CPD sees fewer wrecks, significant drop in traffic fatalities in 2019

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – After 2018 proved to be the worst year ever for traffic fatalities in the city of Cullman, the Cullman Police Department (CPD) is relieved to report a drop of more than 50% in 2019, even though the overall number of wrecks dipped only slightly. Still, the department's Traffic Homicide officers are not satisfied, saying that even one would be one too many.

2019 by the numbers

Note: These numbers reflect only incidents within Cullman's city limits, and do not include other locations in the county.

Total traffic crashes decreased a modest 2.4%, but at least moved in the right direction.

- 2018 - 1,006
- 2019 - 982

Traffic fatalities dropped by more one half.

- 2018 - Seven fatalities
- 2019 - Three fatalities

Chairman candidates, CCBOE headline Republican Women meeting

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – With only three weeks to go until the March 3 primary, all four Republican Cullman County Commission chairman candidates had an opportunity Tuesday evening at the Cullman County Republican Women meeting to address potential voters. There are no Democrats on the ballot, so, barring a run-off situation, the March 3 vote will determine the winner.

But before the candidates took to the podium, Cullman County Board of Education (CCBOE) Special Projects/ASAP Coordinator Dr. T.J. Franey, speaking on behalf of Cullman County Schools Superintendent Dr. Shane Barnette, who could not attend, took a moment to address the assembled crowd about the propose 1-cent sales tax, which will also be on the ballot.

If passed, approximately 77% of the revenues (based on 2019 student figures) would go to Cullman County Schools for a collection of projects (www.cullmantribune.com/2019/10/25/where-would-the-1-cent-tax-money-go/), 21% to Cullman City Schools, and roughly 2% would go to the city system in Arab where, by » PAGE 2

Vinemont council sets pay rates for next administration, talks community food pantry

maggie@cullmantribune.com

VINEMONT, Ala. – The Vinemont Town Council on Tuesday evening set the pay rates for the town's next administration. Future council members will receive $300 per month, the same as their pre-decessors. Pay for the next mayor pro-tempore also stayed the same, at $550 monthly. The town's next mayor will be paid $1,400 per month, up from the current mayor's rate of $1,000 a month.

In addition to base pay, each member of the next administration will receive $100 per month if they attend that month's council meeting in person. The vote passed 5-1, with Mayor Pro-Tempore Shirley Arnett voting no.

The last time the council approved a change in pay was Feb. 2, 2012.

When voting Tuesday, the council had two ordinances to consider- the one that was approved ($300 for council; $1,400 for mayor and $550 for mayor pro-tempore with an additional $100 for attendance), and the other, which would have seen an across the board raise, with council mem-bers receiving $400, mayor pro-tempore $650 and mayor $1,500, regardless of attendance.

In other business, the council received an update on the planned community food pantry. The council decided to have the pantry located at the Vinemont Community Center at 88 Ridgeway St. Mayor Radginal Dodson did not name the citizen who is starting the pantry, saying, "They wanted to remain anonymous, but it was started by an individual who saw a need in the community."

The Vinemont Town Council will meet next March 10, 2020 at 5:30 p.m. at Vinemont Town Hall.

Wallace State to host Open House for prospective students Feb. 25

Gail Crutchfield
WSCC

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Wallace State Community College will host an open house Tuesday, Feb. 25 from 4:30-7:30 p.m., providing prospective students and their parents the opportunity to learn more about the college, its programs, admission procedures, financial aid, and more.

"This will be our second time hosting an open house in advance of the fall semester," said Dr. Ryan Smith, dean of students. "We welcomed more than 600 students and parents to campus last year, and we anticipate at least that many at this year's event."

The open house is held to give anyone with an interest in enrolling at the college the chance to meet with program directors, get information about how to apply to the college and/or specific programs, how to apply for financial aid, important dates to remember and more.

The event will begin at 4:30 p.m., with registration at the Student Center. Participants will pick up welcome bags before entering the Betty Leeth Haynes Theatre for the 5 p.m. welcome by Wallace State administration and staff.

From 5:30-6:30, visitors will be able to visit programs around campus in all divisions: Academics, Applied Technologies, Health Science and STEM. Buses will be available to various locations.

Breakout sessions will be held from 6:30-7:30 p.m. in the Student Center, where visitors can meet with representatives from Admissions, Financial Aid, Advising, Dual Enrollment/Fast Track, Student Engagement, and more.

Visitors will be served Free Chick-fil-A sandwiches at 7:30, also in the Student Center.

"We are pleased to offer this opportunity to community members within our service area," said Smith. "Whether they are in high school approaching graduation or an adult in need of a change in their situation, we welcome everyone to attend open house."

For more information about the Open House, visit www.wallacestate.edu/openhouse or call 256-352-8000.

Meeting (from Front)

agreement between that system and the CCBOE, a handful of students from extreme northeast Cullman County are allowed to attend.

According to Franey, for Cullman County Schools, the tax would be used for three things. The first would be for a new career tech center.

"Workforce is big and the demand for workers in our community continues to grow," she said.

"Several community members and business leaders got together and decided a feasibility study was needed concerning a new career tech academy.

"The feasibilities came back strongly supporting it.

"In fact, 94% supported the need for an updated state-of-the-art career academy."

Safety and security would be the second focus. Many of the system's schools are outdated and were built during a time when open school layouts were desired.

New school buildings and upgrades to existing buildings are planned if the tax passes.

"There are different needs on each campus," Franey said.

Finally, the money would fund student resource officer salaries.

"No administrative salaries, I know some people have asked, but there will be no administrative salaries from this tax," insisted Franey.

Following Franey, guests heard from Catherine Byrne Edwards, daughter of U.S. Senate candidate Bradley Byrne. She chose to speak about her father as a person rather than a politician. She reflected on family, faith and her father insisting that she "always do the right thing, even when it made her uncomfortable."

The four chairman candidates came next.

Jeff "Clem" Clemons, graduate of Cold Springs High School and resident of Jones Chapel, has served more than 32 years with the Cullman County Sheriff's Office.

"If I'm elected chairman of the Cullman County Commission, I want to work with my fellow commissioners to cut the wasteful spending where we can utilize that money to improve our crumbling road systems in Cullman County," he said. "I know it's something that's going to be hard to do because our roads have been neglected for so long."

Clemons also promised to keep water rates low, be more transparent and make the commission "more available."

Wiley Kitchens, former associate commissioner and chairman, said, "I'm not in this thing to make a change. The only reason that I got into this race was to make a difference."

He spoke of his accomplishments during his time in office including Veterans Memorial Park at Sportsman Lake, the Cullman County DHR building, upgrading of the county water system and turning the county parks into self-funded entities.

He added, "I was a part of quite a few industries that was able to be brought in here with the chairman of the county commission and the commission itself with our industrial development. We worked with the City in order to bring these developments here."

Kitchens addressed drug and alcohol abuse in Cullman County. His own wife and daughter were killed by a drunk driver.

"I know what it is firsthand to have a family member that is on drugs and alcohol. This is something that can be addressed," he said. "I worked in a program for 17 years."

He said he hopes to facilitate a large collaborative effort between law enforcement, local churches, civic leaders and judges to address the epidemic of drugs and alcohol.

As for roads, Kitchens explained, "It's not something the chairman has control over with the exception of funding the road department.

"When I was first elected, we used to call them road commissioners, because they are totally responsible for the roads."

He acknowledged, "We do have a road problem. It's a big problem everywhere you go all over this county."

Incumbent Chairman Kenneth Walker chose to address the school tax issued before discussing his bid for reelection.

He said, after asking for a show of hands from those in attendance who live in the city, "If this school tax doesn't pass on the ballot, the City of Cullman is going to pay an extra 1% regardless.... They're probably going to pass it without a vote."

Several people in the crowd then spoke up about Mayor Woody Jacobs' and the Cullman City Council's denial of such a tax plan, despite the rumors being circulated.

Walker replied, "Of course he is. That's the story that got all this tax increase talked about anyway.

"They were going to pass it. That's when the county school board stepped up. So anyway, just something to think about."

Walker then switched his focus toward the election, saying, "I am not here to apologize for the progress we have made in the Cullman County Commission.

"I have done what I have intended to do. I have promised that I would do to the best of my ability to do the job I can do.

"I think I have done that job. I have had the Cullman County Commission in the black for seven years and I intend to keep the Cullman County Commission in the black."

He continued, "I am sorry that I am not a road commissioner. I am your chairman of the Cullman County Commission and I am over your finances. That's what the chairman does."

He explained the discrepancy between how much it costs to pave a mile of road, $70,000-$90,000, versus how much gas tax money, $2,300 a mile, the County receives.

He concluded by saying, "Other than the roads, Cullman County is in the best shape it's ever been in.

"I know Mr. Wiley did a great job when he was chairman, but we have more revenue now and it's in the best shape it's ever been in in the history of the commission.

"I'm not patting myself on the back. It takes a lot of people to run a business as big as this is.

"I think we have the right people in the right jobs and we will continue to keep Cullman County on top."

Wrapping up the evening was Philip Widner, who said he considers the county "fortunate" to have four candidates stepping up to serve.

He praised his competition for a clean and positive campaign and urged everyone to keep it that way over the final three weeks.

"I am a former county engineer in Cullman County and then I went on to finish my career in Jackson County," Widner said.

"I've got over 26 years overseeing multi-million-dollar governmental departments, transportation, bridges, sanitation departments and public works departments.

"I've also got education experience in business management, government finance, tax laws and even county administration.

"I've kept my license current. I am also a licensed engineer in the state of Alabama."

He spoke briefly on roads and his record in Jackson County before touching on other topics.

He said he supports a five-person commission and also wants to make commission meetings more accessible to citizens.

"I want us to start looking at moving one of the meetings to the evening time," he said, "so it's more accessible to the people who work during the day so they don't have to take off work, burn vacation or sick time, if they've got something they want to bring before the commission."

Widner said he has funded his own campaign, explaining, "If you really want to improve something, you don't mind investing your own money in it.

"That's the way we felt. We really want to improve our county."

State, local leaders present more than $77K to 3 Town Creek families devastated by Dec. tornado

Dawn Owens
Contributor

CULLMAN, Ala. – Fifty-five days after an EF-2 tornado wiped out three homes in Town Creek, Alabama taking the lives of two, leaving four others severely injured in the care of three different hospitals, state and local legislators gathered at Town Creek City Hall to present cash donations and scholarships raised on behalf of these families for shelter, medical bills and other disaster relief needs.

In response to the storm's devastating effects, Town Creek Police Chief Jerry Garrett created a GoFundMe account to help support the needs of these three families. An outpouring of support came in and the account raised more than $46,000 to be given to the families through a Good Samaritan account set up at Independent Bank in Courtland. The fund was set up for Wayne and Rhonda Lovett, Marcus Johnson and Landen Godsey.

Find the fund at www.gofundme.com/f/lovettjohnsongodsey-disaster-relief.

Sen. Garlan Gudger, Jr., R-Cullman also stepped in to support these families, recalling what he had experienced in 2011 when an EF-4 tornado tore through his hometown of Cullman, as well as other parts of north Alabama.

He teamed up with other state and local legislators to seek assistance from the State, local foundations and institutions of higher education.

The Alabama Manufacturing Foundation responded with two grant donations for shelter needs for Marcus Johnson and Wayne and Rhonda Lovett. Wallace State Community College and the University of Alabama also stepped up and offered scholarships for Landen Godsey.

In attendance at the presentation, along with Chief Garrett and Senator Gudger, were Rep. Proncey Robertson, R- Mount Hope; Lawrence County Commissioner Bobbly Burch; Lawrence County Commissioner Jesse Byrd; Town Creek Mayor Mike Parker; Dana Charles, designee to the TVA in lieu of taxes committee; Annie Collier (Landen's grandmother and (Landen's mom) Keisha's mother); Chris, Cheay, and Bella Godsey (uncle, aunt and cousin to Landen, brother of (Landen's dad) Chase Godsey); Chad Sims (son-in-law to Wayne and Rhonda Lovett); and Kimberly Hicks (cousin to Marcus Johnson).

Gudger announced the combined efforts of the GoFundMe account, the Alabama Manufacturing Association grants and today's value of scholarships from Wallace State Community College and the University of Alabama system brought the total raised to more than $77,000.

"This is the effect of a collective group of Alabamians, working together for the good of others that have experienced a catastrophe," Gudger said to the crowd.

"No one person accomplished this on their own, but from like-minded, caring people from all over the state pulling together to make this become a reality."

Each family shared with the attendees how their loved ones are recovering.

Annie Collier described how Landen is now having muscular movement they were not seeing a week ago. He is now able to lift his leg and wave his left arm.

He is also recognizing family members and acknowledging who they are. Landen will continue to undergo treatment and intensive rehabilitation at Children's of Alabama in Birmingham.

Kimberly Hicks spoke of how her cousin, Marcus Johnson, spoke for the first time since Dec. 16 and said doctors are now considering removal of his breathing tube, this after she said he flatlined twice over the last month and a half.

Chad Sims described his family's concern and how Wayne Lovett was touch-and-go two weeks ago.

With emotion, he shared that today Wayne is walking himself to use the bathroom on his own. Rhonda is now receiving rehab treatments at her son's home.

Each of the families expressed its gratitude for the state and local elected officials and leaders in the room.

"Thank you for all you have done," said Chris Godsey, "for all the help and the clean-up efforts, for the kind donations you gave for all the families. You didn't have to do any of it, but you did."

Campbell's last-second free throws push Hanceville past Locust Fork in OT and back to Northeast Regional

MARTHA NEEDHAM/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

The Bulldogs celebrate after Zach Campbell's last-second free throws edged Locust Fork 58-57 in OT.

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Hanceville is heading back to Jacksonville State for the Northeast Regional after taking down Locust Fork in a thrilling, sub-regional showdown that couldn't be decided in four quarters. Bulldogs guard Tyson Bellmon drilled a three-pointer from the left wing at the buzzer to tie the game at 43 at the end of regulation and send us to overtime. After both teams continued to battle it out in the extra period, freshman guard Zach Campbell was fouled with 0.1 seconds remaining on the clock and buried two free throws to give Hanceville a dramatic, 58-57 win over the Hornets.

It was a stressful night for Bulldogs Head Coach Stephen Chandler but after Campbell buried those two free throws and secured the win, he was proud of the way his guys fought through a sloppy game to get it done.

"They bought in, believed and never quit believing. We've been up and down and played some close games all year and I think that helped us," Chandler said. "It was just a gutsy performance by some of our guys and guys were stepping up at the right time to hit shots and that's big."

Chandler touched on the poise of his standout freshman on the floor and what was running through his mind when Campbell went to the line with a chance to win the game.

"He's a freshman but he's kind of got a clutch aura about him and that's what was going through my head," Chandler smiled. "I told him it was time to prove it right now and he stepped up and did it."

When Campbell went to the line down one with less than a second to play, he was confident in his shot and the work he's put in up to this point but he had faith in his teammates to make the play as well.

"I just put trust in my shot. We shoot every day and our coaches and teammates all believe in each other, so I knew even if I would've missed it, my teammates would've gotten it and put it back in," Campbell said.

"We all have faith in each other, and it could have been any one of us at the line, any one of us and we would've put it in."

The Bulldogs struggled for most of the night offensively and had trouble at the charity stripe as well so Campbell credits the fight and the will in his team for lifting them over Locust Fork and sending them back to Regionals.

"It's the will. It's the will that our coaches use to push us, and we push each other. We love situations like that," Campbell said. "We love being in tight games and we want to be challenged. Our coaches always tell us to work hard and that every shot we take at practice is important"

Hanceville fell behind the Hornets 5-2 early in the opening quarter before back to back buckets by Campbell trimmed the lead to 7-6 with less than two minutes to play in the period. Cainon Moore added a pair of free throws with a minute remaining in the first and the Bulldogs trailed 10-8 after one.

Locust Fork pulled ahead 13-10 early in the second but a three-pointer from Bellmon held the lead to 17-14 with two minutes to play in the first half. Moore laid one in to make it a 20-16 game in the final seconds of the second quarter and the Hornets led by four going into the locker room at the break.

Another Moore bucket cut the lead to two at the start of the third quarter and a Campbell layup tied things at 20. Izayah Glenon scored inside to give Hanceville a 2-point lead, but the Hornets scored six straight to move back in front. Baskets by Glenon and Campbell tied the game at 26 with 34 seconds remaining in the period and both teams went into the final frame all tied up.

Campbell was fouled on a jumper and converted the and-one play at the line to make it 29-26 at the start of the fourth and a pair of free throws from Raiden Morgan kept the Bulldogs in front 31-28. Locust Fork was able to retake a 34-33 lead with three minutes to play but a free throw from Brodie Malcom tied the game at 36 with less than two minutes remaining.

A huge and-one play by Morgan gave Hanceville a 39-36 lead with a minute on the clock but the Hornets were able to score inside again and add a pair of free throws to take a 43-40 lead with eight seconds to play in regulation.

The Bulldogs quickly got the ball up the floor and Campbell found Bellmon on the left wing for a three at the buzzer and Bellmon hit nothing but nylon to send the game into overtime.

Locust Fork six straight to take a big lead at the start of the overtime period but as it had all night, Hanceville battled back. Moore scored inside to cut the lead to four and a bucket from Mathew Cornelius held the lead to five with two minutes remaining.

A pair of Campbell free throws made it a 3-point game and Campbell followed those with another basket that cut it to 52-51. The Hornets answered again to go back up by three with 50 seconds on the clock but Glenon responded with a basket on the other to end to make it a 54-53 game. Locust Fork netted two free throws to stretch the lead to three 18 seconds to play but Bellmon was fouled on a three-point shot with 10 seconds and he buried all three of them to tie the game at 56.

The Hornets were fouled and hit one of two from the line with seven seconds left to go up by one but after Campbell was fouled on the other end with 0.1 seconds hanging on the clock, the freshman drilled two shots from the charity stripe to win it and send the Bulldogs back to the Northeast Regional at Jacksonville State.

Campbell led the way for Hanceville with 17 in the win, followed by Moore with 12, Bellmon with 10, Morgan with seven and Glenon with six.

The Bulldogs will be on the floor at Jacksonville State Saturday night at 7:30 to take on Piedmont.

Penny (from Front)

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. - The Cullman County Animal Shelter's Donna Ruttkay shares The Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week:

Penny is a 1-year-old terrier mix. She's a laid-back, low-energy pet who's great on her leash and has good spatial awareness. She enjoys a little dress-up on cold days and loves human companionship.

Penny seems to exert a calming influence on the folks around her, as Ruttkay explained about a visit to a local nonprofit agency office:

"She shyly walked into each office looking for humans to meet and brighten their day. Each corridor brought out people, standing by their office, waiting to interact with our sweet Penny. Penny put a smile on everyone's face! Guess I'm a bit selfish. I wanted to share Penny's amazing calming quality with everyone!"

Penny has the makings of an excellent therapy, emotional support or companion dog.

Penny's adoption fee is $100 which includes: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, spaying, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior. Several of the shelter's canine friends have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

Clark (from Front)

Wendy Sack
wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman County Sheriff Matt Gentry said Deputy Adam Clark, who was critically injured in a wreck early Tuesday morning, is "making progress."

Gentry addressed the media Wednesday at East Side Baptist Church, where he gave an update on Clark and his K9 partner Figo, who was also seriously injured.

Dispatch lost contact with Clark during heavy rain. Deputies located Clark more than an hour later, when they discovered he had wrecked along Alabama Highway 69 South and was unconscious.

A traffic alert issued by the department Tuesday morning said the highway was closed just past County Road 8 just before 5 a.m. It remained closed for almost three hours.

"Yesterday morning, real early, we started trying to raise and notify Deputy Clark over the radio," Gentry said Wednesday. "Once we couldn't make contact, we realized something had happened."

Gentry said the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) enlisted the help of the Cullman Police Department (CPD).

"We have GPS on our vehicles, which aided in getting us in the general area. Cullman EMS, the local volunteer fire departments... it took us approximately an hour. We were able to locate Deputy Clark and his vehicle off a ravine," he said, noting that bad weather conditions hindered the efforts.

"Once they were located, first responders, Cullman EMS immediately went to work to extract Deputy Clark," said Gentry.

Clark was transported by ambulance to Huntsville Hospital. K9 Figo was transported to a veterinary clinic at Auburn University.

"One of the things I want to commend, during that response, all of the different law enforcement agencies, all the way to the hospital, which was pretty amazing," Gentry said. "Again, the weather conditions were not the best in the world. As we were traveling up the interstate, (there was) extremely hard rain, which makes those situations very difficult, and I want to commend Cullman EMS on doing that."

Gentry also praised the CPD. He said a CPD officer was the first to find Deputy Clark.

"Today," he said, "Adam has made a lot of progress. We were at the hospital earlier (Wednesday) talking with the family, and the positive is that we are seeing progress, you know, constantly. We're not out of danger yet, but we are making progress in a critical situation, which is a blessing. If you look on social media, everything you see, all the prayers and blessings, you know for us as a community, that's huge. One of the things that the family wanted for me to convey today is how much they appreciate everybody that has assisted in this, from yesterday morning until today. They can't thank you enough."

Gentry said K9 Figo is being evaluated at Auburn.

"They're doing CT scans, MRIs on him, so we can find out what is needed from here and let us know his condition. The deputies transported him to Auburn yesterday," he said. "I don't know if you know anything about K9 officers and their K9s...they're very, very close to each other, so that is a priority (too) for the family, making sure that Adam is better too. They're very close."

The Alabama Law Enforcement Agency (ALEA) is in charge of the investigation into the wreck, which Gentry said was caused by the weather conditions early Tuesday morning. Heavy rain was in the area at the time.

He talked a little more about the search efforts to find Clark and Figo, saying the GPS ping from Clark's vehicle gave them a "general area" in which to search. He said in the area where the wreck occurred, along Alabama Highway 69 "coming out of Bremen going to Dodge City, you have to go up a hill; on both sides is a ravine."

He said the deputies, CPD officers, firefighters and Cullman EMS were all searching that general area around the last known ping.

"(The CPD officer who found Clark) happened to look off in the ravine and see his vehicle, so he did an amazing job. It's just being diligent," said Gentry. "Somebody said they'd passed by it 10 times while they were looking. It's just a blessing the Good Lord put on him to be able to find him."

Gentry addressed how the incident has affected his office, saying, "That's a pretty traumatic incident. You know, law enforcement, we've been, I guess you'd say, in tragedy, the last couple of weeks with what we dealt with with the Kimberly officer, Officer (Nick) O'Rear. That's a traumatic event for law enforcement, and then to have this on top of it. It just makes it tough across the board, but the great thing is we have a great support system."

He said Chaplain Matt Smith has helped the family and the CCSO employees who need him.

"The Good Lord blessed us," said the sheriff. "We were able to find him. We were able to have the right people in place to treat him medically to get him to the hospital and then great doctors and staff there that are continuing to treat him."

8. Improper backing - 35 incidents
9. Failure to yield right of way from traffic signal - 26 incidents

10. A three-way tie occurred for number 10:

- Driving too fast for road conditions - 25 incidents
- Distraction inside vehicle other than electronic device or passenger - 25 incidents
- Distraction outside vehicle other than fallen object - 25 incidents

While the number one cause of wrecks in general was following too close, the top cause of fatalities was drivers running red lights, as it was in 2018.

Distracted driving

In the total list of official statistics, distracted driving accounted for 75 wrecks, but Duncan was convinced that distractions actually contributed to a substantially higher number of incidents, especially the number one cause, following too close. To him, the issue is not so much drivers following too close by habit, but ending up too close when they do not notice what is happening on the road right in front of them.

Said Duncan, "I don't think it's necessarily a tailgating issue we're having problems with. I think it's just the distraction; it's so easy for people to be distracted by something these days, whether it's paying attention to the restaurant that's on the left side, you know, and they're not focused on driving; they're looking out the left side at what's going on. People are just not watching the road when they drive, and that's why we're having so much-such a high number-of following too close. I really believe it."

Where are wrecks happening?

In 2019, according to Duncan, "Most of our vehicle crashes, the majority of them are occurring in a 30 mile per hour speed zone, which is what U.S. Highway 31 is (through downtown Cullman)."

Duncan plotted all of 2019's incidents on a digital city map. The highest concentrations of crashes occurred in the vicinity of the U.S. Highway 31/U.S. Highway 278 intersection (and for several blocks in all four directions, especially around the Highway 31/ Main Avenue intersection), and in the vicinity of the Highway 31/Alabama Highway 157 intersection.

Smaller concentrations occurred:

- Along the Highway 157 corridor from its intersection with St. Joseph Drive Northwest to the Interstate 65 interchange
- Along Highway 157 near the Childhaven Road intersection, including a short distance on Highway 157 in both directions
- At the intersection of Highway 157 and Eva Road
- Around the Highway 31/ Cherokee Avenue intersection and for several blocks down through the Cherokee Avenue retail corridor
- Along Highway 31 near the Cullman County Fairgrounds/Sportsman Lake Park
- At the intersection of Alabama Highway 69 and Highway 157
- Near the Highway 278/ Interstate 65 interchange

From 2010 to 2019

Reviewing statistics including property damage, injuries from minor to serious and fatalities, the CPD presented these numbers tracking incidents from the last 10 years, showing a fairly steady rise in incidents until last year.

- 2010 - 746 total incidents, one fatality
- 2011 - 709 total incidents, five fatalities
- 2012 - 738 total incidents, no reported fatalities
- 2013 - 758 total incidents, one fatality
- 2014 - 790 total incidents, two fatalities
- 2015 - 916 total incidents, four fatalities
- 2016 - 965 total incidents, two fatalities
- 2017 - 970 total incidents, no reported fatalities
- 2018 - 1006 total incidents, seven fatalities
- 2019 - 982 total incidents, three fatalities

Turning the tide: CPD creates Traffic Homicide Investigation unit

In 2017, the CPD sent Duncan and Officer Jonathan England for specialized training in traffic homicide investigation in order to lay the foundation for a specialized and dedicated Traffic Homicide Unit. In wrecks involving a fatality, the investigators can work up a 300-page package of incident details as specific as the depth of tread on the tires of involved vehicles. In less than two years, their new skill set has produced five indictments for vehicular homicide.

Said Duncan, "The (Cullman County) DA's office loves it. I mean, they're getting everything they need for prosecution."

The two-man unit, working in conjunction with patrol officers, also studied the most common areas of the city for wrecks, and then went into those areas to stop speeders and other offenders. If reading about the dangers of unsafe driving or tips for keeping things safe did not interest drivers, maybe reading traffic tickets would.

Asked what he thought contributed to the downturn, Duncan told The Tribune, "I think a lot of the public awareness that we're doing here at the police department by using the media outlets, using social media. Also, we have really stepped up our traffic enforcement, particularly in areas where fatality crashes are occurring. We are designating officers in specialties of traffic enforcement in those areas, and we're going after what causes the fatalities."

Of the intersections where drivers commonly run red lights, Duncan said, "We're getting officers in that area to really monitor red lights and also speed, because, you know, speed necessarily doesn't cause the wrecks, but it does intensify the injury. We know that."

The CPD hopes to expand its Traffic Homicide Unit in the future, to provide 24/7 coverage around town.

Interesting details

The 2019 statistics showed that men were slightly more likely than women to get into wrecks: 491 incidents involved men, 434 involved women.

Chevrolet vehicles were most likely to be involved in wrecks (192 incidents), followed by Fords (145). Duncan pointed out that the numbers of vehicles of any brand involved in wrecks was roughly in line with the number of vehicles of that brand on the road in the area; that is to say that Chevys are more likely to get in wrecks because there are more Chevys on the road, not because of any issue of vehicle quality or safety.

Thursday was the worst day to be on the road in Cullman, with the highest number of wrecks, though Friday was close behind. Sunday was the safest day by a long shot.

The largest number of wrecks occurred in 30 mile per hour speed zones, especially along Highway 31 through the downtown corridor. Zones of 45 and 55 miles per hour came in second and third.

What should drivers do?

The formula for avoiding the most common collisions in Cullman seems fairly simple:

- Keep a safe distance between your vehicle and those ahead of you.
- Pay close attention to everything around you, especially in traffic.
- Do not run red lights.
- Remember that, as careful as you might be to avoid causing an accident, you want to be just as careful to avoid becoming a victim. If you avoid running a red light, someone else might not.

England said in a previous interview, "When the light is green, pay attention. Look both ways, make sure that nobody's coming through the intersection. Never rely on somebody else."

Avoid distractions: turn off electronic devices

The CPD's observations of drivers not paying attention to what they are doing or to what is happening around them echo growing concerns about distracted driving across the nation, with electronic devices being cited as one of the biggest culprits.

Almost everyone has seen ads, commercials or online videos about the dangers of driving while texting, reading or even talking on a hand-held cell phone. The National Safety Council (NSC) has published studies, though, indicating that even the new generation of hands-free technology does not help nearly as much as people think.

In its 2012 publication "Understanding the Distracted Brain," the NSC stated:

Multitasking is valued in today's culture, and our drive for increased productivity makes it tempting to use cell phones while behind the wheel. People often think they are effectively accomplishing two tasks at the same time. And yes, they may complete a phone conversation while they drive and arrive at their destination without incident, thus accomplishing two tasks during the same time frame. However, there are two truths to this common belief.

1. People actually did not "multitask."
2. People did not accomplish both tasks with optimal focus and effectiveness.

Multitasking is a myth. Human brains do not perform two tasks at the same time. Instead, the brain handles tasks sequentially, switching between one task and another. Brains can juggle tasks very rapidly, which leads us to erroneously believe we are doing two tasks at the same time. In reality, the brain is switching attention between tasks – performing only one task at a time.

The study focused on cell phone use, which the NSC considers to be among the biggest safety issues for drivers, including those who use hands-free technology. The report continued:

Vision is the most important sense for safe driving. Yet, drivers using hands-free phones (and those using handheld phones) have a tendency to "look at" but not "see" objects. Estimates indicate that drivers using cell phones look but fail to see up to 50 percent of the information in their driving environment. Distracted drivers experience what researchers call inattention blindness, similar to that of tunnel vision. Drivers are looking out the windshield, but they do not process everything in the roadway environment that they must know to effectively monitor their surroundings, seek and identify potential hazards, and respond to unexpected situations.

Today there are more than 320 million wireless connections in the U.S. And although public sentiment appears to be turning against cell phone use while driving, many admit they regularly talk or text while driving. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that nine percent of all drivers at any given time are using cell phones, and the National Safety Council estimates about one in four motor vehicle crashes involve cell phone use at the time of the crash.

Cell phone distracted driving has become a serious public health threat. A few states have passed legislation making it illegal to use a handheld cell phone while driving. These laws give the false impression that using a hands-free phone is safe.

The NSC's study indicated that drivers carrying on cell phone conversations, even hands-free, tended to suffer:

- Inattention blindness – not seeing things right in front of them, and especially to the sides. Eye movement studies showed that drivers talking on hands-free phones tended to focus their eyes on a much smaller field right in front of their vehicles and not keep an active watch on other areas within their field of vision. Areas outside the talking drivers' narrow focus include common locations of Stop signs, traffic lights, oncoming side road traffic at intersections, and points from which pedestrians are likely to step out into the street.
- Slower response time and reaction time – In one driving simulator study, participants actively engaged in cell phone conversations had slower reaction and response times than participants with a .08 blood alcohol concentration, legally drunk in Alabama.
- Problems staying in their lanes

The NSC study concluded that a person talking on a cell phone while driving is four times more likely to be involved in a crash than a person not using a phone, whether the device is handheld or hands-free.
