BUSINESS

Mind, Body and Coffee: new downtown Hanceville shop offers well-being for the whole person

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – During Hanceville's Mud Creek Arts & Crafts Festival on Saturday, Leah and Ace McCollins slipped in behind the line of street vendors on Commercial Street for a "soft" opening of their new coffee-and-much-more shop named Rise Up. The business completes the Commercial Street phase of Hanceville's downtown revitalization project, but does so in a unique way.

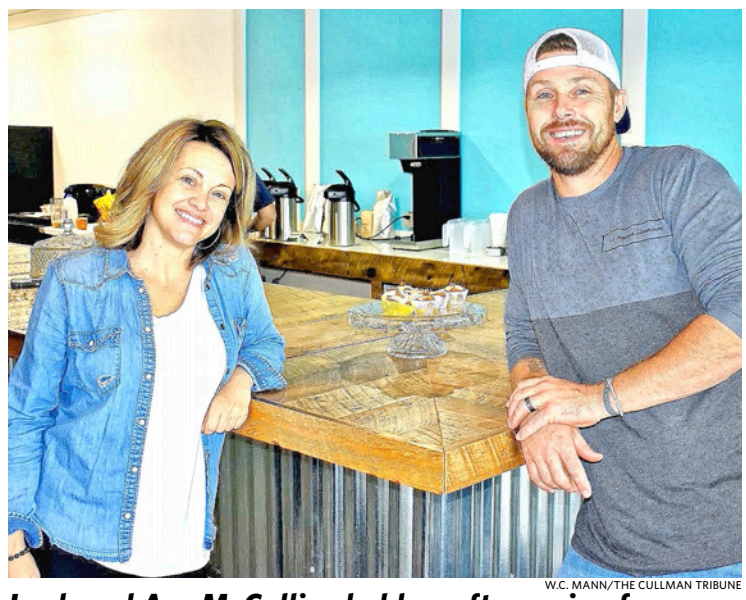

Leah McCollins is a licensed professional counselor who was formerly assigned to Hanceville's three schools as a support counselor with Mental Health Care of Cullman (now WellStone). She now wants to offer her services to the community as a whole.

McCollins explained, "I want to be able to provide mental health services for folks in our community that don't have insurance, or else their copays are still too expensive with the insurance. I do therapy for a reduced rate, at a reduced hourly rate, or no rate if folks can't afford it at all."

The shop will offer coffee and mental health care: an interesting combination, but the owners are absolutely serious about it. The couple is even making room for a little more: a buildup of the body as well as the mind.

McCollins explained, "My friend Amber Sellers is opening a gym back there. So we're doing a coffee and nutrition bar in the front and, basically, we just need this business to be successful so that we can provide the resources, you know, that we need in this building. We're just connecting with a lot of people in the community to just be a presence here, make mental health care more available in this area."

Behind the counter at the coffee bar, husband Ace McCollins insisted, "It's her vision, it's her dream; I'm just here to stand behind her with it, you know. We just feel like we need to reach out to the community. God's blessed us in so many ways, and we're trying to bless the community in the same way God blessed us: addiction therapy, children's therapy, just whatever kind of therapy we can do."

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Leah and Ace McCollins held a soft opening for their new business, Rise Up, during Saturday's Mud Creek Arts & Crafts Festival in Hanceville.

Plans for Rise Up include worship nights, small group meetings, a community Thanksgiving meal and a possible Christmas toy drive.

The McCollinses are planning for an official grand opening Nov. 15.

Human trafficking event, Walk for Freedom, this Saturday

Wendy Sack
wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – This Saturday, Oct. 19, tens of thousands of people will gather all over the world for A21's sixth annual fundraising and awareness event, Walk for Freedom. Walks will take place in more than 450 cities across 50 countries raising awareness for the millions enslaved across the globe.

Cullman will host its third annual Walk for Freedom to continue to help raise awareness about the existence of human trafficking and how it affects the community, state and world. Cullman's event will take place at the Cullman County Courthouse from 10-11 a.m.

"Many people think that human trafficking is only something that happens in large cities, " said Stephanie Wood, Cullman walk organizer. "But as we have seen in our own courthouse, that unfortunately isn't the case. However, by joining together, by raising awareness and funds, we can join the fight against human trafficking from right here in Cullman County!"

For more details and pre-registration for the walk, visit A21.org/walk/cullman.

Walk for Freedom is operated by a global anti-human trafficking organization, A21.

The event is a global response to human trafficking—reaching millions with the important message: that slavery still exists. By fundraising and rallying thousands of people around the cause, the hope is that awareness would spread and lead to the rescue and restoration of human beings who are being exploited.

Participants will be walking in single-file lines all over the world—in local towns, through busy intersections and city centers, on dirt tracks in crowded villages, along bridges, tunnels, and water banks. Hundreds of local walks will be marching for a global end to modern-day slavery.

Murder (from Front)

wendy@cullmantribune.com

BAILEYTON, Ala. – Two children were found murdered at a residence along the 4000 block of County Road 1718 near Baileyton Saturday afternoon. Authorities said the children's mother has been arrested.

A visibly distraught Cullman County Sheriff Matt Gentry addressed the media early Saturday evening.

"You never can prepare yourself in the 20 years I've been in law enforcement for children...for something bad to happen to children. There's a lot of evil in this world, and that's just what we saw today, was evil," said Gentry.

Cullman County Coroner Jeremy L. Kilpatrick said the victims were boys, ages 9 and 3.

The Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) said in a statement that dispatch received a 911 call at approximately 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

"We found two small children that were deceased," Gentry said. "Deputies immediately secured the perimeter. We started an active search. We deployed our K-9s here at the property. Within a couple of hundred yards of the residence, we located the suspect, which is the mother of the children. We arrested the mother and she's been flown to a hospital."

Details of what happened inside the residence are unclear.

"We don't know what caused this tragic incident, but what I can tell you is that evil was involved," said Gentry. "Any time a person will do this to children, there's only one word, and that's evil."

The CCSO said it will provide more details in the coming days.

"What I would ask is that you pray for the community, that you pray for the communities. You know, these families lost their children," the sheriff implored. "Again, just continue to pray for them and keep them in your prayers tonight, tomorrow, the rest of the week as they go through this. Pray for the first responders that handle these situations. It's very traumatic."

Cullman County Schools Superintendent Dr. Shane Barnette provided the following statement to The Tribune Monday afternoon:

"It's never a good day when we lose one of our students, but at this point right now, where we're at, we're trying to love on our students and love on the faculty and staff out at Parkside, and support that family as much as we can so everybody can recover from this. But, while we won't ever understand why bad things happen to young children, we're going to be there to support our schools and support our kids."

The county system sent staff to Parkside from the central office Monday, along with the system's three full-time social workers and counselors from other schools, to provide support for students and staff, and Barnette told The Tribune that those resources will continue to be provided as needed in coming days.

For those who wish to help the victims' family, a fund is being set up at Albertville Funeral Home to cover the boys' funeral expenses. According to the funeral home, a link for donations will be available in the online obituary sometime Tuesday. To give or for more information visit https://www.albertvillefuneralhome.com, or call the funeral home at 256-891-1644 to donate by credit card.

A press conference is expected to take place sometime today, Tuesday, Oct. 15. Check www.CullmanTribune.com and www.Facebook.com/CullmanTribune.

Watkins Jr. finished with six catches for 167 yards and a touchdown, while Tyler Johnston III was 17-of-26 for 294 yards, two touchdowns and one interception.

Entering tonight, only one team had thrown for more than 200 yards on UTSA (North Texas – 211).

It was a very balanced attacked as UAB (5-1, 2-1 C-USA) put up 492 yards of total offense which included 198 on the ground. Lucious Stanley led the charge with a career-high 92 yards on 13 carries and a touchdown. True freshman Jermaine Brown Jr. added 62 yards, which was also a career high.

In yet another dominant defensive performance, UAB held UTSA to 220 yards of total offense and had two fumble recoveries, bringing its nation-leading total to 11 recoveries. Kristopher Moll, Noah Wilder and Dy'Jonn Turner each had seven tackles, and Moll added 1.5 TFL, one forced fumble, one fumble recovery, a pass breakup and a quarterback hurry.

Jack linebacker Jordan Smith had a standout game as well, registering a career-high six tackles, 2.0 TFL, a forced fumble and three quarterback hurries.

Nick Vogel also contributed to the win with a career-high four field goals. His first was a 31-yarder which gave UAB a 3-0 lead with 9:59 to go in the opening quarter. Those would be the only three points of the quarter for either team.

After Moll forced a UTSA fumble which TD Marshall recovered, the Blazers went deep on the next play as Johnston III found Watkins Jr. on a 67-yard strike to give the Blazers a 10-0 advantage at the 14:01 mark of the second quarter.

UTSA answered right back behind a 4-yard touchdown run from Sincere McCormick which made the score 10-7 with 12:02 remaining in the half. Vogel added two field goals from 31 and 24 yards, and UAB led 16-7 at the break. The Blazers outgained the Roadrunners 292-130 in the first half, led by Watkins Jr. who had five catches for 123 yards and a touchdown.

UTSA got within two at 16-14 after a 4-yard rushing touchdown by quarterback Lowell Narcisse with 8:57 left in the third, but those would be the final points for UTSA as UAB ended the game with 17 unanswered.

Myron Mitchell extended UAB's lead with his only catch of the night which was a ridiculous 25-yard toe-tap touchdown in the corner of the end zone to make the score 23-14 with six minutes left in the third.

Vogel added a season-long 48-yarder in the beginning of the fourth quarter, and Stanley iced the game with his third touchdown run of the season with 5:20 left in the game. UAB had the ball for 13 more minutes than the Roadrunners (36:06-23:54) and UAB has still not allowed a team to score more than 20 points this season.

The Blazers return home next Saturday, Oct. 19, to host Old Dominion on Homecoming. UAB will honor Children's Harbor by wearing their alternate grey and lime jerseys with patients' names on the back. Kick is set for 3 p.m. on ESPN+.

Hanceville downtown revival on display as festivals, new businesses bring crowds

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Cool fall weather (finally!) and well-established side-by-side festivals on Saturday brought crowds to downtown Hanceville for the eighth annual Mud Creek Arts and Crafts Festival and 28th annual Mud Creek Marching Festival. On the crafty end, 60 retail vendors and four food vendors filled the streets downtown, while local businesses and eateries opened their doors. Two new downtown businesses, Mud Creek Trading Company and Rise Up, even chose Saturday for their opening days. Visitors and shoppers responded in huge numbers to all the happenings.

Event coordinator Nolan Bradford told The Tribune, "From this time last year, we've got three times the people, looks like it to me. I know twice the vendors and about three times the people, so that's a good thing."

Hanceville Mayor Kenneth Nail shared that the arts and crafts festival was "started to bring more awareness of downtown and to promote downtown. Plus, you know, we're also raising money for different things at the school: the art program and stuff like that. It's just kind of a two-for-one deal."

"Commercial Street is full:" three new businesses open in one week

Mud Creek Trading Company and coffee-and-more shop Rise Up opened for business Saturday, joining Trinkets and Traditions, which opened this past Tuesday, as Hanceville's newest downtown business ventures.

Mud Creek Trading Company, located on U.S. Highway 31 next to The Warehouse Barber and around the corner from the Hanceville Drug Company, is owned by Neal and Laura Watts, who previously operated their vintage record business Blue Moon Records out of booths in antique malls in Cullman, Gardendale and Warrior before setting out on their own in Hanceville. The shop will feature their records, plus multiple rented booths for other dealers with other types of merchandise.

Rise Up, located on Commercial Street next to Outbreak Games, is owned by Leah and Ace McCollins. Leah McCollins, a former counselor at Hanceville's three schools, hopes to use both the coffee shop and its revenues to provide low-cost to no-cost mental health services to low-income patients in the community.

Husband Ace McCollins said the shop area will host live music, worship nights and other events. While all that goes on out front, a family friend will manage a small gym in the back of the building.

Rise Up has the distinction of being the final piece of the puzzle for the Commercial Street phase of Hanceville's downtown revitalization plan.

Said Bradford, "Officially, as of now, Commercial Street is full. So, we're going to start working on the side streets next. It's coming together!"

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Commercial Street and side thoroughfares filled with more than 60 retail and food vendors for the Mud Creek Arts and Crafts Festival Saturday.

Trinkets and Traditions, the elder member of the retail freshman class, is located in the Joann Walls Center on Bangor Avenue, and is operated by Valerie Hitt. The variety shop features home decor, boutique clothing and jewelry and vintage/antique items. According to Hitt, it offers "a little bit of something for everybody!"

Nail said of the downtown revival, "I'll tell you, (Bradford)'s done a great job, you know, and the thing is now we've just got to get folks to come in there. Downtown was dead for so long that folks tend to forget about it. So that's we've got to do is educate folks; there's a lot going on in downtown, and we need to stop and shop."

4 area bands compete in 28th annual Mud Creek Marching Festival

heather@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – For their 28th celebration of the Mud Creek Marching Festival, Hanceville High School hosted 26 bands from around the state, with visitors from as far away as Lee County. The competition is hosted as a fundraiser for the Hanceville Bulldog Band, and allows local county bands compete without needing to travel long distances. This year, four county bands took advantage of the familiar ground: the Cold Springs Royal Blue Band, the Holly Pond Bronco Band, the West Point Warrior Band and the Good Hope Raider Band.

Each band is categorized into a class based on size and judged on performances of different band sections: drum major, color guard, majorettes, dance line, feature twirler, percussion and overall band. Each section is given a score between 0-100, and that score falls into one of five performance categories:

I. Superior (90-100)
II. Excellent (80-89.9)
III. Good (70-79.9)
IV. Fair (60-69.9)
V. Poor (<60)

The scores for each band section are compared against every other band in the class for Best in Class awards, and can also be considered for other special awards. In the case of Mud Creek, these special awards are the Silver Division (Classes A and 2A) and Gold Division (Classes 3A, 4A, and 5A) Awards, the Vanessa Watts Memorial Award and the Tam Easterwood Memorial Award.

The competing bands

Class AAAA (67-81)

The first three classes (A White, A Purple and AA) performed until late afternoon, then the festival hosted the University of North Alabama Marching Band as it performed for exhibition with a show that featured hits from the Woodstock Music Festival of 1969.

After that came the rest of the classes, followed by an exhibition show from the host band before the awards. Unfortunately, a member of the Cordova band was injured during the traditional field rushing (where representatives from each band rush the field to claim a good spot where they can accept their awards), and every band member on the field knelt in silent support as he was transported off.

The announcer later reported that the injured band member being held in the ER for observation, but he was expected to make a full recovery.

A spooky good tour with the Southern Ghost Girls

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

Cullman-based Southern Ghost Girls Tours and Paranormal Investigations has been busy this October as Halloween approaches. The ladies, dressed in their signature Victorian gowns, were in their hometown Friday night for a night of history, storytelling and, well, hunting ghosts.

The tour attracted a crowd of guests from as far away as Huntsville, Montgomery and even Mississippi. The Ghost Girls also welcomed the founder of Curt's Closet, Ashley Wilson. A portion of the tour's ticket sales will be donated to the organization.

The tour kicked off at Loretta's Bookstore and Storytelling. Owner Hannah Elliott set the mood with a reading from "Carmilla," the novella by Joseph Sheridan Le Fanu that is widely believed to have influenced Bram Stoker's "Dracula."

Following the reading, guests were given the opportunity to use paranormal equipment for a short investigation inside the bookstore. Activity was detected inside, using anomaly cameras, spirit boxes, Rem-pods and dowsing rods. Guests took turns asking questions and quickly began receiving responses.

Elliott explained to the group that she often feels she is not truly alone while working in her bookstore. Located at 320 First Ave. SE, the property was once part of the original estate of Colonel John Cullmann.

The tour then continued outside as Southern Ghost Girls founder Lesley Ann Hyde, along with Lauren Wilson, told the history of how Cullmann made his way from Germany and eventually to Alabama with his German followers. The group made its way to the pedestrian bridge as it heard about how the L&N Railroad was essential to the prosperity of Cullman.

The tour then arrived at Frankweiler Fountain, located in the parking lot across from Touch of German. It was at the fountain that the group experienced the most head-scratching activity. As all the equipment placed near the fountain continued to detect paranormal activity and energy, a voice clearly said over the spirit box, "Peter."

The group continued to hear audible responses from a man they believed to be Peter. He seemed to prefer talking to the men in the group. Allen Polk, a guest from Madison, began asking questions in German, and the spirit especially appreciated the effort.

The tour wrapped up as guests continued to chat and grapple with what they had seen and heard at the fountain. The story doesn't end there, as Polk, clearly moved by his experience, could not sleep after the tour. He felt compelled to research the name "Peter" in Cullman in hopes of finding answers.

He stumbled across as article from The (Alabama) Cullman Tribune that recounts:

July 13, 1896 Peter Winkelbach was struck was struck by a northbound L&N train at approximately 2am. Location of the incident was approximately 200 yards south of the old train station (now a parking lot) near the location of the German Society fountain. Peter Winkelbach was originally from Germany and emigrated to the United States at age 13. The son of Fred Winkelbach and Anna K. (Unknown) he was born 1859 in Prussia. He was 37 years of age upon his death. It is interesting to note that Peter's death was mere days after Cullman's mortal assault only a few days earlier in the same month. Peter was a close friend of the Mayor Cullman. Was there a deliberate effort to "eliminate" the German influence controlling the language and local ordinances of Cullman?

Hyde was blown away by what Polk found, saying, "That is incredible! We got evidence of Peter; it was definitely coming through the spirit box. I did not know this story about Peter. Wow."

The Southern Ghost Girls have several tours coming up in Decatur, Birmingham, Moulton, Athens and Jasper, Georgia. They will be back in Cullman Nov. 2 for the Day of the Dead Berkeley Bob's Ghost Hunt/ Paranormal Investigation. (www.facebook.com/events/615283648971328/)

Southern Ghost Girls Tours and Paranormal Investigations tours are interactive experiences that allow guests to use the equipment frequently seen on paranormal television shows. The tours focus on the history of the locations they visit and incorporate storytelling into each event. A percentage of proceeds from tickets is returned to the historical societies or local charities of the towns they visit.

Council (from Front)

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman City Council on Monday sat down before an audience, composed mainly of residents from Katherine Street Northwest on the city's west side, and got an earful about conditions on the street when the floor was opened to public comment.

Delitha Marchman, a Katherine Street resident, laid out the complaints of the others present by showing the council photos of run-down houses and cluttered yards, and setting forth the claim that drugs are a growing problem in the area. She noted increasing numbers of people on bicycles wearing backpacks going from house to house along the street.

Marchman asked if the City could possibly condemn certain properties which, according to her, are most run-down or seem to be the centers of activities.

Resident Kim Smith complained about the amount of traffic that travels the road "all day long, all night long," as well as echoing Marchman's comments about the number of backpacks and bicycles seen moving between houses.

Cullman Mayor Woody Jacobs and the council assured her and the other residents that the City and the City Planning Department will look into the issues raised and work toward a cleanup of the street.

Railroad crossing safety improvements

In its regular business, the council passed Resolution 2020-02 to apply for a Consolidated Rail Infrastructure and Safety Improvements grant, to improve the railroad crossings at the Old Depot and near Cullman Middle School with upgraded signal equipment that is intended to eliminate the need for trains to blow their horns while passing through that part of town.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, "Congress authorized this grant program for the Secretary to invest in a wide range of projects within the United States to improve railroad safety, efficiency, and reliability; mitigate congestion at both intercity passenger and freight rail chokepoints; enhance multi-modal connections; and lead to new or substantially improved Intercity Passenger Rail Transportation corridors.

"Rail safety projects include, but are not limited to, grade crossing enhancements, rail line Relocations and Improvements, and deployment of railroad safety technology.

"Eligible work also includes: regional rail and corridor Planning, environmental analyses, and research, workforce development, and training."

Special events coming up

The council also approved special event requests:

• From Reyford Parker of Outlaw DJ Services to hold a benefit fundraiser to help a family with a 9-month-old girl with cancer on First Avenue between the Festhalle and U.S. Highway 278 Oct. 19, 2019 from 3-10 p.m. The council did not specifically approve the permit request, since not all local merchants have agreed to the closure yet, but it did authorize Jacobs and Police Chief Kenny Culpepper to work out the terms of the permit with Parker.

• From Shannon Witcher of Grace Chapel / If the Shoe Fits for a trunk or treat on the Warehouse District block of First Avenue Northeast Oct. 30, 2019 from 3-9 p.m.

• From Nathanial Hutchinson of the Cullman Moose Lodge for a turkey shoot competition behind the Moose Lodge on Eva Road every Saturday in November and December, 2019 from 8 a.m.-noon

• From Daniel Lloyd of East Side Baptist Church for a "Hot Chocolate 5K" and Fun Run fundraiser benefiting the Kids Side Children's Ministry with the route being Convent Road, Third Street and Oak Street Nov. 2, 2019 from 8:15-10:30 a.m.

The council also passed Resolution 2020-01 to enter into an agreement with Lincoln Insurance Company to provide life insurance and accidental death and dismemberment insurance coverage for City employees, through The Prewitt Group.

Additionally, the council passed Resolution 2020-03 to enter into a contract with St. John & Associates for engineering services for sewer system improvements.

Public hearings set

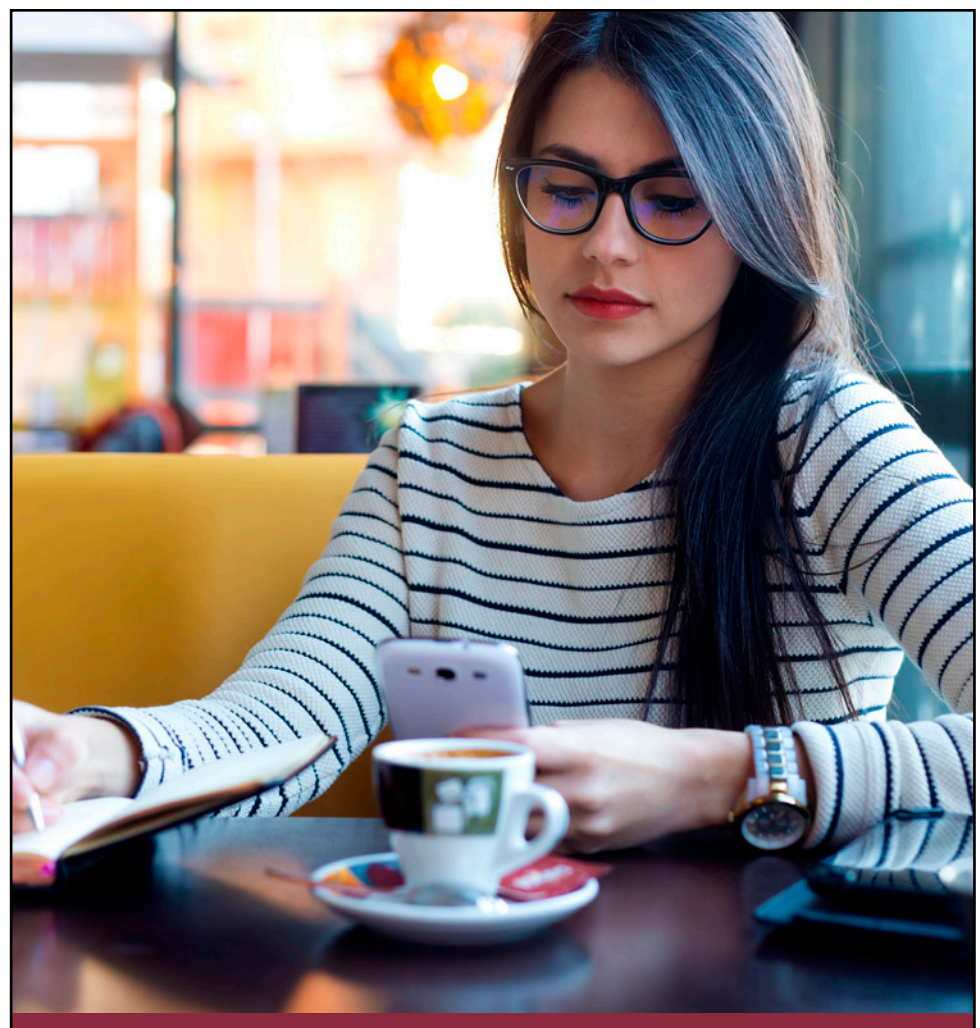

The council set public hearings for Nov. 25, 2019 for ordinances to rezone property at 1315 County Road 222 from residential to agricultural, and to vacate and surplus a utility easement on lot 466 in the city.

The Cullman City Council meets next Monday, Oct. 28, 2019 at 7 p.m. in the city hall auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

OPINION

Healthy Church, no. 3

Tom Fillinger
Tribune Columnist

Today we continue in our series The Characteristics of a Healthy Church. Is the church you attend healthy? Read each post in this series prayerfully and be brutally honest in answering the issues presented. The critical dimension of addressing church health is this – there are no "quick fixes" that restore a church to effective ministry. Waiting too long to take action is equivalent to ignoring the obvious signs of stage 4 cancer. That almost always leads to death. The same is true of churches that ignore the obvious signs of decline and impotence in ministry.

In the same way that many today do not understand what a healthy family or home looks like because of bad experiences or models, many also don't know what a healthy church looks like.

We have so many unhealthy churches these days—churches that don't preach the Word of God, churches that have no unity or the members aren't serving. Starting today, we will look at four characteristics of a healthy church.

What are characteristics of healthy churches or church members in 1 Peter 5:1–7?

Healthy Churches Have a Plurality of Elders

To the elders among you, I appeal as a fellow elder, a witness of Christ's sufferings and one who also will share in the glory to be revealed (emphasis mine).1 Peter 5:1

This may not jump out to most people, but this is a very important truth. When Peter writes to the leaders of these churches, he doesn't write to one elder or pastor. He writes to the elders of these congregations.

Obviously, there are many elders because he is writing to many congregations that are scattered, but there is a plurality of elders in each local congregation. In the New Testament always refers to a plurality of elders not a single elder led local church.

We see this throughout Scripture. When Paul went to Ephesus in Acts 20, he contacted the "elders" of the church to have a meeting.

"From Miletus, Paul sent to Ephesus for the elders of the church" (Acts 20:17). When Paul tells Titus to set up an eldership in Crete, he again uses the word "elders."

In Titus 1:5: "The reason I left you in Crete was that you might straighten out what was left unfinished and appoint elders in every town." He was not to appoint an elder in every town but elders. Healthy churches follow the biblical model of a plurality of eldership.

Why is a plurality of leadership in the church important?

1. A plurality of elders creates balance among the leadership.

No single pastor has all the spiritual gifts needed to lead the church.

They are often working outside of their spiritual gifts. They all may have some measure of ability in each of these areas but typically each will have certain strengths. This creates a balance.

Most churches have what may be properly termed a hybrid form of leadership. They have male leaders that have the title 'Deacon' but they function as quasi-elders. God is not pleased when we offer him substitutes rather than what he has clearly commanded.

Inaugural Cullman County Fair Motorcycle Show a hit

maggie@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The final day of the Cullman County Fair was Saturday, and inside the Coca-Cola Theatre, motorcycles were on display at the fair's inaugural motorcycle show.

Cullman Lion Charlie Childers shared what inspired the Lions to begin a bike show.

"Well, we're just on the last Saturday and we needed something to put (in) our theater.

"We got to thinking, and said, 'We see a lot of motorcycles, a lot of local enthusiasts, so we decided that we'd invite riders up to show off their motorcycles and spend a little time enjoying the fair."

Childers said the motorcycle show will be back in 2020.

"The turnout this year was a little light.

"We were hoping for a little more for our first show, but that's OK," he said.

"We plan to do it again next year, and we've taken several good suggestions on maybe some good food and other things that might bring a bit more participation next year."

The winners of the show were:

- Best of Show – Phil Lindsey's 2014 Harley-Davidson Fat Boy
- Most Original – Charles Johnson's 2006 Yamaha V-Star
- Best Custom – Rickey Peek's 2006 Viper
- Oldest Motorcycle – Charles McBrayer's 1963 Cushman Super Silver Eagle

Inaugural Garden City Music Festival benefits fire department

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

GARDEN CITY, Ala. – The inaugural Garden City Music Festival filled the town with good tunes all day Saturday.

"Today is a fundraiser for the fire department," said Garden City Volunteer Fire Department Chief James Johnson. "We decided to put on a little music show, trying to get out with the public a little so they can see who we are and what we do and have a good time at the same time!"

Johnson shared what inspired the department to launch the festival.

"I have seen a lot of events and I wanted to do something a little different that I haven't seen other fire departments do, so I said 'Why not a music festival?' and everybody likes music! There's no better way than to get together, have a good time with your community and have some good music, good food and hang out."

Johnson felt positive about the festival's first year.

"It started off a little slow, but it's picking up, the sun came out so it's warming up. We're all happy about it. Regardless of what happens, it's going to be a good time, cause it's good friends gathering together and having music, so good fun. Shameless plug here for Arctic Freeze, who helped sponsor, and Work-Play. The wonderful bands have all donated their time; they didn't charge us a thing for performing. I've been blessed with this group."

The lineup included Garden City First Baptist Church, BamaLand, Steve Norris- Journeyman Geezer, Bernie White, Asphalt Crown and Happy Lemmy.

MAGGIE DARNELL/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

BamaLand was one of the performing bands Saturday.
