Memorial Day: 'He was my best buddy, old Dwaine was'

Remembering Dwaine McGriff

ANNA MCGRIFF

A young Dwaine McGriff

Christy Perry

Dwaine McGriff and David Golden were just young boys when they became friends. Both sons of Cullman County sharecroppers and students at East Point school, they longed for a life away from picking cotton. The United States military would give each a ticket out of the cotton fields and put them on different paths that would once again merge years later and continue today.

"He was my best buddy, old Dwaine was," Golden smiled.

The boys grew up in the Gold Ridge community and met when they were around 10 years old.

Said Golden, "We went to East Point together and his folks were like mine; they were sharecroppers. I went into the Air Force to get off of that cotton farm. I didn't like picking cotton."

McGriff's widow, Anna McGriff explained, "He (Dwaine) went up to Michigan to get away from picking cotton to work in the car factories but ended up working in a garage in the nighttime. He joined the Army from there."

Golden recalled seeing soldiers coming home from World War II when he was around 6 years old. He was so impressed with what he saw.

"My uncles and cousins would come home and they were just young guys, 18 or 19 years old," he remembered, "and they would have those uniforms on and those bloused boots, and boy, they looked so good. They'd be spending money like drunken sailors, and I thought they made a lot of money."

Those images would lead to Golden longing to join the military when he was finally old enough to enlist.

The day Golden turned 17, he was working for Dr. Farr, the veterinarian in East Point. He asked his boss if he could go take care of some important business. He said Dr. Farr replied, "You ain't got no business. You ain't old enough to have no business." Golden was given permission to leave work and he headed to the courthouse. He wanted to be a paratrooper.

"I was looking for an Army recruiter, and an Air Force guy stuck his head out," he said. Golden was shown some pictures of "pretty gals in Hawaii" and he signed up.

He needed his parents to sign the papers, though. His parents weren't going to sign them. Golden said his father said, "You are too young to go into the military now."

Golden told his dad, "I can go in next year without your signature."

He said he continued to ask his parents every single morning to sign the papers. One day, Golden's 13-year-old sister said to her brother, "Give me those papers! I'll sign those papers. I'm tired of hearing about you wanting to go in the Air Force." She signed the papers, and according to Golden, away he went in 1954.

McGriff wanted to go into the Army at 17, but his parents didn't want to sign his papers either.

Anna McGriff said, "Dwaine went in August of 1953."

CCSO pursuit ends in crash, injuries

W.C. Mann, Wendy Sack

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

A Cullman County Sheriff's Office pursuit ended in crash northwest of Fairview in the vicinity of County Roads 1526 and 1527 near Macedonia Church of Christ.

CULLMAN COUNTY, Ala. – pursuit involving the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) Tuesday resulted in a crash with three reported injuries. One patient was airlifted to an area hospital and two were transported by ambulance to area hospitals. The three injured parties were in a vehicle being pursued by a CCSO deputy.

No identities have been released.

The incident occurred northwest of Fairview in the vicinity of County Roads 1526 and 1527 near Macedonia Church of Christ.

The CCSO released the following statement:

"Late this afternoon, May 19, 2020, a Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) deputy initiated a traffic stop for a traffic violation in the Fairview community.

"The vehicle fled up County Road 1527 and was involved in a single-car accident near the Cullman/Morgan County line. Updates to follow as they become available."

The CCSO on Wednesday said charges may be pending.

patron the combination to that locker. We're working on an online form that might streamline this process."

The lockers are located in front of the Cullman branch's building at 200 Clark St. NE.

"We have had a 'soft opening' in which we have opened with certain limitations," Harrington said.

"We are attempting to follow CDC guidelines by requesting patrons stay at least 6 feet apart, only allowing a limited number of patrons in the library at a time, and recommending the use of face coverings.

"Right now, we also have limited hours: Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., though we are hoping to resume our normal hours in June."

Harrington continued, "We've also reduced the number of available public computers and covered them with plastic that we regularly wipe down and change out each day."

Summer events at the library will look a bit different this year.

"We are also currently working on planning our Summer Learning Program," she said.

"Because of COVID-19, it will be a bit different than previous years, with take-home activities and such, but we will still have reading logs and prizes as always.

day exactly one year apart, but they didn't know it.

Years later, McGriff was on his second tour in Vietnam Sept. 7, 1970 when he was wounded.

"He was in a Rome plow and he was knocking down mahogany trees in the jungle and underneath the jungle was a Viet Cong operation. When they were finished knocking down the trees and they were getting ready to go home, they would come up out of the ground and they got him and took off his left leg and his stomach," said Anna McGriff.

"It's a miracle that he lived," she continued. "I asked him one time. I said, 'Mac, what did you think when you got hit?' This thing, an RPG, burnt through the bed of that truck and Mac told me that he was in the back of it doing paperwork.

"He said it hit him in the back of the hip and it was supposed to explode, but it hit him and then rolled over into the bed and blew up. I said, 'What did you do Mac?' and he said, 'I tried to get up, but I looked down and my leg was missing. I started yelling medic, medic, medic!'"

Help arrived and he was able to make it out of the jungle when a general in the area stayed behind to give McGriff a spot on the helicopter. This act of bravery saved McGriff's life.

He was taken to the nearest field hospital where he stayed for a week. He was then sent to the 249th General Hospital in Japan for two months. His head nurse traveled with him as he was flown to Walter Reed Hospital back in the United States.

McGriff's injuries were extensive. He spent 32 months in intensive care at Walter Reed and four to five years total before returning to Cullman. Seven days after McGriff was wounded, his mother died.

When he returned to the states, his wife was instructed not to tell him about his mom's passing. When he would ask for his mom, Anna McGriff said she would tell him, "She is fine where she's at." He never questioned it.

Anna McGriff was battling a tumor behind her eye during this time, and the doctors felt the pressure was too great on her and that her husband was doing well enough to know. She said when she told him his mom had passed, he said, "I knew it! I had a feeling." A doctor was on stand-by with a shot in case he needed to be calmed. McGriff said, "I don't need to calm down. My mother wanted to be with my father. I wanted to live to be with my wife and kids, so the Lord answered both of our prayers."

Golden recalled McGriff's determination when he told the story of the day he left the hospital.

He said McGriff told him, "I was being rolled out of the front door of the hospital in a wheelchair and I said, 'Sarge, hand me my walking stick. I said when I came in here, however long it was, one of these days I'm going to get up and walk out of here. I grabbed my crutches and walked out the front door."

"They put a 13-inch by 10-inch mesh in his stomach because everything was falling down, so they had to put that where the muscles were blown out," his wife remembers.

McGriff told both his wife and Golden that if he had to do it over again, he would. They both said he never complained one time about being in pain.

Anna McGriff added, "The only way I knew he was in pain- he would pull a sheet up over his face- that's how I knew he was in pain."

"He was tough, old Mac was," Golden said.

Golden wouldn't know what was going on with his childhood friend until a chance encounter at Wallace State in 1975.

Anna McGriff said, "We were in bookkeeping class and David came over to me and he said, 'Are you a McGriff?' I said, 'Yeah, through marriage.' He said, 'I had a buddy and I can't find him and nobody knows where he is. We used to hang around when we were in school and we double dated. He went in the Army and I went in the Air Force.' I said, 'Is his name Dwaine?' He said, 'Yeah.' I said, 'He's in another class over there.' He said, 'Where are you from?' I said, 'Massachusetts.' He said, 'My wife's from there, too.'"

Golden's wife Pat and Anna McGriff grew up in Massachusetts about 40 miles away from each other.

Said Golden, "Anna was raised in the city and my wife was raised on a dairy farm- a country girl. I told Anna who I was that day at Wallace, and when she told me where he was, I just got up and took off right then."

The couples became close friends and lived in the Fairview area. Their children went to school together and they became like family.

Golden said, "Me and old Mac were blessed. Both of us got a good wife- a couple of Yankee gals. I used to tell Pat, 'Now if you leave, if we get a divorce, you can't stay here in Alabama. You'll have to go back to Massachusetts. You have to have a sponsor, if you are a Yankee, to live in Alabama.'"

McGriff was in and out of Walter Reed Hospital regularly, and his wife endured her own health issues. She has battled cancer three times, as well as a serious back surgery leaving screws in her spine. The Goldens were a great support system for the McGriffs, and David Golden even traveled to see his friend during one of his many stays at Walter Reed. In the last three years of McGriff's life, he went 15 times by helicopter.

Golden recalled visiting his friend, saying, "I visited with him a while and I was fixin' to leave and I told the doctor, 'Hey doc, you gotta get my fishing buddy well here. We're old-time friends and you gotta get him back well so he can go home so we can go fishing! Old Mac, he smiled a little bit. The nurse told me after, 'That's the first time I've seen him smile since he's been up here.' He had been there for a couple of months that time."

Prior to his death Jan. 7, 1999, McGriff told his wife, "Always stay close to Pat and David. They'll take care of you."

The Goldens now live two doors down from Anna McGriff, and Golden continues to make sure she is OK each day. A month after McGriff died, Anna had surgery on her shoulder. She's had surgery on her neck and back as well as a mastectomy. The Goldens have been there with her through it all.

Golden said, "I've had a good life. I'd change one or two things if I had to do it over."

Anna McGriff asked, "What would you change?"

He replied, "I'd try to be a better witness for the Lord. I don't know about the other, oh yeah! I probably wouldn't drink as much as I did."

"You drank?" she asked. As the two continued to chat back and forth, Anna McGriff and Golden laughed and teased much like a brother and sister would.

McGriff's name was added to the Vietnam Memorial in Washington D.C.

Said his wife, "He died from his wounds (he got) over there, but he didn't die in Vietnam so he can't be put on the Cullman wall up at Sportsman Lake because he died in the United States instead of Vietnam. His name is on the Vietnam Wall up in Washington, 7W/51."

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Hanceville's Bulldogs Country Cook'n will not be reopening its doors after closing in mid-March due to the COVID-19 pandemic. While the local favorite diner featuring great steaks and a popular Sunday meat and three will not return, owner Nolan Bradford said he has two possible eateries ready to move into Hanceville's downtown area.

The shutdown was especially difficult for Bulldogs Country Cook'n because it did not have drive-thru capabilities, and while curbside service was an option, Bradford said that would not have been enough business to sustain the restaurant.

"We had to close, but then another opportunity came up for another restaurant."

He added, "I have a Mexican place looking at moving in and another seafood-type place interested in opening."

Bradford said the Mexican restaurant would likely open in the Bulldogs' Commercial Street location, and the seafood restaurant is looking to open in the Walls Center on Bangor Street.

Bulldogs Country Cook'n opened back on June 19, 2018, replacing the old C-Street Cafe.

CULLMAN, Ala. – The St. Paul's Lutheran School Alumni & Friends Dinner and School Auction that was originally scheduled for April 18 at Terri Pines has been rescheduled to Saturday, Aug. 1. All previous ticket and table purchases will be honored, and tickets are still available.

St. Paul's Director for Creative Services Emily Trahan told The Tribune, "The school auction is a staple fundraiser for St. Paul's. I'm very excited about joining it with our alumni event. So many people received a strong foundation at St. Paul's that set them up for success later in life.

"What a great night to raise money for the school and reflect on our past with former students and teachers and affect the present by raising money for the continued success of the school."

St. Paul's issued this statement:
Debuting at the Alumni Dinner will be the presentation of the Impact Award. In choosing the first recipient of this award, several things were considered, including years of service, leadership, and character. We are honored to announce our first Impact Award recipient is Fred Heinze.

Mr. Heinze retired in 2012 from St. Paul's Lutheran School after many decades of teaching. He continues to use his talents to serve the school as the organist for Wednesday morning chapel services.

We continue to monitor and follow guidelines as put forth by our state and local governments in regards to Covid-19.

Follow the St. Paul's Lutheran School - Cullman Facebook page for sneak peeks at items up for auction. St. Paul's wishes to thank and recognize the support of local businesses in our community that have donated to this event. They are Shirley Quattlebaum - State Farm, Cullman-Jefferson Gas, Mitch Smith Chevrolet, Merchants Bank, and Virgil B. Fowler Insurance.

St. Paul's Principal Annette Creest told The Tribune, "St. Paul's Lutheran school has been offering a Christian education to students in Cullman County for 65 years. The school auction is a vital part of our support for the school.

"The funds from the auction help to provide the students and teachers with effective materials needed for a quality education. We need the support of the community and the school families to make the auction a success."

Tickets for the dinner and auction are available in the church and school offices for $25. St. Paul's is located at 513 Fourth Ave. SE in Cullman, church office phone 256-734-3575. Reach the school directly at 256-734-6580.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – North-South Girls' and Boys' Tennis All-Star Teams for the recently canceled 2020 AHSAA North-South All-Star Sports Week were announced Tuesday by Jamie Lee, Director of the Alabama High School Athletic Directors & Coaches Association (AHSADCA).

The teams comprised of 2021 rising seniors were chosen by a special coaches committee from nominations received from AHSAA member school tennis coaches.

This year's selections included a pair of Cullman standouts. Elizabeth Standifer and Jackson Murphree both earned spots on the North girls and boys rosters respectively while Cullman's Nathan Bates was selected as one of the coaches on the North girls staff.

"We are proud to announce these teams even though we are disappointed the All-Star competition set for the All-Star Sports Week this summer has been canceled," said Lee.

"However, these players have earned this recognition and will be receiving certificates from the AHSADCA for their selection to these prestigious squads."

The AHSADCA, which operates under the auspices of the Alabama High School Athletic Association (AHSAA), has hosted annually North-South all-star games in football, baseball, softball, volleyball, boys' and girls' soccer, boys' and girls' basketball, cross country, tennis and golf during the All-Star Week.

The games were canceled earlier this week due to the COVID 19 Virus pandemic.

The AHSAA Summer Conference, annually attended by more than 4,000 coaches and administrators, will still be July 13-18 but is being converted to a virtual conference.

The AHSADCA also plans to release the baseball, softball and boys' and girls' soccer all-star teams later this week. All other all-star squads have already been announced.

The North-South all-star tennis competition was held for the first time last summer with the North sweeping the South 8-1 in the boys' and girls' competition.

Festhalle (from Front)

CULLMAN, Ala. – The COVID-19 pandemic has had an economic impact on many industries this spring. Cullman's Festhalle Farmers' Market is open, supporting local farmers and producers.

The Tribune spoke with some vendors at the Festhalle, as well as Cullman Parks, Recreation and Sports Tourism (CPRST) Recreational Development Director Christy Turner to see how the market has fared.

"As more farmers are harvesting produce the traffic is continuing to pick up at Festhalle," said Turner.

"Of course, with strawberry season in full swing that has helped our farmers' market, and other late-season crops like greens have been selling well.

"It is in a time like this we realize how much we value our farmers and vendors and how much fresh produce means to the community. Knowing where it comes from is a huge benefit.

"It is reassuring to see how much the community continues to support the market and the people who offer us such wonderful service and produce."

CPRST has taken measures to ensure public safety at the market.

"We received guidance from the state department of agriculture and have arranged the market in such a way to comply with the best practices advised by the State to ensure the public's health," Turner said.

"Hand-washing and hand-sanitizing stations are located in the market. These stations are serviced by Festhalle staff. Most vendors have hand sanitizer available at their stalls if needed. We are looking forward to a very safe and successful market season."

Watson's Greenhouse Owner Royane Watson offered a different perspective.

"I don't have produce; I have plants. I've sold a whole lot more this year," she said. "More people are planting garden plants. I guess they have more time to do that type thing."

Keith Smith of Pleasant View Farms, who offered strawberries and sweet potatoes to customers Tuesday morning when Festhalle opened, shared, "We've done good so far. Today's another day; we'll just have to see.

"You can't ever tell about markets; they go up and down. We're doing the best we can. We have our people wearing gloves when they pick; we use hand sanitizer when we set up."

Cullman's Festhalle Farmers Market is open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. through October. The market is located at 209 First Ave. NE.

Sister Brigid Mary Clarke, O.S.B., a Benedictine Sister of Sacred Heart Monastery in Cullman, AL died Tuesday, May 19, 2020 at the monastery at the age of 91. Sister Tonette Sperando, Prioress, led the prayers at her bedside, with Community members present. Vespers for the Dead will be prayed privately by the Monastic Community Thursday, May 21 in Sacred Heart Monastery Chapel in Cullman. A private graveside service with the Monastic Community and the immediate family will be held Friday, May 22, with Sister Tonette Sperando, O.S.B., Prioress, presiding. A Memorial Mass will be celebrated at a later date. Born in 1928 in Savannah, GA, Sister Brigid was baptized at Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church in Savannah and christened with the name Mary Ann Kavanaugh. Her parents, William Eugene Kavanaugh and Mary Deacy Kavanaugh, raised her within a devout Irish Catholic family. Sister Brigid was educated at Catholic grammar and high schools in Savannah and later attended Armstrong College and Savannah Vocational School. At the age of 25, Mary Ann married Elbert Nicholas Clarke, with whom she had four children – Nicholas Anthony "Tony," Mary Elizabeth "Lisa," Catherine Michele, and Barbara Therese. During these years, the family moved to Marietta, GA, where Nicholas had taken a new job. Nicholas, whose health was precarious due to injuries sustained in an automobile accident prior to their marriage, died after less than 10 years of marriage. Anchored by her Catholic faith and her deep love for her children, Mary Ann devoted herself to creating a stable, loving home for her young children, supporting the family through her secretarial and administrative skills. Mary Ann was active in her parish, the PTA at her children's parochial school, and in civic organizations. Her work with St. Martin de Porres Council of Atlanta was particularly important to her, as was her connection with Atlanta's Jesuit-staffed Ignatius House. Through these, she found important sustenance for spiritual growth and opportunities for meaningful outreach. Mary Ann was also active in her Marietta parish, St. Thomas the Apostle, where she served on the Parish Council, as Chair of the Worship Committee, Sacristan, and Extraordinary Minister of the Eucharist. After her children reached adulthood and as she delved ever more deeply in her faith, Mary Ann began discerning a potential call to religious life. She entered the Benedictine Sisters of Cullman as a Postulant in 1983 and entered the Novitiate in 1984, receiving the Religious name of Brigid in tribute to her Irish heritage and her devotion to this Irish saint. Sister Brigid made her First Monastic Profession in 1985 and in October of 1988 made her Perpetual Monastic Profession with the Benedictine Sisters of Cullman. Sister Brigid's years in monastic life have been filled with fruitful ministry. After a few years as a Pastoral Minister at parishes in Winfield and Fayette, AL, Sister Brigid served as a chaplain at St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham for eighteen years where she ministered to patients, families, and staff on the cardiac unit. She was also involved in community outreach through grief recovery programs. Her own experiences as a mother, a young widow, and as caregiver for her terminally-ill husband gave her unique insight as she ministered with empathy and compassion. In 2005, Sister Brigid returned to the monastery from her mission assignment, re-entering the daily life of the community with her characteristic joy and good-natured spirit. She served as a dedicated sacristan, greeted monastery visitors through her work at the reception desk, and assisted with hospitality in the Retreat Center. Many guests were welcomed by her warm smile and cheerful presence. Sister Brigid's long-standing concerns for social justice continued to find expression as she participated in the community's Peace and Justice Committee, attended prayer vigils for peace, and stayed up-to-date on the Church's social teaching and current events. Devoted to prayer, she routinely had the needs of others in her heart, presenting them to God. Sister Brigid's children – and later, grandchildren – were frequent and welcome guests at the monastery. Sr. Brigid cherished these visits with the close, loving family she and Nicholas had formed so many years earlier. The monastic community was also enriched by these family bonds. Sister Brigid was preceded in death by her parents; by her husband; and by her sister Martha T. Kavanaugh. Survivors include her children Nicholas Anthony "Tony" Pearson-Clarke (Julie), Mary Elizabeth "Lisa" Clarke (Meredith Marchbank), Sister Catherine Mary Clarke, F.S.E., and Barbara Therese Gionet-Sauve; her grandchildren Flannery Pearson-Clarke, Rosemary Pearson-Clarke, and Nicholas Gionet-Sauve; her Benedictine Sisters; and extended family and friends. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the Benedictine Sisters of Cullman, AL, 916 Convent Road, Cullman, AL, 35055.
