "We don't need somebody to go up there and look for somebody to give them something to vote a certain way.

"I'm the same way. You know how I'm going to vote when I go? I'm gonna vote how YOU want me to vote and that's exactly what we should do. You send somebody to Washington; they work for you. You don't work for them. For some reason, it's been flipped."

Tuberville said he believes his experience as an educator and coach brings qualifications that career politicians lack.

"Yep, I'm a coach. I've had a job. I've been all over this country and all over this world," he said.

Tuberville said he spends a great deal of time traveling and visiting military and law enforcement, describing how he feels the current treatment of military and police is "upside down" and pledging to work to support their efforts to protect the country.

"Every vet should have a card. If you went over and fought in a foreign war, you come home and get a card. You walk into any hospital and you get your 100% health care paid for."

Tuberville also supports President Donald Trump and his efforts to build a wall at the U.S.-Mexico border. He said he is not interested in being politically correct.

As for being a good senator, Tuberville said, "I've been a leader all my life. I pull people together. You can't be a coach and people not trust you. I am a salesman. What does that mean, coach? I go to Washington D.C., there's decisions you gotta make. The biggest thing for your state is to get manufacturing and technology to come here. Do you want someone who has sat behind a desk all their life? A politician? Or do you want a football coach that all he's ever done is sell. All I've ever done is go out...I can get to any CEO and I can talk to anybody. First of all, not that I'm anybody, but they like to talk to football coaches. They're pretty popular. I will have a leg up when I get elected."

In conclusion, he said, "This is a serious job that I'm running for. This is not an ego trip. I couldn't care less if I was ever on TV again, if I ever do an interview with the paper, if I ever did the radio. I've done all that. I am doing this for this country, for this state and for you."

Following the meeting Tuberville spoke with The Tribune about how he will try to help bridge the divide between Republicans and Democrats.

He said, "On both sides, they are going to know who I am so I can build a friendship with everybody. It's all about communicating with people. Right now, they don't even want to talk to each other. We need different people up there from different professions who will talk about the issues. That's why you're up there. You aren't up there to just hide in a room and not talk to anybody.

"I'm a party person, but I'm American person first. If you don't go up there and start a conversation, you've got no chance."

He added, "There's a few of them up there that have completely lost their minds, but there's got to be a dialog."

When asked about his coaching experience and how that will carry over to the Senate, he said, "You've got an offense and defense that go against each other every day, They don't like each other, so you gotta try to keep playing as a team because once you play somebody, you're all on the same team."

He added, "They go back next week and the leaders of the Senate, they all oughta all get together and say, 'Listen, there's a lot of people out there hurting. Forget about your personal vendettas and all that. Let's get something done.'"

First Responders Live

Pretty much any episode of this high-octane reality series, which follows fearless teams of first responders across the country as they handle one life-or-death situation after another, packs the same punch as a powerhouse season finale on a scripted series. For the record though, tonight's white-knuckle action marks the Season 1 finale of this addictive series from mega-producer Dick Wolf (all those "Law & Order" legal dramas).

Web of Lies

In a variation on a sadly familiar scenario, an ambitious 12-year-old singer looks for quick fame online by posting performance videos in the new episode "Webcam of Lies." She's thrilled, then, when she quickly attracts a following of many admirers, all of them strangers. Naively, she soon falls for a boy who flatters her, but her dream turns into a nightmare after a shocking photo is shared online.

Ghosted: Love Gone Missing

Rachel Lindsay, star of Season 13 of "The Bachelorette," and recording artist Travis Mills team up to help distraught guests who are seeking to find closure with someone who inexplicably cut off communication and vanished without explanation from their lives in this new unscripted series, which premieres tonight with two back-to-back episodes. That act of slamming the door on a relationship, commonly called "ghosting," leaves those on the receiving end with unfinished emotional business, but Lindsay and Mills help such victims find and confront the guilty party.

Two years in the making, a new episode called "Flint's Deadly Water" examines an ongoing American health emergency that started during a 2014-15 outbreak of Legionnaire's disease in this predominantly black Michigan city. Nearly 100 people became sick during that period, and some of them died. In 2019, locals still rely on bottled water for their needs as their situation is stalled by partisan finger-pointing over where the blame lies.

OPINION

Worldview, part 5

Tom Fillinger
Contributor

We continue our focus on Worldview. Peter Jones (truthXchange.com) states with profound clarity, there are two worldviews. One, those who deny the existence of God and Special Revelation. Two, those who acknowledge God, the Bible and Absolute Truth. As Bob Dylan reminded us, you gotta serve somebody. I am indebted to Herman Bavinck ("Christian Worldview") for his research and writing on this vital topic and I want to acknowledge that contribution here.

If we reject Christianity because it does not suit us, it instantly proves at the very same time that Christianity is indispensable for us. So when the world cries out, "Away with Christ," Christ shows precisely in his death that he alone gives life to the world. Christianity does not fit the deviant concepts that modern humanity forms about the world and life.

It stands diametrically opposed to them. But there is a better fit between the world and life as they are in themselves. Whoever shakes off the idols of the day and knows to rise above the prevailing prejudices in science and academia, who faces up to the things themselves, soberly and watchfully, and takes world and humanity, nature and religion as they truly are in themselves, presses on, evermore strengthening the conviction that Christianity is the only religion whose view of the world and life fits the world and life. The idea of Christianity and the meaning of reality belong together like lock and key: they make sense together. This much is made somewhat clear by three problems addressed from ancient times, the questions that formed a world-and-life view then.

In ancient Greece, philosophy, as academic study as it was known generally, was divided into dialectics, physics and ethics. (These names can be amended to an extent or be exchanged for others, such as logic (noetics) and natural and mental philosophies, but all frameworks eventually come back to this older trilogy).

The problems that confront the human mind always return to these: What is the relation between thinking and being, between being and becoming, and between becoming and acting? What am I? What is the world, and what are my place and task within this world? Autonomous thinking finds no satisfactory answer to these questions—it oscillates between materialism and spiritualism, between atomism and dynamism, between nomism (God's Law) and antinomianism (denial of God's Law). But Christianity preserves the harmony (between them) and reveals to us a wisdom that reconciles the human being with God and, through this, with itself, with the world, and with life.

Bavinck's outline consists of three categories in examining Worldview. They are Thinking and Being, Being and Becoming, and Becoming and Acting. I will follow this outline in the remainder of this series.

My prayer is that my readers give serious thought to the worldview you hold. If what you currently hold is in error, I pray that you will modify your worldview. Special revelation applies to all people for all time whether or not you embrace it. God's Word is true as LORD he is Sovereign.

Oktoberfest (from Front)

christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Each year as fall approaches, Cullman residents look forward to seeing the colorful mums that provide beautiful and bold colors around town. It was the hope and passion of resident Pat Clemmons to bring festive color and charm to Cullman, especially in preparation for the city's Oktoberfest celebration. After Clemmons' tragic death in 2008, her daughter Nancy Clemmons Moore made it her mission to keep that passion alive.

Each year Moore sells gorgeous mums to businesses and individuals leading up to Oktoberfest. Her family is also responsible for the German Hay People that have been watching over Cullman for at least 25 years. The hay people and splendidly-colored mums definitely set the mood for the celebration.

"My parents loved Oktoberfest and were also active members of St. John's Church," said Moore. "It was my mom's dream to make Cullman look festive. She would bring mums to downtown businesses to help decorate for Oktoberfest."

Moore's parents, Phil and Pat Clemmons, loved Oktoberfest and volunteered their time each year to make the celebration successful. Sadly, both were killed in May 2008 when their plane crashed in Ohio.

"I wanted to keep selling the mums in honor and memory of my mom. Steve and I also bring the hay people each year," said Moore. "My parents got the idea after seeing them in Germany."

The hay people should make their 2019 debut the weekend of Sept. 21.

Moore is currently taking orders for this year's mum sale. The mums are still only $10 and come in many colors: yellow, red, purple, lavender, burnt orange, bronze, white-yellow and pink. She plans to bring 500 mums this year, but added, "I can get more if I need to."

She will have the flowers at the Cullman Festhalle Sept. 25. Most of the mums will be pre-sold with only a limited number available on the 25th. To order now, call 256-347-8543. This year Moore is serving as president of the Oktoberfest Board. Her husband, Steve Moore, was just named this year's Burgermeister. Moore, along with her brother and sister, stood in for their parents in 2008 when they were honored posthumously as that year's Burgermeisters.Moore does not sell the mums for profit; they have remained $10 for several years. Inspired by her mother, she works hard to continue the tradition Pat Clemmons started.

"I love Cullman. I love Oktoberfest. I give this my whole heart and soul," she smiled.

Outage (from Front)

Noah Galilee
noah@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – "We understand everyone's concern over the timing of this planned outage, especially with such high temperatures during the day," Cullman Electric Cooperative (CEC) Manager of Communications & External Affairs Brian Lacy said of this Tuesday's planned power outage in south Cullman County. "Our engineers have explained why this outage needs to happen now, and why it cannot wait until a later date."

The outage will begin at 9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 10 and last approximately five hours.

"The biggest thing people seem to misunderstand is this is not regularly scheduled planned maintenance being done by TVA (Tennessee Valley Authority)," he said. "This is TVA proactively responding to a piece of equipment that has sensors which indicate it could fail at any time. If that were to happen, it could result in a major power outage that could take up to a day or longer to repair."

Lacy said the fix will take place at a TVA transmission facility that feeds power to substations in the southern part of Cullman County.

Approximately 3,500 members will be impacted-those served by the Bremen substation located at the intersection of Alabama Highway 69 and County Road 222.

The communities that will be impacted by the scheduled power outage are Arkadelphia, Black Bottom, Bremen, Bug Tussle, Colony, Crane Hill, Damascus and the southeast side of Smith Lake.

According to Lacy, the TVA found a failing piece of equipment at its switching station on borrowed time. He said if the proactive approach isn't taken now, the device will fail - sooner rather than later- and could have worse consequences.

"If it fails before it can be repaired on Tuesday evening, the unplanned outage will be much longer. And depending on how catastrophically it fails, it could damage other equipment making the restoration that much more time-consuming," he said.

"Waiting to make the repair until Tuesday is risky, but we know that we need to wait to give our members advanced notice and to select a day and time that will affect the least amount of households, businesses and schools," said Lacy.

A week ago, members experienced a widespread outage following a storm. The TVA and CEC stated both are taking corrective actions necessary that could prevent another major unplanned outage like the one members experienced during the storm and two other planned outages which occurred in the spring.

"Our last planned outage was last week in Jones Chapel to repair a piece of equipment that was damaged by lightning. That project went as planned and actually was completed ahead of schedule," Lacy said.

"Prior to that we had two planned outages in the spring. One was a voltage conversion in Center Hill near Hanceville that was done on a weekday morning in May and was completed within 30 minutes of the scheduled time. The other was a TVA planned outage that was done overnight and went as scheduled."

When asked if there would be cooling stations open in the regions that will be affected by the planned outage, Lacy said one of the reasons for announcing the planned outage is to help members better prepare ahead of time.

"One of the main reasons we share information about planned outages is to allow people time to make accommodations. Power outages, whether they are planned or unexpected, are unavoidable. We recommend anyone who has life-sustaining medical equipment always have an alternate power source available," he said.

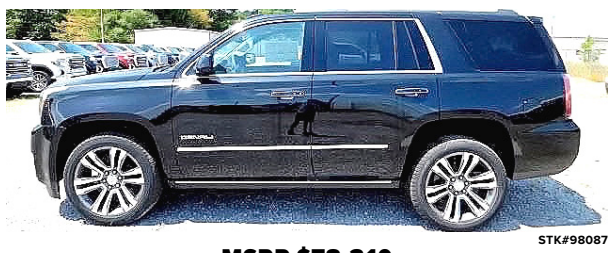

Stay with The Cullman Tribune as updates are made available during the planned power outage Tuesday night.
