Alabama falls in final minutes to Tennessee, 69-68

Aaron Jordan
UA Athletics

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. – The Alabama men's basketball team dropped a narrow decision to Tennessee on Tuesday night inside Coleman Coliseum, falling 69-68. The Crimson Tide gave up 19 offensive rebounds on its way to being outrebounded 42-33 and was forced into 20 turnovers to result in its season-long third consecutive loss.

The biggest story was at the free throw line, as the Volunteers connected on 23-of-32 foul shots for the game compared to just 5-of-8 for the Crimson Tide. That included 21 free throws in the second half alone for UT while Alabama attempted only two from the charity stripe after the intermission.

It was the second consecutive home loss for Alabama (12-10, 4-5 SEC), which fell to Arkansas last Saturday despite leading for more than 25 minutes in that contest. The Tide also held the lead over Tennessee for 32:27 of Tuesday night's game but failed to pull out the victory.

Sophomore Kira Lewis Jr. led Alabama with 19 points, shooting 8-of-15 from the field, to go along with four assists and three boards. Freshman Jaden Shackelford finished with 12 points, connecting on 2-of-3 from beyond the arc. Junior John Petty added eight points and led the Tide with 11 rebounds and a career high-tying seven assists.

Tennessee was led by John Fulkerson who finished with 22 points, while Jordan Bowden added 20. Yves Pons was big inside as he finished with 14 points and a game-high 14 boards on the night, including eight offensive rebounds.

Coach Nate Oats Postgame Comments

"Tough one. It's kind of the same story as last game. We came out ready to play. Our effort was good to start the game. Defensive effort was great for the first 12 minutes. We kind of relaxed a little but for the last eight, we didn't close the game well. They ended the half on an 8-1 run when we were up 15 with under two minutes to go.

"Then they started the second half on a run so it's the same issue we've been having. I can't put my finger on it. I don't have an answer. The leadership to get us ready to play has been great. If you look at our starts, we've had two good starts in two straight games. I don't have an answer for why we can't sustain that effort. I thought we made some good plays.

"We outrebounded them by one in the first half and then got outrebounded by 10 in the second half. It was tough with the foul trouble. We have three bigs that we play in the rotation and they all end up fouling out which was big, because they bodied us up inside. John (Petty) had to play the four position pretty much the whole night because of us being in foul trouble, but he did a great job and had 11 rebounds.

"He battled hard in there, but it's not really his position playing the four. Foul trouble, injuries, we miss Herb (Jones). That would clean up some of the rebounding issues. We've got to do a better job of playing defense without fouling. That's an issue. 32 to 8 at the free throw line. We've got to figure out how to defend without fouling."

DAVID GRAY/UA ATHLETICS

Alabama's Jaylen Forbes (12).

Team Stats

• The Volunteers scored 23 of their 69 points from the charity stripe – approximately 33 percent
• The 68 points scored by Alabama were the second-lowest output in a game this season (67 at Kentucky and vs. North Carolina)
• Alabama was whistled for 26 fouls compared to 14 fouls called against Tennessee
• Over the final 4:30, Tennessee scored 12 points, seven of which came from the charity stripe (7-of-8)
• The Vols outrebounded the Tide 42-33 which marked just the eighth time in 22 games this season the UA has lost the battle of the boards
• Graduate senior Beetle Bolden finished with five points and an assist in 23 minutes of play after missing the last two games due to illness
• Lewis has now scored double digit points in 20 out of 22 games

First Half

• Alabama held Tennessee to just 2-of-10 shooting to begin the game, as the Tide held a 7-5 lead at the 15:43 media timeout
• After the Volunteers tied the game at 10-10, the Tide went on an 10-0 run and took a 20-10 lead at the 10:12 mark
• Back-to-back triples from Reese extended Alabama's lead to 36-21 with 3:25 to go until halftime
• UA led 39-24, however, Tennessee scored eight of the final nine points in the half to trail 40-32 at halftime
• Shackelford and Reese each scored eight points in the first half to pace the Crimson Tide

Second Half

• The Volunteers scored the first four points of the second half to make it a 12-1 run that spanned halftime and trimmed the deficit to 40-36
• The Crimson Tide answered with six straight points to stretch its lead to 46-36 with 15:08 to play
• A 14-4 Volunteers spurt tied the game at 50-50 with 9:54 remaining
• Tennessee took its first lead of the second half, 54-53, at the 8:22 mark
• Tennessee connected on seven of its final eight shots, including two crucial free throws by Pons with 4.6 second left to make it a 69-65 contest
• Lewis' three-pointer at the buzzer resulted in the final score

Alabama will travel to Athens, Ga., to face the Bulldogs Saturday night at 5 p.m. CT. The game will be televised on SEC Network.

No. 11 Auburn wins 79-76 in OT at Arkansas

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. – For the second straight week, No. 11 Auburn overcame a double-digit, second-half deficit to earn an SEC overtime road win, beating Arkansas 79-76 Tuesday at Bud Walton Arena.

"We didn't quit," Auburn coach Bruce Pearl said. "I think it speaks to the effort, the energy and the character of our team to not give in, to not succumb to being down when you're on the road."

Auburn made 8 of 9 free throws in OT, avoiding a second overtime when Mason Jones' off-balance 3-point attempt missed with one second left.

Samir Doughty's free throws early in overtime put Auburn ahead 71-70, a lead the Tigers would not relinquish. Doughty shook off a virus and a lack of practice time to lead Auburn with 23 points. Doughty, J'Von McCormick and Danjel Purifoy each added a pair of overtime free throws to preserve the lead.

A week after coming back from 19 down at Ole Miss, the Tigers trailed the Razorbacks by 11 points with 5:59 to play.

"Depth, first and foremost," said Pearl, whose team improved to 3-0 this season in overtime games. "We play nine guys on a regular basis. We've been able to wear people out."

Wearing an unnamed No. 55 jersey after his customary No. 5 jersey ripped during a sequence in which he was called for a foul, McCormick began a game-tying, 12-1 run with a 3-pointer.

"He became a different player," Pearl said of the uniform swap. "No. 55 was better than No. 5. Twice as good."

Anfernee McLemore rebounded an Arkansas miss, leading to a McCormick fast-break layup that tied the score at 66-66 with 2:15 to play.

After Arkansas scored, McCormick made a 3-pointer from the top of the key to give Auburn its first lead of the second half, 69-68.

McCormick scored 16 points and grabbed six rebounds. McLemore recorded a double-double with 11 points and a game-high 10 rebounds.

"Anfernee McLemore was plus-18 coming off the bench," Pearl said. "Unbelievable defense. I don't know how many guys come off the bench in this league who have had a greater impact than him."

Isaac Okoro scored 14 points and grabbed seven rebounds. Purifoy had 10 points and nine rebounds.

"Isaac Okoro has tremendous impact on the game," Pearl said. "He was plus-20 when he was on the floor. Samir Doughty is a strong personality on our team. He's a leader. Not afraid of the moment."

The Razorbacks had a chance to win in regulation but missed a 3-pointer at the buzzer. Jones scored 40 to lead Arkansas (16-6, 4-5).

The Tigers (20-2, 7-2) outrebounded Arkansas 44-27, leading to a 16-6 advantage in second-chance points.

Doughty made three 3-pointers and scored 13 in the first half to give Auburn a 34-32 halftime lead.

After a 10-0 run gave Arkansas a 30-23 lead, the Tigers answered with an 11-0 run late in the half. Auburn held Arkansas without a field goal over the final 6:16 of the half. The Razorbacks missed their last nine shots.

With Austin Wiley in foul trouble, McLemore grabbed seven rebounds in the first half to help Auburn enjoy a 21-16 rebounding edge.

The Tigers return to Auburn Arena Saturday at 11 a.m. against LSU on Lettermen's Weekend.

AUBURN, Ala. – Auburn football has added three of the nation's top high school and junior college football players to its 2020 signing class, head coach Gus Malzahn announced Thursday afternoon.

"Overall, today is a very big day. I really believe this is one of the best classes that we've had since I've been here. We needed some guys that could come in and help immediately. We did that by bringing in some junior college players. At the same time, we feel like the majority of these freshmen can come in and help us immediately," Malzahn said. "We have 10 early enrollees that are off to a very good start. I know Coach Russell has a high standard and, just talking to him, he is very impressed with the guys and their work ethic, character, and everything that goes with that. Like I said at the Senior Bowl, we are very excited about Chad Morris being here. Chad is going to run the offense. We are excited about his leadership and I know the players are, too. We are looking forward to gearing up for spring practice."

HISTORY

The Jesup Wagon: Rooted in history, still used today

Wendi Williams
Contributor

ALABAMA A&M UNIVERSITY, Ala. – February is Black History Month. Throughout the month, people highlight the many achievements of African Americans in all forms of expression. Throughout the history of Cooperative Extension in the state of Alabama, African Americans have made huge impacts to Alabama communities. One of the greatest contributions was the Jesup Agricultural Wagon.

The Jesup Agricultural Wagon

The Jesup Agricultural Wagon was first used by noted Tuskegee Institute scientist and teacher George Washington Carver in 1906. It allowed Carver to teach farmers and poor sharecroppers how to grow crops such as sweet potatoes, peanuts, soybeans and pecans.

The wagon's name originates from Morris Jesup, a New York banker, who financed the project. However, it was Carver himself who designed the wagon, selected the equipment and developed the lessons for farmers. This successful outreach model was later adopted by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Alabama Cooperative Extension System.

Allen Malone, 1890 Extension administrator, said the Jesup Wagon has had a tremendous impact on modern Extension programming.

"Some of the programming done by Extension today takes the model of the Jesup Wagon and uses it to relay information to modern-day communities," Malone said. "Without the work of the Jesup wagons, Extension and the way we educate communities would have a different look today."

Modern-day Jesup Wagons

Today, Alabama Extension uses two modern-day Jesup wagons for educational purposes. The Water Wheels Mobile Conservation Laboratory (Water Wheels) and the Nutrition Education on the Move Bus (Nutrition Bus) are housed on the campus of Alabama A&M University and the Winifred Thomas Agricultural Research Station.

Water Wheels

Water Wheels is a 36-foot water conservation laboratory that comes equipped with 15 gaming computers. It also has a rainwater collection and disbursement system and other educational resources. The mobile lab travels across the state to educate Alabama residents about the importance of water conservation.

"Water Wheels is a great tool to teach audiences of all ages how to preserve one of the greatest natural resources—water," said Rudy Pacumbaba, an Alabama Extension horticulturist. "Students are always amazed by what they learn and how water is considered a limited resource."

Nutrition Bus

The Nutrition Bus is another mobile vehicle that enables Alabama Extension educators to go into neighborhoods to teach basic nutrition classes. The Nutrition Bus comes equipped with a mini kitchen that makes food and hand washing demonstrations convenient. This vehicle is ideal for Hispanic audiences that are sometimes reluctant to attend public events.

COURTESY OF THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ALABAMA- USED WITH PERMISSION OF TUSKEGEE UNIVERSITY

"The use of the Nutrition Bus has allowed Extension to come full circle in reaching underserved audiences," said Terence Martin, Alabama Extension EFNEP manager.

"Youth particularly like the bus because it reminds them of ice cream trucks rolling into their neighborhoods. It is easily identifiable, and they look forward to the food demonstrations."

The value of mobile vehicles

Whether in the past or in modern-day settings, mobile vehicles allow for greater interaction between educators and participants. Participants also receive immediate hands-on training that can be applied in their daily lives.

George Washington Carver probably had no idea that he would not only change the course of agricultural history, but Alabama Extension history as well. This invention is a perfect example of how land-grant universities like Auburn, Tuskegee and Alabama A&M fulfill the three-fold mission in research, teaching and Extension.

CDC: Distribution of diagnostic test kits will expand laboratory capacity to detect 2019-nCoV

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

ATLANTA – A CDC-developed laboratory test kit to detect 2019 novel coronavirus (2019-nCoV) began shipping yesterday to select qualified U.S. and international laboratories. Distribution of the tests will help improve the global capacity to detect and respond to the 2019 novel coronavirus.

The test kit, called the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) 2019-Novel Coronavirus (2019-nCov) Real-Time Reverse Transcriptase (RT)-PCR Diagnostic Panel (CDC 2019-nCoV Real Time RT-PCR), is designed for use with an existing RT-PCR testing instrument that is commonly used to test for seasonal influenza.

The CDC 2019 novel coronavirus test is intended for use with upper and lower respiratory specimens collected from people who meet CDC criteria for 2019-nCoV testing. The test uses a technology that can provide results in four hours from initial sample processing to result.

"Our goal is early detection of new cases and to prevent further spread of the coronavirus," said CDC Director Robert R. Redfield, M.D. "Distribution of these diagnostic tests to state laboratories, U.S. government partners and more broadly to the global public health community will accelerate efforts to confront this evolving global public health challenge."

The test kit has not been FDA cleared or approved, however distribution and use of the test kits follows the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) February 4, 2020, issuance of an Emergency Use Authorizationexternal icon (EUA). The tests are being shipped through the International Reagent Resource (IRR) external icon, a CDC-established mechanism that distributes laboratory reagents domestically and globally.

Initially, about 200 test kits will be distributed to U.S. domestic laboratories and a similar amount will be distributed to select international laboratories. Each test kit can test approximately 700 to 800 patient specimens. Additional test kits will be produced and made available for ordering in the future from the IRR. At this time, each laboratory that places an order will receive one 2019-nCoV test kit.

The IRR is accepting orders for 2019-nCoV tests from qualified laboratories. This includes 115 qualified U.S. laboratories, such as state and local public health laboratories and Department of Defense (DoD) laboratories, as well as 191 qualified international laboratories, such as the World Health Organization (WHO) Global Influenza Surveillance Response System (GISRS) laboratories.

This test is only authorized for the duration of the declaration that circumstances exist justifying the authorization of emergency use of in vitro diagnostic tests for detection and/or diagnosis of 2019-nCoV under Section 564(b)(1) of the Act, 21 U.S.C. § 360bbb-3(b)(1), unless the authorization is terminated or revoked sooner.

Check the CDC website for the latest information and guidance on 2019-nCoV. The CDC will continue to update its guidance as the 2019-nCoV situation evolves.

years develop core life skills while enjoying healthy, fun, engaging experiences in the physical freedom of local green spaces."

Said Co-Founder Brian Fitzgerald, "Tinkergarten, our passion project, was born of the hope that we could provide deeply memorable learning moments for kids. But more than that, we saw an opportunity to bring back something that seemed to be lost for this new generation — something that was a most influential part of our own childhoods — free, unstructured time outside."

Cullman's class will be taught by Tinkergarten Leader Meg Glenn of Bremen.

Glenn talked a bit about what inspired her to bring Tinkergarten to Cullman.

"I was an educator for 21 years and we moved to the Cullman area," said Glenn. "I have a grandson, he's 2 years old, and I wanted him to have the kind of childhood that my kids had, that I had, where we played outside. I saw that day care was indoors and busy families played indoors, and I really wanted for him and other kids of his same age to have more outdoor activities and a chance to feel confident and be outside."

She continued, "So I found this program actually through a Facebook post of a teacher in the Jasper area who is also a friend of my daughter. Through that post I asked, 'What is this Tinkergarten thing? What are you doing?' And she showed me the website, shared it with me, and I started looking into it and I thought, 'This is a perfect fit for a retired educator for somebody who wants outdoor activities and wants our kids to have outdoor experiences, so that's how it all started."

Tinkergarten's approach focuses on "12 core skills" for kids:

- Ready to Learn: communication, focus, social skills and sensory
- Ready to Thrive: empathy, resilience and wellness
- Ready for Anything: problem solving, persistence, collaboration, stewardship and creativity

Cost and more information

The cost for students (ages 8 months to 8 years) is $140. It can be payed in two installments of $72.50. If enrolling siblings, a 30% discount for each additional sibling will be given. Interested, but need a trial run? There will be a trial class March 21 from 10 a.m.-10:50 a.m. at Heritage Park.

Heritage Park is located at 1705 Lee Ave. SW, Cullman, AL 35055.

Glenn is also teaching a class in Arley, at Hamner Park. The Arley classes will be March 30 through May 18 from 10 a.m.-11:15 a.m., with a free trial class Monday, March 23 from 10 a.m.-10:50 a.m. The prices and age groups for the Arley class are the same as Cullman's.

Reception (from Front)

dicating that, in the last year:

- More than 450 new manufacturing jobs have been added
- 40 industries have started up or expanded
- Local industries have made over $130 million in capital investments

Over the last 10 years, according to Greer, industries have invested more than $1.1 billion in the Cullman area.

Greer credited the workforce here "that enables your facilities to produce quality products and services each day," and added, "Place them in a community like Cullman with a pro-business support system from city and county governments, city and county economic development agencies, city and county industrial boards, a world-class community college, a remarkable high school technical program, exceptional city and county schools and reliable companies, and there is potential to be among the best industry sites in Alabama."

Greer talked about Cullman County's low 2.2% unemployment rate and noted that such a low number creates its own problems like attracting and recruiting workers for new or expanding industries, and especially housing the growing area workforce.

He told the audience that entities in the county are working on improving both housing availability and overall quality of life throughout the community.

In attracting and creating a workforce, Greer touted local efforts, including:

- A new career and workforce development center at Wallace State Community College
- Plans for a new technology academy for Cullman County Schools
- The "World of Work" program that exposes eighth- and ninth-grade students to technical jobs and careers
- Dual enrollment programs for high school students
- Availability of apprenticeships and internships in the area

Said Greer, "We have not yet matched industry's job creation speed, but we are trying as a community to locate new people, prepare students for you faster than ever before and give them skills that match your needs."

Greer pointed to cooperation between agencies and industries as a key to success and set forth new industry DB Technologies as an example.

The industry benefited from the assistance of Tech Village Cullman-a joint venture between the City of Cullman, Wallace State, and the COC-and was incubated at Wallace State, which also incubated Zero RPM and Sequence Health.

Greer noted, "Nearly every community partner will step up when needed."

Interim COC President/CEO Peggy Smith recognized four local industries for hosting 2019 industry tours: MetSouth, Cullman Cabinet, Webb Wheel and American Trim.

In her closing remarks, Smith told the audience, "Tonight, we have witnessed how the Cullman area continues its positive forward movement, thanks to a lot of the people that are sitting in this room.

"We are honored to be here tonight with our incredible industry representatives and all these great partners that continue working for the common good and the best interest of our entire community."

Expect relationship dynamics on this show to do some shifting in the aftermath of former series regular George Eads' Season 3 departure, partly because of new series regular Henry Ian Cusick ("Lost"). As Season 4 opens, his character, Oxford-educated Russ Taylor, upsets the Phoenix Foundation apple cart by challenging how Mac (Lucas Till) and his team are used to doing things. Levy Tran, who joined the cast last when Eads left, gets bumped to series regular as her character, Desi Nguyen, takes on more responsibility.

CATA (from Front)

VINEMONT, Ala. – Starting today, Cullman Area Technology Academy (CATA) Auto Collision Repair teacher Timmy Calvert and his students will be displaying a truck at the World of Wheels Expo in Birmingham. The team will exhibit in a student category to show off the custom paint and finish job they performed in the CATA shop.

CATA Principal Billy Troutman told The Tribune, "It's a great student entry that showcases some of their skills, as far as paint goes, so I'm excited for them.

"I'm really proud of these students for their determination and getting this vehicle ready to go to the show. They really have done an incredible job with the paint and finish they've done on the vehicle. And some of the process is really cool, because of the way they had to use some effects that just aren't normal, and so it's not like they just sprayed the vehicle; there was a lot of other cool things going on. So I'm really proud of them, and proud of Mr. Calvert's leadership, too."

Anniversary (from Front)

CULLMAN, Ala. – Precision Hair Cutters will soon celebrate 40 years of doing business in Cullman. That's long enough to see the mullet make a comeback! The salon has been located in two different locations over the last 40 years, both in the South Cullman Shopping Center.

A 40th anniversary celebration will take place the week of Feb. 10-15, with goodies and drinks for guests.

"We are just going to have a party for a few days and hope people will join us," said owner Janna Walker

She said after all these years, she still loves making others look great, and she's witnessed many styles come and go. "Everything always comes back around, even the mullet," she laughed.

She's also seen some of the same customers for four decades.

"I have a few customers who have been coming to me the whole time we've been here," Walker said.

Next to Walker's chair is stylist Brooke Baker, who has been with Precision Hair Cutters for 20 years.

When asked what the biggest change has been over the years, without hesitation, Baker said, "Price!" adding, "We have to have every size curling iron and different flat irons now, and there are so many more products."

One thing that hasn't changed is older women coming on Saturday to have their hair fixed before church Sunday.

"I have lots of them and I love it," said Walker of her older clientele. She has her curler cart beside her, and although it's not Baker's preferred thing, Walker said she loves giving perms and using rollers.

Precision offers perms, cuts, styles, highlights, colors and special event styles. The salon also has the small boutique Maricille's inside.

Precision Hair Cutters is open Monday- Friday 9 a.m.-4:45 p.m. and Saturdays 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m. Appointments are preferred. The salon is located at 1624 Second Ave. SW. Find out more at www.facebook.com/phc1624/.

Pajao (from Front)

With this feature series, The Cullman Tribune is highlighting everyday individuals all around Cullman County who make our community a great place. #IAmCullman

Many people choose to live in Cullman because of its small-town feel, a place where people are still willing to help each other. For Juanita Pajao, it has become her mission to help others. Pajao is currently battling ovarian cancer for the second time, and she decided to create the Cullman Survivor Society to offer a network of support and resources to others facing devastating illnesses, as well as the families and caregivers.

"Being down in Birmingham and seeing all the different organizations they had down there, I wanted to bring that here. I started taking presents down there to everybody because that's my love language- gifting. I'm poor as hell, but somehow God just brings things to me," Pajao said.

After hearing others talk to her about their loved ones who are sick and the many issues they had, she said, she knew it was time for action.

Recently, Pajao's vision for the Cullman Survivor Society became a reality as the group celebrated its kickoff at Goat Island Brewing. She has recruited friends and family to help her. The group is currently in the process of filing for its 501(c)(3) nonprofit status.

"I think I was supposed to do this the first time I had cancer," said Pajao.

"God gave me a vision and where He gives you vision, He gives you provision. I think God said, 'Take advantage of this opportunity and do what you didn't do before.' I don't think God makes us sick or anything like that. When we are sick, we don't need to ask God to heal us. ALL the healing has already been done on the cross."

Pajao spoke candidly about many personal issues she and other women often face when receiving cancer treatments.

"You know what one of the worst things is about cancer for a woman?" she asked. "When her hair comes out, you don't feel as attractive. What it does to you is like losing your 'womaness,' especially with gynecological cancers and breast cancers. You feel 'less than.' You don't feel as attractive and you're not."

For Pajao, she said, it turned into self-loathing.

She also knows the toll it takes on spouses and caregivers. Her own marriage was unable to withstand her second diagnosis.

"Let's face it," she said. "You aren't a lot of fun when you are sick."

Pajao is currently going through chemotherapy treatments and said she has good and bad days. The chemicals are taking a toll on her in many different ways. Despite this, she is determined to help others.

"Resources are out there, but we have to gather them all in and teach people to search for things," she said.

"Not everyone has or understands the internet; they need help. That's just one of the ways we can assist others."

Another program Pajao is interested in starting is a caregiver support group for men to help them know how to talk about or know what's OK to ask when caring for women in their lives with cancer.

"Some of the issues that come up can be uncomfortable for men and can lead to a lack of communication," she acknowledged.

Later in February, Pajao and her friend Pam Whitt will host a makeover party with several women from UAB Oncology.

They will bring their make-up kits and help teach those undergoing chemo some shadowing and contouring techniques. This is just one of many fun and informative events Pajao and Whitt are planning.

"I feel like I am the cancer veteran this time," Pajao said. "I know how being sick makes you feel about yourself. If you are sick, you shouldn't have to drive or be driven to Birmingham to feel love and support. This community is full of love and resources. We just need to pull it all together."
