'His physical condition is good'

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) Deputy Adam Clark is recovering from several surgeries after being critically injured in a Feb. 11 car wreck. According to the CCSO, Clark's "physical condition is good." Clark was transferred Wednesday to Shepherd Center in Atlanta. The CCSO said he will be there "for several months."

Clark's K9 partner, Figo, was in the vehicle with Clark and was also injured in the crash. The CCSO said Figo's condition is improving, and he is at a private facility.

"I know Deputy Clark's family would like me to convey to everyone how much they appreciate everyone's prayers, cards and messages during this difficult time," said Cullman County Sheriff Matt Gentry.

CCSO Dispatch lost contact with Clark during heavy rain the night of Feb 11. Deputies located Clark more than an hour later, when they discovered he had wrecked along Alabama Highway 69 South just past County Road » PAGE 5

Cullman Lions Club Fish and Ham Dinner this Saturday

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – In 1971, the Cullman Lions Club held its first fundraising dinner offering oysters and ham. With 49 years of practice and successful experience, and catfish in place of the oysters, the Lions, Lionesses and their high school Leos are getting ready for another feast.

The 2020 Cullman Lions Club Fish and Ham Dinner will be held this Saturday, Feb. 29 from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. at the Cullman Middle School cafeteria. For $10 per plate, diners will get their choice of catfish filet or ham plus baked potato, slaw, hushpuppies, dessert (provided by the Cullman Lionesses) and a drink. Eat in or take home; drive-through pickup will be available on Ninth Street Northeast at the north side of the cafeteria.

Approximately 100 Lions and Lionesses, along with 35-40 Leos, will prepare more than 1,500 dinners, about 60% of which will leave through the drive-through pick-up line.

The event is expected to raise more than $10,000 which, with revenues from the Lions-sponsored Cullman County Fair, will benefit eyesight-related causes like providing eye exams and glasses to needy patients, along with other eye services through the UAB Callahan Eye Hospital and the Alabama Lions Eye Clinic located at that hospital.

The club also supports numerous other local causes. Over just the last few years, Cullman Lions have contributed to:

- Cullman Caring for Kids
- United Way Food Bank
- Good Samaritan Health Clinic
- Grace Episcopal Church's Grace Place
- Stiefelmeyer Park
- Field of Miracles
- Cullman Regional Foundation and renova- » PAGE 8

Maggie Darnell

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Wallace State Community College (WSCC) welcomed motivational speaker, storyteller and vocalist David Anthony Johnson Wednesday as part of the college's Black History Month observances.

WSCC said in a media release prior to the event, "Johnson is best known for his reenactments of the speeches of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., emulating the reverend's vocal style. He has performed for and shared the stage with Civil Rights activists such as the late Rosa Parks, Johnnie Cochran, Maya Angelou and more. He also specializes in telling stories about the Underground Railroad and the Civil Rights Movements."

WSCC Dean Students Dr. Ryan Smith introduced Johnson Wednesday morning.

"Mr. David Anthony Johnson has been a professional motivational speaker, inspirational solo artist, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. impressionist, historical storyteller, songwriter, inventor and youth motivator for more than 30 years," he said. "He uses his talents to inspire others to use their talents positively to make a difference in our communities."

Smith continued, "David was raised by his great-grandmother, mother and aunt to realize that God had given him special gifts and talents. They also instilled in him the importance of honoring God with those gifts and talents by helping others to realize their gifts and talents. David uses his great-grandmother as his biggest inspiration. She was the daughter of a Tennessee slave and taught David the importance of loving his brothers and sisters of all races and all walks of life."

Johnson indeed focused on his great-grandmother, whom he lovingly referred to as "Mama."

He said Mama told him, "When an old person dies, a library dies. So, you make sure you get as much information from an old person as you can. Because when they're gone, they're gone."

Johnson said he would sit with his great-grandmother as a child and listen to her stories, and she'd constantly remind him, "I want you to share everything I'm telling you, because one day I'll be dead and gone."

He shared a story about Mama saying to him one day, "David, did you know there were three Moseses?"

He said he was confused, but he correctly guessed the first Moses was the Moses that helped the Israelites out of Egypt. Pleased, his great-grandmother told him she'd sing some songs to introduce the second Moses.

He said she sang him traditional "negro spirituals," breaking down the lyrics, showing him how some lyrics were really code revealing directions for slaves to reach the Ohio River. She told him it was a masterful plan, with the addition of slave seamstresses creating quilts that were actually maps of the plantations with further direction to reach the Mason-Dixon Line, which, together with the Ohio River, at that time was considered the dividing line between the free states of the North and the slave states of the South. Once escaped slaves reached the Ohio River, they would meet the second Moses, Harriett Tubman, who led them to freedom on the Underground Railroad.

"These songs conveyed trouble, pain, hope, faith, love and also were used as songs for codes for escape," she told Johnson. "I sang those songs for a reason because in them were codes for escape!"

So who was the third Moses?

Johnson said when he was 5 years old, he remembers seeing a man's face plastered everywhere. He thought the man was following him. When he saw the man's face on an album his great-grandmother treasured, Johnson asked her who it was.

He said she responded, "This is the third Moses, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr."

Johnson said Mama told him Dr. King was the third Moses because he tried to make people of all colors free and fought for civil rights.

He said she wanted him to learn all Dr. King's speeches. As he grew older, he said, he continued learning the speeches, working on his voice to emulate King's vocal resonance.

Learning about King's death had a profound impact on Johnson.

"My great-aunt gave me a newspaper with an obituary in it, and on that obituary it said April 9, 1968, and it had Martin Luther King's face on it and she said, 'David, nine years ago I drove down from St. Louis to attend Martin Luther King's funeral, and do you know he preached his own eulogy?'" he said. "I thought maybe she forgot that when you die, you can't sing, talk or make people laugh; you can't do anything! You especially can't speak at your own funeral! So, I thought she must be in great error. I went to the Junior Davis Branch Library; I went in there and went to this section and read and I went, 'Ah-ha, she is right!'"

He continued, "Ten years later, while a student at Oakwood University, I was asked to speak at the Ebenezer Baptist Church; I was there to meet Coretta Scott King, but our school bus was late.

"We missed her! She waited too long and was going to miss her plane and I did not get to meet her.

"I was an hour late. But while I was there, I ran into two ladies that were there (when King preached) on this particular day- it was Feb. 4, 1968.

"They invited me, they took me into the sanctuary and said, 'There our pastor stood right there.' He got up that morning and preached a beautiful sermon called 'The Drum Major Instinct.' And in that sermon, he talked about how everyone ascribes greatness by being first, but he tried to reorder the whole priority by saying true greatness comes by serving. True service comes by loving your brother and helping him, even into death. That's true greatness. The ladies said, 'Child at the end of his sermon, he started talking about his own death!' And when he died, 60 days later, when he was assassinated, five days after that night of April, at his funeral, they played what he said two months earlier. And that last part of 'The Drum Major Instinct,' they titled, 'The Eulogy,' what he wanted said when he died.

"And they recorded it and played it at his funeral, thus determining that it's true: he preached his own eulogy."

Johnson recited the eulogy for the audience.

CULLMAN, Ala. – Class was in session Wednesday morning at the Donald E. Green Active Adult Center with more than 20 seniors participating in a technology class. The free class is offered through Cullman Parks, Recreation & Sports Tourism and aims to help seniors understand the internet, smartphones and tablets. The class is taught by Jose Rodriguez.

Wednesday's class began with basic navigation of computers and setting up an email account. The participants were very engaged and had many questions. Rodriguez also held a lengthy question and answer session to see which areas the group would need to focus on during future classes. Overwhelmingly, using smartphones and tablets was the main area of concern for the seniors.

One participant told Rodriguez said she needed a "kindergarten-level" class and that she simply felt lost when trying to do anything on her phone. Many in the room related to her struggles. Rodriguez said he hopes to focus the next class on the basics of handheld devices.

Security was also a huge concern, as seniors are most often the targets of internet scams. Rodriquez said he plans to put together a class to help them identify and avoid being victims of the scams through phone, social media and the internet.

Jeanne Madara explained why she signed up for the class.

"I feel bad having to ask my kids all the time. I hate depending on them," she said. "I get the gist of it, but there are things I know I can do better."

Many of the seniors expressed their reluctance to embrace cell phones and new technology, but Madara said, "It's easy to say, 'I don't want to become a part of it,' but if you don't, then you aren't part of our world anymore."

While there is a resistance, many are discovering that newer technology, including Facebook and texting, can enrich their lives.

Barbara Tubbs and Dave Gratz also joined the tech class. Gratz seemed to have the hang of Facebook as he chuckled while scrolling through his newsfeed.

Meanwhile, Tubbs smiled, "I'm here because all I know how to do is scroll."

Madara added, "Please give Jose Rodriquez the praise because he is so patient. Look at these ladies; they are up there surrounding him and he is handling it so well. He brought us donuts.

"I mean, we couldn't have asked for a better teacher. I am so impressed with his knowledge and his ability to explain this to us. Really, it's amazing."

The date for the next Technology School class has not been scheduled, but Rodriguez said it will be soon. He said he wanted to wait to see how the first class was received before scheduling more. Based on the popularity of Wednesday's class, more classes will soon be scheduled.

8 and was unconscious.

Clark was transported by ambulance to Huntsville Hospital. K9 Figo was transported to a veterinary clinic at Auburn University.

The Alabama Law Enforcement Agency (ALEA) is in charge of the investigation into the wreck, which Gentry said was caused by the weather conditions. Heavy rain was in the area at the time.

Anyone who would like to make a monetary contribution to help Clark may do so by visiting any Cullman Premier Bank of the South location or mailing a donation to the Cullman County Sheriff's Office C/O Deputy Clark, 1910 Beech Ave. SE Cullman, AL 35055.

Ajax (from Front)

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Animal Shelter has extra love to share right now, so Donna Ruttkay shares a bonus Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week:

Ajax is a 1-year-old pit bull mix. He's a tough-looking, but mild-mannered medium-energy pet who is submissive to his people. He enjoys getting out and is developing his leash skills, with good spatial awareness, and he's ready to go for a walk; all the recent rain has given him a case of cabin fever! On those cold day walks, he also likes to wear his doggie coat.

Ruttkay reported Ajax enjoys relaxing around people, and his favorite spot is resting on a rug behind the shelter's desk.

Ajax has the makings of a good companion or hiking dog.

Ajax's adoption fee is $100 which includes: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neutering, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior. Several of the shelter's canine friends have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

Addison's Chambers signs with UNA

Todd Walker
Tribune Correspondent

BRIDGET GILBREATH

ADDISON, Ala. – Tuesday was a special day in the library at Addison High School. For the first time in nearly 30 years, an Addison football player signed a scholarship with a Division One program after Senior standout Luke Chambers signed his letter of intent to play for the University of North Alabama next season. Chambers, a 2019 All-State player and three-year starter on both sides of the ball for the Bulldogs, signed with the Lions after committing to them right before National Signing Day on Feb. 5.

Chambers was excited to put his name on the dotted line and is even more excited to get to campus and start working toward a spot on the field. "This is crazy, being able to play at UNA. I dreamed of this since I first started playing toy bowl. It is what I have worked for my entire life," Chambers said. "I am just going to report in the fall and do my best to help the team.

"I hope to play but am not expecting too right from the beginning. I know I will have to earn my spot."

Chambers was recruited by Lions Secondary Coach Blake Ferris and was told that UNA wanted him to play safety. Chambers said that he has been to UNA and visited during last year's homecoming game.

"I have visited the campus several times and love it," Luke said.

Chambers' parents, Tia and Shane Chambers, were all smiles as they watched their son sign his letter of intent and wanted to thank the coaches at Addison for helping Luke accomplish one of his biggest goals.

"We are excited for him and couldn't be prouder," Shane said. "He has worked hard for this and we would also like to thank the teachers and Coach (David) Smothers here at Addison High School for the help that they have given him to be able to pursue his dream."

Cold Springs' Burgess signs with Huntingdon

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

NICK GRIFFIN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Lawson Burgess signs his national letter of intent to play at Huntingdon College next season with his Father Justin Burgess (left) and Mother April Burgess (right).

BREMEN, Ala. – Friends, families, teammates and coaches made their way to Jesse George Gymnasium at Cold Springs High School Wednesday morning to celebrate the next stage one Eagle's athletic and academic career. Lawson Burgess stood out on both the offensive and defensive sides of the ball for Cold Springs last season and his performance earned him an opportunity to play at the next level for the Huntingdon Hawks and Coach Mike Turk.

Lawson knew almost immediately when he took a visit to the campus that Huntingdon was where he wanted to be once his prep playing days were over. He really liked the atmosphere around the program and its commitment to winning.

"When I went down there, I could really tell that everyone is a family. I really liked the coaches and everyone down there and it just felt like a family," Burgess said. "They like winning and they earn it too. They work hard."

Lawson is excited to get down to campus and get to work as well as meet new friends and teammates but admits he's going to miss the Cold Springs community that he's gotten to know and all of the friends he's made in school and on the field.

"The thing I'm going to miss most is all these people and everybody around here. I just love this whole community," Burgess said. "I'm going to miss my friends but I'm looking forward to making some new ones."

One of Burgess' coaches at Cold Springs, Justin Cornelius, saw Lawson develop in a big way from his first year on the field to his second. Lawson knew he wanted to play college football and Cornelius has seen his commitment.

"When Lawson got here and he was going into 11th grade, he was a kid that would trip over his own two feet.

"We'd be out at practice and he looked awkward out there running but this was something that he loved. So, he came out and we started working him and the transformation between his junior year of football and his senior year of football was huge because he knew he wanted to go somewhere," Cornelius said. "It's not about what he did in those three months that we play football, its about what he did from November to August, not from August to November. So, we're very proud of Lawson and very excited for Lawson."

Cornelius will miss having Lawson on the field next season but he's excited that he will be representing Cold Springs at the next level. He had nothing but good things to say about Burgess' work ethic, character and leadership so the future looks bright for the former Eagle as he transitions to life as a Hawk.

"Lawson was a lot of fun, he's a great kid with high character and a good student. There's not much more you could ask for from a coaching perspective than to have someone who performs well in school and on the field. That's what we want, that's what excites us; someone we know we can rely on," Cornelius said.

"When things got tough, we knew we could lean on this guy and that makes a huge difference for us not only on the field, but also in school. He's somebody that's going to represent us and represent us well."

The Cullman Lions Club has on multiple occasions been named the top local chapter in the state, even more often named the top club in the northern district, and is the largest local chapter in Alabama. It is also the state's largest supporter of the Alabama Lions Sight project at UAB.

This year's dinner is being coordinated by Lions Frank Odell and Carrie Thompson.

Odell told The Tribune after last year's event: "We're real excited about the Fish and Ham (Dinner). This function's been going on for about 50 years, every year.

"And I used to think it was strictly a fundraiser. We only charge $10 a meal as a donation, and catfish is expensive now. But I've realized that we raise money for local organizations; we also celebrate Lionism and the fact that we serve where we're serving the community.

"The people that choose to eat in, those are a lot of our supporters. We enjoy having them here. We have a very good meal at a reasonable price, so we're helping out people with that. Some of the Lions donate their tickets for some specifics like, in many years we've donated meals to people at Childhaven. But then it's also a team-building exercise where we're all under the same roof for a whole day, working in different teams, working together to get as much fish and as much ham produced for the customers as they come in, and try to do a better job every year. It's always worked out quite well."

In the article "Colony welcomes Kitchens, Marchman; citizens encouraged to vote in local races," published Wednesday, Feb. 26, 2020, it was reported, "According to Town Clerk Patricia Ponder, all four Cullman County Commission chairman candidates were invited, along with several elected officials, but only candidate Wiley Kitchens and County Commissioner Garry Marchman came and took part in the event." Ponder clarified later Wednesday, saying the council was under the impression Cullman County resident Ron Stone had extended an invitation to all four chairman candidates. Candidate Philip Widner said he did not receive an invitation, and said he would have definitely been present if he had.
