PARADISE LOST

1989 Fairview graduate survives Hurricane Dorian, working to help other survivors, refugees

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Great Guana Cay, Bahamas is a narrow islet of the Abaco Islands and also where Cullman County native and 1989 Fairview graduate Dwight Aldridge has called home for the past 12 years. He and his neighbors knew Hurricane Dorian was headed toward their island paradise, but they never could have imagined that the Category 5 storm would stall directly on top of their tiny island for close to 48 hours.

Aldridge is now back in Cullman after surviving the historic catastrophic storm and is working tirelessly to help his neighbors left behind in the unimaginable aftermath.

Still unable to eat or sleep 12 days after the traumatizing experience, he wrote to the Tribune:

"Thank you. The outpouring of support has been amazing for Hurricane Dorian relief. The Bahamian people are a proud and strong group of people. They live in a beautiful place that has been ravaged by this historic, horrific storm. They need, and will need, your help. My name is Dwight Aldridge. I am from Cullman, Alabama. I live and work in Great Guana Cay, Abaco Bahamas. I was on the ground during the storm and can tell you that the photos do not do it justice. I'm writing this not asking for money for me but for the thousands of people affected by Hurricane Dorian. If you want to help, I will let you know the organizations that are already set up helping. These organizations are just a few of the many that are already in full relief mode. These organizations are giving 100% of all donations to the Bahamas and are personally carrying supplies to the Bahamas by boat, ship or plane. If you have been through an event like this, and have advice, please contact me. If you have already given, thank you. If you are holding back waiting because you don't know where to help, contact me, I will give you the names and phone numbers of Bahamian friends and Bahamian churches and you can send to them directly. PLEASE HELP."

Dwight's Dorian experience

"We started evacuating as soon as helicopter could fly and even before they should fly. We were getting all the injured and older people and kids off there. There was a pregnant lady and we needed to get those people off," Aldridge said.

DWIGHT ALDRIDGE

What's left of the post office, police station and center of the town on Grand Guana Cay in the Bahamas after Hurricane Dorian devastated the islands Sept. 1-2, 2019

By the time he left the island, all the people who needed off the island had already gone.

He added, "We had no casualties- 151 people and nobody,"

He recalled, "We had an older couple and they were in their house and half their house, gone. They had to crawl across the road in 200 mph winds to get over to the next house and hope that it would stand. All of the houses down there don't have water so they collect the water out of the gutters and in cisterns under the house. There were people under the house holding onto these cisterns because the top of their house is gone, for 30 hours, not knowing if

Cullman native, human trafficking survivor addresses Cullman County Human Trafficking Task Force

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

The Cullman County Human Trafficking Task Force hears from Cullman native and human trafficking survivor Jordan Giddens, who now serves as the child trafficking care coordinator for the Children's Policy Council and Family Court of Jefferson County.

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Human Trafficking Task Force met Wednesday and welcomed Cullman native Jordan Giddens, former finance director for Alabama Rep. Anthony Daniels, D-Huntsville and current child trafficking care coordinator for the Children's Policy Council and Family Court of Jefferson County. His talk on what is happening to combat trafficking through the Alabama Legislature and in Jefferson County was made in the context of his own story of being a victim of trafficking himself.

Giddens was drugged and kidnapped from a bar in downtown Birmingham in 2015, then driven to another location where he encountered a U-Haul trailer full of other victims. He was kept by his kidnapper as personal property instead of being shipped on, and was sexually assaulted in the captor's home. With a cell phone his captors did not discover, Giddens was able to relay his location to others; when his captor discovered that he had been revealed, he drove the young man back to Birmingham and released him.

Giddens's case never got anywhere in the Jefferson County court system, though he and others positively identified his kidnapper, and he is still waiting for justice four years later. He now works to provide resources to victims of trafficking in Jefferson County, and to increase the number of resources available.

He told the group about trafficking in Alabama: "I'm from Cullman but I moved to Mountain Brook, so I didn't know that it happened in all those types of neighborhoods where people don't think it happens. They think it happens in only poverty-stricken neighborhoods with people that have drug addictions, because those are often the easiest targets, but really those traffickers are looking for anyone who's vulnerable, and that night I was emotionally vulnerable."

He continued, "It really can happen to anyone at any time, and the main issue that we're seeing here in Alabama is familial trafficking: families actually trafficking their own Giddens reported that, according to the Department of Homeland Security, more people--approximately 300,000 currently--live in slavery (through sex trafficking or labor trafficking) in the United States today than at any other time in American history. He said more than 27 million are trafficked worldwide.

Scientists have discovered how vitamin A drives the lung immune system to deal with tuberculosis (TB). The findings have just been published in a top respiratory journal, the American Journal of Respiratory Cell and Molecular Biology. TB is the biggest infectious killer in the world and multiple-drug resistant TB, which does not respond to regular antibiotics, is a major threat to global health. TB killed 1.7 million people in 2016 and is considered the top cause of death related to infection worldwide. With the increased incidence of drug-resistant TB at home and abroad, additional strategies are required to treat the disease. Unlike in the case of antibiotics, TB resistance should not develop against vitamin A.

Young girls are stronger with higher levels of vitamin D, but the association was not found in boys. These are the results from a new large study recently published in the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology and Metabolism. Girls with low vitamin D were found to have a 70 percent increased risk of being among the lowest ten percent in a test for muscle strength.

Vitamin D levels in the blood are linked to cardiorespiratory fitness, according to a study published in the European Journal of Preventive Cardiology, a publication of the European Society of Cardiology (ESC). It is well established that vitamin D is important for healthy bones, but there is increasing evidence that it plays a role in other areas of the body, including the heart and muscles. The study shows that higher levels of vitamin D are associated with better exercise capacity.

Five local squads preparing to host Friday night matchups

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

Five local squads are back home this week for their Friday night matchups and all but one of them are taking on region foes. Meek, Holly Pond, Addison and Cold Springs are gearing up for regional showdowns this week while Cullman gets ready to host Albertville. We're in the thick of region play this season so every game has postseason implications at this point and several local teams are in desperate need of regional wins.

(0-4) Meek (1A Region 6) vs. (2-2) Berry (1A Region 6)
The Tigers will be back home this week after their trip to Hubbertville and will be looking to collect their first win of the season against the Berry Wildcats. Berry is coming off a 59-0 loss at South Lamar so the Wildcats will be anxious to bounce back and get a win in Arley.

The Tigers are also looking to shake off last week and rebound this Friday. Meek chipped away at Hubbertville's lead toward the end of the game last week, but the early Lions lead was too much to overcome. The Tigers are allowing 43 points per game right now and scoring just over 10 per night so they will have to get things straightened on both sides of the ball or they could be looking at an early elimination from playoff contention.

(3-1) Cold Springs (2A Region 5) vs. (2-1) Aliceville (2A Region 5)
The Eagles are returning home this week after an impressive showing on the road against Sumiton Christian in which Roberto Ayala and Ayden Alexander combined to score six touchdowns. Cold Springs has now won back to back games and racked up 84 points in those wins but this week, they'll face arguably the best defensive unit they have seen this season.

Aliceville fell to Gordo 21-20 in overtime in the season opener but is coming off a 29-0 win at Tarrant and 43-6 win over Sulligent. The Yellow Jackets are holding opponents to just nine points per game right now, but something will have to give when these two teams clash in Bremen Friday night.

(2-2) Cullman (6A Region 7) vs. (1-2) Albertville (6A Region 8)
After falling in two nail-biters on the road to start the season, the Cullman Bearcats have worked their way back to .500 with convincing wins at home against Decatur and on the road over Columbia.

The Bearcats have racked up a whopping 604 yards on the ground in the last two weeks and with injury problems beginning to rear their head, it'll be critical for Cullman to keep up its running attack. After being held below 20 in their first two matchups, the Bearcats have put 89 points on the board in the last two weeks but will now face an Albertville team that allows just under 15 points per game.

The Aggies have lost back to back games to Fort Payne and Buckhorn leading into this week's showdown so they will be anxious to try and get back to .500 themselves when they enter Oliver Woodard Stadium. The Bearcats took last year's matchup 21-0 and they'll be aiming for a repeat performance Friday night.

(1-3) Holly Pond (3A Region 5) vs. (2-1) Fultondale (3A Region 5)
The Broncos collected a huge win over county rival and region foe Hanceville a week ago to pick up their first win of the season and they'll be back home for another region showdown this Friday. Fultondale dropped its season opener on the road to Maplesville but has won back to back games over Locust Fork and JB Pennington in the lead up to this week's matchup at Holly Pond.

The Bronco running game seemed to hit its stride against the Bulldogs last week and with more region games coming, they'd like to keep that momentum rolling going forward. The Wildcats are currently tied with Midfield for the Region 5 lead so if Holly Pond can find a way to knock them off at home, the postseason will begin to look a little closer for the Broncos.

(2-2) Addison (2A Region 7) vs. (3-1) Sheffield (2A Region 7)
Last week's game at Red Bay ended in a heartbreaking loss for the Addison Bulldogs as they were held just outside the goal line as the final seconds ticked away. The loss gives the Bulldogs an 0-1 start in the region and now they'll face one the teams tied for the lead in Region 7. Sheffield is coming off back to back wins over Tharptown and Hatton and has a 2-0 start in region play. Addison won last year's matchup with Sheffield 42-7 on the road, but the Bulldogs are battling through some injuries at this point in the season.

The offense got off to a slow start on the road last week, but Addison will try and turn that around when they return home to face Sheffield Friday night.

Lady Raiders split tri-match with Hanceville, Susan Moore

nick@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Good Hope and Susan Moore made the trip to Hanceville High School Tuesday afternoon for a tri-match with the Lady Bulldogs and the day got started with an area showdown between Susan Moore and Hanceville. Hanceville fell in straight sets to Susan Moore and the Lady Raiders followed them to start the second match of the day.

Susan Moore edged Good Hope 2-1 in a tight match to collect its second win of the trip and Hanceville made its way back on to the court to close out the night with a match against the Lady Raiders.

After winning a close first set, Good Hope pulled away to win the second set and knock off the Lady Bulldogs at home 2-0.

Susan Moore 3 – Hanceville 0 (25-10, 25-13, 25-14)
Susan Moore built an 8-4 lead early in the first set and was able to stretch that lead to 15-5 as the match went on. After getting behind 21-5, the Lady Bulldogs managed to chip away a bit of the lead, but Susan Moore pulled away to take the first set 25-10.

Susan Moore jumped to another early lead in the second set, taking a 6-1 lead, but Hanceville was able to cut the lead down to 7-5. The Lady Bulldogs then tied the set at 10 before Susan Moore went on an 11-1 scoring run to take a 21-11 lead and eventually go on to take the next set 25-13.

The third set was tied at five apiece early on before Hanceville scored to make it 6-5 and take its first lead of the match.

Susan Moore responded with a scoring run of its own and took a 12-7 lead that eventually stretched to 18-8. The Lady Bulldogs managed to chip away and make it 20-14 but Susan Moore scored the final five points of the set to win it 25-14 and take the match in straight sets.

Susan Moore 2 – Good Hope 1 (25-20, 19-25, 15-9)
The Lady Raiders struggled early in the opening set against Susan Moore, falling behind 4-1 right out of the gate. Good Hope managed to cut into the lead a bit and make it 8-5 but Susan Moore was able to keep the Lady Raiders out of reach the rest of the way and pulled away to take the first set 25-20.

The Lady Bulldogs got off to another fast start in the second set, but Good Hope was able to bounce back and take a 9-8 lead midway through the set. Susan Moore tied the set at 10 and the score would be knotted at 15 and 17 as the set went on.

After taking a 20-19 lead, the Lady Raiders ran off five straight points to take the second set 25-19 and force a tiebreaker set.

In the third set of the match, it was Good Hope that jumped out to an early lead, but the Lady Raiders couldn't maintain their early momentum. After trailing 3-0 at the start, Susan Moore scored eight straight points to take a five-point lead. The Lady Bulldogs led things 11-7 midway through the set but took control from that point on and took the tiebreaker set 15-9 to knock off Good Hope.

Good Hope 2 – Hanceville 0 (25-20, 25-15)
After falling to Susan Moore in the first two matches of the night, Hanceville and Good Hope squared off to close out Tuesday's tri-match. Good Hope led the first set 4-2 early and held a 9-8 lead as the match went on. The Lady Bulldogs tied things up at 15 later in the set before the Lady Raiders went back in front 18-16. Good Hope held a 20-19 advantage late in the set but finished things with a 5-1 scoring run that gave the Lady Raiders a 1-0 start to the match.

Good Hope took a 3-0 lead to start the second set, but Hanceville was able to score three straight points to tie things up. The Lady Raiders moved back in front 8-6 and found a way to take control after that. Good Hope stretched its lead to 14-7 at one point and pulled away to take the set 25-15 and collect a 2-0 win over the Lady Bulldogs.

Hanceville and Good Hope will be back on the road Thursday when they travel to take on St. Bernard and Cold Springs respectively.

Paradise (from Front)

anybody was going to come get them.

"I can't describe the smell. This was five days after, and I am sure it's a lot worse now. Saltwater smells really bad, and if you leave it in a cup on the counter for two days, it's going to smell really bad. Plus all the insects and animals and whatever else are decaying... peoples' refrigerators and mold in the houses."

At last report, the Bahamian government estimates that 1,300 people are either dead or missing. Aldridge said he feels that number is probably accurate based on his knowledge and what he saw.

Aldridge showed The Tribune a video of one of his employees, along with his family, that was filmed during the storm, saying, "These are people who are full of life. Strong people!"

The wife can be heard in the video speaking over the screaming winds: "This is us, in the attic. The water is up to the roof in the attic."

The husband can be seen at an opening in the attic staring out over the carnage. The disbelief, sadness and surrender can be seen in his expression.

Aldridge said, "How does he get out of that house and get to shelter? He and his wife and two kids survived, as well as their two dogs. Right outside of that attic is a 10-foot wave coming through the island, plus 200 mph winds."

With ferocious winds and water everywhere, where does a person go?

Aldridge said, "You better already be there. You'll hear about storm surge. The storm surge is about 8-12 feet. That 8-12 feet of water level raised, and you've got 20-foot waves coming in on top of that. A tsunami, a Cat 5 has all of that. It's got tornadoes, tsunamis and floods. We were under it after it hit us for about 30 hours. It was 40-something hours total. For about two days, we couldn't leave the house. Water just poured in through every light fixture and everywhere there was a hole in the ceiling. If there wasn't, it made its own holes."

Aldridge said he hears and sees the images repeatedly in his mind.

"There were horrific scenes."

Aldridge saw things he isn't ready to share but knows that hundreds of people are indeed lost.

He stressed that the Grand Bahamas, including Nassau, were relatively unaffected. The western Bahamas and the Caribbean were spared; the small islands to the east and northeast were destroyed.

Aldridge was also amazed by how many animals survived the storm.

"I've never known what the barometric pressure felt like before this storm," he said. "This one guy's gauge, the pressure dropped off the screen. I felt that, and the animals know it's coming. The birds were gone, and you don't have birds caught up in a hurricane. Cats and animals, they survived. We were cleaning up and this crab came up like it wanted to say hi to me. They are usually hiding, but he just came right up to me, said hello, and walked off."

Another thing Aldridge noticed was all the leaves are gone. The once lush green island with beautiful blue water is now brown. He said 180 mph sustained winds and 220 mph gusts picked up the sea water full of salt and sand and stripped everything on Great Guana Cay.

How to help

"I'm looking for people who might have been through it that could give me advice on what to do," Aldridge said. "I have five Bahamians coming to Cullman who have never been to Alabama or anywhere. They are coming with a backpack--no clothes or nothing. Some of them are children. I am looking for help for them. When the two months go by and they go back, I want them to have money in their hands to be able to at least buy plywood to close up windows and doors and have a place to sleep. Maybe a generator or air conditioner, I don't know."

Aldridge is out of a job but is still doing whatever he can to help his neighbors waiting in a line to get off the island. They need clothes and food, and Aldridge is working to provide them a place to stay. He had purchased in Cullman County a home six months ago that is in need of remodeling and lacks floors, but he is working around the clock to have the home available to them.

Aldridge said, "We are looking for beds and furniture. I don't know if I have waited too late, because I was talking to a man this morning that said it wasn't even on the news anymore."

Aldridge finds it difficult to watch the images on television. There are no places on the island for people to stay.

"I could take 100 guys down there right now, but there's nowhere for them to stay."

Aldridge said, "I didn't eat for five days after. I felt guilty and I would sit down and see food or go to Wal-Mart and see all the food and just start crying. I couldn't handle it. My brother and mother and all these people are really pushing me and saying that I am going to have to stop. I'm close. I slept last night for the first time in 12 days."

Aldridge provided a short list of places people can donate and know that the money is going directly to the islands. For additional information, email Aldridge at daldridge.bakersbayclub@yahoo.com.

- Panama Baptist Church (helping with relocation of refugees in Alabama)
- Glen P. Rolle, pastor in Nassau (helping with refugees in Nassau)
- Ricky Sands Charters (#AbacoStrong on Instagram)- Ricky is from and lives on Great Guana Cay Abaco. He has been, and is continuing, to get aid and supplies directly to the Cay Islands in Abaco Bahamas.

Locally, Curt's Closet is seeking donations in order to help the refugees arriving in Cullman.

Curt's Closet Founder Ashley Wilson said, "If anyone wants to make a donation to the family, they are welcome to drop them off or mail to Curt's Closet. They can state that they want it to go to the victims of Dorian and that way it may be tax-deductible for them. We will keep these funds separate and give them to the family."

Aldridge is a firm believer in paying it forward and tells a story from after the storm.

"I was sitting there the first day in Nassau, which was Thursday after the storm. I was going to eat breakfast and I looked at the breakfast and couldn't eat it. It was something I would have really liked, too. I guess the people sitting next to me realized I was in turmoil over what was going on. The man asked if he could talk to me and while he was talking to me, his wife paid for my breakfast. I don't need the money, but I couldn't tell them no. They leave, but before, they put their hands on me and prayed with me.

"The guy then came back and gave me $50 and said they want to pay for my lunch, too. I was an emotional wreck and texted my brother and he said to accept it. He said, 'Accept it. That makes them feel good to give that to you so accept it and pass it on.'"

He left and went straight to the pharmacy.

"I'm in the pharmacy and I am listening to this woman at the register as I am up there with antibiotic creams and things because I'm covered in stuff. This woman, I could tell she was on the phone with somebody, trying to get them medicine.

"She's getting a little bottle of this and asks if she wants one or two. I asked her if she was talking to someone in Freeport or Abaco. She said that they were in Freeport and I told her they needed this and gave her what I had. I told her to get what they want, but to send them this too because it was antibiotic powders and creams. I went back and got me two more bottles. I told them I wanted to pay for hers and mine and it was $49.92, and I had just been given $50. Things like that have been happening to me."

City school board passes $33.15M FY2020 budget

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman City School Board approved the system's FY2020 budget Tuesday night. The $33.15 million total budget includes a general fund budget of $26.44 million. This year's budget is an approximate 4% increase from last year.

Chief School Finance Officer Russell Raney explained, "The state passed the 4% pay raise for all education employees and our budget is up about 4%. It looks very similar to last year's budget with the exception of the state's giving us more revenue to cover the pay raise they implemented and the expenditures are going to reflect that 4% pay raise.

"As far as all of our departments, our departmental budgets were all maintained at the same level from last year and nothing else significant is going on."

Total budgeted revenues are $33.84 million with excess revenue of $929,473. The general fund revenues are $28.29 million with excess of $154,000.

The total budget includes the general budget, special revenue, debt service, capital projects and fiduciary expendable trust.

The ending general fund reserve is $6.5 million with a total reserve of $10.7 million.

Said Raney, "We are in very good shape. (The) $6.5 million we are projected to end next year with is almost three months in reserve and the State of Alabama requires school systems to have at least one month in reserve.

"We put a target to try to get close to three if we can for rainy days."

WEST POINT, Ala. – Three young ladies from Girl Scout Troop 10288 recently completed their Silver Award Project and in doing so installed a Little Free Library in West Point. Abigail Roy, Gracie Williams and Piper Lawrence installed their project at West Point Elementary School. The library is stocked with books for children, teens and adults.

The three teens worked hard coming up with an idea for their project.

Roy explained, "We all really enjoy reading or knowing that people have access to it. We think it was really important for after-school hours and during the summer where they could read and have access to literature."

She added, "To start it off, we started with a lot of young adult (books) because they vary so widely. We added a few adult and a few children's books. The idea of it is for people to put one in as they take one out so that it is self-sustaining, and it always has books in it."

The little library started with a variety of books including some from the "Diary of a Wimpy Kid" series and other teen favorites and The Bible. The library has been up for a few weeks now and the girls were thrilled to see it remains stocked.

"That's exciting!" exclaimed Williams.

When asked if they would be adding any Harry Potter books, Lawrence laughed, "We are all too attached to our Harry Potter books."

She added, "If you read a book, you are done with it, but with this, you can turn it back in and grab another book and exchange it out. So, you are never without something you haven't already read."

Researching, planning, building and installing the library took the girls at least a month to complete. Roy said that the trio visited other little libraries and food pantries to learn the pros and cons of each one's design. After noticing that many were made of wood and in need of repair, the girls began looking into alternative building materials. The school itself expressed a little concern about the upkeep of the library, but the girls found a solution.

"It's actually made out of PVC," said Roy. "We decided to try and pick more durable supplies to make it out of, so we chose this PVC-looking wood. It never needs painting."

Roy and Williams, both freshmen, will now begin work on their gold project as they move up to senior and ambassador level Girl Scouts. The gold projects will be individual service projects.

Said Williams, "I've thought about mine, but I'm not sure yet. I do have a few ideas though."

Lawrence is in eighth grade and will be a senior Girl Scout next year.

Roy's father, John Roy, said, "They learned about the tools and everything when they did all the cuts. They used nail guns, power drills and everything."

The girls will earn woodworking badges for their efforts.

Abigail Roy is the daughter of John and Mindy Roy and attends West Point High School. Gracie Williams is the daughter of John and Lana Williams and she is homeschooled. Piper Lawrence is the daughter of Jason and Carol Lawrence and is also homeschooled, but she is a member of the West Point High School marching band.
