W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Attention, job seekers! With unemployment rates at record lows, employers are working hard to get employees, and Cullman area industries are no exception. This Saturday, Sept. 28, 2019, eight or more of the county's industries will be at the Cullman Civic Center from 8 a.m. until noon, taking applications, and in some cases, conducting interviews on the spot.

Committed participants include:

- Birmingham Fastener
- Homtex
- Louisiana Pacific
- NAFCO
- REHAU
- Topre America
- Wal-Mart Distribution
- Yutaka Technologies

According to Cullman Economic Development Agency (CEDA) Project Coordinator Susan Eller, other industries have expressed an interest, so the number of recruiters may rise.

Said Eller, "We have companies that have available jobs now that'll be taking applications. Some may be doing onsite interviews; if it's someone that they really know fits what they're looking for, there may be some onsite interviews. There's no place right now to apply. All applications will be done onsite. Some will be paper applications and some will be online only, but we will have computers set up there for people who are only taking online applications."

Eller said 100 or more jobs could be available currently, and companies may also take applications to fill positions as they come open in the » PAGE 4

Superintendent Barnette joins students in Vinemont for prayer event

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

VINEMONT, Ala. – Students and faculty members from Vinemont's schools met around the flagpole in front of Vinemont High School Wednesday morning for a moment of prayer as part of the 2019 observance of "See You at the Pole," a global day of student-led prayer for schools, faculty, staff and fellow students.

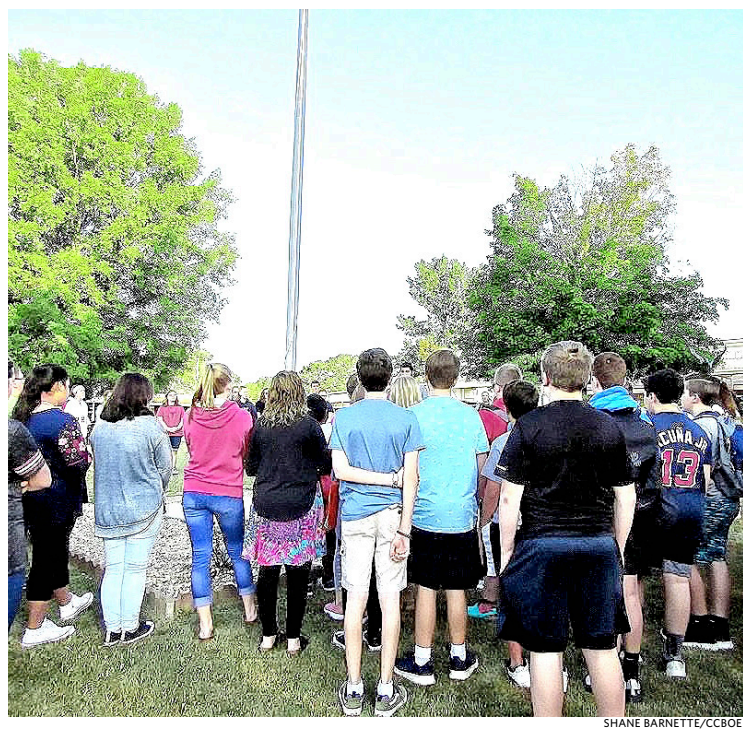

The event, which began in 1990 with a group of students in Texas visiting local schools one evening to pray, has grown into an organized movement involving an estimated one million students per year in 64 countries today.

On its website, the group says:

"God is continuing to call His people to repentance and prayer.

"Countless inspiring testimonies of how He has used See You at the Pole™ to bring students to Christ and to change lives affirm God's power to answer those who cry out to Him in humble dependence. Bible clubs, weekly prayer meetings, and other ministries have begun on campuses where students participated in See You at the Pole."

Cullman County School Superintendent Dr. Shane Barnette joined the students in Vinemont, saying afterward, "I was proud to get to attend the national event at Vinemont High School in which a great number of students and teachers gathered to pray for each other and our nation as a whole. Great way to start off my morning."

New research published in the Journal of the American College of Cardiology's Heart Failure issue found significant correlations between blood levels of EPA plus DHA omega-3s in "cognitive" (as opposed to "somatic") depression among heart failure subjects. (Cognitive depression would include symptoms like sadness and pessimism, whereas somatic would include manifestations such as fatigue and sleep disturbances).

In the largest trial to date to assess cardiovascular outcomes for an important class of diabetes medications, researchers have found that dapagliflozin markedly reduced the risk of hospitalization for heart failure in a broad population of patients with diabetes. This benefit was seen across the study population, including in patients who did not have a history of heart attack or heart failure. Results were published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

According to a study published in Academic Emergency Medicine, intravenous low-dose ketamine (LDK) is as effective as intravenous morphine in the control of acute pain in adults in the emergency department (ED). The results indicate that ketamine can be considered as an alternative to opioids for ED short-term pain control.

One in two persons aged 65 and above has suboptimal levels of vitamin D in the blood. Moreover, as the authors of the study report in the peer-reviewed journal Nutrients, one in four older adults has suboptimal vitamin B12 levels.

Job fair (from Front)

future.

The event has been advertised to residents of Cullman, Jefferson, Walker, Winston, Lawrence, Morgan and Blount Counties.

According to Eller, "Those are all people that may not have an industry market like we have, so they may have available people. Those are all that can drive to and from Cullman probably within about 30 minutes, so with our easy accessibility of our industrial parks to the interstate, it makes it really easy for people to get in and out of Cullman."

Not what most people think of industry

Eller said Cullman's industries generally defy traditional concepts of the factory floor, saying, "People may have a picture of a factory in their mind as somewhere that's dark and dirty and hot places to work, but most of our industries in Cullman, most of them are air-conditioned-not all, most of them are clean, well-lit.

"It's a great opportunity for people to get their foot in the doors.

"And with the job market today, you can move up as fast as you want to in a lot of the facilities. I talked to a young man the other day that started out as production, and I think he's been there less than three years, maybe, and he's already in management. That's not going to happen to everybody, but there are opportunities for people to move up, if you're doing a good job and performing."

Come ready for business

Eller advised job seekers to "come ready to interview: dressed appropriately, bring your resumé. You can bring your resumé with you if you want to; that's just to give you a step ahead."

Addison headed to Vinemont Friday; Bulldogs, Broncos hitting the road

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

The Aggies, Raiders and Warriors are all off this week but there is still one battle coming up between two local squads Friday night. The Vinemont Eagles will host the Addison Bulldogs Friday night in a non-region matchup that has been played every season since 2014 and Addison has won four of those five meetings. Holly Pond and Hanceville will also be taking on a pair of non-region opponents as they prepare to travel to Danville and Curry respectively. With half of the regular season in the books, each week becomes more and more important for everyone across the state.

(3-2) Addison (2A Region 7) at (2-2) Vinemont (3A Region 5)

The Bulldogs have been in control of this series in recent history, taking four of the last five matchups but the Eagles are going to try and change that Friday night. Vinemont is coming off a big region win at Hanceville in which running back Dallin Dinkle carried the ball nearly 50 times to help lead the Eagles to a win, but he'll be going up against a solid front seven in Addison.

The Bulldogs are allowing just over 12 points per game this season and the strength of that defense is stopping the run. The Eagles defense has been a little more vulnerable through the first half of the season but tightened up in last week's win at Hanceville and wants to create some momentum going into the latter portion of their schedule.

The running game has been the focus for Addison offensively as well. Christian Roberts, Caleb Crider, Grant Rice and Weston Smith have all been effective ball carriers for the Bulldogs this season and dealing with that many good runners is a challenge for any defense. All signs point to a physical game Friday night and the team that can maintain its intensity for all four quarters will have the best chance to leave the field with a win.

(1-4) Holly Pond (3A Region 5) at (2-3) Danville (4A Region 7)

After collecting their first win of the season over Hanceville two weeks ago, the Broncos fell to Fultondale last Friday to move to 1-4 but will have to shake off the region loss and prepare to travel to Danville this week. Holly Pond defeated the Hawks 26-8 a season ago so the Broncos will be headed into a hostile environment when they arrive at Smith-Owens Stadium.

Danville was winless in 2018 but has already picked up two wins in the first half of this season and scored more points in its first five games than it did all of last season combined. The Hawks allowed over 43 points per game last season but have that number down to 23 right now so Holly Pond will be going up against a much-improved team Friday night. The Broncos have struggled to move the ball consistently so far in 2019 and things won't be getting easier as the season progresses. A win at Danville would be a big chance for the Broncos to grab some momentum and finish the season strong.

MARTHA NEEDHAM/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Right – Vinemont's Colby Miller (8)

(2-3) Hanceville (3A Region 5) at (0-4) Curry (4A Region 5)

Hanceville has dropped back to back games to county rivals Holly Pond and Vinemont, but the Bulldogs will have a chance to get back to .500 and build some momentum for the second half of the season. The Yellow Jackets have had some struggles early this season and are currently winless as they prepare to host Hanceville.

Curry is allowing over 41 points per game right now and this week could be a great chance for a struggling Bulldogs offense to find its footing.

Hanceville is scoring just under 20 points per game this season but will have a chance for some big plays this week against a struggling Yellow Jackets defense.

Curry was able to win last years' matchup 27-16 so the Bulldogs will revenge on their minds when they get Curry Friday night.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Hypothetical – Bernie or Elizabeth, was this your idea?

John W. Giles
Contributor

Right thinking, fact driven Americans have hit their high-water mark, frustrated with the liberal news media fabricating stories about conservatives. Every day, since the Nov. 8, 2016 election (almost 3 years ago), liberal Democrats and members of the counterfeit media have worked around the clock fabricating, packaging and pounding this president with false claims, which have become hypotheticals on steroids. Well, I have a hypothetical of my own, but I am up front, it is a hypothetical.

Serving in the public policy arena for about 20 years, you truly become jaded by the motivation of others in various political settings.

Generally, when you see something or someone acting a little out of character or bizarre, you begin to ask yourself questions.

Questions like, who is behind this, where is the money to fund this coming from, is this a coalition effort, who benefits the most, is this a bait and switch, what is really going on here and the like.

Seldom do you have something purely thoroughbred in nature with heartfelt sincere motives; they do exist, but not often. As we watch this Russia Prank 2.0 unfold, it will be most interesting to follow the money and unravel all of the political strings.

In this case, you have a self-appointed whistleblower, whose lawyer worked for Hillary & Schumer, that received a nothing burger tip from an anti-Trump insider, spying on a Presidential classified conversation with another head of state.

One might ask the question, who might benefit the most from the fallout and residue derived from this synthetic scandal.

First, you cast a potential dark cloud over the president, score.

You trigger wide spread questions and investigations into the life and family of 2020 Democrat presidential frontrunner Joe Biden, score.

Heads of state are paranoid to talk to Trump fearing malicious wire taps, Score.

You cause the stock market to sink a day or two making Trump's economy look bad, Score.

You empower AOC and company forcing Nancy to consider impeachment, score.

Fellow Democrats enthusiastically rally and love the idea of removing a sitting GOP President, score. You know the U.S. Senate will never see the light of day of this notion, so a sitting Democrat U.S. Senator will not be scorched by this plot, score. So, where is the benefactor?

In FULL DISCLOSURE, this is a Hypothetical Stretch, but it does make for some great conversation.

I wrote an article recently (entitled, "Restoring Ethics In Journalism") scolding the Left for this kind of journalistic behavior.

I may even be slightly guilty here of penning my speculations, but I am at least labeling this as hypothetical and speculative and it is an opinion piece, not journalism.

On a side note, this Russia Prank 2.0 will miserably fail and will backfire like an antique T-Model Ford.

By the way Nancy, thank you for this early gift. You just energized our base and our 2020 "Get Out the Vote Program" will yield a historic GOP House, Senate and Whitehouse landside.

This sounds like an excellent book idea, "2020 GOP Landslide," by Nancy Pelosi. Hope you like red maps!

Elizabeth or Bernie, was this your brilliant two-edged sword competition-elimination idea?

Pretty smart, but you may need to borrow some chalk and return to the drawing board.

Homeschool (from Front)

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman Homeschool Activities and Resource Group (CHARGe) Field Day at Sportsman Lake Park was held Wednesday with at least 125 kids of all ages getting together for a day of fun and games. The day was one of many exciting group activities that CHARGe organizes for the homeschool community.

The kids had a great time participating in relay races, a three-legged race and water games with their friends. Lana Freeman and Jennifer Garcia, two veteran homeschool moms organized CHARGe "for Cullman area homeschoolers offering activities, field trips and social learning opportunities."

Garcia moved to Cullman from the Madison and wanted to create a community in the Cullman area for homeschoolers.

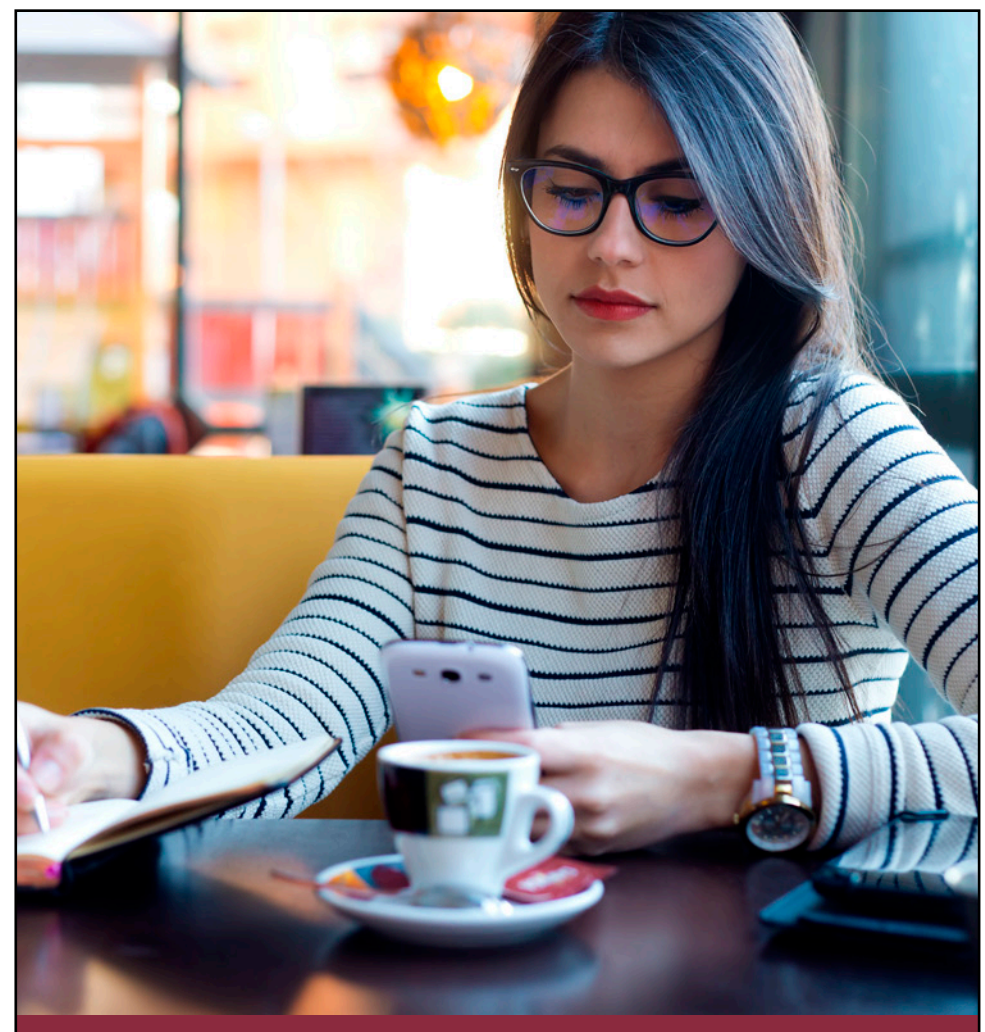

She said, "I went to school with Lana and we hooked back up again through Facebook- Let's do something the whole community can be a part of and if someone wants to organize a field trip, they have a group to organize that with. Homeschoolers, we have to create our own things for our children because we don't have a structure outside our home to do that."

The group recently had field trips to Sloss Furnace and fire stations. It also has fun activities including bowling and skating nights. CHARGe is focused on homeschoolers "coming together, making connections and joining their circle of friendships."

Freeman added, "We have 5-18-year-olds here today, and as you can see, they are all just being kids together."

After lunch, the water games had everyone laughing and gave some relief from the heat, including a giant game of duck-duck-goose with a bit of a water twist. The goose was chosen by having a bucket of water dumped on him or her. After everyone was cooled off, the kids enjoyed dancing to the "Cha-Cha Slide."

Through the organizing of the home school community, parents can exchange ideas and talents that allow for a broader variety of classes and electives available. Garcia and Freeman welcome everyone to learn more about the group and want to guide and provide resources for current and potential homeschool families. They invite those interested to visit their Facebook page at www.facebook.com/chargecullman/.
