Cullman Parks, Recreation & Sports Tourism bids farewell to Nathan Anderson

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman Parks, Recreation & Sports Tourism (CPRST) on Tuesday, Oct. 1 will bid a fond farewell to Nathan Anderson, the agency's executive director for the last five years. After announcing his resignation in early August, he worked with the agency's board on a plan for a smooth transition that kept him here through September. He will continue to serve as a consultant for a short term on the other side of the transition, and then he will be on to the next chapter of his story in Nashville in November.

Since Anderson's hiring in the summer of 2014, CPRST has seen substantial growth through:

- Improvement and upgrading of neighborhood parks throughout the city
- Creation or expansion of special events by CPRST or agency partnerships including Oktoberfest, Strawberry Festival, Christmas Parade and Tree Lighting, Dinner on First, 2nd Fridays and others
- Increasing accessibility to diverse populations through facilities like the connected playground at Ingle Park

Anderson's last year will be remembered for two major developments:

- The announcement of the construction of a multi-use sports and event facility at the old Marvin's location on Main Avenue, which will create a contiguous recreation corridor through southwest Cullman including Heritage Park, the new facility, Cullman Wellness & Aquatic Center, Field of Miracles, Donald Green Senior Center and Ingle Park.
- Accreditation through the National Recreation and Park Association's Commission for Accreditation of Park and Recreation Agencies (CAPRA). Cullman became the first accredited system in Alabama and one of only 178 across the country. Anderson said, "This process has made us more mindful in handling the entrusted resources of our community. Using the data and insight gathered from the patrons of our parks and facilities, we have grown more intentional with the development of parks, facilities and programs."

The Tribune talked with Anderson about his time at CPRST and his upcoming move.

What do you see as the biggest change at CPRST during your time there?

"Cullman Parks, Recreation & Sports Tourism has been considered a leader amongst its peers for many years; however, five years ago when I started, we felt there were some fundamental needs for improvement with the foundation of our organization's operations and many critical facility/park improvements that needed to be addressed. Looking back, we've addressed each of those needs in five short years. The CAPRA accreditation process revealed the weaknesses in our foundation, so our team could make meaningful changes to our operation, planning and the way we serve our community. With these changes in place we can continue to grow and build on this foundation for decades to come. Also, we are proud to report that we have improved all our major facilities, reconstructed most of the neighborhood parks and are currently giving Heritage Park a much-needed facelift that will carry it for the next 20 years. Art Park will be finished soon, and plans are underway to continue the small park renovation plan with the redesign of Eastside Park and Nesmith Park.

CONTRIBUTED

Nathan Anderson

What things are you proudest of from your time there?

"By working with the Cullman Parks, Recreation & Sports Tourism team, park board, mayor, council and community, we have grown so much and accomplished great things together. Most recently, completing the daunting task of CAPRA national accreditation and finishing the accreditation as the first agency to achieve this in our state's history."

What are you looking forward to in Nashville, and what will your official duties entail?

"I will be the CEO of a very successful and rapidly growing entertainment and logistics company. In many ways, it will be a role similar to what I've been doing as the CPRST executive director. This is a great opportunity and adventure for my family and me.

"I'm looking forward to taking all that I've learned while serving this community and working with the incredible CPRST team and applying it in a different field. I love taking on new challenges!"

Based on the direction CPRST has gone in the last five years, where do you see it in five more?

Suspect in Thursday night chase apprehended

Wendy Sack
wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The male suspect involved in Thursday night's lengthy high-speed chase through Cullman and down Interstate 65 was finally captured Sunday morning by deputies from the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO). Dustin Dan Patterson, 35, of Mulga, Alabama eluded authorities for more than 48 hours after fleeing into the woods in the Arkadelphia area following the chase. He is being held in the Cullman County Detention Center without bond.

Although the CCSO said Patterson has multiple drug-related warrants and will also face charges from the Cullman Police Department (CPD) related to the chase, it has not yet released the full list of new charges Patterson is facing.

Tiffany Barry, 40, of Bessemer, who was in the vehicle with Patterson, was apprehended the night of the pursuit. Barry was charged with attempting to elude, according to CPD Lt. David Nassetta, who said she will most likely also face charges of theft of property related to the shoplifting incident.

CPD Chief Kenny Culpepper Thursday night said, "At around 6:30 p.m. officers responded to a report of shoplifting at Wal-Mart (on Olive Street in south Cullman). Officers attempted to stop them, but they fled."

Culpepper said the pair led officers on a chase up U.S. Highway 31 through Cullman, all the way to Alabama Highway 157, where they turned toward the interstate.

"They did make contact with another vehicle during the chase," said Culpepper, "but no one was injured."

The vehicle exited onto I-65 South, and the CPD officers pursued it approximately 19 miles to Exit 291, where the pair exited toward Arkadelphia.

The CCSO joined in the pursuit on I-65.

"At some point, they (the suspects) blew a tire and were running on a rim," said Culpepper. "They were forced to stop. The female was apprehended, and the male ran off into the woods."

Kindness (from Front)

DANVILLE, Ala. – Last Friday evening, Holly Pond High School's (HPHS) football team suffered a defeat at Danville High School, but one Bronco scored a win that had fans on both sides of the field cheering. HPHS junior middle linebacker no. 42 Andy Garcia came to the aid of Danville senior running back no. 2 Jake Waddell in a demonstration of sportsmanship that has stirred a big buzz on social media.

Witness Greg A. Lane told the story on social media, "At the end of the Danville vs. Holly Pond football game Friday night, both teams met in the middle of the field for a time of prayer. I was so impressed I had to take a photo! But, let me tell you about something that happened in the middle of the game that impressed and inspired me even more.

About midway through the game, Danville ran a play and one of their running backs was tackled and remained on the ground, writhing in pain... he had muscle cramps in his calves. I know first hand what that pain feels like, so I sympathized with the guy. When one of the players on the opposing team saw this player writhing in pain on the ground, he ran up to him, grabbed both of the player's feet, lifted them in the air, and began applying pressure against the toes of both cleats... the training protocol for dealing with calf cramps. He continued working with the fallen Danville player until the trainer ran out on the field and took over. What an awesome, selfless act of kindness that young man displayed. The fans in the Danville stands were cheering loudly for the scene that was going on.... not cheering because of a great offensive or defensive play... not cheering because of a touchdown pass... not even cheering for their home team. No, they were cheering for a person on the opposing team that came to the rescue of one of their own players and showed kindness, even in the midst of a competitive battle.

I joined the crowd in cheering. We called out the number of the player who was helping. "Way to go number 42!" It was an awesome sight to behold! People were hollering, applauding, and whistling! It was the first time in my life that I can remember a group of fans from one team cheering for an individual on the opposing team. I left that game inspired and hopeful about the next generation.

I'm not going to lie. There are times I throw my hands up in disgust when I see the craziness of the next generation being raised up in this country. But, just for a minute, at a Friday night football game (of all places), a little hope for the next generation was rekindled inside me... and I wanted to share that ember of hope with you today."

Amy Welborn Sherrill Had a better vantage point on the incident than most. From Danville's sideline, she took a photo of the incident that has been circulating on social media, and which was forwarded to staff at HPHS and the county system office.

In a message Sunday afternoon, Sherrill told The Tribune, "The minute this happened I knew it was more than likely cramps and it was such a touching moment. That was a moment we as parents, coaches and players should keep imbedded in our hearts. True sportsmanship. The #42 immediately helped and didn't hesitate at all."

Social media posts drew words of praise (not corrected for spelling or grammar) from commenters and post sharers like:

- "Amazing! There were no losers in this game !!"
- "Great, glad to see so much love in our young men"
- "That is awesome on both counts. Teams praying together and opposing players being good sportsman and being a good servant. Very rare these days and to know it happened at my former school, makes it even better. Way to go Hawks and way to go #42."
- "This was a very touching thing to witness firsthand! #42 is the real deal!"
- "What an amazing story, true sportsmanship"
- "Way to go...this is how you can be a great human... what a great young man"
- "LOVE this! They may be opponents on the field, but this young man recognized a fellow athlete in need and helped! THAT is true sportsmanship and camaraderie! WTG young man!"
- "Awesome Young Man"
- "Sportsmanship is a class act! Good act bro!"

Officials react

Holly Pond High School Assistant Principal Janet Turner and other school and system officials received a note complimenting Garcia from a Morgan County Board of Education staffer, who also forwarded the photo that has seen so many shares.

Turner boasted to The Tribune about her student, "Although I haven't known him very long, I wouldn't expect anything less in him. Andy is a part of our ROTC program. He shows great character at school as well, so doing this on the field shows what a good person he is all the time. He is a pleasure to be around and always has a smile on his face. I am so proud of him! Holly Pond is very fortunate to have a peer role model such as Andy."

Cullman County School Superintendent Dr. Shane Barnette told The Tribune, "Such a demonstration of sportsmanship makes my heart glad. This young man is an example of the character that many of our Cullman County athletes demonstrate every week on fields and courts throughout our school system."

Broncos Head Coach Mike Bates was proud to see Garcia lend a helping hand in a competitive game. Andy's character is on display for all to see now, but Bates has known for a long time what kind of person he is and is happy to see a great player and young man getting recognition.

"Andy was a good kid long before that ever happened, you know. What the general public should know is there are kids like him all over the place playing high school football and he's a great example of them," Bates said.

"There are a lot of good kids out there and he's a fine young man. He's one of our best football players, I think before he got hurt last year, he was leading our team in tackles and he's probably leading us this year if I had to guess."

Bates is proud of Garcia and many others on his team for displaying character on and off the field and wasn't surprised to see that character during last week's game. Bates thinks the image of two young men competing hard while also looking out for one another is something we should all notice.

"We've got a bunch of kids like him on our team, we really do and that didn't surprise me at all. As a matter of fact, during the course of the game, when I saw I didn't really think anything about it. Andy probably tackled the guy, if I had to guess. So, he tackled him and then helped him out a little bit, and the rest of the world can learn something from that picture; I can tell you that."

in store for CPRST. We have experienced tremendous growth recently, and I have no doubt that the success we've experienced over the last five years will continue far into the future. We are blessed to have many talented, dedicated individuals at CPRST working diligently to ensure the continued success for generations to come in Cullman."

City officials react

Mayor Woody Jacobs told The Tribune, "Nathan has been a great asset to the city of Cullman and the Cullman Parks, Recreation & Sports Tourism department. We are truly sorry to see him go.

"He has helped grow and expand the department during his five years here. It seems appropriate he will start at his new job only a week after the Cullman park program became the first park department in Alabama to earn a national accreditation from the National Recreation and Parks Association.

"Nathan's vision allowed the Cullman programs and facilities to always be considered among the best in America."

Cullman Economic Development Agency Director Dale Greer said, "Quality of life is a critical element to any community having a successful economic development program.

"Nathan Anderson took a department and agency that was already highly regarded in park and recreation circles and expanded the programs, services and events at Cullman parks and rec to provide even more opportunities for people living here and those considering relocating to Cullman.

"The quality of the programs and facilities, coupled with the professionalism of the staff, made it a great selling point for our community. His energy and drive made all of us better."

Jacobs proclaims October 2019 'Alpha Delta Kappa (ADK) Month' in Cullman

Leanne West
Contributor

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman Mayor Woody Jacobs on Monday officially proclaimed the month of October 2019 "Alpha Delta Kappa (ADK) Month" in the city of Cullman.

Alpha Delta Kappa is an international honorary organization of women educators.

Their mission statement states that ADK is "dedicated to educational excellence, altruism and world understanding." ADK members are committed to improving schools, communities, the teaching profession and the world through leadership development and networking, training sessions, conferences and conventions, and many community-based altruistic projects that enrich the lives of people and communities throughout the world.

Cullman is fortunate to have two ADK chapters: The Alpha Theta Chapter and the Beta Delta Chapter.

ADK members Nancy Horton and Linda Creel accepted the proclamation from Jacobs on behalf of the Alpha Theta Chapter, and Rhonda Van Zandt and Linda Walker accepted on behalf of the Beta Delta Chapter.

"The ADK provides many opportunities for women educators to make a difference in their schools and communities," said Jacobs.

"These ladies, and all of Cullman's ADK members, are dedicated to leading the way toward educational excellence in our local schools, and we greatly appreciate all that they do."

ADK was founded in 1947 by Agnes Shipman Robertson, Marie Neal, Marion Southall and Hattie Poppino.

All these ladies were educators who recognized a need for closer professional ties among women educators.

Today there are currently more than 30,000 members in more than 1,200 ADK chapters throughout the U.S. as well as in Australia, Canada, Jamaica, Mexico and Puerto Rico. Membership is honorary and based on peer recognition.

For more information about Alpha Delta Kappa, ask a local member or visit www.alphadeltakappa.org.

The proclamation presented by Mayor Jacobs reads as follows:

Whereas, women in education constitute a great portion of the nation's working force; and,

Whereas, women are constantly striving to serve their communities and nation in educational, civic, cultural, and charitable programs leading to harmony, happiness, and peace among all people; and,

Whereas the major goals of Alpha Delta Kappa, an international honorary sorority for women educators, are: To give recognition to outstanding educators; and, To build a fraternal fellowship among educators, adding to their effectiveness in the promotion of excellence in education; and, To establish high standards of education; and, to promote educational and charitable projects and activities, enriching the lives of individuals everywhere and assisting these individuals into happy, constructive, and fulfilling lives; and,

Whereas, each October, Alpha Delta Kappa members honor the memory of their founders who promoted the recognition of outstanding women educators.

Now, therefore, I, Woody Jacobs, as Mayor of the City of Cullman and on behalf of the Cullman City Council and our citizens, do hereby proclaim the month of October 2019 "Alpha Delta Kappa (ADK) Month" in the City of Cullman and urge our citizens to offer their sincere appreciation to the members of this club for their contributions to the field of education and their service to our community.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Cullman to be affixed on this, the 30th day of September, 2019.

Mayor Woody Jacobs

OPINION

Healthy Church

Rev. Tom Fillinger
Tribune Columnist

What you believe is what you do, not merely what you say. If the Evangelical Church truly believed and practiced what they say they believe Cullman County and the state of Alabama would be turned upside down with robust Reformation and Renewal. During the Welsh Revival (1904-1905) the evidence of true regeneration and conversion were on public display. The impact of that movement literally changed an entire nation and other nations around that country. Where is such dramatic Gospel impact today?

The 1904-1905 Welsh Revival was the largest Christian revival in Wales during the 20th century. While by no means the best known of revivals, it was one of the most dramatic in terms of its effect on the population. It triggered revivals in several other countries.

This article begins a series on the topic of "What is a Healthy Church?" My thesis is this – the churches in Cullman County and northern Alabama are NOT HEALTHY. That statement will engender some aggressive pushback.

I expect that. There is a principle in education that states, 'If there is no resistance to what you are declaring there will be no impact or change.' I invite my readers to engage with me on this topic. Close to 90% of the churches in Cullman County have Bi-Vocational Pastors.

The reason – they have declined numerically to the point at which they are unable to provide adequate compensation for a full-time Elder/Shepherd.

The ministry of IgniteUS is focused on Leadership Development that produces Leaders who embrace ministry that produces transformed people and transformed churches.

I invite your prayer for this process. I invite you to challenge your pastor to do what needs to be done so that the church you attend is healthy and making disciples rather than continuing to decline.

The end of that journey of decline leads to churches closing the doors!

What determines whether or not a church is healthy? It is not the number of people attending.

It is not the size of the offerings each week. It is not the number of people presenting themselves for baptism or membership.

The issue that determines the health of a church is whether or not people are being transformed and whether or not lost people are being redeemed.

The evidence of this is that the members of that church are presenting the gospel in the highways and byways of their community.

If a church claims to make disciples, and almost all do, that church must have a definition of what a disciple is. What you have not defined you cannot measure. A healthy church also lives in obedience to the one another commands of the NT. If you do not know what they are you cannot obey them.

A healthy church is a church that lives life in community.

There is an intimacy and a genuine connection among all the members.

They provide nurture and care for one another in every realm of life.

We will review 16 characteristics of a healthy church. Is your church healthy or on the way to closing the doors?

Jones (from Front)

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – U.S. Sen. Doug Jones, D-Alabama was on the campus of Wallace State Community College Monday evening to host a constituent town hall and after sharing some opening remarks, spent time answering questions from those in attendance.

One of the topics that Jones opened Monday's town hall with was the discourse in national politics today.

"In those days you really had a Senate that was a deliberative body. You had things that got to the Senate floor where people would debate, and you'd have these great speeches on the floor to try and persuade people. We don't see that a lot anymore. When you turn on CSPAN now, you'll see political speeches," Jones said. "I give them, everybody gives them, and during the last one I gave the other day, there was not but one person on the floor and that was the presiding officer.

"That's just the nature of the beast these days and it's unfortunate. I really wish we could get back to that regular order.

"We would actually be talking about and deliberating a lot of bills, because I will tell you, there is a lot more work done together and across the aisle than you see in those political speeches or the dueling press conferences you see. I think I'm on over 200 bills right now, and 80% of those are bipartisan bills."

Jones touched on things like health care, veterans' families and bills he's currently working on before fielding questions from the crowd.

The first question of the night came from Hanceville Mayor Kenneth Nail, who had a question concerning funds making their way down from the state to the local level.

"Senator, one of my concerns is locally we get all these mandates from Montgomery, and I know you're in Washington not Montgomery, to do this and do that, but there never seems to be money coming down from that," Nail said. "What are your thoughts on that?"

Jones responded by agreeing with Nail that the movement of funds to the local level is an issue and gave his thoughts on where some of those problems could be coming from.

"I've gone to Washington to try and figure out how I can strip away a little bit of mandates and some of the red tape. We've done that in a number of ways like the banking bill that we did that really helped community banks and credit unions with regard to Dodd-Frank regulations so they didn't have to spend money doing things they really didn't have to do; we've had enough experience with that. One of the problems that we see with the way a lot of the money is set up, mayor, is it goes through the state," Jones said.

"I'm not trying to pass the buck to the state, but the way things are set with ADECA and others, they're the middleman, and I wish I could just wave a magic wand and do it directly. The money that we're getting to widen Highway 157 would've come straight here to get it done, but we have to go through different places. It's a real problem and I've heard that for years, that money kind of gets funneled down there and ends up going in politically correct ways and not necessarily where it's needed. I think you've got good state reps and senators up here, so I'd talk to them about it because I really think the problem with where the money goes and how it gets there is with the state, and I'm not just blaming them. This is a problem that has been going on for a long time."

Jones took questions on topics ranging from health care to taxes and immigration to vaccines before Monday's event began to wind down. According to the senator's office, this meeting will be the latest in an ongoing series of town hall meetings Jones is holding across the state to hear directly from Alabamians.

Jones defeated Republican Roy Moore in the U.S. Senate special election Dec. 12, 2017 by a razor-thin margin, becoming the first Democratic senator from Alabama in 25 years. The seat was previously held by Republican Jeff Sessions, who was appointed U.S. Attorney General by President Donald Trump, and then by Alabama Attorney Gen. Luther Strange, who was appointed to fill the seat by former Alabama Gov. Robert Bentley after Sessions left.

Eva celebrates 30th Anniversary Eva Frontier Days

maggie@cullmantribune.com

EVA, Ala. – The community of Eva was brought to a standstill Saturday with the 30th Anniversary Eva Frontier Days festival. Traders, food vendors, car and tractor enthusiasts alike gathered in Alabama's "Little Town with a Big Heart" to enjoy the final day of the week-long festivities.

Eva Art Guild Secretary Barbara Frost has attended all 30 festivals.

"It's drawn us closer together because you see friends you haven't seen in years and it keeps getting bigger," said Frost. "We just work toward each year to make it bigger and better for the community."

Frost shared what made this year's festival different than previous year's.

"I think it's been better, the weather has really been good, except it's hot, but it's better than rain! I think it's been better as far as the crowd, it's like we're spread out more than we used to be so it's kind of hard to tell if we have a bigger crowd, because most of mine, I'm up this way, and I know the tractor show and car show, they increased and have had bigger crowds."

The days saw an arts and crafts show, car show and antique tractor show, a baking contest, the annual Eva Frontier Days Parade, food vendors and games, live entertainment from Jeff Whitlow and the Ole Barn Band, a pig calling contest, a frog jumping contest and the popular greased pig chase.

To commemorate the festival's 30th anniversary, the Eva Art Guild made a T-shirt quilt using a shirt from each year's festival.

"It's the front of every T-shirt we had for the 30 years, since it's the 30th Frontier Days we decided to do that to be commemorative," said Frost. "The Art Guild does a quilt every year and we'll change it some, but this one is unique, very unique. Everybody that's from around here wants it."

The quilt was raffled off during the festival.
