County Commission declares local State of Emergency due to storm, tornado damages

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Commission in a special-called meeting Tuesday morning declared a local State of Emergency due to the damage from severe storms and tornadoes Easter Sunday. The National Weather Service (NWS) has verified three separate tornadoes that occurred in Cullman County.

Cullman County Emergency Management Agency (EMA) Director Phyllis Little gave an update to the commission on damage throughout the county, as well as early cost estimates. She said residential damage includes major roof damage from downed trees and flooding.

"At least six chicken houses in the Bremen-Cold Springs area were damaged or destroyed, along with multiple outbuildings all the way across the county from the southwest to the northeast," said Little.

Due to COVID-19 restrictions, the NWS assessments are being conducted by individual meteorologists rather than teams to meet social distancing requirements. Detailed information is still being gathered re- » PAGE 7

CONTRIBUTED

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman City Council Public Works committee chairman Johnny Cook announced at Monday's council meeting that the City has temporarily suspended its recycling program due to the closure of its previously used service provider.

Cook told the council and online viewers, "Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the drop-off location where we were taking all our recycled materials has closed. It has stopped taking materials. Therefore, for a time period undesignated at this time, the City's going to temporarily discontinue our recycling program.

"We look forward to restarting the recycling program as soon as possible, as soon as we get a place that'll receive our recycling materials."

Cullman Council approves west side arts district, $1.5m loan to HomTex for mask production

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

City Clerk Wesley Moore provided a downtown map showing the boundaries of the approved Arts District.

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman City Council on Monday evening approved the creation of an arts district on Cullman's west side, the boundaries of which would include portions of Fifth Avenue Southwest, Sixth Street Southwest, Fourth Street Southwest, Hickory Avenue Southwest, First Street Southwest and Third Avenue Southwest. An updated version of the map presented at the meeting shows that residential sites have been removed, and more retail sites added to the district since it was first presented.

City Clerk Wesley Moore had previously explained that the arts district "is more like a special events district.

"It's a place where you can have festivals, community events- things that support local art and are family-friendly."

Alcohol could be served at special events within the district, but the same rules would apply as at events held in locations like the Warehouse District during Oktoberfest. At all other times, regular city alcohol ordinances would apply.

HomTex to receive $1.5 loan for mask production

The council approved an ordinance allowing the city to loan $1.5 million to its Industrial Development Board, which will in turn loan the money to HomTex to cover almost one third of the cost of retooling its Cullman production facility to produce "surgical and residential mask(s) which are urgently needed to fight the COVID-19 virus."

HomTex has already begun making reusable cloth masks and will continue to do so, while the new machinery will allow the company to expand its operation to include disposable masks. The company hopes to have the equipment in May, and to be in production in early June.

HomTex's total capital investment in the project is expected to reach $5 million, and the project, according to Cullman Economic Development Director Dale Greer, is predicted to create around 100 new jobs and generate $8 million in annual sales with production of up to 400 million masks per year. The company will repay the loan at 2.2% interest.

"Small Cell Technology Facilities" regulated

The council suspended the regular rules of procedure to pass two ordinances with only a first reading, to regulate the placement of small cellular antennas and accessory equipment on the city's rights of way (defined in the proposed ordinance as " the surface and space in, upon, above, along, across, over and below any public streets, avenues, highways, roads, courts, lanes, alleys, boulevards, ways, sidewalks and bicycle lanes, including all public utility easements and public service easements within those places, as the same now or may hereafter exist, that are within the City's corporate boundaries and under the jurisdiction of the City"), as well as public and private property, and establish fees for such placement.

The proposed ordinance would encourage the use of existing structures to mount equipment and colocation of multiple wireless service providers' equipment on the same structures. City Attorney Roy Williams told the council that recent laws allow cellular providers to place antennas and equipment in municipal rights of way, and the ordinances will allow the city to ensure that such placement is consistent with city planning.

Other council business

The council

• passed an ordinance approving a request from developer Gregory Windham to allow the rezoning of property in the Windbrook subdivision from R-1 (low housing density; bigger yards, fewer structures) to R-2 (medium density).

• granted H & M Land Company a 50-foot access easement through city-owned property to a landlocked parcel belonging to the company, contingent upon annexation of the property into the city.

• vacated an alley at 510 Fifth Ave. NW, adjacent to Oak Drive Northwest, to grant Catherine Apel a permanent utility easement, to correct a previous errant easement location. Apel will exchange an easement where city utilities are actually located on her property for the vacated land, estimated to be of the same value.

• approved a professional services agreement with Black Design Architecture for the renovation of an existing building and construction of a new building at Nesmith Park, for an amount of up to $10,000.

• approved a professional services agreement with TTL, Inc. for civil engineering and infrastructure services for the Industrial Access Road to NAFCO in an amount of up to $52,200.

Mayor issues Fair Housing Month proclamation

Mayor Woody Jacobs presented the following proclamation:

WHEREAS, April 11, 2020 marks the 52nd Anniversary of the passage of the United States Fair Housing Law, Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, which enunciated a National Policy of fair housing without regard to race, color, religion, sex, and national origin; and

WHEREAS, the effective implementation of the National Policy depends on affirmative action at all levels of Government;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City of Cullman, does hereby proclaim the month of April 2020, as Fair Housing Month in recognition of the importance of fair housing to our way of life, and I urge our citizens to obey the letter and the spirit of the Fair Housing Law as an expression of the individual rights guaranteed by the United States Constitution.

Jacobs also announced that the council has enacted a new incentive program to encourage participation in the 2020 Census.

Each Cullman resident (only city residents are eligible) who fills out the census is eligible for weekly drawings for gift cards redeemable at city businesses and restaurants as a means of stimulus to those establishments. The mayor announced that the first week's winner is Jennifer Branham, who won a $50 gift card to Ashley Mercantile.

1989 Auburn Tigers gave 'whatever it took' to win 'First Time Ever' Iron Bowl

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. – Even if you weren't on the Plains on Dec. 2, 1989, when the Iron Bowl came to Jordan-Hare Stadium for the first time, chances are you've heard the stories of the First Time Ever.

A Tiger Walk for the ages. Paper shakers creating an orange and blue haze. Coach Dye's emotional postgame speech ("Tonight's what our program's all about.").

Thirty years after their groundbreaking, rivalry-shaking victory, the 1989 Auburn Tigers reunited the weekend of the 2019 Iron Bowl.

Like all reunions, they swapped stories from the glory days. Unlike most such occasions, there was no way and no need to embellish what occurred three decades prior. The legend and the truth are one and the same.

"As Coach Dye said, we planted some big seeds, some deep seeds with some deep roots, and it's showing," said Craig Ogletree, an All-America linebacker in 1989.

"A great game, a great rivalry, the Iron Bowl. There's none like it in this country. We're excited to be a part of a great history of a great university, a great Auburn family."

It was fitting that the 1989 team participated in Tiger Walk before the 2019 Iron Bowl. The Tiger Walk of today came of age in '89. What had been a three-wide stroll down Donahue Drive became a can't-miss part of pregame on the Plains.

"Walking single file down the line in Tiger Walk," remembered Corey Barlow, a sophomore defensive back in '89. "We'd never done that. It was just in the air that night."

For Auburn people, playing the Iron Bowl at Birmingham's Legion Field, the sight of Alabama's biggest home games each year, made little sense, especially once capacity at Jordan-Hare Stadium expanded to exceed Legion Field's.

"The fans, the look in their eyes, some people were crying with joy that we had gotten that game there finally, and what it meant to the Auburn people," recalled Win Lyle, who kicked three field goals in Auburn's 30-20 victory.

Throughout the 1980s, Pat Dye, serving as Auburn's head football coach and athletic director, led the charge to bring the game to the Plains, standing up to power brokers at the University of Alabama, including his former boss, Paul Bryant.

That Alabama was unbeaten when it came to Jordan-Hare Stadium in 1989 only increased the stakes.

"It just so happened that they came in on a high note and it made the game that much more special," said running back James Joseph. "I had two touchdowns, by the grace of God. We got down there and they called my number."

"We knew Alabama was No. 2 in the country at that point, but there was no way they could have beaten us that game," Barlow said. "No way."

"There was no way in hell we were going to lose that game," defensive back John Wiley said. "That's just the bottom line. Whatever it took, that was our motto that day, whatever it took."

Trailing 10-7 at the half, Auburn scored on four consecutive second-half possessions to take a 27-10 lead. Alabama pulled within a touchdown late, but Lyle's third field goal, a 34-yarder with 30 seconds left, secured Auburn's fourth straight series victory.

"Even though it wasn't the most pressure kick I'd ever had, that was by far the most satisfying kick I'd ever had to ice that game and put it out of reach," Lyle said. "Then the celebrating began."

MEMORIES OF THE FIRST TIME EVER...

Corey Barlow: "The Auburn mystique. This is an electric atmosphere down at Auburn. I didn't realize this until I got to the NFL. I thought LSU and Florida were the toughest places to play football, but you talk to guys on other NFL teams, they all said the same thing; that Auburn was the toughest place to come and play football. I'm really proud of that.

"That's the first time I ever went away from campus the night before a game. We actually went and stayed in LaGrange and came back the next morning. You wouldn't believe all of the people who were in Auburn that day."

Craig Ogletree: "Resilience. That '89 team had a great group of leaders. We were trained by some great leaders on that '88 team. Just a great time, the Iron Bowl, awesome time. A great game that day, Dec. 2, 1989. We didn't realize the ramifications of that game or the impact it would have on the Auburn family, but whenever I look back, it was a great time in history, one that I will never forget. The excitement building up to it, the moment, and now 30 years later, it's still alive."

Ed King: "Wednesday was almost like game day. So many RVs, jam-packed. The Tiger Walk, it was like a tunnel. It was so tight. Tiger Walk was so pumped up. It was like a pep rally. I remember Coach Dye telling us, 'Keep it down, keep it down, not yet,' because we were ready. We had to go through warmups and by kickoff, I remember Coach Dye saying, 'It's going to be alright.'

"We went to halftime and I think we were down 10-7, but Coach Dye gave us the most electrifying, run through that wall talk, and second half, we rolled up 20 points, and to be victorious the first time Bama ever came to Auburn was awesome."

Rob Selby: "Every year it was the same. It was grueling, it was tough, it was physical, but when we got to the Iron Bowl, we all looked at each other and once we won, because we usually won, we said they can double winter workouts, it's worth it."

John Wiley: "The first thing that stands out to me about the '89 team is what Coach Dye did to get this game here. There was a lot of work that went into it. For us to be able to play our first time in Auburn. We had to leave town that day. We had to go to a different state. We went to Georgia to stay the night and we came back. The Tiger Walk seemed like it took an hour to get from Sewell Hall to the stadium. When we got onto the field it was just awesome."

James Joseph: "When you get knocked down, get back up. Life is full of twists and turns. I've been knocked down a few times, but football teaches you to get back up and keep fighting."

Alabama's Tanesha Lucoe voted SEC Female Freshman Diver of the Year

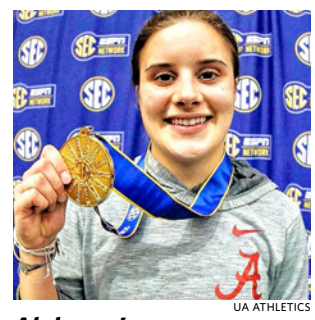

Roots Woodruff
UA Athletics

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. – The Southeastern Conference office announced that Tanesha Lucoe was voted the SEC Female Freshman Diver of the Year by the league's coaches Tuesday afternoon.

"This is a great honor for Tanesha and well deserved," UA head coach Coley Stickels said. "Her performance off the platform at the SEC Championships was the most dominant on the diving side of the meet, men or women. We're really excited about where she is headed as she moves forward."

The rookie from Victoria, British Columbia, won the 2020 SEC platform diving title by more than 50 points after tallying a school-record 338.75 points. She also earned an NCAA Championships berth after posting a top-five finish off the platform at the NCAA Zone B Championships. Lucoe is the fifth UA diver to earn the league honor, and the first since Paige McCleary in 2011. She also earned First Team All-SEC as well as a place on the SEC All-Freshman team.

Auburn's Maillard, Shaffer earn SEC postseason honors

Greg Ostendorf
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. – Auburn senior Alison Maillard was named the SEC Female Diver of the Year while head diving coach Jeff Shaffer was recognized as the Women's Diving Coach of the Year as well as the Men's Co-Diving Coach of the Year, the conference announced Tuesday.

Maillard, a team captain, won the SEC Championship in the 1-meter event with a school-record 365.15 points. She also finished third at the SEC meet on 3-meter and qualified for the NCAA Championships on all three events. She was a three-time SEC Diver of the Week this season and had 11 individual wins in dual meets.

"That's a great honor because first of all it's voted on by the other coaches," Shaffer said. "She did a phenomenal job and I think improved this year as much as years past. Her 1-meter performance to win the SEC title was one of the best performances obviously of her career but also of mine in developing a diver to that level. I'm very proud of the effort there."

Maillard has steadily improved at Auburn since her first year when she was named the SEC Female Freshman Diver of the Year in 2017. She became the fourth female diver in program history to win an SEC Championship with her performance on 1-meter in February.

For Shaffer, who just wrapped up his 21st season as Auburn's head diving coach, this is the ninth time he's received SEC Diving Coach of the Year honors.

Shaffer coached a group this year that saw all six divers score points at the SEC Championships with five of the six earning a spot in the finals in at least one event.

In addition to Maillard making podium twice, sophomore Conner Pruitt finished second in the men's 1-meter and freshman Gretchn Wensuc took third on women's platform.

"Jeff is extremely deserving of this outstanding accolade," Auburn head coach Gary Taylor said.

"He absolutely brings his best work each and every day to the pool. He does a great job connecting with the athletes, developing athletes and getting them to perform at extremely high levels.

"This year was no different. He coached the SEC Female Diver of the Year and did a great job developing the two freshmen.

"And then on the men's side, he coached three men who performed each and every time out, scored a lot of points for Auburn and I think ultimately had the highest score of any men's squad in the conference meet.

"What more can I say about his effort, dedication to these athletes and most importantly to Auburn?"

The SEC also released its 2020 All-SEC and All-Freshman Teams on Tuesday.

The First Team consists of the top finisher in each event at the SEC Championships, and the Second Team consists of the second- and third-place finishers in each event. The All-Freshman Teams consist of any redshirt or true freshman who finished either in the top eight or is the highest scoring freshman of each event at the SEC Championships, excluding relays.

The Tigers had a total of 11 student-athletes recognized, including six First Team All-SEC selections on the women's side and five on the All-Freshman Team between from both the men's and women's sides.

HEALTH

CRNAs serving Alabamians in the fight against COVID-19

Willie Furr, DNP, CRNA
Contributor

Health care workers and first responders are stepping up in the fight against COVID-19. Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists (CRNAs) are a group of Advance Practice Registered Nurses (APRNs) on the frontlines that are placing themselves in the most dangerous position of exposure during an intubation or placement of a breathing tube.

COVID-19 is known to produce hypoxemia and respiratory distress which may lead to the need for additional breathing support requiring this procedure. Intubation requires administering sedating medications, similar to what would be administered in surgery, so that a breathing tube can be gently placed under direct visualization into the trachea or windpipe. This procedure can lead to aerosolization of the virus particularly to those in close proximity.

In a known COVID-19 positive patient, a CRNA will don appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE) so that he/she is protected in the best way possible. However, until testing is provided for every patient entering the hospital, many are considered a person under investigation (PUI) or possibly an asymptomatic carrier. Therefore, it is important that the CRNA protect himself or herself on every intubation.

Many hospitals are seeking donations of appropriate PPE due to extreme limitations in their inventories. When caring for these COVID-19 positive patients the required amount of PPE donning and doffing leads to depletion of normal stock very quickly. Community support has been tremendous and appreciated.

Many institutions are forming special airway response teams (COVID teams) using CRNAs because the most experienced airway expert should place the breathing tube. These CRNAs start their 12-hour shift not knowing when a call will come or what particular situation they will respond to.

Utilizing their background in critical care nursing and required ability to think autonomously during critical events helps them to know what to do as they respond.

In our rural Alabama hospitals, the CRNA is one of the few advanced healthcare providers taking care of patients as they enter the hospital.

Hospitals are given great latitude during this crisis in Alabama due to Governor Kay Ivey's Proclamation on April 2, 2020.

This allows APRNs to practice to their full scope of practice, education, training, and national certification. Emergency operation plans are helping hospitals utilize their workforce to maximum potential so that Alabama lives can be saved.

During this uncertain time of the COVID-19 pandemic, know that the 1,800+ CRNAs in Alabama are providing Safe and Effective Care for Every Patient, Every Breath, Every Beat, Every Second.

Blood Sugar Rising

Actress S. Epatha Merkerson ("Chicago Med"), who suffers herself from Type 2 diabetes, narrates this new documentary that exposes how this disease has become a veritable epidemic in the United States, where one way or another, Americans are spending more than $325 billion a year on diabetes. According to the Center for Disease Control, one in three children born nowadays can expect to develop diabetes. This two-hour film profiles Americans living with the disease and caregivers and researchers trying to improve diabetes management and prevention.

Chicago Fire

When one of 51's own members gets injured on a dangerous call, Severide (Taylor Kinney) becomes unduly obsessed with helping out in a new episode called "51's Original Bell." Meanwhile, Foster (Annie Ilonzeh) ponders a major decision, while Kidd (Miranda Mayo) is becoming concerned about one of her high-school trainees. Jesse Spencer, Eamonn Walker, David Eigenberg, Joe Minoso and Yuri Sardarov also star.

American Housewife

Is this a harbinger for next season? This acclaimed family sitcom inherits the hallowed time period previously occupied by the dearly departed "Modern Family" starting with tonight's new episode "All Is Fair in Love and War Reenactment," in which Katie (Katy Mixon) encourages youngest child Anna-Kat (Julia Butters) to start standing up for herself with big sister Taylor (Meg Donnelly). Meanwhile, Oliver (Daniel DiMaggio) feels left out when Greg (Diedrich Bader) invites Lonnie (guest star Matt Shively) and some other guys to join him at a historical reenactment.

Motherland: Fort Salem

The unit travels off-base to attend the posh wedding of Abigail's (Ashley Williams) cousin in the new episode "Bellweather Season," which also sees Raelle (Taylor Hickson) throwing herself into her relationship with Scylla (Amalia Holm). Unbeknownst to Raelle, however, Scylla is struggling with an impossible choice. While spending time with the elite Bellweather line, Abigail loses her taste for the privilege she always has taken for granted. Meanwhile, Tally (Jessica Sutton) gets hit with two life-altering revelations that have major repercussions.

LEGO Masters

Eliminated contestants return, joined by friends and loved ones of the two remaining duos, as they go head-to-head to create the most impressive builds yet, as Season 1 culminates in the "Finals." Both teams have proven they had the right stuff to get this far, but now only one duo will get to take home the cash prize, the ultimate LEGO trophy and the grand title of LEGO Masters. Will Arnett is the host.

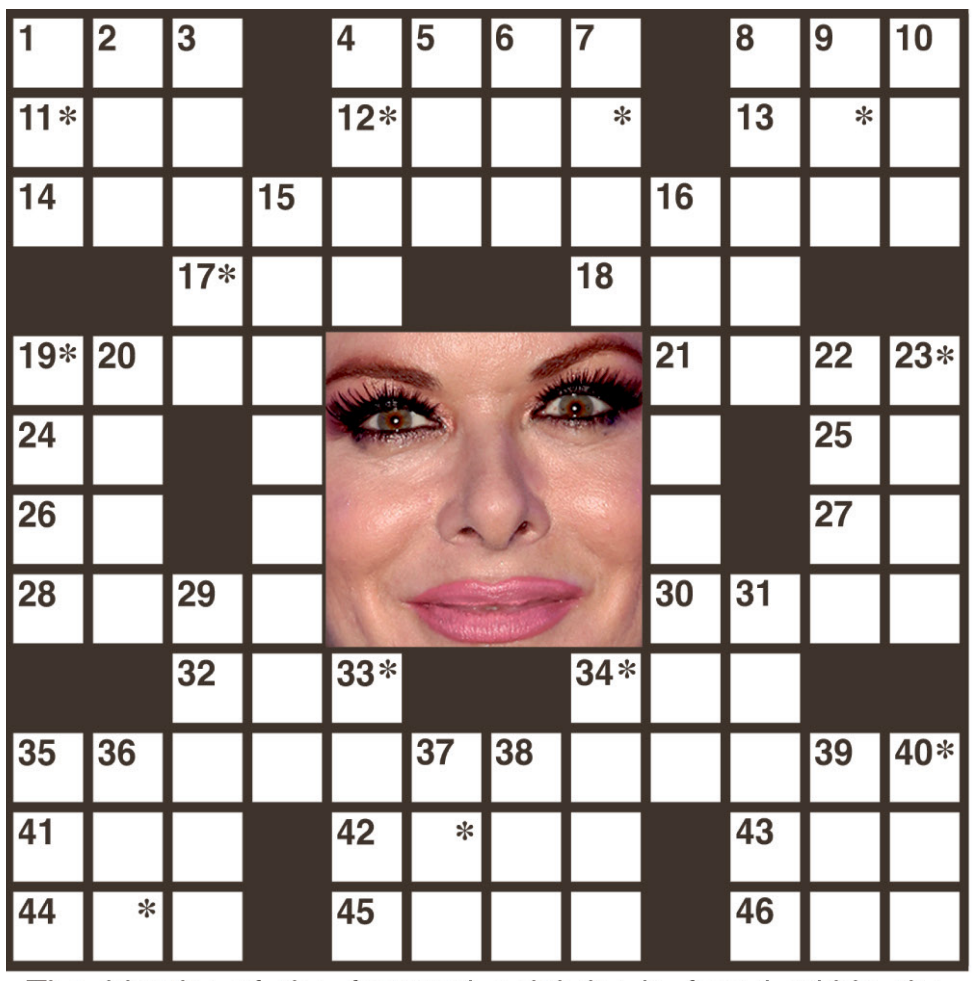

9 p.m. on FX
What We Do in the Shadows

A breakout hit in its first season, this wild horror comedy series returns for its sophomore session that will deal with the big revelation in last season's cliffhanger: Guillermo (Harvey Guillen), the put-upon mortal minion of the show's vampire characters, is a distant descendant of fabled vampire hunter Abraham Van Helsing, which does little to boost his stock among his masters. Also expect to see such A-list guest stars as Mark Hamill (as an undisclosed character) and Haley Joel Osment as Topher, a new undead arrival.

Will Arnett hosts "LEGO Masters" on Fox.

Emergency (from Front)

garding each tornado and damage in the Bremen area.

The NWS in Huntsville Monday evening confirmed a total of three tornadoes in Cullman County: an EF-2 near the Walter community with peak winds of 115 mph, an EF-0 between Cullman and Holly Pond near Welti with peak winds of 80 mph and an EF-1 from Good Hope to Johnson's Crossing with peak winds of 100 mph.

Little said, "It was recommended by the State that we do a declaration just for this storm system and not try to fall under the state declaration."

She continued, "We know we have at least 73 roads damaged- that's washed out culverts and that type of damage- nine bridges that require inspection, and one of those might be a total loss.

"We know that we have debris that's going to have to be moved."

With damage along with materials and labor, Little said she estimates costs to be more than $500,000.

She added, "There may be more damages found later on."

The water department and the Cullman Electric Cooperative also experienced damages.

Little said, "They're (Co-op) estimating $750,000 in damages just with their things. They will have about a $300,000 cleanup because of some damaged transformers at Johnson's Crossing."

For emergency declarations, the required local threshold is $300,000 and the state threshold is $7.3 million. Little said she thinks the damage in Cullman County, as well as the damages in Marshall County, will put the state over the required threshold.

The Cullman County Road Department worked throughout Sunday night and Monday to clear roads.

County Engineer Bryan Cheatwood reported, "We do have several more sites to shore them up and get them passable. We are going to come back and finish the repairs on them, but we do have most of the sites passable now. There's going to be several weeks before we can get some of them completely repaired."

The County asks residents to call before removing debris to rights-of-way for disposal so an assessment can be made.

The Cullman County Water Department also reported damages including washed out water mains and a lightning strike at a pump station. The estimated damage with labor and materials is currently $7,697 but is expected to total over $10,000.

Commissioner Kerry Watson thanked all County personnel, saying, "Every time we have a crisis, we have some good employees who step up and put in some long hours. They make me proud that you work for us so I just want to thank all the employees for what you do."

Charlie and Judy Allbright

"A little over a month ago, life was a lot of fun, as we were practicing 2-3 days a week to prepare for two huge 'Hee-Haw' shows which were a big success. Then the wheel ran off and COVID-19 virus started. We went from being able to come and go as we pleased to sitting at home looking for things to do. Although a lot of folks are running up and down the road, we have chosen to stay at home and spend time together and get things done around our house. Our daily activities consist of sitting out on our deck, enjoying the beauty of the Lord, listening to the birds flying, planting flowers and shrubs to getting our travel trailer ready to venture out to different campgrounds for camping to do some R&R (rest and relaxation).

"We also love spending time with Sugar, our Jack Russell, We, along with everyone else, will be glad when this is all over so we all can get back to our everyday living. However, this is all in the Lord's hands. We hope everyone stays safe. Wash your hands and stay away from large crowds. We love you all."

Huey and Lora Ray

"During this time of pandemic, we have all had to change our lifestyle a bit. Although I've missed seeing my friends and going places, I'm enjoying being home. My husband Huey and I bought a new home in November, so we've had a chance to get it fixed up like we want it. And we've been working outside in our yard. We've had some beautiful weather for this. Also, I've had a chance to work on my hobbies such as jewelry making and painting pictures (although I've missed my painting class). I'm doing some sewing making face masks. While practicing social distancing we have taken some time to go hiking, visiting some waterfalls, riding my bicycle, walking and enjoying the great outdoors. Reflecting on all the God has given us. I know this has been a difficult time for everyone. But hopefully things we get better and we can all get back together soon."

Courts (from Front)

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – During the COVID-19 shutdown, crime and civil problems continue, and so must the courts. On April 6, Cullman County Presiding Judge Gregory Nicholas issued an administrative order governing how the courts can proceed with their business while maintaining social distance through "virtual court hearings" held via the Zoom online group communication application or other means, including even telephones.

The order covers all types of regular criminal and civil proceedings not requiring a jury, and lays out procedures for pre-hearing communication, presentation of evidence (including physical evidence), issuance of subpoenas, calling of witnesses, receiving pleas and even proper attire to "preserve the dignity of the occasion and (promote) public trust and confidence in the judicial proceeding."

Judge Nicholas's full order can be found at www.CullmanTribune.com.
