ALERT

Stop signs to be removed at Arnold St. NE RR crossing

Maggie Darnell
maggie@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The stop signs at the Arnold Street Northeast railroad crossing in downtown Cullman are set to be removed this week by direction of the Alabama Department of Transportation (ALDOT).

A statement from the City of Cullman Thursday said, "After an on-site review of current features at the Arnold Street NE railroad crossing, it was determined that there is a redundancy of traffic control devices, according to the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices (MUTCD), 2009 edition.

"Therefore, to eliminate the redundancy, and at the direction of the Alabama Department of Transportation, the stop signs will be removed on Arnold Street NE at the railroad crossing this week."

The Tribune sat down with Leanne West, assistant to Cullman Mayor Woody Jacobs and City of Cullman Engineer Erica York to get more information.

When asked how long the stop signs have been in place, West did not know specifically, but said, "Forever. They were there before the (railroad) stop bars."

"Before the lights and the bells were put in, they were there," York said. "That's what actually made people stop. And then when, Greg (Powe) was telling, when CSX came in and installed those lights, he actually posed the question about whether or not the stoplights need to come out and never got an answer so we just kept them up."

York said supplemental signs will go up.

"There're going to have to be some supplemental signs that go up on First (Avenue) to let them (other drivers) know that cross traffic does not stop. So, it'll be however long it takes to make those signs and get them put up, too. I would say probably tomorrow (Friday). I'd give them a day to get those put back up and take them down, because we don't want to take them down and not have any kind of sign."

York wants residents to be aware that taking the stop signs down was not a City decision.

"We were given direction from the State; it's not just us (the City) saying 'Oh we'll just take them down now.' We were given direction from the State. We were given exact manuals to reference and everything. It's not just an out-of-the-blue thing."

Hanceville's 'Rowdy Bunch' puts CCSO's detective skills to the test

christy@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – The Rowdy Bunch at the Hanceville Senior Center had a little fun Thursday morning with Sheriff Matt Gentry and others from the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO). Knowing that the CCSO would be cooking out at the center, the sly seniors staged a "crime scene" for Gentry and the others to solve.

The "victim" was identified as "Cutty Ben Afitz" from the Social Security Administration and he appeared to have sustained a single gunshot wound to the chest.

His body was found lying between the ping-pong table and the exercise bike with no weapon.

The scene appeared to have been wiped clean, but no attempt was made to hide the body.

All the seniors at the center admitted to having a motive to commit the crime, but they all denied having pulled the trigger.

As a matter of fact, they denied hearing or seeing anything at all.

While Gentry, Capt. Ricky Blackwood and Deputy Bradley Williams investigated the scene of the crime, Major Matt Hogue searched for the weapon and found the gun hastily hidden in a decorative flower arrangement behind a cheerful scarecrow.

The Rowdy Bunch was steadfast and showed no signs of turning on the person or persons responsible.

Senior Center "Sheriff" Barbara Bailey had no leads and had little information to help in the investigation.

A $10 reward was offered to anyone in the room willing to talk.

The suspects were not impressed.

Cullman County Commissioner Garry Marchman and Commission on Aging Director Dusty Baker arrived on the scene and increased the reward to $20 and there were signs from a few of temptation.

As the officers continued to interrogate the group, one finally cracked.

Betty Dye confessed to the crime, but she was not alone.

Floellen Day quickly confessed to assisting her friend.

Dye and Day told The Tribune, "We are pleading old age and we have no remorse!"

Everyone had a great laugh and a wonderful time.

Hanceville Senior Center Director Evon Fowler said that the seniors thought of everything on their own, sharing, "This was all their idea. They like to have fun and have done pranks like this in the past."

Fowler also thanked the CCSO for coming out, cooking and playing along with The Rowdy Bunch.

Honors (from Front)

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

DECATUR, Ala. – Six local businesspeople and employees, along with three local employers, this month were honored at the North Alabama Area Committee on the Employment of People with Disabilities (NAACEPD) Annual Awards Luncheon in Decatur. This committee, one of several set up by Gov. Kay Ivey throughout the state, represents Cullman, Lawrence, Limestone and Morgan Counties.

Cullman area residents and employers took most of the regional honors, being named in seven of the 12 award categories.

HONOREES

Included are category definitions supplied by NAACEPD.

• Advocate of the Year - Lisa Dickinson, Alabama Career Center Cullman. This award is public recognition of an individual (such as a family member or volunteer) or rehabilitation professional who has demonstrated exceptional devotion to duty toward promoting self-advocacy, employment, and improving the quality of life for individuals with disabilities.

• Collaboration Award - Gary Clements and Hollis Baggett, veteran volunteers with the Cullman/Blount County Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 28. Their office, Alabama Career Center Cullman, also received the award. Billy Dussett, center manager, accepted. This award is presented to an individual or a team that has demonstrated the true spirit of cooperation via collaborative resources and networking on initiatives that contribute to the employment of individuals with disabilities.

• Educator of the Year - Summer Walker, Cullman County Child Development Center. This award is public recognition of an educator who has significantly contributed to students with disabilities and demonstrated an on-going interest in people with disabilities.

• Employee of the Year, Large Business (50 or more employees) - Jordan Davis, Cullman Parks, Recreation and Sports Tourism. This award is public recognition of an individual who has demonstrated personal courage, motivation and outstanding performance in overcoming obstacles in his/her personal rehabilitation and for dedication shown in productive employment.

• Employer of the Year, Large Business (50 or more employees) - Cullman County Revenue Commission, Commissioner Barry Willingham and Chief Clerk Darla West. This award is public recognition of a large business that has shown outstanding outreach, initiative and performance in employment of people with disabilities.

• Employee of the Year, Small Business (under 50 employees) - Jimmy Carter, Metrology South, Inc. in Hanceville. This award is public recognition of an individual who has demonstrated personal courage, motivation and outstanding performance in overcoming obstacles in his/her personal rehabilitation and for dedication shown in productive employment.

• Employer of the Year, Small Business (under 50 employees) - Metrology South, Hanceville. This award is public recognition of a small business that has shown outstanding outreach, initiative and performance in employment of people with disabilities.

Award winners are also eligible for state level honors later this year.

According to Dickinson, "Nominees are sent into the chairman of the committee who forwards them to an anonymous panel who selects one winner for each category from all the nominees submitted in each category.

"The winners from this North Alabama Committee along with all the other Governor's Committees statewide are then submitted to another anonymous panel of judges in Montgomery.

"This panel of judges then selects a state winner for each category from all winners on the area level. The State Awards event is held in Montgomery in December."

Strandlund (from Front)

200 nominees from across the country; the winners included entries from Missouri, Texas and North Carolina.

"We offer our sincere appreciation, gratitude and congratulations to Bill for this well-deserved recognition," said Tim Culpepper, CEO of Cullman Electric Cooperative. "We are very proud of Bill, and all the wonderful volunteers of Grace Place. We are grateful for everything they do to serve our local community."

Grace Place volunteers hold twice weekly sessions focused on verbal and physical activities to those suffering from dementia. The sessions also include a hot lunch and give caregivers a much-needed break from their responsibilities. Strandlund also hosts a monthly caregivers' meeting as a forum for group discussions on a range of caregiver topics focused on identifying support resources available to them.

By providing the only program of its type in the county and one of only two in north Alabama, Strandlund and Grace Place made a tangible difference and are having significant impact on the Cullman community.

"We congratulate the commitment and generosity of Mr. Strandlund and these inspiring contest winners, along with all the 2019 nominees," said Jeffrey Connor, Touchstone Energy interim executive director. "They tirelessly demonstrate what it means to have a servant's heart, and we are honored to recognize them for their dedication to our core cooperative value of commitment to community."

Strandlund and the Grace Place volunteers received nominations from three co-op members, all stating Strandlund was a driving force behind the organization advocating for those with mild to moderate Alzheimer's/dementia and their caregivers:

Mary Yates

"This nomination is for Bill Strandlund and all the many volunteers at Grace Place. Not every community is blessed to have a caring organization as this. Considering our aging population and rise in Alzheimer's/dementia patients this is a much-needed service for both. Bill Strandlund is the executive director of Grace Place. He, along with many others, is the driving force behind this organization that advocates and provides respite care for community members who have mild to moderate Alzheimer's/dementia and their caregivers. Twice a week many volunteers and clients meet to talk, laugh, exercise, work in crafts, sing, play games, eat lunch, etc. Friendships are developed and much needed stimulation is provided in a safe, caring, loving environment while providing caregivers a 'break.' Through Bill's efforts volunteers range from individuals, various church groups, local musicians, pet therapy (including dogs and horses), local eateries and more. A caregivers' meeting is held once a month that provides group discussions related to various issues, speakers, and resources available. This provides much needed uplifting encouragement. Bill and the volunteers work tirelessly within the community to bring awareness thought civic organizations, businesses, and churches. They reach wide and deep within our community for participation. Without a doubt, Bill and Grace Place have impacted all facets of our community involving and providing for a vast array of people.

Joan Hammett

"We have a number of volunteers who unselfishly donate their time to provide love and care for those who are challenged by memory loss. Twice a week, these caring people offer participants and caregivers four-hour sessions twice a week. Participants have exercise, games, crafts, music, social networking and other activities to keep them involved and engaged. It gives caregivers a chance to breathe, run errands, do paperwork, read, etc. When we arrive and notice the volunteers and participants arriving, my husband exclaims, 'Those are my people.'"

Grady Smith

"When the disease of dementia enters a family situation, the effects can be devastating. Memory loss can be a frightening and confusing occurrence and its onset is completely unpredictable. It can strike anyone at any time and at any age. Even doctors who diagnose this illness will express uncertainty about that loved one's future and they don't have all the answers. The patient certainly is significantly affected but so is the caregiver. Life changes dramatically, to say the least. It is possible that the outcome for the primary caregiver becomes a 24/7/365 job that displaces much if not all of their time. It can become overwhelming and they potentially feel lost because they simply don't know what to do, even if there is the luxury of help from other family members or friends. They are faced with the possibility of the patient watching TV all day long or sitting on the back porch looking at the yard. Presently, there is no known definitive cause for dementia and there are many forms with Alzheimer's being the most common. There aren't any medications currently available that either successfully arrest or reverse the disease and some forms of the disease are eventually fatal. In 2018, the National Alzheimer's Association said 1 in 9 people, 65 years of age or older, would develop some form of dementia AND 1 in 3 people, 85 years of age or older would, as well. There are about 83,000 people in Cullman County Alabama today. 18.3% of those people are 65 or older. Using information from the U.S. Census Bureau, that would mean that, right now, there are approximately 2,000 patients in our county that would be diagnosed with dementia. And by 2050 that total will exceed 4,900 patients.

"Bill Strandlund is the Executive Director of Grace Place Cullman. Grace Place is a respite program for memory loss patients AND their caregivers. Bill is there to inform and express a message of hope. A message of compassion. A message of understanding. Grace Place provides respite. For the patient AND the caregiver. Grace Place provides verbal stimulation, physical exercise, word games, art projects, musical stimulation, conversational stimulation, and face-to-face interaction during the entire session. A hot lunch is also provided. These 'participants' are placed in our care by their caregivers. When that happens, the respite for the caregiver begins.

"The caregiver can have several hours of time on their own and we have been told many times by those same caregivers that ONLY four or eight hours a week on those days can seem like a 'vacation.' No one wanting to take part in this program will ever be turned away as long as certain criteria are met. So, as you can see, it is a service to the community but also a ministry. Bill and Grace Place have made a tangible difference to the Cullman community by providing the only program of its type in the county AND one of only two in north Alabama. Hope and change are present in Cullman County because of Grace Place."

Best Bets

7 p.m. on MAX
Movie: Uncle Drew

Pro basketball star Kyrie Irving takes his character from a series of Pepsi Max TV commercials to the big screen in this 2018 sports comedy, in which he is joined by former NBA players Shaquille O'Neal, Chris Webber, Reggie Miller and Nate Robinson. The somewhat thin story finds Irving's title character being recruited by hapless streetball team manager Dax Winslow (Lil Rel Howery). Erica Ash, J.B. Smoove, Mike Epps, Tiffany Haddish and Nick Kroll co-star.

7:05 p.m. on SHOW
Movie: Sid & Judy

Never-before-heard recordings by Judy Garland are incorporated into this new documentary from filmmaker Stephen Kijak about the singer's stormy marriage to Sid Luft, the third of her husbands and father of her children Sid and Lorna Luft. The film, narrated by Jon Hamm and Jennifer Jason Leigh, chronicles the couple's turbulent union, revealing how Garland's vulnerabilities were exploited by a Hollywood film industry she played a big part in building.

7:30 p.m. on FS1
College Football

Friday night college football gets a Big Ten showdown when quarterback Justin Fields and the Ohio State Buckeyes visit the Northwestern Wildcats. Fields, a transfer from Georgia, is being talked about as a Heisman Trophy candidate. The Wildcats, who won their first Big Ten West division title a year ago, have Clemson transfer Hunter Johnson under center. The Buckeyes look to stay on track for a shot at another Big Ten East title.

8 p.m. on TLC
Long Island Medium

Tatum O'Neal, Wayne Brady, Louie Anderson, Michael Fishman, Bronson Pinchot, Taylor Dayne, Kate Flannery, Reginald VelJohnson and Arie and Lauren Luyendyk from "The Bachelor" are among the celebrities and public figures receiving messages and advice from the beyond as Theresa Caputo returns for Season 14 of her hit reality series. As always, the show also features Caputo struggling to balance her psychic gifts with the "normal" demands of her everyday life.

9 p.m. on WBIQ
Great Performances

Sheila E. hosts the fourth annual "GRAMMY Salute to Music Legends," a two-hour special that was filmed last May at the Dolby Theatre in Los Angeles. Dionne Warwick, who also performs her signature tune "What the World Needs Now Is Love," is among the 2019 honorees, along with Black Sabbath, George Clinton and Parliament Funkadelic, Billy Eckstine, Julio Iglesias, Nickolas Ashford & Valerie Simpson, Donny Hathaway and Sam and Dave, among others.

9 p.m. on WIAT
Blue Bloods

After the terminally ill wife of his friend, FBI Agent Wilson Ortega (guest star Emiliano Díez), dies under circumstances ruled mysterious, Frank (Tom Selleck) takes a personal interest in Jamie's (Will Estes) subsequent investigation in the new episode "Another Look." Elsewhere, Erin's (Bridget Moynahan) desire to work on more meaningful cases lands her an unsolved robbery that looks impossible to solve, while Danny and Baez (Donnie Wahlberg, Marisa Ramirez) get to the shocking truth behind a baffling assault claim.

10 p.m. on COM
Comedy Central Stand-Up Presents...

A new season of this hit comedy series launches with two new back-to-back half-hour stand-up sets by rising stars, performing once again from the Civic Theatre in New Orleans, where previous episodes also were shot. First up is Jaboukie Young-White, a gay comic whom viewers may recognize from his appearances as a correspondent on "The Daily Show With Trevor Noah." He also has written for the Netflix series "Big Mouth" and "American Vandal." Immediately following, comic and writer Vanessa Gonzalez takes the stage.

Theresa Caputo is featured in "Long Island Medium" on TLC.

CATA (from Front)

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – While visiting the Cullman Area Technology Academy (CATA) recently, The Tribune dropped in on teacher Mike Burkett in the Building Construction shop and discovered a cool project underway. Students are turning salvaged shipping pallets into fancy doghouses and storage buildings. Revenues from the sales of the buildings comes back into the shop to fund field trips, equipment purchases and other expenses.

Said Burkett, "It's what we call a 'scrappy doghouse,' and we use used pallets to save lumber and to keep them out of the landfill. Then we stick frame them above that, and then we clad them with metal all the way: roof and sides. Then we put them out on the road for sale."

The use of recycled materials for part of the construction allows the department to keep costs down, so the buildings sell for around only $200. Burkett shared that, at any given moment, there are approximately one billion pallets around the world. Most are oak and are used only once before becoming landfill waste or litter.

Burkett added, "It's a green project and the kids learn framing, and it helps the environment."

The regular size is 8 feet by 8 feet, but Burkett told The Tribune the shop can also build smaller versions by request. Most buyers use the buildings as large doghouses; dog rescue services have proven to be great customers. Others use them for storage.

The project covers multiple bases: it is environmentally-friendly, teaches required program skills, provides customers a low-cost product and helps keep a CATA educational program at the top of its game.

If you are interested in purchasing a scrappy doghouse, contact CATA at 256-734-7740.

THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE • ALABAMA'S OLDEST CONTINUOUSLY PUBLISHED WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

"THE 67-COUNTY, ALABAMA GARDEN PARTY"

TALLAPOOSA COUNTY

Ben Johnson South
Tribune Correspondent

Weaned-on-a-pickle, grumpy, grouchy curmudgeons are rare in Tallapoosa County, but this is indeed Alabama's "Pickle and Pickling Capital." Consumer popular, Wickles Pickles, whose products are briskly grabbed off grocery store shelves and foodie pantries in many states, was founded and is still based in Dadeville. Also, the art and science of pickling is taught here every year.

Cucumber pickles first came to America from Spain with Columbus and his sailors, who ate them on their long sea voyages. The first cucumbers planted in our country were grown by the Dutch in New Amsterdam in the 1650s.

The word "pickle" comes from the Dutch "pekel" meaning salt or brine. However, cucumbers are native to the Tigris Valley of India. There is evidence of cucumber farming in that part of the world dating back to 2000 BC.

The Bible mentions pickles. Shakespeare speaks of pickling. Napoleon Bonaparte supplied his armies with pickles. And, Cleopatra considered pickles to be a beauty secret.

Tallapoosa County was established by European Americans Dec. 18, 1832 after Native Americans, who inhabited this land for centuries in villages along the Coosa River, were forcefully removed.

In fact, the last major conflict of the Creek War of 1813-1814 was fought here at the Battle of Horseshoe Bend.

A few months after this historic battle, the Creeks signed a treaty surrendering vast tribal lands to the United States. White settlers rushed to this new frontier to stake land claims for farms and to pan for gold along the banks of the Coosa.

Tallapoosa County settlers in the early part of the 19th century brought pickled cucumbers on their wagons both to sustain them on their journeys and to help them endure through winter. Now, each year, American people, the populace, the public, both plebian and patrician, partake of, pack away, pig-out-on two million pounds of pickles.

Pickles can be made from many plants besides cucumbers: cauliflower, radishes, onions, asparagus, okra and beans.

Should you wish to learn more about the process of pickling, Janet Johnson, a food preservation specialist serving the Tallapoosa County office of the Alabama Cooperative Extension System, teaches classes in canning and pickling each year.

For class information, call Sallie Mason (as in Mason jar) at 256-825-0848.

Actually, Mason jars, the glass containers still popularly used in pickling, were invented in the late-19th century by a tinsmith named John Landis Mason in New Jersey.

While we're celebrating pickled plant life here in Tallapoosa County it's a good time to talk about probiotics which are living microorganisms that restore healthy "gut flora" in our bodies and aid in dieting and digestion. Probiotic "good bacteria" help us absorb nutrients and synthesize vitamins.

By eating foods which create healthy "gut flora" rather than harmful, according to Edmond Huang, a metabolic biologist at the University of California, Berkeley, "You may see improvement in diet and digestion in a matter of days or weeks."

To ingest real food for improving "gut health," pickles are at the top of the list. Not everything fermented is useful for creating probiotics.

For instance, beer, wine and sourdough bread lose their probiotic value in the processes to create them.

Nutritionists also recommend these foods for probiotics: plain yogurt, unpasteurized sauerkraut, kimchi, apple cider vinegar, kombucha, miso paste and soft fermented cheeses such as mozzarella and cottage cheese.

A wedding toast I once wrote to a couple in Tallapoosa County was: "May your days be filled with many pickles and your pockets filled with many nickels."

Here are other positive and pleasurable ways PLANTS + PEOPLE come together in this part of Alabama, including an easy recipe for a variety of refrigerated vegetable "Quickles:"

• MAIN STREET FARMERS MARKET ALEXANDER CITY- 21 Main Street-Broad Street, downtown Alexander City, 34010; Saturdays June1-Sept. 28, 7-11 a.m.

• TALLAPOOSA COUNTY BLUEBERRIES- Blue Haven, 1612 Rainbow Dr., Camp Hill, AL, 334-257-4322; George R. Carlton, 835 Pinecrest Dr., Alexander City, AL 35010

The Alabama honeysuckle border was inspired by an 18th century, Southern applique quilt.

• TALLAPOOSA COUNTY STRAWBERRIES- Sweet Pick'ins Farm, 847 Old Millers Ferry Road, Dadeville, AL 36853, 334-707-8220

• TALLAPOOSA FARMSTANDS- John Neighbors (Alexander City), Pa-Pa's Produce (Alexander City), Thomas Oliver (Daviston)

• WIND CREEK STATE PARK- This gorgeous 1,445-acre park is one of the largest in the state parks system- 7 miles south of Alexander City on the western side of Lake Martin, a 41,000-acre reservoir on the Tallapoosa River. Known for the best crappie fishing in the Southeast, this large park is also on the Alabama Piedmont Plateau Birding Trail, where you will enjoy a variety of waterfowl, raptors and songbirds. Bald eagles are here throughout the year; also, enjoy the lushly forested hiking trails and be grandly entertained at the Lake Martin Amphitheater.

• LONE OAK FARM- Owned by Dawn and Tim Smith and GPSed at 428 Alabama Highway 120, Notasulga, AL 36866, this U PICK and now WE PICK strawberry farm (end of March and first of April) is an Alabama plant tourist dream. Also, they sell (1/8, 1/4, 1/2 Angus beef); Facebook Lone Oak Farm; www.loneoakfarmal.com; call ahead for seasonal availability, 334-301-6134.

• PLANTING AN IDEA- How about creating The American Pickle Museum in Tallapoosa County, Alabama? Currently, there is only one pickle museum in the world, and it's a salute to gherkins in Lehde, Germany. The National Mustard Museum in Middleton, Wisconsin has been a popular tourist destination since 1986. The American Pickle Museum would be like Disneyland for those plant tourists who like pickles more than mice. I'm imagining paintings of famous people like Cleopatra and Christopher Columbus (possibly together on her barge or his boat) and Napoleon Bonaparte, who loved pickles. Also, there must be bushels, barrels and vats for tastings. There could be complementary pickles and ice cream for every pregnant museum-goer with a craving. I'm here shamelessly pleading for Shane Harris, prince of a guy, preacher, pickle-enthusiast and coordinator of the Tallapoosa County office of the Alabama Cooperative Extension System to schmooze this idea with the Sims brothers of Wickles Pickles and other pickle-passionate people. There is the deservedly popular Wellborn Muscle Car Museum in Alexander City, and an American Pickle Museum could be popular as well. Please just let the idea ferment awhile.

Y'ALL COME to Tallapoosa County on your 67-County Alabama Garden Party tour! They'll make you a good dill.

Many thanks to Shane Harris and Sallie Mason of the Tallapoosa County office of the Alabama Cooperative Extension System. Also, thank you to Laurie Johnson who created the colorful, crisp and delish pickled "Quickles."

The Cullman Tribune is celebrating the Alabama Bicentennial (1819-2019) with statewide field reporting by Alabama Master Gardener/Botanical Artist Ben Johnson South. This year-long feature, "The 67-County Alabama Garden Party," will spotlight different counties each week. Each county will get its own "quilt block," along with a historical profile, and we'll share a recipe specific to the area. At the end of the year, all 67 counties will be put in a book to commemorate the Bicentennial.

TALLAPOOSA COUNTY
"QUICKLES" SAMPLER
(QUICK REFRIGERATOR PICKLES)

For those of us who are not avid canners, this "pickled anything" recipe is quick and doesn't need bushels of produce to be worth the effort. Even "quickling" one jar of leftover produce is easy and rewarding. Using a simple fusion of fresh produce, spices and a hot vinegar brine, anyone can create tasty pickles from almost any vegetable or fruit. These are not "canned" in the traditional way, so must be refrigerated, but will keep for a few weeks. They are perfect on a relish or crudité tray or as a spicy bloody mary garnish and they make great gifts. Below is the basic method and my flavor choices for these five samples. Invent and experiment with varied combinations to your heart's content!

INGREDIENTS FOR BASIC BRINE:
(Multiply as needed)
- 1 cup water and 1 cup vinegar - your choice of white, red or rice wine vinegars, flavored or apple cider vinegar (but not aged like balsamic)
- 1 tbsp. each salt and sugar (optional if you don't want added sugar)

INGREDIENTS - SPICE CHOICES:
- Solid spices - peppercorns, cloves, coriander or dill seeds, pickling spices, red pepper flakes, etc.
- Other flavors like onion, garlic cloves, ginger, lemon or orange peel, etc.
- Firm fresh herbs like thyme, oregano or rosemary twigs

INGREDIENTS - VEGETABLES OR FRUITS:
- Almost any fresh and firm vegetable or fruit can be "quickled." Good choices (in addition to cucumbers) are green beans, asparagus, okra, carrots, peppers, mushrooms, watermelon, peaches, mango, cauliflower, etc.

INSTRUCTIONS:
1. Assemble your choice of clean jars with tight-fitting lids. Prep produce to fit the shape and size of the jars; peel if needed and cut into spears, rounds or chunks. Green beans and asparagus may need preblanching (2 mins. in boiling water and then cooled in an ice bath).
2. Put a tsp. of solid spices, a small amount of the "other flavors" and a sprig or two of the fresh herbs into each jar. Reserve some to drop on top or around the sides later.
3. Pack the prepped produce into the jars tightly, leaving a little room at the top.
4. Boil the brine quickly to dissolve salt and sugar. (Use multiples of the recipe for what you need.)
5. Carefully pour hot brine to fill the jars; punch reserved spices down the sides. Close and cool at room temperature, then keep in the refrigerator. They'll develop full flavor in a couple of days and should keep, refrigerated, for a couple of weeks until devoured!

MY CHOICES OF FLAVORS FOR THIS FIVE "QUICKLE" SAMPLER:
- Carrot spears, apple cider vinegar brine, cloves, coriander, ginger, lemon peel and rosemary
- Chunky cut mushrooms, red wine vinegar brine, garlic, red pepper flakes, peppercorns and oregano
- Blanched French green beans, white wine vinegar brine, pickling spices, garlic and thyme sprigs
- Yellow and red bell pepper spears, white wine vinegar brine, peppercorns and rosemary
- Mini cucumber coins, red wine vinegar brine, red onion, pickling spices and oregano
