CULLMAN, Ala. – Rain, sleet or snow, they'll show! The annual Ho! Ho! Ho! Christmas Show, with classic cars, trucks, motorcycles and everything in-between, will return this Saturday, Nov. 9, from 8 a.m.-2 p.m. at Depot Park. Money raised from the show goes to Christmas Love, a local organization that sponsors children for the holidays, providing toys and necessities for families.

Last year, the show raised $5,116 for Christmas Love.

One of the event organizers, Edith Smith, shared, "The community helps us out a lot."

Awards will be presented, and dash plaques will be given for the first 100 registered vehicles.

The show was started more than 30 years ago by Larry Harris and Burl Smith, and it is now hosted each year in their memory.

Another event organizer, Sonya Smith Talley, said of Christmas Love, "Christmas Love is an organization through Cullman Caring for Kids and they help give Christmas gifts to kids in Cullman County. They give toys and clothes and things like that to kids who may not have any gifts at Christmas otherwise."

To enter the show, participants can pay $20 or donate a toy valued at $20.

CULLMAN, Ala. – Over the past weekend, Cullman High School Theatre (CHST) played host to the Alabama Conference of Theatre's District Three Walter Trumbauer Theatre Festival.

CHST Director Wayne Cook is the district chairman.

"We're just really honored to be able to host this year. It's a lot of work for our people, but it's a good experience for our theater department, and the parents and our students," said Cook. "You know, they were able to do what we normally have to go out of town to do in their own home setting, so that was nice."

He continued, "As the district chair, one of the things I'm trying to do is I'm trying to grow that District Three, including more schools, trying to get more people interested in participating at a district

Addison man charged in connection with stolen tractor, farm equipment

wendy@cullmantribune.com

ADDISON, Ala. – An Addison man was arrested Tuesday, charged in connection with a stolen tractor and other farm equipment.

According to the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO), CCSO investigators, with help from the Winston County Sheriff's Office (WCSO) and Addison Police Department (APD), arrested Justin Roy Bates, 34 on charges of first-degree receiving stolen property; he is charged in both Cullman and Winston Counties.

The CCSO said a tip was received that Bates was in possession of the stolen property. The WCSO located his vehicle at a residence in Winston County, where authorities recovered multiple stolen items.

"The investigators then continued to a residence in the Sardis community, located in Cullman County," said a media release from the CCSO, "and recovered a stolen tractor, skid loader, bush hog and other stolen farm equipment hidden deep in a wooded area out of view from the public."

"Working closely with the Winston County Sheriff's Office and Addison Police Department, we are glad to be arresting the thieves in that area who want to steal from our hard-working citizens in both Cullman and Winston County. I am also proud to report that we have returned most of the stolen farm equipment to the rightful owners and the suspect is now sitting in jail where he belongs," said Cullman County Sheriff Matt Gentry. "I would also like to thank all the investigators from our office, Winston County Sheriff's Office and Addison Police Department for continuing to push to arrest those criminals in our community."

The CCSO said other charges may be pending as the investigation continues.

Bates is being held in the Cullman County Detention Center without bond.

Baileyton talks town hall, park, Christmas

Christy Perry

BAILEYTON, Ala. – Baileyton's new town hall is nearing completion, with cabinets, trim and flooring going in soon. The town council Monday night discussed the progress and said it hopes to add a council podium in the new building. No official completion date was given, but Mayor Johnny Dyar said the goal is for the building to be ready for occupancy by early 2020.

The council also discussed the bleachers at the town's park. The wooden boards have been removed and will be replaced with new boards soon.

Dyar said the Town's insurance company made the request, as the old boards were rotting and posed a risk.

Until the bleachers are repaired, they will be moved to keep anyone from playing on or around them.

CHRISTY PERRY/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Baileyton Mayor Johnny Dyar and Councilman Gene Sumner are seen at Monday night's town council meeting.

The council approved the purchase of the new boards and hardware for the project for $1,000.

The date has been set for this year's Christmas celebration at the Baileyton Senior Center.

The community Christmas party will be Saturday, Dec. 4 from 5-7 p.m. Santa Claus will be there for free pictures with the kids, and the Town will provide a free meal. Hot dogs, hamburgers, drinks and candy will be served. Gifts and fruit bags will also be given to children.

The next Baileyton Town Council meeting will be Dec.2, 2019 at 7 p.m.

Impy (from Front)

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Tribune welcomes Andrea Hudson from the Cullman County Animal Shelter, who is joining our Pet of the Week partnership, and we thank Donna Ruttkay for the outstanding service she has given to our project and to the shelter's canine clients.

Hudson introduces the Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week:

Impy is a 3-year-old Heeler mix.

He's a laid-back, low-energy pet who, according to Hudson, "will be your best friend for life once he gains your trust. He has a sweet and caring demeanor and will win your heart in an instant."

Impy has the makings of an emotional support or companion dog.

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior.

Several of the shelter's dogs have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Impy's adoption fee is $90 which includes: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neutering, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

PREP FOOTBALL PLAYOFFS

Bearcats, Eagles, Raiders traveling for round 1; Fairview, Addison hosting playoff matchups

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

Postseason football is finally here and there are five local teams in state brackets that will be hitting the field again this Friday. Cold Springs, Cullman and Good Hope will be on the road for their opening round matchups while Addison and Fairview stay home to host their round one opponents.

Class 2A: (5-5) Cold Springs at (9-1) Ranburne
The Eagles are coming off a big win over their cross-county rival Vinemont but now they'll hit the road to take on one of the strongest teams they've seen this season. Ranburne finished up its regular season last week with a 48-34 win at White Plains and the only loss for the Bulldogs this season came against undefeated Ohatchee.

Ranburne has been very good on both sides of the ball all season, scoring over 39 points per game while allowing just 13 and has shut out three of its opponents on the way to the postseason.

The Eagles are putting up just under 25 points per game offensively and allowing 23 on the defensive end so the Bulldogs will be a handful for Cold Springs on both sides.

The Eagles actually have a better record away from home this season so if they can play sound for four quarters and make plays in critical moments, they'll have a chance to knock off the Bulldogs and shake up the class 2A bracket in round one.

Class 2A: (8-2) Addison vs. (7-3) North Sand Mountain
The Bulldogs completed the regular season as the second seed in region seven, earning the chance to play at home against North Sand Mountain in the opening round of the state playoffs.

The Bison used a high-powered offense to play their way into the postseason, scoring over 36 points per game and outscoring their last two opponents 98-25.

Addison is carrying some momentum into the playoffs as well, having won six straight and defeating its last two opponents by a combined score of 80-7. The Bulldogs have been an effective running team all season and scoring over 31 points per game, but they've been even better on the defensive end. Addison is holding its opponents to 11 points per game and held teams to 16 points or fewer in all but two of its regular season matchups. Something will have to give between these two units Friday night but if they play sound offensively, the second round is very much in reach for the Bulldogs.

Class 4A: (8-2) Good Hope at (7-3) Oneonta
The Raiders will be headed back to a familiar place for their first-round matchup Friday night as they prepare to play the Oneonta Redskins in another postseason showdown. The Redskins ended Good Hope's playoff run in round three last season, so the Raiders are no doubt anxious for another shot at Oneonta this week.

The Raiders are coming off a 28-18 win at Hanceville last week and the Redskins have won three straight coming into this playoff matchup.

Good Hope has been a solid defensive team throughout most of the regular season, allowing just 20 points per game and has become more balanced on the offensive end as the season has progressed.

Quarterback Tanner Malin and his corps of receivers have been a great compliment to a powerful running game led by Colton Bagwell and they'll need big games from all of them to knock off Oneonta this week.

The Redskins are scoring 30 points per game this season, so it'll be important for the Raiders to keep pace on the scoreboard and come up with the critical stops when they need them to advance to round two.

Class 4A: (8-2) Fairview vs. (3-7) Central Florence
It's been a fun season for the Fairview Aggies and they'll have at least one more chance to put on a show in front of their home crowd. Fairview secured its region crown with a 55-14 win over Danville two weeks ago and now they'll host Central Florence for round one of the state playoffs. This will be the first time these two have met and despite the sharp contrast in their regular season records, the Wildcats have played a brutal schedule and are a stronger team than their record would suggest.

Central Florence will still have its hands full with Fairview. The Aggies are putting up 37 points per game this season and have won five straight since falling on the road to Priceville in September.

Defensively, Fairview is allowing fewer than 19 points per game and is coming off strong performances against Danville and Holly Pond.

The Wildcats are scoring 26 per game and allowing 28 so if the Aggies can keep the momentum going on both sides of the ball, they'll have a good chance to advance past Central Florence Friday night.

Class 6A: (5-5) Cullman at (5-5) Mae Jemison
After missing the playoffs in 2018, the Bearcats have played their way back into the postseason in head coach Oscar Glasscock's first year back at his alma mater.

Cullman secured the third seed in region seven after defeating Hartselle and will travel to Milton Frank Stadium in Huntsville to take on Mae Jemison in the opening round of the state playoffs. Friday night's clash will be the first meeting between the Bearcats and the Jaguars.

Mae Jemison dropped five of its first six games to start the season in a deep, 1-5 hole but has won four straight to get back to .500 and earn a playoff spot.

The Jaguars are averaging 26 points per game on the season but in their last four wins, they're scoring over 36 points per game so they're riding some momentum into this week's meeting. Cullman is coming off an impressive, 42-23 win over Fort Payne so the Bearcats are bringing in some momentum of their own.

When the Cullman run game is clicking with Jayden Sullins, Jaylen Hughey and the offensive line, the Bearcats are hard to stop so if they can keep it up on the offensive end, they'll have a real chance to move on to round two.

Nosey the Elephant: Liebel Family's custody appeal dismissed

Nosey now a permanent resident of The Elephant Sanctuary in Tennessee

THE ELEPHANT SANCTUARY

Nosey the Elephant at her now permanent home near Hohenwald, Tennessee

LAWRENCE COUNTY, Ala. – Late Monday, the Lawrence County Circuit Court dismissed the custody appeal of Hugo and Franciszka Liebel, owners of the Liebling Brothers Family Circus, for the return of Nosey the Elephant. With the dismissal of the case, Nosey becomes a permanent resident of The Elephant Sanctuary near Hohenwald, Tennessee.

Save Nosey Now, Inc. shared the following with The Tribune:

"Today, Lawrence County, Alabama Circuit Court Judge Mark Craig dismissed the appeal for custody by Nosey the Elephant's former owner, Hugo Tomi Liebel, and decreed that she will remain permanently free at The Elephant Sanctuary in Tennessee. Nosey, the long suffering 37-year-old African former circus elephant, was originally confiscated from a traveling circus Nov. 9, 2017 by Lawrence County Animal Control Officer (ACO) Kimberly Carpenter after finding Nosey in a parking lot tightly chained, exhibiting stress, without sufficient food or access to water, forced to stand in her waste, being transported in a cargo trailer and without proper shelter.

"Hugo Liebel and his wife Franciska were both also charged with animal cruelty. Carpenter was awarded temporary custody of Nosey after a hearing Nov. 9, and Nosey was immediately placed at The Elephant Sanctuary in Tennessee to be housed and receive much needed medical care. After a hearing the In Dec. 2018, District Court Judge Angela Terry awarded permanent custody to Lawrence County Jan. 22, 2018. The Liebels filed an appeal to that decision in Feb. 2018.

"Save Nosey Now and its members across the country have been advocating, documenting violations, filing complaints and tracking Nosey since 2014."

"We are thrilled that Nosey the elephant is now permanently free to enjoy the rest of her life at The Elephant Sanctuary in Tennessee," said Barbara Lovett, president of Save Nosey Now. "After over three decades of abuse and exploitation by her circus owners, she can finally fully enjoy one of the biggest benefits of sanctuary, the companionship of other elephants that she has been denied for decades."

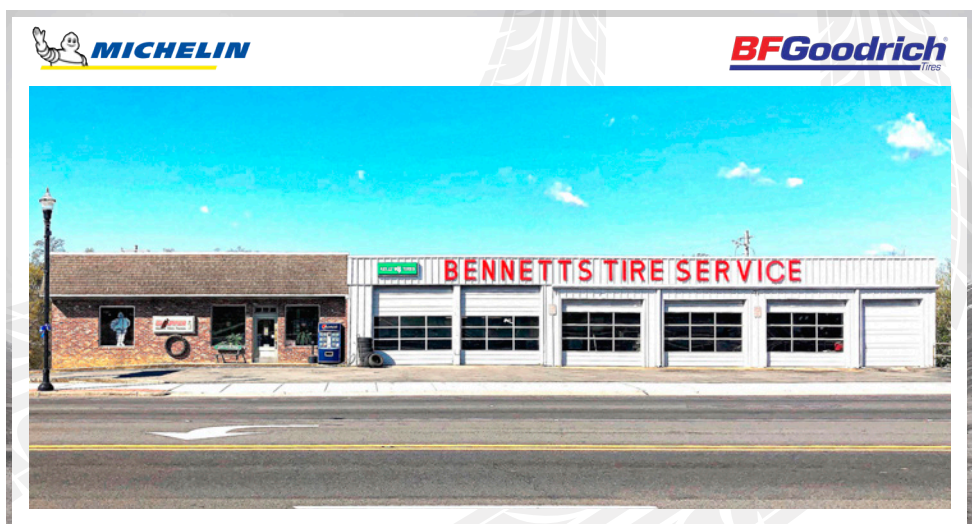

"Nosey became the nationally known 'poster child' for the hard life of captive circus elephants, with a long history of mistreatment. Her former owners racked up over 200 Animal Welfare Act (AWA) violations, documented by the United States Department of Agriculture Animal and Plant Inspection Service (USDA APHIS), including many repeated violations for chaining her so tightly she couldn't take a step in any direction, failure to provide her adequate veterinary care, failure to provide her adequate food and water, and the failure to provide her a suitable and sanitary primary enclosure. In Jan. 2018, Save Nosey Now submitted a 400-page document to the USDA again calling for the termination of the Liebel's AWA license detailing three decades of that documented abuse of Nosey by Hugo Liebel. In April of 2018, the USDA announced it was beginning termination proceedings for Liebel's AWA license, and Oct. 9, 2019, a USDA administrative law judge ordered that Liebel's license be terminated, finding that Hugo Liebel was unfit for licensure and that continuing to allow Hugo Liebel to maintain a license would be contrary to the purpose of the Animal Welfare Act's purpose of maintaining humane treatment for animals.

"The termination of Hugo Liebel's AWA license and Nosey's permanent placement at The Elephant Sanctuary in Tennessee is the culmination of over a decade of activism by advocates and groups like Save Nosey Now."

"Nosey is finally and forever free in Tennessee," said Lovett. "Nosey was failed again and again by the agencies charged with protecting her, until the good people of Alabama saw her suffering and took immediate action to stop it. Since arriving at the sanctuary, Nosey's condition has already improved tremendously, and we can't wait to see her making friends with the other African elephants after decades of being alone."

In Nov. 2017, after a failed attempt to put on a circus performance in Cullman, The Liebling Bros. Family Circus put Nosey on display in a shopping center parking lot, letting people ride her for a fee. After getting attention from The Tribune and others, the circus packed up and left, only to stop in Moulton, where Nosey and other animals were seized by Lawrence County Animal Control officers. The Liebels were arrested there for animal cruelty, and Nosey was sent to The Elephant Sanctuary in Hohenwald, Tennessee.

Saint Bernard hosts German students

Joyce Nix
St. Bernard

CULLMAN, Ala. – This past August, Saint Bernard Prep families opened their homes to host two German students for the 2019-20 academic year. Just recently, five more students from Germany came to visit the campus for a couple of weeks to explore the possibility of spending their senior year at St. Bernard for the 2020-21 or 2021-22 academic year.

The short-term program was designed to give younger German students an opportunity to "get their feet wet" during a 12-day homestay/school shadowing program. Visitors got to know the teachers, make friends with many students and learn about the American home life and culture.

Host families were asked to treat their visiting student as a member of the family, including them in all family activities, even assigning chores as they do for their own children.

The German teens came to the United States through the Christian Youth Exchange, Inc., a longtime partner in education of St. Bernard. Since 1996 more than 30 students have attended St. Bernard for their senior year under the auspices of CYE.

Having these German students on campus for the school year is so beneficial to them but also to the St. Bernard student body, the faculty and the entire community.

Having them attend St. Bernard is only possible because of the generosity and hospitality of the wonderful St. Bernard families who open up their homes and their hearts for these students.

Fr. Joel Martin, President at St. Bernard Preparatory School said, "It's a wonderful thing to offer these students the opportunity to experience our American – and Southern – life. And for us to get a taste of Germany!"

Hanceville Civic Center gets 'gussied up' thanks to WSCC

christy@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – The Hanceville Civic Center got some special attention Monday as part of the Clean Home Alabama initiative. The Alabama Community College System, joining with Alabama 200 bicentennial celebrations, chose to take part in beautification projects across the state. Wallace State Community College students and staff came out early Monday to get to work at the civic center.

Jon Stephenson, coordinator of student involvement at Wallace State, was among those who helped with the beautification efforts.

"We have one week to complete our project," he said. "Our president was here this morning, our dean of students was here this morning, and people donating their time here and there."

The college's horticulture students were also involved in the project.

"We had the option of adopting a stream, a mile or a service project. We wanted to do a project that would leave a lasting impression and we could come back and keep updating as needed," Stephenson added.

Anthony Hilliard, Wallace State Horticulture/Agriculture instructor, brought his horticulture students to help with the landscape efforts.

"We did some pruning, weeding, mulching and planting," said Hilliard. "They'll have some evergreen plants around the foundation of the building, but some of those will be flowering just to give some seasonal color."

They added some boxwoods, camellias and Indian Hawthorn.

In the spring, Hilliard plans to return with his students to plant a few seasonal flowers to add even more color for people to enjoy. The students are currently studying landscape maintenance, so Monday's project coincided with their classroom studies.

Hilliard added, "We get to apply what we talk about in class in the real world. It's a great hands-on activity."

Anthony Hilliard, Wallace State Horticulture/Agriculture instructor provides directions for the day's landscaping and cleanup efforts.

Originally, the plan was to spend Monday and Wednesday on the beautification project, but the more than 40 volunteers were able to complete the project in one day. By noon, the students were adding the last of the mulch around the new plants.

Andrea Thompson, Parks and Recreation director for the City of Hanceville, was thrilled to have the help.

"Our concert series and events are really taking off and to have them choose the civic center is great. They have done a great job."

To show their appreciation, Thompson and the City of Hanceville provided lunch and snacks for the volunteers. Coca-Cola also provided drinks for everyone.

Wallace State Dental Hygiene celebrating 25th anniversary

Gail Crutchfield
WSCC

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – The Wallace State Community College Dental Hygiene program is celebrating its 25th anniversary at the college, the only public Dental Hygiene program in the state of Alabama.

The first cohort began classes in 1994, with 11 graduating in 1996. The program now accepts 30 new students each year as part of its two-year program. Students who complete the program earn an Associate in Applied Science (AAS) degree. After successful completion of state licensing requirements, graduates earn the distinction of registered dental hygienist (RDHs).

Hundreds of students have successfully completed the program to begin careers as dental assistants. The program maintains a high success rate for students taking the licensure exam, including a 100% success rate for its most recent graduating class.

Alumni and dental health professionals throughout the area are invited to attend the program's annual clinical research presentation as part of the celebration. Second-year Dental Hygiene students present findings from their research projects. Subjects in the past have included sleep apnea, antimicrobial toothbrushes and teeth whitening techniques such as charcoal and oil pulling. The presentations can be used for up to four hours of continuing education credit.

Registration for the event will begin at 8 a.m., in the Bailey Center Auditorium, with a welcome and recognition of special guests at 8:15. Student presentations will run from 8:45 a.m.-noon, followed by a reception.

Sharon Alley, director of the Wallace State Dental Hygiene and Dental Assisting programs said demand for well-trained and qualified dental hygienists will continue to grow.

"Employment of dental hygienists is project to grow 11 percent from 2018 to 2028, much faster than average for all occupations, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics," Alley said. The increase is due in part to an aging population that is keeping more of their original teeth than previous generations and the link between oral health and general health and efforts to expand access or oral hygiene services.

Dental Hygiene students earn clinical hours at Wallace State's on campus dental clinic, which is open to the public. Clinic days vary depending on the semester, with appointment times between 8 and 10:30 a.m. and noon and 2:30 p.m. Services include dental cleaning, sealants and bleaching. Call 256-352-8300 to make an appointment.

For more information about the Dental Health programs at Wallace State, which include Dental Assisting and Dental Hygiene, visit www.wallacestate.edu and choose their web pages under the Programs link, or call 256.352.8300.

Christmas Coalition aims to help Baileyton families

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

BAILEYTON, Ala. – The Christmas season is upon us and for many it can be a worrisome and stressful time of year. The Parkside Outreach Program and A&D Motors hope to eliminate some of the holiday stress for families in Baileyton who are struggling financially. The Christmas Coalition is an effort to adopt families for Christmas as a way of giving back to the community.

Families in need can apply now through Dec. 1 at the Parkside Outreach Program office for consideration.

Debbie Humphries with Parkside Outreach Program said that the number of families the program will be able to help has not been determined.

"I wish knew how many we are going to be able to help," said Humphries, "but we just don't know right now."

To apply, families must live within the Parkside School district and provide proof of income, residence, proof of child's age and a valid ID for all adults.

For children, birth certificates and custody papers must be presented.

This is the second year for the Christmas Coalition efforts.

Humphries explained, "Jennifer Harlow, as long as I can remember, has always taken in families and bought the kids Christmas presents out of her own pocket. She's always done that but now it's through us."

Harlow established the Parkside Outreach Program, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, in June of last year and Humphries joined her in August.

The Christmas Coalition will be holding a toy drive Nov.14 at CJ's Saloon in Arab and a coat drive for all ages. New or gently used coats and toys can be donated at both A&D locations in Arab and Baileyton.

Donations of food for the program's food pantry, as well as monetary and clothing donations can be dropped off at the Baileyton location.

The Parkside Outreach Program is located at 12756 Alabama Highway 69 in Baileyton.

Festival (from Front)

District Three covers multiple county and city systems in northwest Alabama, including Cullman City and County, Decatur, Athens and all the way to Florence.

Said Cook, "There's a lot of participation in places like Florence and Decatur and places like that. What we'd love to see is more schools that join in. And this year, we were able to add West Point, and we were really thrilled about that. We've been cultivating a relationship with them-very nice people trying to build a program there. We have tried to include them and include these new schools. This year, we had several new schools, and we're hoping next year we'll have even some more.

"The idea is to get a lot of people engaged in the event, so we can have stronger theater education throughout the state. You know, that's the whole purpose of the Alabama Conference of Theatre, which sponsors Trumbauer."

Winners of other awards included Carrie Betts, Domenico Brunetti, Lauren Chapin, Tiffany Dotson, Avery Drake, Annabelle Howze, Brie Miller, Jenn Netherton, Brandy Pylant, Annie Reichert, Kaitlin Smith and Lydia Wells.

Cook said of his students, "I'm very proud of them. We have fantastic theater students. They're incredibly talented, which is evidenced by their superiors and their invitations to state. The ones that have been invited to go to state and compete on a state level, which is the highest honor you can get, if you get a superior at state level, you can't get anything better than that. That's what it's called; that's the highest award you can get in the state of Alabama. I have every reason to think that some of them will. Quite a few actually will probably medal at state, because they're that kind of quality.

"We're very proud of them, and we're proud of the students and what they did with our one-act; we superiored in that, and we're very proud of that. They were really phenomenal, and anybody who's seen them perform would probably agree. They blow my mind with their talent and their ability, sometimes, with what they can do and accomplish."

Continued Cook, "Our job is to kind of just keep them within the boundaries and keep them focused on the right direction. We can do that pretty easily, and then they can soar when you do that. It's amazing to watch them perform like they did. We're very proud of them. I've always said when I first came to Cullman that Cullman has and always will have, because of the caliber of people that are here, incredibly talented students. It just goes to show you: the proof of that is what you see in the results of something like that at Trumbauer."

On its website, the Alabama Conference of Theatre says of the festival program:

The Walter Trumbauer Festival has provided quality training and performance opportunities for Alabama theatre students at the secondary level since 1940. The educational impact of this event is substantial. The festival consists of 30 individual events, a one act play festival, a studio theatre one act play festival—all for 9th through 12th grades, as well as scholarship auditions and college screening for high school seniors and junior college students. Students qualify for the state competition by earning a rating of "superior" at one of seven district festivals. At all levels of competition, students receive critiques from qualified teachers, professionals and theatre practitioners, allowing them to improve their theatrical skills. The state festival kicks off with the scholarship audition session on Thursday evening. High school seniors and junior college students compete for four $1000 ACT Scholarships. Friday and Saturday events culminate in an Awards Ceremony where trophies, plaques, medals, and other awards are presented to recognize outstanding work in technical categories and performance areas. Two one act productions are chosen to represent Alabama at the Southeastern Theatre Conference in the spring.
