The Tribune asked people who were out and about Wednesday: What are you thankful for this year? Here's what we heard.

Callie Shelton, Good Hope
"I am most thankful to have a family that loves me and I can be able to spend time with them."

Taylor Wright, Minnesota (from Cullman)
"I am thankful to be able to spend the holidays with my family in Cullman. I travel with my husband for his job and I am thankful that we are able to come back home and spend it with our family and our closest friends. I am happy that our kids are healthy, and being in Cullman is just so festive! There's just something about this town. It feels like home."

Zoie Pair, Cullman
"I am thankful for my mother and I'm thankful for all of my teachers at Wallace State Community College for helping me get into Auburn University. I'll be starting Auburn » PAGE 4

CULLMAN, Ala. – The holidays are fast approaching, and for Cullman Caring for Kids, it's the season to work harder. The Tribune sat down with Cullman Caring for Kids Executive Director Javon Daniel and talked about how the holidays impact the organization.

"We desperately need monetary assistance," Daniel said. "Our food right now is okay, but our monetary donations are way down this year so far. Usually by this time they're really picking up because of the holidays. I know it sounds like I'm begging for money, but to be honest with you, it's a tough time right now."

For the month of November, Cullman Caring for Kids has helped more than 600 families so far.

"We're closed this Thursday and Friday, we won't be open, and we were closed for Veterans Day, so two and a half days that we were closed because of holidays, and we've already done 675 families," said Daniel. "We would have done well over 700 families this month under normal circumstances. That's a lot of people. We're trying very hard to make sure people get good nutritious food."

Since June, the organization has helped more than 600 families each month.

Daniel said, "We love helping, we're here to help and that's what we want to do. We just need the community's help to be able to be here and be able to continue to do it."

He continued, "This month will be the largest month so far, and I like I said, we're two and a half short because of the holidays. People are in need; they want to able to have » PAGE 4

CCSO cleans up more than 48K lbs. of litter, wins PALS Governor's Award

wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Earlier this month, the 2019 People Against a Littered State (PALS) Governor's Award for Law Enforcement went to Sheriff Matt Gentry and the Cullman County Sheriff's Office for its dedication to picking up litter on Cullman County roads.

CCSO deputies and Cullman County Detention Center inmates had, as of the date of the award, helped remove more than 48,275 pounds of trash from 217 miles of roads in Cullman County. The CCSO also picked up 3,209 pounds of scrap and cans from Cullman County roadways, which resulted in $533.97 being donated to Cullman Caring for Kids.

"This is truly a team award for all the deputies and personnel who worked hard to clean up our county," said Gentry. "I really believe it's better to have these non-violent inmates cleaning our roads than just sitting in jail."

Colony passes budget before debate over facility use

craig@cullmantribune.com

COLONY, Ala. – The Colony Town Council on Tuesday evening passed its 2020 budget, retroactive to the beginning of the fiscal year in October. The $144,000 budget includes a $1 per hour raise for Town employees Patricia Ponder and Ronny Barfield, also backdated to Oct. 1 on a separate motion. Both the budget and retroactive raise were approved by the council with Councilman Curtis Johnson the sole "no" vote on both.

Councilman Melvin Hammond, who drew up the budget, also requested an appropriation to send Councilwoman Ethel Alexander to a grant-writing course in December, noting that the Town may have missed out on grant opportunities by not having anyone capable of writing the applications. The council concurred, approving the request with Johnson again voting "no."

A debate ensued when Town Clerk Ponder presented Mayor Donnis Leeth a sealed envelope containing payment for rental of the Educational Complex multi-use room from an unknown party.

The party had rented the facility through Johnson with no contract for use during a time when another party had already signed a contract and paid the deposit and rent. According to Ponder, the contracted party was upset and claiming that she had been "thrown out" by Johnson. The clerk also noted the insurance liability issues that could arise by a second, uncontracted party using the facility during time allotted to a contracted party.

Johnson responded that the amount of time used by the contracted party, including setup and takedown, far exceeded the 24 hours allowed under the contract.

Hammond countered that the Town's rental policy did not specify 24 hours, and both Ponder and Alexander noted that the Town has historically been generous in allowing setup and takedown time.

Johnson told the council that he and his wife would write a new policy, an offer to which the council did not respond.

Leeth said that it was not fair for a contracted party to be asked to give up the facility early, and stated that, in the future, "It's not going to happen, because it never happened before, and it's not going to happen as long as I'm the mayor."

Johnson's, Brenda Johnson, who regularly attends council meetings, took the floor during the public comment portion of the agenda to argue that the contracted party had agreed beforehand to leave early and let the second party in. She accused Leeth and the council of treating her husband unfairly.

The issue was not formally resolved.

The Colony Town Council holds work sessions at 5 p.m. on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at Colony Town Hall, with regular council meetings immediately following. The public is invited to attend.

A Canadian clinical trial published in the New England Journal of Medicine provides the first approach for safely preventing blood clots (or venous thromboembolism) in people with cancer. However, antipsychotics have potentially life-threatening effects, even in younger populations and there are other medications for many of these conditions.

CHRISTMAS

Surviving Black Friday

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Alabama Retail Association (ARA) reported back in February that the 2018 November-December holiday shopping season saw $12,069,764,995.28 spent in Alabama stores. The amount was an all-time record setter, and a 2.66% increase over 2017. The association, though, has predicted that 2019 will beat that by up to 3%, based on retail trends through the year to this point. (See https://alabamaretail.org/news/holiday-prediction-2019/.)

Black Friday is usually the busiest shopping day of the year, traditionally kicking off the Christmas shopping season.

The National Retail Federation (NRF) reports, though, that over half of shoppers will have already started before this week, thanks to increases in online shopping, as well as earlier retail kickoffs like Cullman's own Christmas in Cullman Celebration.

If you do decide to brave the retail world, and statistically you will, The Tribune has surveyed advice offered by financial and retail gurus to come up with a few tips for shopping survival.

• Set a budget first - Spending a bunch of money or running up credit card debt, especially early in the season, then wondering how you will get out from under the burden, does not make for a merry Christmas or happy New Year.

• Get online - For those trendy must-have items, many online retailers like Amazon, and brick-and-mortars with active online presence like Walmart, have already begun running holiday specials. Bonus- people who shop online are less likely to:

• find store shelves empty of the very thing they are looking for
• have to park in another zip code
• get trampled

• Think small - For those harder-to-shop-for folks, or for something more distinctive, check out smaller, locally-owned businesses for unique gifts. Cullman and the county's other towns have a bunch of them, and they don't tend to suffer from the trampling hoards like the big stores. Take a drive around backstreets, do a little googling or hit up the Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce for more information.

• Don't be afraid to troll - If you have one of those folks who are just flat out hard to shop for, and you gave them gift cards the last three years in a row, visit their social media pages to see what kinds of things interest them. Doing so can help give you a little shopping direction.

• Plan ahead - On a busy day like Black Friday, cut down on useless impulse spending and maximize your shopping time with a strategic approach: make a plan for which stores you want to visit, which departments you should hit first, and what items you most want to purchase.

• Compare prices - For the trendy items, you can use your smart phone to compare prices between retailers right from the showroom floor. Be careful with those hot items, though; before you leave store A to shop at cheaper store B, make sure store B is not sold out of what you want. You can also ask an employee; some retailers will price match.

• Play the long game - In many cases, Black Friday specials will not be much better, if any, than day-to-day seasonal sale prices. In some cases, retailers desperate to best their competition and scoop up the last shopping dollars of the season will even lower prices below early season specials.

• Gifts from the heart - Homemade craft gifts are not for everyone who is special to you, but they may mean a lot if you are special to them. Knitting, crocheting, cooking, painting, carving or swinging a hammer can produce meaningful gifts that will not break the giver's bank.

• Stay safe - If possible, hide your purchases inside your vehicle while shopping from store to store, and be sure to lock your car. In crowded stores, zip or snap your purse, or consider moving your wallet to a front pocket. Guard your PIN numbers. If you feel unsafe leaving a store at night, ask if the store can spare an employee to walk you out to your vehicle.

• Behave yourself - If you get out on Black Friday or on one of the typically busy weekend shopping days leading up to Christmas,

• Be careful enroute. Put away your phone in the car, and pay extra attention to the traffic around you, which will be heavier than usual. Keep this in mind: a National Safety Council study showed that a hands-free phone conversation behind the wheel is just as dangerous as holding the phone in your hand. In both cases, you are four times more likely to be involved in a wreck as you would be if you were just concentrating on driving.

• Be patient, respectful and courteous. Kindness is a gift that's always in style.

SIZZLIN' SENIORS: Ladies whoop up on the men in bean bag baseball

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

GOOD HOPE, Ala. – The Sizzlin' Seniors of Good Hope participated in their first "Friendsgiving" celebration Tuesday with some great food, a penny auction and a spirited double header of bean bag baseball. Similar to cornhole, bean bag baseball requires players to toss bean bags at a large board with holes labeled out, foul, single, double, triple or home run.

The Sizzlin' Ladies of Good Hope clearly had the men of the Has-Beens outnumbered, but would that benefit them on the field? The ladies answered the question quickly, opening the game one with a home run. The Has-Beens weren't discouraged but knew they would have to fight hard to defeat the Sizzlin' Ladies.

At the end of the first inning, the ladies were on top 2-0. They would rally in the next few innings with a string of triples and doubles that left the room wondering if a mercy rule was in effect. In bad need of anything besides an out, the Has-Beens began heckling their own teammates as they stepped to the plate. Not a good start to their season at all.

Meanwhile, on the Sizzlin' Ladies side, the hits and runs continued to add up. There was some dancing, high fives and plenty of trash talking toward the visibly shaken Has-Beens. It would take a miracle at this point for the men of the Has-Beens to quiet the laughs and taunting from the other side. That would not happen. The Sizzlin' ladies celebrated a 12-0 win in game 1.

The bravery of the Has-Beens is to be admired as they sought redemption in agreeing to a game 2 against their senior center rivals. Perhaps a little fatigued after the celebratory dancing and mockery following their win in game one, the Sizzlin' Ladies found themselves trailing the resilient Has-Beens early into game 2.

Game 2 was definitely a lower-scoring affair, but the Has-Beens clung to their 2-0 lead in hopes of silencing their tormentors. The Sizzlin' Ladies stayed laser focused, though, and rediscovered their mojo from game one. They scored four runs late in the game to come back and defeat the Has-Beens 4-2.

The Sizzlin' Ladies swept the Has-Beens to win both games of the opening day of the Good Hope Sizzlin' Seniors Bean Bag Baseball season. The Sizzlin' Seniors meet the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at the senior center in the basement of Good Hope City Hall.

a Thanksgiving meal and we do the best we can to provide for them.

"We can't give them all the things that they would need, but we try to make sure.

"If we've got it, it's available to them, it goes out.

"We'll distribute probably close to 14 tons of food this month. This year so far, we've average between 12 and 14 tons per month. It's always more around the holidays."

Daniel said $50 pays for 700 pounds of food for the food bank.

Always needed are cereal, dry goods or canned foods. The food bank will accept canned goods that have gone up to two years past their shelf date.

Monetary donations can be sent to P.O. Box 698, Cullman, AL 35056 or made in person at 402 Arnold St. NE, Cullman, AL 35055.

"Whatever you donate is greatly appreciated," said Daniel. "It makes a difference in the lives of people that need help and God will bless it."

GOOD HOPE, Ala. – The City of Good Hope on Wednesday morning came together with a host of volunteers for the city's annual community Thanksgiving meal at Good Hope High School. Local officials, including Mayor Jerry Bartlett, Rep. Corey Harbison, Colony Mayor Donnis Leeth, County Attorney Chad Floyd and members of the Good Hope City Council, donned aprons to help load meal boxes, and packed lunches into transport boxes for delivery to people around the community who could not come to the school.

Inside, Good Hope students manned the kitchen and meal assembly line, while outside, Boy Scout Troop 241 directed traffic and handed out meals in the drive-through line.

Mayor Bartlett told The Tribune, "This is our 11th year, actually, that we've been doing this, and it's a community service event that we don't even have to ask people to help.

"You see, we've got three (meal packing) lines, which is 24 people dipping, we've got people handing out outside with the Boy Scouts in the drive-through, and multiple people up serving.

"We don't even have to ask for this; these people just show up. The clubs show up, the football team shows up, and it just goes off without a hitch.

"Right now, it looks like we're going to serve somewhere between 1,200 and 1,500 plates, and as you can see, the drive-through is steady.

"We started early again today; we started around 10 o'clock filling up, because (Councilman) Maxie Jones takes them to shut-ins, and he also takes them to our businesses that help sponsor this.

"We want their employees to not have to come and get; we'll take it to them, because we appreciate them donating to our community service events."

Approaching noon, Jones was still on the road delivering meals, and Harbison was also getting food to local businesses.

Members of the Good Hope High School Student Government Association worked the meal assembly line, passed out drinks and washed dishes.

During a brief break, SGA President Bella Davis told The Tribune, "We have anybody between ninth and 12th grade working here today.

"We just came to help our community serve the guests here.

"Anyone that wanted to have a good Thanksgiving meal was welcome to come out today and get the free food, so we're just glad to help serve those people."

Bartlett took one more opportunity to brag about his staff and volunteers.

"Our maintenance crew- you know, we've got six of those guys- every one of them are here. You can see, they're hauling food out to the drive-through.

"They've been here since nine o'clock helping us prepare for all this," he said. "And these school kids- I mean I'm very, very proud of this. It's been a great community event for us for 11 years."

Baileyton News by Gertie Bright

Hi, bet'cha getting ready for Thanksgiving? All the family gatherings will enjoy the fun and the delicious food. Then later the groans begin from our eating from both old and young. This poem describes what always happened to me after I'd made a 'pig of myself.'

'Castor Oil-Ugh'

When you were small do you recall that bottle on the shelf so tall? I'd get a chill each time I'd see that bottle staring down at me. That was the thing I'd truly dread. 'Castor Oil,' the label read, if I didn't feel too good that day, Maw'd head for that bottle right away.

I'd close my lips up real tight, and she'd grab my nose with all her might. So, I'd open my mouth so's I could breathe. And she'd have that stuff in, quick as you please.

Still holding my noise, Maw would say, "Swallow it down now right away." Well sometimes it just wouldn't stay in place and Momma-her steps would have to retrace.

And, well you guessed it; pretty soon she'd be standing there with another spoon. And we'd go through the whole thing once again. Well, I made my mind up there and then. No matter how sick my kids happen to be, they wouldn't get Castor Oil from me.

Why and how to brine a turkey

By: Loretta Gillespie

What is brining and why would I want to do it? Well, brine is salt, or saltiness, and has been used to preserve meat for centuries. In the days before refrigeration, brining was used as a way to preserve meats, but these days it's a popular way to add flavor and moisture to lean meats.

Why should I brine my meat?

Brining makes meat juicier and more flavorful and improves its texture. "Salt adds tremendous flavor," says scientist Greg Blonder, Ph.D. "And brining, if you do it right, will get the salt deep into the meat, so every bite has a nice, salty taste."

Brining is also a cook's insurance policy against accidentally overcooked meat, because brining helps to lock in moisture. In other words: no more dry turkey.

Brining is a great way to ensure juiciness and flavor no matter which method of cooking you prefer: roasting, grilling and even smoking. Once you brine a turkey, you'll never prepare one any other way.

The day you plan to cook your turkey, follow these directions.

Remove thawed turkey from plastic covering. Remove giblets from turkey.

Boil two cups of kosher salt and one cup of sugar in 1 gallon or water (for a 10 turkey, double everything; for other sizes, see chart below).

When this mixture has dissolved, set aside to cool.

Thoroughly clean a large ice chest type cooler. Rinse well. Add turkey and cooled salt/sugar water. Cover with ice.

Turn bird a few times and then leave breast-side down in the water; place a heavy plate or an aluminum covered brick or tile over the poultry if it floats. Let the turkey brine overnight in the cooler.

(For a spicier turkey, use the following: 1-2 teaspoons of crushed garlic, fresh rosemary, thyme and sage, about 3 to 4 twigs of each herb, the juice of two lemons, plus the lemon peel, juice of two oranges, plus the peel, one teaspoon of cracked allspices berries and 1/4 teaspoon pepper).

If you have a large spice bag or a large piece of cheesecloth, you can tie your spices up in it, to keep them all together. You can also purchase bags for brining turkeys which include the spices at specialty stores.

The following day, remove turkey from cooler and pat dry. DO NOT RINSE.

Cook the turkey the way you normally would (by using a browning bag, lots of butter, celery, lemons and onions tucked under the skin of your turkey breast, you get a super-moist, no hassle, great-tasting turkey with a lot less clean-up).

Don't add much more, if any, salt – you can add a little more but not much, along with pepper and poultry seasoning.

Cook the turkey breast-side down, then just before serving, take it out, turn it over and brown the top until it just changes color.

This will be the moistest turkey you've ever tasted.

Locally, you can find pre-seasoned brining bags (which make brining your turkey much easier) at Werner's Trading Company at 1115 Fourth Street SW in Cullman. Call 256-734-5673

Cold Springs edges Corner in Hanceville Thanksgiving Tournament

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Tuesday was the start of the 38th annual Hanceville Thanksgiving Tournament at Lane Horton Gymnasium and the Cold Springs Eagles played their first matchup of the event against the Corner Yellow Jackets. After taking a 9-point lead into the locker room at halftime, the Eagles grinded out a low-scoring fourth quarter to hold off Corner 47-43 and advance through the winner's bracket.

Cold Springs took an early 7-2 lead in the first quarter after a three-pointer from Micah Calvert and the Eagles continued to pile on early.

They took a 15-4 lead after an and-one play by Brodi Williams and led things 17-6 going into the second quarter. Cold Springs stretched its lead at the start of the second but a pair of free throws from Corner cut it to 22-11 early in the period. Seth Williams knocked in his first three of the night to make it a 25-14 game midway through the second and he banked in another with just 30 seconds in the half to put the Eagles up 28-19 at the break.

Offensive rebounds and full court pressure allowed the Yellow Jackets to cut into the lead early in the third and they eventually pulled ahead 31-30 for their first lead of the night.

Cold Springs managed to move back in front and a baseline floater from Calvert put them on top 35-31 late in the third quarter. The scoring run continued for the Eagles and they took a 39-34 lead into the final frame.

Neither team was able to get on the scoreboard much in the fourth quarter.

Both teams were scoreless until a pair of Yellow Jackets free throws trimmed the lead to 39-36 with six minutes to play and a quick steal and basket on the ensuing inbound pass made it 39-38. An Adam Hill basket put Cold Springs ahead 41-38 midway through the fourth and Logan Rice knocked down a pair of free throws to make it 43-38 with just over two minutes remaining.

Corner scored with 42 seconds on the clock to cut the lead to three but a free throw from Hill and three free throws from Calvert in the final seconds put the game out of reach.

The Yellow Jackets knocked down a three with just a second left to play but it was too late to overcome the Cold Springs lead and the Eagles held on to win it 47-43.

Calvert led Cold Springs with 11 points in the win, followed by Seth Williams with nine, Rice with eight, Brody Peppers with seven and Hill and Tanner Kilgo with four.

The Eagles will play in the winner's bracket of the Hanceville Thanksgiving Tournament against Moody Wednesday at 6:30.

Bulldogs rout Meek in Thanksgiving Tournament; Tuesday scoring recap

Sammy Confer
sammy@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – The Hanceville Bulldogs took on the Meek Tigers in Tuesday night's final Thanksgiving Tournament game. Hanceville jumped out to a quick 15-5 lead to start out the contest before Raiden Morgan, Kainon Moore and Ephram Milne dominated down low as part of a 10-2 run to stretch the lead to 25-7. The Bulldogs wound up taking a 25-10 lead into the second period.

The second quarter saw the Bulldogs continue their dominance down low and Meek didn't have an answer as Hanceville suffocated the Tigers on defense, outscoring them 20-2 and taking a 45-14 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The third quarter saw Meek get their offense going, putting up 13 points, but they found themselves trailing 59-27 after three and there was a running clock in the fourth quarter as Hanceville (1-3) wound up taking the game, 64-32.

Every Hanceville player found the scoring column in the contest, led by Morgan who finished with 14 points. Tyson Bellmon added 12, Robert Johnson, Brodie Malcom, and Zachary Campbell each ended up with eight, Moore finished with six, Milne added four, Ethen Roberts chipped in with three and Izayah Glenon finished with one.

For Meek (0-4), Stuart Waldrep finished with 10 points. Jarrett Benson added eight points.

Braxton Dickerson ended up with five. Angel Chino chipped in with three. Jagger Benson, Nick Perez, and Bryan Phillips each finished with two.
