Remembering Spud Campbell, part 1

CHRISTY PERRY/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Spud Campbell and his brother Julian Campbell were honored at the Cullman High School Jazz Band's Big Band Dance in February 2020.

On April 13, 2020, Cullman and the world lost one of its greatest heroes when E.S. "Spud" Campbell passed away at the age of 98. His remarkable journey began in Walker County Dec. 28, 1921 and took him all around the world. The young man from Eldridge, Alabama had big dreams, and he certainly achieved them.

Spud was born in Eldridge to Martha Harbison Campbell and George Franklin Campbell. He grew up in Arley and attended Meek High School.

Spud's son Steve shared, "The whole family, the parents and the 12 children, was only in the same place at the same time one time. That was in 1944, when they all came back to Arley and there was a photograph of the 14 of them- only one time in the whole life of everybody in the family. That was kind of amazing."

There were six boys and six girls in the Campbell family, including Spud's older brother, Julian, who recently celebrated his 100th birthday and resides in Cullman. Spud graduated from Meek High School in 1940 and he was im- » PAGE 7

CULLMAN, Ala. – A man and woman were arrested this week in Cullman County, charged with multiple sex crimes against a child younger than 12.

The Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) said Amy Nicole Lovell, 29, of Remlap and Justin Anthony Jeffries, 26, of Arab have been charged with aggravated child abuse, sexual torture, sexual abuse of a child under the age of 12 and second-degree assault. Jeffries is also facing a second count of sexual abuse of a child under the age of 12.

According to a media release from the CCSO, investigators conducted a short investigation, with assistance from the Cullman County Department of Human Resources (DHR), Cullman Advo- » PAGE 4

Jacobs to seek 2nd term as mayor of Cullman

Wendy Sack
wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman Mayor Woody Jacobs on Friday announced that he will seek a second term in office. The Municipal Election will take place Aug. 25, 2020.

Jacobs said he felt there was no better time to announce his re-election bid than going into Memorial Day weekend, sharing, "We are very blessed that from the highest office in the land all the way down to the mayor's race that we have the right to seek public office. For most, it is nothing of our own doing or earning, but that of the brave men and women who fought, with some paying the ultimate price, so that a young boy from Berlin, Alabama could one day run for mayor."

The Cullman County native said he is proud of the growth and development in Cullman the past three and half years and would like the opportunity to continue to play a leadership role in moving Cullman forward. Jacobs said he and the Cullman City Council have a strong working relationship based on communication and teamwork, and have expanded that partnership to work with the Cullman County Commission and other local municipalities, along with both the state and national legislative delegations.

From Jacobs' official announcement:

During Mayor Jacob's first term in office, Cullman's unemployment rate has remained the lowest in its history (second in the state); Cullman has experienced the largest business and industrial capital investment ever since 2016, ($425 million; with $295 million just in the past two years alone); and the City has been able to pave more roads during these four years than at any other time. Cullman has also seen an investment in each community park so that all children will have a safe and inclusive environment for outside activity.

With all the progress and economic success that Cullman has seen, unfortunately, it has also been stalled by the global pandemic of COVID-19. This event has not caused panic from the Mayor's office, as he, along with the Council, have been attempting to stay ahead of the virus by taking proactive measures and fighting for small businesses in the area through state government.

Jacobs acknowledged that while we may not be out of the woods just yet, we are in good hands, saying, "I truly think with these proactive measures along with our quality, local health care, and the drive of our citizens, that we have been able to weather the storm better than most counties in our state."

He further pointed out that consumer confidence appears high based on sales tax numbers, but he also understands, like any former accountant, that the ripple effect from the COVID-19 outbreak could create significant challenges in the future. Other than the health and safety of the citizens, his main focus at this moment is the men, women and families who have been hit hard financially by this virus.

"This is an odd period in which continuity and consistency are of the utmost importance in moving this community forward," he said. "The only thing that we must be cautious of, in the current situation and with an election upcoming, is jumping abruptly into any ideas or changes, without the thought of the long-term effects.

"Staying consistent and on task is the best way to get the ship back on course and to a pre-COVID economy. It is in times such as these that we cannot afford to just go back to the starting line and restart the race- our lives do not work that way. We must trust in the process and press on."

CITY OF CULLMAN

Woody Jacobs

While on the topic about the future of the local economy, Jacobs continued, "At the end of the day, my loyalty goes out to the working men and women; the families that go to work every day, come home tired, and still make sure to spend quality time with their children. I have been there. As mayor, I am and will continue to stand in your corner."

Jacobs said Cullman has a lot to brag about. He listed a great school system, award-winning park and recreation programs and facilities, expanding and diverse business and industry, a strong housing market, low unemployment and reputation as a safe community.

"To me, that means we are a place where people want to live, work and attend church," he said.

Jacobs wrapped up his announcement for re-election by pointing out, "We are going to face some serious challenges and opportunities ahead of us from infrastructure, to growth and housing concerns, to needs within our school system. There is no one-blanket solution for all of this. But, one thing is certain, we are all partners in this. We may have different opinions on how to address these challenges; however, our end goal is the same- to preserve for our children and their children what makes this community so special for generations to come. Our success will depend on how well we can all come together in a constructive and collaborative manner to seek out these solutions.

"With that being said, I will not sacrifice the needs of the working class to push any agendas forward without voter approval. I understand things are tough and folks may need a few breaks, but I more so understand that they also do not need any more government telling them what they'll have to do next.

"We need to continue to work as a unit in finding solutions to the opportunities that lie ahead.

"While I want to earn your vote, what I want more than anything is your continued prayers for this community. I am honored to serve you. God bless you all."

Jacobs in married to the former Connie Voit, and the couple has a son, Tyler Jacobs (Jennifer) and a daughter, Hannah Jacobs. He is a member of Christ Covenant Presbyterian Church and a 40-year member of the Cullman Lions Club.

ADOL warns of scams regarding unemployment compensation

Tara Hutchison
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – The Alabama Department of Labor (ADOL) is warning unemployment compensation recipients to beware of scammers who may be seeking to fraudulently obtain unemployment benefits. These individuals or groups may represent themselves as legitimate entities and will promise that they can obtain unemployment compensation benefits on a claimant's behalf. They may try to charge a fee for this service.

Please know that the ONLY legitimate way to file for unemployment compensation benefits in Alabama is through the Alabama Department of Labor: either online at www.labor.alabama.gov or by calling 1-866-234-5382. There is NEVER a charge to file for unemployment compensation.

"We are aware of at least one Facebook page that cloned the official ADOL Facebook page and then proceeded to contact those who had interacted with the legitimate page with bogus offers of prizes and requests to allow them to file for benefits on the claimant's behalf," said ADOL Secretary Fitzgerald Washington. "Not only would ADOL never participate in a contest to give away money, but we would never charge for our services.

"These entities or individuals are attempting to procure claimants' personal information for purposes that are 99% likely to be criminal in nature."

The page referenced above was promptly removed by Facebook after being reported by the agency, and the Attorney General's Office is working with ADOL to investigate. ADOL's Facebook account is marked with the blue check, meaning it is a verified account.

"There have been multiple reports of scams involving unemployment compensation nationwide," continued Washington.

"I want to urge Alabamians to be on their guard and to make sure that they are giving their information to legitimate entities."

Suspected fraud activities should be reported to TipHotline@labor.alabama.gov or by calling 1-855-234-2856.

It can also be reported to the Office of Inspector General for the U.S. Department of Labor at https://www.oig.dol.gov/hotline.htm or 202-693-6999 or 1-800-347-3756.

(BONUS) PET OF THE WEEK

Having a friend like Echo sounds pretty good!

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Animal Shelter's Donna Ruttkay was happy to report that both Cullman Tribune Pets of the Week shared since the shelter reopened have been adopted! The shelter still has canine companions looking for their forever homes, though, so she presents a bonus pet.

CULLMAN COUNTY ANIMAL SHELTER

Echo

Echo was surrendered just this week by an owner who is no longer able to take care of him. He's a yellow lab/terrier mix who's not quite 2 years old, a lively-but-not-hyper medium-energy pet with good spatial awareness and serious leash skills. He's a ball player who like to fetch, and he will bring it back to you. He loves to stay close to his humans and, from time to time, enjoys being a big lap dog!

Echo has the makings of a good therapy or companion dog.

Echo's adoption fee is $100 which includes: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neutering, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior. Several of the shelter's canine friends have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

FUNNY THINGS FROM YESTERDAY

Grandchildren are intelligent

Robert N. Tidwell, Sr.
robertntidwellsr@gmail.com

As any grandparent knows nowadays, a grandchild is very intelligent. Some of the stories I hear about grandchildren are very interesting.

When Rudene was still gainfully employed, I went by her office to pick her up from work. There was a lady visiting her. This lady was a new grandmother, and I knew before she left the office that one of these two grandmothers would mention their grandbaby. I didn't know who would make the first move, but I heard of two intelligent grandchildren before I left the office.

Mary's little grandson was 1 year old. He was crawling and really getting around the house. When he would come to a potted house plant, he would shred the leaves off the plant and scatter them on the floor. His mother, in trying to break him of this habit, had paddled his diaper several times.

This had made an impression on his mind, or on his behind, or both. The next time he was at Mary's house he headed toward one of Mary's plants and she thought, "Oh no." But upon reaching the plant, instead of pulling the leaves, he looked back at his grandmother, reached his little hand back, spanked his diaper and moved away from the plant. That little boy is intelligent.

"Granny," as our granddaughter calls Rudene, then related one of her stories about our intelligent little granddaughter.

Leanna may be a doctor when she grows up. She already gives advice to people on medicine to take. When she was 1 year old, she stayed with a lady in her home. One day the lady's husband was sick in bed. When Leanna came to their house that day she went to his door and said, "Give him some Tylenol," because that was what she takes for pain and fever.

The lady took two more little girls in to take care of. One little girl had a hard time adjusting and cried some for the first few days so Leanna told the lady to give her some Tylenol.

Grandchildren are intelligent today. They probably know more than I did by the third grade.

BILLY BOB'S STORIES AND STUFF

I'm dreaming about a trip out west

Bill King
Tribune Contributor

For about the last six months, I have dreamed about a long trip out west. I love the west. I have actually done more than dream about it, I have planned it. Next week our departure time will finally arrive. The reservations have all been made and paid. I have mapped out our day-by-day itinerary. I'm calling this trip our Louisiana Purchase Land trip, because it includes many of those states. Over the next two weeks, we will drive through parts of ten states. Our trek will include two states I've never visited, five for Jean, and seven for Drew.

We are scheduled to fly out of Atlanta next Thursday on a one-way flight to North Dakota. None of us have visited North Dakota. I have reserved a rental car there to drive back home. After a night in Bismarck, our first scheduled stop is a tour of The Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center, in Washburn, North Dakota, and then we head west to Teddy Roosevelt National Park, for a couple of days. In that area we will take in Badlands Dinosaur Museum and see The Medora Musical. Then we'll head south to spend a couple of days in Rapid City, South Dakota.

We will stop before we get there for a visit in the wild-west town of Deadwood. Then we're off to see Lincoln, Roosevelt (Teddy), Jefferson, and Washington. While in the Mt. Rushmore area we will also take a gander at Crazy Horse's carving, venture through Badlands National Park, and go buy a tee-shirt at Wall Drugstore that says, "Wall Drugstore." On the way to see Scott's Bluff, in Nebraska, we can stop by the Museum of Fur Trade, Carhenge, and visit Dobby's Frontier Town, in Alliance. Next we are off to North Platte, Nebraska, but before we get there we'll stop for lunch at the historic Front Street Café, in Ogallala. Who knows, Captains Gus McCrae and Woodrow Call might still be hanging around there. North Platte has The Gold Spike Tower, Buffalo Bill State Park, Grain Bin Antiques, and Lincoln County Museum. Next on the agenda is a place I've wanted to see since my childhood... Dodge City, Kansas. Marshall Matt Dillion is there, well, at least his statue. Before we're told to "Get out of Dodge," we'll visit Boot Hill Museum, see a gunfight and a variety show. Then we're off to Wichita, Kansas, where we will visit Old Cowtown Museum and bunk down for the night. After the next night then in Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, we'll head on over to Branson, Missouri for a few days. There we will take in some music shows, including the multi-talented Petersen Family, and spend a day at Silver Dollar

City. Then it will be time to point the ole rental car toward home. Since we will pass through Memphis, Tennessee/Southaven, Mississippi, where we lived for nine years, we will spend our last night on the road there. There isn't much there we haven't seen, but some old friends we'd like to see. Oh, and great barbecue!

We do love to travel. Planning, scheming, and dreaming are almost as much fun as the trip itself. That's a good thing, because thanks to Corona this one won't happen, at least not now. In my mind, I've already been and I have thoroughly enjoyed the virtual trip. I hope you were able to come along with us as you read. One day, hopefully in the not too distant future, we'll make this trip for real. Until then, we can only dream about the trip we didn't take, and hope all those tickets and hotel rooms I paid in advance will soon be refunded.

Bill King can be reached at bkpreach@yahoo.com or 334-745-0588 (office).

Poet's Corner

I heard a Fly buzz - when I died -

By: Emily Dickinson - 1830-1886

I heard a Fly buzz - when I died -
The Stillness in the Room
Was like the Stillness in the Air -
Between the Heaves of Storm -

The Eyes around - had wrung them dry -
And Breaths were gathering firm
For that last Onset - when the King
Be witnessed - in the Room -

I willed my Keepsakes
- Signed away
What portion of me be Assignable - and then it was
There interposed a Fly -

With Blue - uncertain
- stumbling Buzz -
Between the light - and me -
And then the Windows failed - and then
I could not see to see -

The United States observes Memorial Day the last Monday in May, to honor the memories of military personnel who died while serving in the United States Armed Forces.

While it's a day for gathering with families and friends, the day is also considered the unofficial first day of summer, and one way to celebrate the new season is a good, old-fashioned cookout.

Here are some recipes, some from The Tribune's archives and some submitted, to try this summer.

PENNE POMODORO STYLE
(Janet Chandler)

- Prep time: 10 minutes
- Cook time: 10 minutes
- Serves 4-6

Ingredients:

- 16 oz. Mueller's Penne Rigate
- 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 2 1/2 cups diced tomatoes (For a little kick, Chandler likes using Rotel.)
- 1/2 cup fresh chopped basil or 2 tsp. dried basil
- 2 tsp. minced garlic or 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 cup chicken broth
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese

Instructions:

1. Cook penne rigate according to package instructions.
2. Drain, cover and set aside.
3. Heat olive oil in large skillet.
4. Add tomatoes, basil, garlic and chicken broth; simmer for 2 minutes.
5. Toss hot pasta with sauces, mix well.
6. Salt and pepper to taste.
7. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese and serve!

VARIOUS BARBECUE SAUCES
from Tribune column "Excerpts from The Champagne Taste; Beer Pocketbook Cookbook"
(Charlotte Miller, Cullman Tribune, 1974)

Try one of the following when you need a good barbecue sauce for your ribs, roasts, burgers or hot dogs:

Barbecue Sauce
Ingredients:

- 2 to 3 cups tomato paste
- 1 onion chopped fine
- 1/3 cup vinegar
- 1 garlic bud chopped fine
- 3/4 cup oil, butter or margarine
- 3 tsp. prepared mustard
- 4 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tbsp. relish
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. cloves
- 1 bay leaf
- salt, red and black pepper to taste

Instructions:

1. Mix all ingredients and boil slowly for about 30 minutes and set aside to cool. You can make your sauce as hot as you like. Makes about a quart, enough for 5 pounds of meat.

Delicious Barbecue Sauce
Ingredients:

- 3 pints water
- 1 qt. ketchup
- 1 dash celery seed
- 1 qt. vinegar
- 1 1/2 cups chili powder (two small boxes of chili powder)
- 3 tsp. sugar

Instructions:

1. Simmer.

Barbecue Sauce for Ribs
Ingredients:

- 1 cup claret or burgundy wine
- 2 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tbs. brown sugar
- 1 tsp. dry mustard
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1 cup ketchup
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 onion, grated
- Generous dashes of cayenne or tabasco sauce

Instructions:

1. Simmer.

Sauce to Marinate Steaks
Ingredients

- 1/2 cup soy sauce
- 1 tsp. mustard
- 1 tsp. accent
- 3 tbsp. lime juice

Instructions

1. Cook 20 minutes.

VIENNESE APPLE PIE
from Tribune column "Excerpts from The Champagne Taste; Beer Pocketbook Cookbook"
(Charlotte Miller, Cullman Tribune, 1974)

Pastry for 2-crust pie
Ingredients:

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 tsp. flour
- 3/4 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/8 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1/8 tsp. ground cloves
- 1 cup water
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 2 tsp. grated lemon peel
- 3 cups shredded pared baking apples
- 1/2 cup dark seedless raisins
- 3 tbsp. Fleischmann's margarine
- 1/4 cup chopped Planters Cocktail Peanuts
- 1 tbsp. sugar

Instructions:

1. Prepare pastry. Roll out 2/3 dough on floured board to a 12-inch circle; fit into 9-inch pie plate. Set aside with remaining dough.
2. In a large bowl mix together with 1/2 cup sugar, flour, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves.
3. Stir in water, lemon juice and lemon peel, then stir in apples and raisins.
4. Pour into pastry-lined pie plate with margarine.
5. Roll out remaining dough in crisscross fashion and flute edges.
6. Mix together Planters peanuts with 1 tbsp. sugar into pie.
7. Bake in a hot oven until done.
8. Serve warm or cool.

STRAWBERRY BROWNIES
(Debbie Bearden)
Ingredients:

- 1 box Duncan Hines strawberry cake mix
- 2 eggs
- 1/3 cup oil
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 1/2 -2 tbsp. water or milk
- 1/2 cup freeze-dried strawberries (roughly crushed)

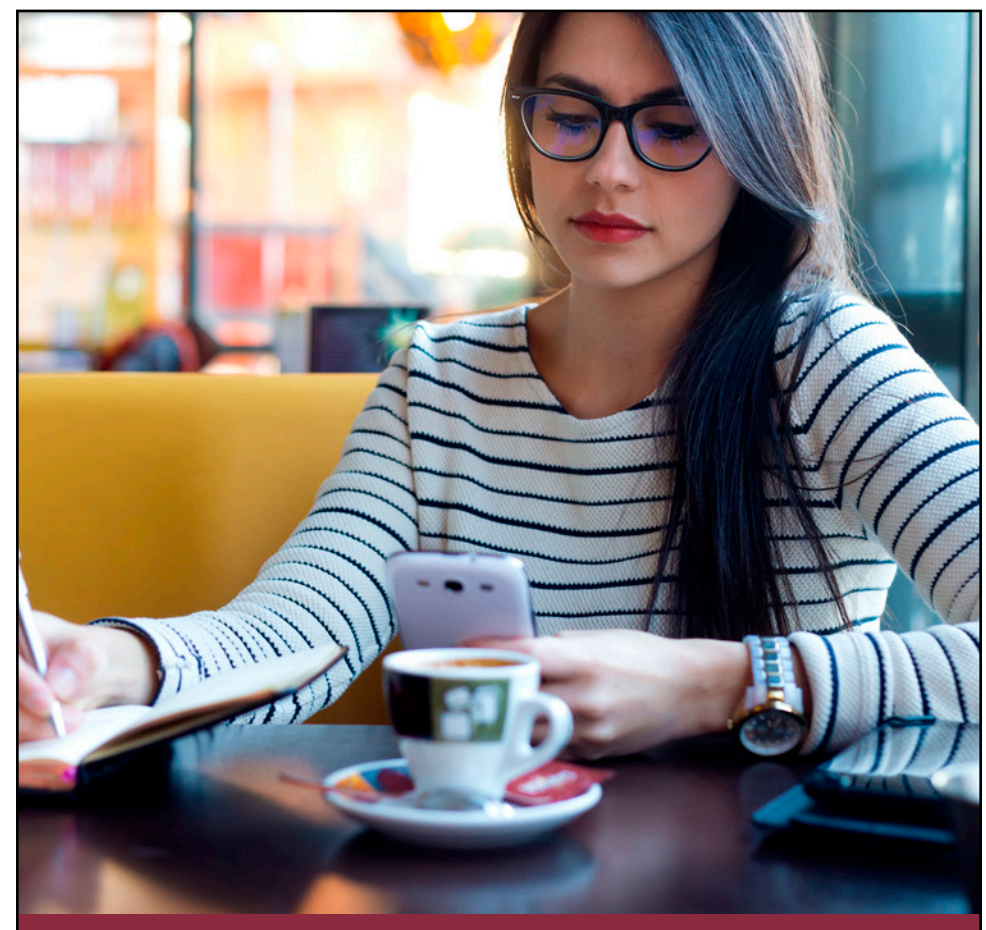

Instructions:

1. Preheat oven to 350°.
2. Line an 8-inch square baking pan with foil; spray with non-stick cooking spray.
3. Mix cake mix, oil and eggs until well combined.
4. Spread evenly into pan.
5. Bake 15-18 minutes or until set; do not overbake.
6. Let cool 10 minutes; lift carefully using ends of foil.
7. Mix powdered sugar and water or milk, pour over brownies and sprinkle roughly crushed freeze-dried strawberries evenly over glaze.
8. Allow to cool and glaze to set; cut into squares.

Movie: The Help

Surely one of the box-office "sleepers" of 2011, given its sustained success, this engrossing adaptation of Kathryn Stockett's best seller finds a would-be author (Emma Stone) interviewing Southern housekeepers about their experiences. Viola Davis and Oscar winner Octavia Spencer are superb as two of the most prominent interviewees. The excellent cast also includes Bryce Dallas Howard, Jessica Chastain, Sissy Spacek, Cicely Tyson, Aunjanue Ellis and Mary Steenburgen.

Unemployment (from Front)

Tara Hutchison
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – Alabama Department of Labor Secretary Fitzgerald Washington on Friday announced that Alabama's preliminary, seasonally adjusted April unemployment rate is 12.9%, up from March's revised level of 3.0%, and above April 2019's rate of 3.2%. April's rate represents 283,787 unemployed persons, representing an increase of 216,783 over the month. Cullman County's April rate is 11.7%, up from March's rate of 2.6% and April 2019's rate of 2.3%.

Statewide, those counted as employed decreased to 1,911,512 in April, down from March's count of 2,151,586.

"While we are certainly disappointed to see our unemployment rate rise so sharply this month, it's not surprising," said Governor Kay Ivey.

"This global pandemic and national disaster has certainly impacted Alabamians' ability to work. We know that hundreds of thousands of people have filed for unemployment benefits over the past two months, and we've been able to process and pay a great majority of those. We realize there are some still waiting on relief, and we hear and understand their frustration. Please rest assured that my administration is working tirelessly to provide relief to those Alabamians and their families, and I have the utmost confidence in the Alabama Department of Labor and the dedicated state employees there who are working tirelessly to serve their fellow citizens."

"I think everyone will agree that these numbers aren't numbers we ever wanted to report," said Washington. "This pandemic has negatively impacted Alabama's economy and in two months' time has managed to undo years of positive progress. But the impact to our employers and workers who carry the economy is even greater. So many had life altering changes that impacted their families almost overnight. I want all Alabamians to know that we are working nonstop to help move this recovery along. We are developing new technologies, adding staff, and making modifications wherever possible to help our workers through this enormously difficult time."

Wage and salary employment decreased in April by 201,700. Monthly losses were seen in the leisure and hospitality sector (-79,500), the professional and business services sector (-29,500), the education and health services sector (-26,400), and the manufacturing sector (-24,200), among others.

Over the year, wage and salary employment decreased by 199,200, with losses in the leisure and hospitality sector (-87,900), the professional and business services sector (-30,800), the education and health services sector (-25,300), and the manufacturing sector (-19,100), among others.

Average weekly wages increased to $908.52 in April, up from $883.17 in March.

Counties with the lowest unemployment rates are: Geneva County at 8.1%, Bullock, and Pike Counties at 9.1%, and Shelby and Henry Counties at 9.2%. Counties with the highest unemployment rates are: Lowndes County at 26.0%, Wilcox County at 22.8%, and Greene County at 22.2%.

Major cities with the lowest unemployment rates are: Homewood at 7.1%, Vestavia Hills at 7.2%, and Madison at 8.3%. Major cities with the highest unemployment rates are: Selma at 23.4%, Anniston at 22.1%, and Gadsden at 22.0%.

Spud (from Front)

mediately accepted into the U.S. Maritime Service Radio School at Gallops Island in Boston Harbor. He graduated in 1941 and joined the Merchant Marine prior the start of World War II and the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Said Steve, "He got out of high school and decided he had to go see the world."

After the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Merchant Marine became an instrumental part of the United States' war effort as it moved crucial supplies to Allies. The Merchant Mariners who served during World War II were civilians and did not gain veteran status until 1988.

Spud served as the first radio officer on the SS Henry Bacon.

Steve explained, "It was one of the Liberty ships and was the one that went up to the Arctic Circle. On the return trip they took on 19 Norwegian refugees on their return trip to Scotland, after they had dropped off all their supplies and war material.

"I don't know who made the decisions, but someone decided to part out these refugees that were in Murmansk, Russia to take them back to Scotland.

"The Russians, they were all starving, and they didn't need to have more people in their responsibility so they just said, 'Get them out of here. We are starving already. Get them back to Scotland. That was kind of the way all these refugees got parted out to all the Liberty ships in this convey."

He continued, "The story I have heard is that there was an unprecedented gale, a storm. It was the middle of February in 1945 up in the Arctic. When they left Murmansk, there was this massive force 12 gale, which is as high as the Beaufort (scale) goes.

"It's like hurricane force winds. It was my understanding that the Henry Bacon was damaged in that storm.

"They lost navigation devices, they lost a life boat, and it sounded like a pretty tough time. When they got past the northern part of Norway and headed south, they were straggling behind the convoy. They couldn't keep up because of all the damage to the ship.

"I don't know if this is true, but I have heard that there was an attack by these German torpedo bombers up in the northern part of Norway.

"I had heard it was the last ship sunk by the German Air Force, the Luftwaffe, in World War II. They had a torpedo attack and it basically hit the Henry Bacon, damaged another life boat and sank the ship. There were only two of the four lifeboats left.

"When it went down, there was only enough space on the lifeboats for the refugees and fewer than all of the crew of the Henry Bacon.

"The captain had to make the decision of who was going to go on the lifeboats and who wasn't. It was obviously a big decision, and he went down with the Bacon himself."

There were 28 crew who went down with the ship and 42 who survived. All of the refugees were saved and the Norwegian government continues to honor the crew of the Henry Bacon.

The captain decided who would go on the lifeboats based on individual abilities and which would give them the best chance of survival.

Steve said, "That's what got my dad in one of the lifeboats. He had to erect all of his radio equipment and everything. It was in the middle of the storm. It was dire!"

Spud was able to contact the Royal Navy destroyer HMS Opportune, which led to the rescue.

Steve said, "When I was a kid, I never heard this story. I saw his medal from the King of Norway and I heard a little bit about this, but I never got the whole story until 1994 when the Olympics were in Lillehammer.

"Whoever was broadcasting the Olympics, they had these little human-interest stories.

"They had these five-minute stories about Norway and American connections. Somehow, they went to Cullman and talked to my dad. That's the only reason I got to know this, because of that."

The next year, 1995, Spud was invited to Norway to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II.

"The King and Queen of Norway were there, the Prime Minister was there and my wife and I went with my mom and dad," said Steve.

"We had this wonderful time up in the very north of Norway where these people all came from and everyone there was just treating him like a rock star. It was amazing."

Before joining the crew of the Henry Bacon, Spud began dating a beautiful girl from Double Springs. His sister introduced him to Bea McCullar and they married March 29, 1945.

"He decided after the whole experience with the sinking and everything, he couldn't just mess around and wait for life to happen to him; he had to sort of grab it," said Steve.

"He proposed to my mom. He went down on February 23, 1945 and he came back to the U.S. and in March, they were married."

Spud and Bea lived in San Francisco until after the war and moved back to Alabama in 1946. Their daughter Lynda was born in 1946 and Steve in 1948.

Steve said of his parents, "He always seemed like or had the aura of a movie star. He never took that on. It just sort of happened.

"He always seemed like he was a self-effacing person, but I heard that all my childhood. People thought he was a movie star and she was quite a looker herself."

In part two of Spud's story, Steve will explain Spud's career in radio and television that led to the family moving to Europe where Spud worked for Radio Free Europe, as well as the Campbells' return to Cullman.

20 years later, Auburn baseball's Hal Baird recalls final season

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. – Always putting Auburn University first, Hal Baird retired after the 2000 season, the winningest coach in school history.

The Auburn baseball program was rolling, having made two College World Series appearances in the previous six seasons, and with the recent renovation of Plainsman Park, the Tigers had caught up with the rest of the SEC in facilities.

At a press conference announcing his departure, Baird said he knew it was time to step down after 16 seasons when guests at a Christmas party were enjoying each other's company and his thoughts were consumed by who would be playing second base for the Tigers that spring. Health concerns also factored into his decision.

This week marks the 20th anniversary of his final game.

"It really is amazing how quickly time passes," Baird told Andy Burcham in a Talking Tigers Podcast presented by Wickles Pickles. "It is amazing to me that is has been 20 years. In one way, it does seem that way, and in another, it seems like it was just yesterday that Jonathan Schuerholz and Gabe Gross and those guys were in Auburn uniforms playing."

Baird's final Auburn team won 41 games and finished 17-13 in the SEC, eliminated by Stetson in the NCAA Tournament's Atlanta Regional.

"I thought we were primed for a real run at Omaha because the position players were so good," Baird said. "We had so many good hitters and defenders coming back."

An injury to Hayden Gliemmo diminished an already thin pitching staff.

"I think had we been able to keep Hayden healthy that would have been an Omaha club for sure because we could really score," he said. "And those top five guys could really pitch.

"It's terrible that what might be construed as a negative is what sticks in your mind. You should say, 'Listen, we had great players here and great players there.' I certainly appreciate that.

"As someone who's responsible for trying to get as far as you can go, I think I was looking at the reason we didn't go farther. I think that's a coach's mentality." Twenty years later, Baird looks back fondly at his favorite part of the job.

"The thing that you miss is game day and competition, taking your players and matching up with the best ones in the country, which the SEC West has been for a long, long time and still is," he said.

"Game day and matching our guys against other guys is something I think would be hard to duplicate in other professions, but it's certainly what I miss."

Baird told Burcham he would also miss staying connected with his former players, if not for the fact that so many have settled in Auburn, allowing frequent interaction.

"Relationships change, but the affection and the affinity for Auburn and its baseball program does not," Baird said. "They love Auburn more than they did when they were here, and there are so many of them who are actively involved in Butch's program now and that's a wonderful thing to see."

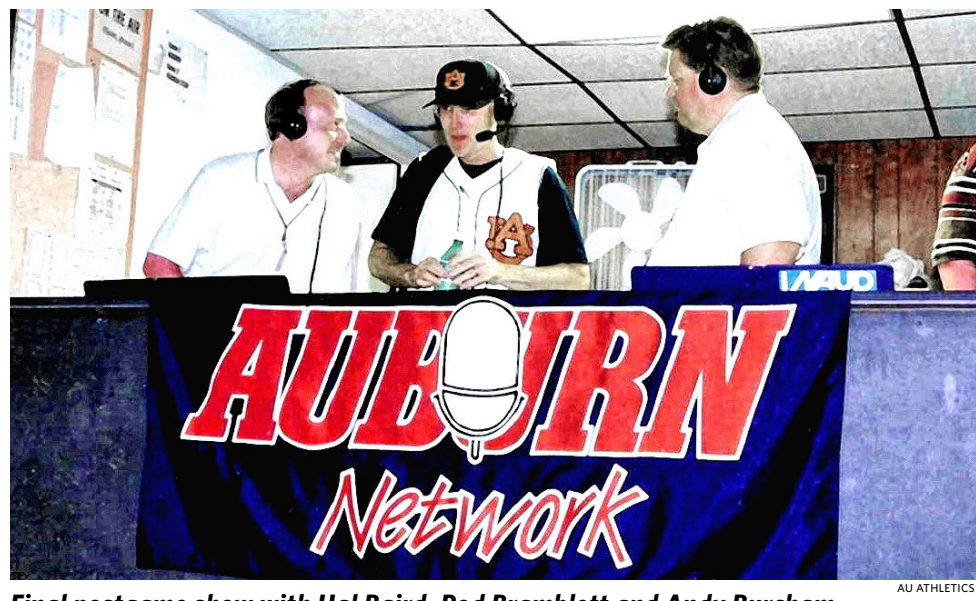

From across the country, 85 former players gathered at Plainsman Park in September 2018, when Auburn named the home dugout in Baird's honor.

"It was wonderful," said Baird, noting that Auburn's leaders have been selective when naming athletic venues and facilities after former coaches and administrators.

"They want to do Auburn justice and they want to do Auburn proud. That put me in incredibly select company that I'm not sure I needed to be in."

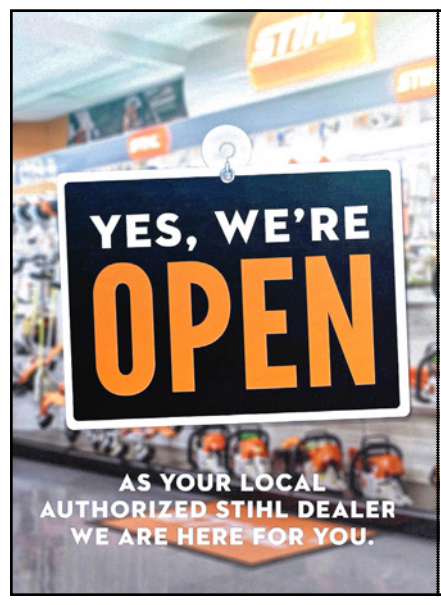

In 2019, Auburn under Butch Thompson returned to Omaha for the first time since Baird led the Tigers to the College World Series in 1997. Baird sees similarities between the leadership of the student-athletes, then and now.

"A lot of what happened in this program, it didn't come from the coaching staff. It came from those older players coaching the younger ones on what it meant to be an Auburn baseball player," Baird said. "We're definitely going to see that here in this program, with Butch, Karl Nonemaker, Tim Hudson and Gabe Gross coaching these players, if it hasn't already happened, it will very soon."
