Flourish of Cullman adds new accessibility ramp

Maggie Darnell

CULLMAN, Ala. – Flourish of Cullman, a local service that works with State of Alabama Vocational Rehabilitation Services to help people with developmental disabilities find employment, excitedly announced recently the completion of an accessibility ramp at its office, which will allow wheelchair access for clients and other visitors.

The nonprofit, founded by Executive Director Melissa Dew and Director of Services Sharon Kane in 2016, moved into its new location, 1244 County Road 735 between Berlin and Welti, in November 2019.

“Before, if you were in a wheelchair, we had to meet you out in the community- which we’re community-based and it’s OK- but we want to give individuals several different options of where we can meet them,” said Dew. “If they want to come here to the office, we wanted them to » PAGE 3

CULLMAN, Ala. – Mark Bussman this week announced his candidacy for mayor of Cullman. Bussman will challenge incumbent Woody Jacobs in the Aug. 25, 2020 Municipal Election.

Below is Bussman's announcement, in full.

Bussman is the former CEO of the Cullman-Jefferson Counties Gas District and a U.S. Air Force veteran. He has also served as the chairman of the American Public Gas Association and was awarded several national awards for his achievements. Cruise-in this Saturday at Grave's in West Point

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

WEST POINT, Ala. – Grave's General Store & Diner in West Point will host a cruise-in this Saturday night, June 6, beginning at 5 p.m.

Building owner Michelle Wisner, who is helping organize the event, said she hopes the cruise-in will "help people try to get back to normal," continuing, "Car, truck, motorcycle, vintage, rat rod, anything. If you just want to come by and grab a burger and look at the vehicles, that's fine, too."

Tim and Lori Graves, owners of the diner, will have hamburgers, hotdogs, shaved ice, Purity ice cream, milkshakes and homemade lemonade available.

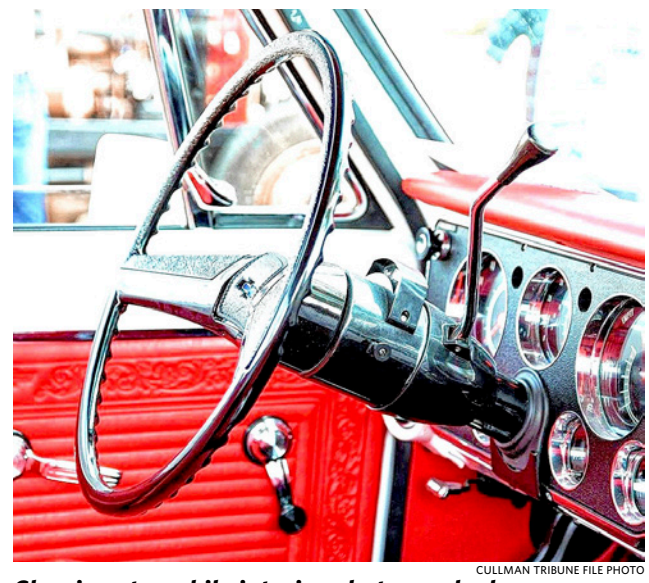

Graves General Store & Diner is set up for at least 100 vehicles.

"We will do like they do down at Jack's in Dodge City," said Wisner. "Come in, eat, hang around, and if you wanna cruise West Point, we'll cruise West Point.

"We're just trying to bring some sense of normalcy back to life."

The Graves and Wisner said they hope to make this a monthly event.

Graves General Store & Diner is located 11055 Alabama Highway 157 in West Point. In case of heavy rain, the event will be rescheduled. For more information, visit www.facebook.com/Graves-General-Store-Diner-109709320565211/.

Access (from Front)

be able to come in and do and meet us and come to meetings maybe here. It's just another barrier taken down for accessibility for our program."

Dew said the ramp was made possible after a social media post.

"I posted on Facebook about needing a ramp and looking for someone to build it and (United Way of Cullman County Executive Director) Becky Goff contacted me and said, 'You have to contact Don Scott.' They're part of the West Cullman Baptist Association," she explained.

"I called him and they came out later that day, measured it and told me they can do it and asked only for what the lumber would cost them. That's all they charged us was just the cost of lumber. There were about five men that came out and it took them two days to build that beautiful ramp!"

Dew said the lumber only cost Flourish $550.

Of upcoming projects for the nonprofit, Dew shared, "Our office is a duplex. We finished doing this (the main office) side. The other side, we're going to totally have to demolish it like we did this side, down to the studs, and it will be an independent living skills apartment, where we'll take people that are wanting to live independently to see how they do, what recommendations can we give them, what do they need trained in to be safe and sufficient at home. That's what the other side will be for. We're currently raising money for that."

The COVID-19 pandemic greatly impacted Flourish.

"COVID-19 has almost shut us down, but we were very fortunate. We were one of the few to get the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loan, so that has helped us maintain how we are," said Dew. "A lot of what we're doing right now is virtual, but starting this month we are starting to do two socials out in the community, which it will be open air, like in Heritage Park or at Sportsman Lake. We hope as things get more stable, we'll be able to do socials every week out in the community."

Dew said she is thankful for the support of the community.

"We cannot do anything we do without the community support that we have," she smiled. "None of this would be possible."

The organization is funded by donations and the Alabama Department of Rehabilitation Services. Those who wish to donate to Flourish can mail donations to the Flourish office at 1244 Apt. B, County Road 735, Cullman, AL 35055, or by visiting Cullman Savings Bank.

Skate (from Front)

VINEMONT, Ala. – While there may be many differences between older and younger generations, one thing surely everyone can agree on is some of their greatest memories are times spent with friends at the skating rink. The music and fashion have changed, but walking into Sports World Skate Center is a bit like walking back in time. The disco balls are still hanging above the oval wooden floor, knowing how to "truck" is still an envied skill and, as always, "No Parking on the Dance Floor."

Sports World Skate Center on U.S. Highway 31 North opened in 1979, carrying on the great traditions of its predecessors, Gay's and Wamp's skating rinks. Forty-one years later, kids are still packing the floor and making lifelong memories.

Rink manager Whitney Simmons sat down with The Tribune to talk about what's changed, but mostly what is unchanged, about roller skating.

"We turned 40 last year, and the owners, John McGinley and Danielle Constant, they live in Mobile now," she said. "They come by every month and check on everything."

The skating rink is currently undergoing some renovations.

Simmons explained, "Right now, they are putting in a new sound system and then they are starting new lights.

"The old bulbs- they are the original from when it opened- they will be gone. They are going to have LEDs now where those are. We've got to finish the floor.

"We've done a lot- new carpet, the bathrooms have been redone and the sink area is going to be redone. We've been busy around here."

Simmons said she knows the change in lighting is bittersweet, but said many of the lights no longer work, and repairing them is extremely difficult as the parts are not available.

The skating rink was able to reopen last Friday after being closed for two months because of COVID-19.

"We had almost 400 people here, which is not even our half capacity," said Simmons.

"We were watching it because I was starting to worry the floor would be too packed with all the COVID restrictions, but thankfully we were OK. I had some people here helping me keep an eye on everyone."

Cullman Savings Bank also came out and gave free passes to the first 50 skaters.

Simmons said her aunt was the manager at the skate center when Simmons was growing up.

"I feel like I have been here forever," she smiled. "We actually have a pretty classic rink. We still have truckers and we still have our backwards skaters. I even have a couple of kids that can waltz, still."

She laughed, "My favorite thing, like hands down, no matter how old somebody is that's been a skater before, I have older people and people my age and they all say, 'The rink will never be better than it was in my day!' Everybody's 'day' was the best day. I hope when my kids grow up, they say, 'The rink was never better than in my day!' I kinda wanna keep that tradition going."

As for the music, Simmons said, "We are really good about mixing in a lot of old skating rink songs. We have a lot of truckers so the kids are still constantly requesting, like, the Port City Jammers, TRUE tucking music.

"We still play (the games) paddle tag, wipeout and limbo on occasion. Those are still really popular."

She said the kids' favorite games are still the races, and the lucky winners get a free "pickle pop."

Although the style of skates has changed, kids wanting their own skates has not. The hottest trends in skates now are VNLA Skates, Moxi and Sure Grips, according to Simmons. And, of course, rental skates are still available. You can even rent speed skates.

"They get so into their skates, and I love it," she chuckled. "I was really scared they were going to quit buying skates, but we still have several that buy their skates from us."

Simmons loves the kids who come to the rink and said they are very well-behaved.

She is also very grateful that Cullman County Sheriff's Office deputies stop by on the weekends and walk through the rink.

"It's really sweet that they do that," she said. "It's such a community place, and I love that the community still embraces it."

The skating rink these days mainly appeals to the younger kids, but adults also enjoy coming back.

Said Simmons, "I've had a 50-year-old celebrate their birthday here, and I have a sorority coming in in a week for a party. We have all sorts of private parties."

The rink is available for both private parties and open session parties. The only big no-no for parties? Ice cream.

Simmons laughed, "We are anti-ice cream around here."

Renovations to the rink should be completed in the next two or three weeks, but the rink is open. Hours are Fridays from 7-11 p.m. and Saturdays from 2-5 p.m. and 7-11 p.m. In a few weeks, Sports World will resume Thursday $4 nights and Friday afternoons from 1-4.

For more information about special events and hours, check out the Sports World Skate Center Facebook page at www.facebook.com/Cullman-Skating/ or visit http://sportsworldskate.com/.

Sports World Skate Center is located at 90 County Road 1223, Cullman, Alabama 35058.

Popcorn (from Front)

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Neal and Holly McLeod first saw their first popcorn store while on their honeymoon almost 30 years ago. Years later, while searching for new careers, they opened their own popcorn store in Cullman's Warehouse District. Kernel Kullman will celebrate its 5-year anniversary in October, and the McLeods are loving every minute of it.

Before opening Kernel Kullman, Holly worked as a human resources consultant and Neal spent 26 years as a high school band director.

"A few years ago, we decided we didn't want to do what our previous careers were forever so we started thinking about what we wanted to do with the rest of our lives," said Holly.

"We wanted to do something fun and we kept coming back to the idea of popcorn and how fun that would be."

Both Holly and Neal began brainstorming about what kind of popcorn store they would have, and in 2015, they moved back to Cullman (Holly's hometown) and Kernel Kullman was born. The name was Neal's idea.

"Back when we were first dreaming up this idea, it just came to me," he smiled.

"I wanted Cullman in the name, whether it be with a C or a K. Then I was like, 'A popcorn kernel,' which everybody around here knows the founder as Colonel Cullmann. It just seemed obvious to me to use the popcorn kernel with a K, and I came up with Kernel Kullman. It has served us very well."

The McLeods reached out to a consultant who had been in the popcorn business for 30 years and trained before coming back to Cullman and developing their flavors.

Said Holly, "We do everything in-house. All the popping and all the flavoring. Over the course of five years, we've probably done over 200 flavors, but we try to keep it manageable."

Kernel Kullman usually has anywhere from 50-75 flavors at a time, and flavors are rotated. It also has a seasonal featured popcorn flavor, which is currently Strawberry Pretzel Salad.

The McLeods have specialized professional equipment and their own recipes to make the many flavors from classic to savory and sweet to decadent.

Neal explained, "The sweets, caramels and decadents, once they are coated with the sugar, candy and chocolates, it really preserves the actual popcorn for quite a while. That's why we tell people, it's almost indefinite, the shelf life, as long as they keep it airtight."

For those who might have a hard time deciding on which sweet popcorn to order, Holly suggests trying the Dorothy, the rainbow mix.

Neal added, "It's a fun way to try the color and guess what flavor it is."

Holly describes herself as a "savory girl," and said her current favorite is the Barbeque Bacon. She also loves Classic Kettle because, "It's a little sweet and a little salty."

As for Neal, his overall favorite is Extra Buttery Caramel, or, as he refers to it, "Heaven on Earth." He also likes the Dill Pickle from the savory category and the Black and White from the decadents.

Holly laughed about funny questions they are asked often like, "What does the Grape taste like?" She tells them, "Grape." The most popular of the sweet category is Cotton Candy, and the favorite overall is Birthday Cake.

Besides popcorn, Kernel Kullman features craft sodas, bulk and nostalgic candies and at-home popcorn supplies.

Holly said, "We didn't want to be just a popcorn store, because that's limiting. We didn't know what all we might want to do.

"We did have a storefront to fill. You can't really do that with just popcorn, and we decided on making it a candy store because I love candy. We like the nostalgic feel. We kind of designed our business model on the old-time general store."

Swing music plays in the store, and Kernel Kullman only offer glass-bottled sodas. It has well over 100 different sodas available, and that keeps growing.

Neal said, "We try to focus on the nostalgic candies and craft sodas to bring back memories for our most experienced guests and create new memories for the younger generation."

It was hard for the McLeods to name their best-selling candy, but Holly said, "Wacky Wafers! When people discover that we have Wacky Wafers, they do like that."

Neal has always been a fan of craft sodas and is especially proud of the Nehi line that was difficult to find.

He said, "'I'm a fan of all of them. To be able to offer sodas that people may not have had out of a glass bottle in years, we are really proud to offer those."

Kernel Kullman has many lines of sodas including the newer Jones line and older sodas such as Moxie, RC, Cheerwine and many more.

To keep with the nostalgic feel and Neal's love of model trains, the store is filled with vintage signs and a working railroad crossing sign, traffic signal and vintage antique Coke cooler. Holly noted that being near the Depot and the train tracks was a perfect location for them.

Neal added, "We also feature what we think is Alabama's largest gumball machine called 'Big Mama.' We'll have a contest one day for people to guess how many gumballs are in it. She's special to us."

The store also has vintage metal signs for sale.

The McLeods recently introduced a new line of popcorn supplies. Holly said the line is "customer-driven" due to many requests. They hope to expand the line over time. They have a variety of different kernels for popping, as well as seasonings and other supplies for those hoping to make delicious popcorn at home.

The store's website only features the popcorns and it can do custom orders, but, depending on the type, there is a minimum size that must be ordered.

Holly has shipped orders to all 50 states and although Kernel Kullman doesn't ship internationally, the McLeods said they know people have shipped their popcorn to family and friends all over the world.

They also do larger orders for receptions, conferences, events and parties.

Kernel Kullman is open Monday-Friday from 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. It is located at 113 First Ave. NE in Cullman. Find out more at www.facebook.com/kernelkullman/ or https://kernelkullman.com/.

Local teams kick off summer workouts

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Its been a long spring, and I think a lot of people are craving a return to the normal day to day, but we still have the summer ahead of us. However, local teams are getting a taste of the familiar this week as players and coaches return to campus and come together to begin their summer workout programs. Teams are working through a long list of health and safety guidelines to make it happen as well as trying to make up for lost time in the spring but they're all excited to be training together and focusing on the upcoming season.

Hanceville Bulldogs Head Coach Cody McCain touched on some of the biggest challenges that come from missing out on spring practices. It's hard to make up that lost time but McCain is optimistic considering the amount of returning players he and his staff are working with this year.

"I think the biggest thing you miss out on when you miss spring is seeing your eighth-grade kids and ninth grade kids and trying to find out how many of those can contribute to your team. It's not ideal to have to play a lot of ninth graders but last year Zach Campbell was a huge player for us last year as a freshman and Brosnan Ward played a lot as a freshman so we've played freshmen before and you want to kind of get a gauge on those kids to see which ones can contribute right away and which ones may need a year on JV," McCain said. "You'd also like to get a chance to see the kids coming out to play that didn't play last year and see where they're at, so I think those are the biggest things you lose. It wasn't as bad for us as it could've been in previous years though because we only have one senior that we lost from last season so 99% of our team is back and we have a pretty good idea of what those guys can do."

West Point Warriors Head Coach Don Farley and his staff will also be dealing with loss of spring ball. Farley feels confident that his older players will be ready to go when fall practice gets underway but knows he and his staff will have to work with the younger and newer players who didn't get the opportunity to learn in the spring.

"The younger guys are where you really miss out on spring practice. That's a chance for us to get to see those guys and see what they can do and kind of start teaching them some of the terminology that we use and it's a chance for them to see how things are done at the varsity level. We're all the time recruiting the halls wanting guys to give spring training a try and you miss out on seeing those guys too," Farley said. "Our older guys know our system and they understand it and it's just a good chance to let them play a little football, but the biggest obstacle is missing time with the young guys. We feel like going into the fall they're going to be a little bit behind because they didn't get to have that spring training but we'll do a good getting them caught up and we'll ask them to work a little harder in grasping what we're doing."

Cullman Bearcats Head Coach Oscar Glasscock is entering his second season at Cullman and despite missing out on spring practice a couple months ago, Glasscock is optimistic that his team will be able to more than make up for that lost time. The AHSAA has considered giving teams an option of 10 spring practices or an additional week of fall practice for years and with coronavirus shutting down the school year prematurely, the association opted to pass the proposal.

"We would've chosen the fall practice option anyway because we have a lot of football players that play on the baseball team and our baseball team is in the finals every year. We've also got kids that compete in track and we have a lot of successful spring sports here so it was kind of a no-brainer for us to not do spring training and choose the extra week in the fall anyway," Glasscock said. "So, as far as practice time, we're really not behind on the field. The biggest thing we missed was the gains we would've made in the weight room and the agility and speed work that we missed between mid-March and the end of May."

McCain and his staff have had to make some adjustments to their summer workout program to fit into the necessary safety guidelines, but he doesn't think it will have any adverse effect on his players' progress. Something else he noticed was his team's excitement to reunite and work together again after an abrupt end to the school year.

"We're putting kids into small groups. I think we had groups of eight today and about 35 or 40 kids total that were there so we're kind of doing a circuit workout. We'll have eight kids in the weight room and eight in the gym and two groups on the football field doing something, so I think that's the biggest change we've had to make," McCain said.

"It was honestly the first time I had seen some of those guys since school shut down. The kids had a couple days last month to come clean out their lockers and I saw some of them at graduation and things like that but as far as getting the group together again, this was the first day that we saw it and it was fun. We finished workouts and had 25 kids that wanted to hang out and play on the field together, so I think it was the same way for them to. They haven't been together in a long time, so they were excited to be back again. I'm sure as the summer goes on, they won't have that same excitement every day but here at the start they were really pumped up to be together again."

Farley took time on the Warriors' first morning of workouts to explain the health and safety rules that will need to be followed throughout the summer, but he wanted to make sure to touch on something else as well. He wants his team to be an example of unity within the community and on the first day of workouts, Farley noticed how excited his players and coaches were to be working together again.

Bearcat players train at Cullman High School Wednesday morning.

"Unfortunately, we had to spend the first part of the day talking to them about the "new normal" and how our groups are being staged in different areas. We're wearing masks, kids are bringing their own water bottles, we're taking temperatures when they arrive and all that stuff, so we spent some time talking about that and then we took a little while to talk about unity," Farley said. "We talked about how we want our guys to come together, especially right now when our country is trying so hard to divide itself. We want to be an example to our community and to our school of unity and then when we did get the working out and conditioning the energy was high. It was so great to see the guys and you could tell they were excited, and all the coaches were excited. This had a different vibe to it. It was awesome to get to be around them and we were just so glad to see the kids."

Glasscock and his staff have been hard at work getting their players adjusted to the health and safety guidelines and even though it's a little unfamiliar right now, Glasscock has already found some positives to take away from the current setup.

"It's been an adjustment for sure and I've been telling the kids that life is going to deal you adversity and that's why the game of football is so full of life lessons. This is a difficult circumstance that we're going to have to learn how to navigate through just like you will in life with other things," Glasscock said. "We've got to find a way to be productive, to get better, to do our job, be good teammates and just get better despite these big changes."

Despite the unusual circumstances and adjustments affecting workout programs, Glasscock says its been exciting to get back on campus and see the familiar faces of his kids and coaches. One of the things he has enjoyed most since workouts began is watching new teammates interact and get to know one another as they prepare for the upcoming season.

"It's been great. It's great to see my fellow coaches here. One of the big things that's different is our returning players haven't worked out with our rising 10th graders. So, that period of getting to know your knew teammates is always fun to watch and it's a really good group. I really like our 10th grade class, they're really good kids and I've had them in a strength class all year, so I know them, and they know how to work, and they've gotten a lot stronger," Glasscock said.

"Some of our varsity guys are probably surprised at how strong some of these 10th graders are that they don't even know. We were all out there as one group for the first time Tuesday and we hit the ground running and that's one of the big benefits of the way we've been able to restructure the strength and conditioning programs in Cullman City Schools."

It's been an adjustment for local teams to be sure, and there seems to be something new happening each week that makes this year tougher for everyone but for local high school athletes and coaches, this week has brought them back together to work towards their common goal and delivered the most fun they've had in a long while.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – Ten Coaches' Children Scholarship winners for the 2019-20 school year have been selected by the Scholarship Committee of the Alabama High School Athletic Directors & Coaches Association (AHSADCA), announced Director Jamie Lee Wednesday.

One of this year's selections includes Meek High School's Stuart Waldrep, son of Coach Dana Waldrep. Stuart played football, basketball and baseball for the Tigers.

The $1,000 need-based scholarships, presented for the 13th year by the AHSAA's coaches' organization, are being awarded to college-bound students whose parents are active members of the AHSADCA.

Since 2008, the AHSADCA has awarded a total of $101,000 in scholarship funds to children of coaches or administrators in the AHSAA.

"We are pleased to provide this service once again from the AHSADCA to our member coaches and athletic directors," Lee said.

"We are very thankful for our coaches and administrators who sacrifice so much as teachers and coaches to work with our student-athletes.

"Their families also make much sacrifice. This is one way the AHSADCA can show its appreciation and help the children at the same time.

"We are also proud to note that this year's awards puts the scholarship contributions over $100,000 overall since 2008.

"This is a welcome milestone for this organization to reach."

Troy lands 12 on Athlon Preseason Sun Belt Teams

Andy Stubblefield
Troy Athletics

TROY, Ala. – Paced by five on the first team, Troy landed 12 players on the Athlon Sports Preseason All-Sun Belt Team, the annual magazine released recently.

Wide receiver Kaylon Geiger, defensive tackle Will Choloh, safety Dell Pettus, linebacker Carlton Martial and kickoff returner Reggie Todd were all first team selections for the Trojans.

Geiger, a rising senior, was named the Sun Belt Newcomer of Year after he finished second in the league in receptions, yards and yards per game.

His 77 receptions ranked as the third most in a season in Troy history while his 873 yards finished just shy of the top 10; he tied the school record after topping the 100-yard mark in five different games.

Martial was named the No. 35 player in all of college football last season by Pro Football Focus as he became just the 12thplayer and first underclassman in the last 20 years at the FBS level to finish a season with at least 100 tackles, 15 tackles for loss and three interceptions.

The rising junior closed the year with 126 tackles, the most by a Troy player since 2000, and 18.5 tackles for loss, the fifth most in a season in Troy history, and three picks.

Choloh ranked in the top 25 in the league last year in both sacks and tackles for loss despite playing from an inside position on the defensive line.

The rising junior finished fourth on the team with 54 tackles to go along with four quarterback hurries; he added 28 pressures and 18 overall hurries, both second best on the team.

Pettus, who was a Freshman All-America selection by Pro Football Focus last season, led all freshmen in the Sun Belt Conference with 63 tackles after taking over the starting duties at free safety in the third week of the season – he averaged 5.9 tackles in his 10 starts.

He ended the regular season ranked eighth nationally among all freshmen with his tackle total.

Todd, a rising senior, finished third in the league averaging 27.35 yards per kickoff return.

He took one to the house against Southern Miss and returned another 79 yards at Georgia State.

Todd also was a force on offense with five touchdown receptions and 666 receiving yards.

Offensive lineman Austin Stidham was the lone second team selection for the Trojans.

Todd, as a receiver, running back B.J. Smith, cornerback Terence Dunlap and spear TJ Harris earned third team honors, while offensive lineman Dylan Bradshaw and bandit Richard Jibunor were named to the fourth team.

DODGE CITY, Ala. – Dodge City Collision Center, LLC, in business since 2008, is owned and operated by Joe and Lynne Dollar. The business offers automobile services such as rust-proofing to frame straightening, and everything in-between.

One might wonder how an automobile repair business has been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

"The greatest impact has been supply chains," said Office Manager Katie Dollar.

"Many of the auto manufactures where we get our parts and supplies have closed production so that's been pretty hard, but we have seen in increase in part prices due to that supply and demand; that's what has affected us the most."

On following health safety guidelines, Dollar said, "We do limit the number of people in our office. We offer 'no-touch estimates' at the car: we'll go outside to you, we'll write your estimate on paper, come back into our office, get it into our estimating system, print it out and we'll bring it back to you if you don't want to come into our office."

She added, "We thoroughly clean and sanitize vehicles before they enter the shop and again before they are delivered, and we have hand sanitizer available for customers and employees. We clean our office daily. We try to make it simple and convenient for everyone; we kind of evolve daily in order to continue to keep everyone safe and serve everyone's needs."

Dollar said the business has received overwhelming support.

"One thing that we've really seen lately is customer loyalty," she smiled, "and it's just amazing to just have so many repeat customers right now and so many new faces, and that's great as well!"

She continued, "Just don't be afraid to stop by! We're still open, we're still here to help you as always, nothing much really has changed. We're just here to help serve our community."

Dodge City Collision Center is located at 4333 County Road 216. Find out more at www.facebook.com/DodgeCityCollision/ or http://dodgecitycollisioncenter.com/.

stated they will remain that way, even if things are a little inconvenient at present.

The Tribune talked to City officials and a local business owner to get an update on the First Avenue streetscape project and its impact on local retailers.

Standing alongside the gravel-covered avenue, Cullman City Engineer Erica York told The Tribune, "This is going to be just short-term, in support of a long-term project, which is our Warehouse District streetscape project. It's part of a TAP (Transportation Alternatives Program, funded through the Alabama Department of Transportation) grant-funded project that is to enhance beautification in downtown areas.

"In this project, what's going to encompass this particular project is everything from sidewalk to sidewalk. So that's going to include the road, as well. We're going to have brand new ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act)-accessible sidewalks, as well as a new paved street. At each crosswalk, you'll also see some enhancement as far as brick paving crosswalks and cobblestone intersection. Then we'll also see a lot more enhancement on street lighting, as far as decorative light poles, and string lighting over the merchant district. Then the landscaping areas are going to be enhanced, as well. We'll see more accessibility, as far as handicap ramps. The other new part is going to be our centerline drainage, so where it was draining to the curbs, now it's going to be draining to a centerline drain."

What's happening right now with the gravel road?

York continued, "Why you see the roads tore up right now is because, in support of this, we were able to actually upgrade our utilities, which includes upgrading our main sewer line, as well as our water line and all service connections to each of the buildings. We were able to enhance the utility structures, as well."

Contractors will work on one block at a time, starting with the block in front of the Festhalle, working up to intersections to keep them open as much as possible.

Businesses remain open and busy

Cullman Economic Development Agency (CEDA) Retail and Workforce Development Manager Susan Eller told The Tribune, "We want everyone to just know that these merchants are going to continue to stay open. What we're asking for you to do is bear with us during this time. We will still have our parking on the north end of the Warehouse District in between there and the Festhalle. You'll also still be able to use the parking lot behind the Cullman County Museum. We'll actually leave these streets open."

Construction operations will be scheduled to impact traffic and businesses as little as possible.

Lynsey Todd of Monograms Plus talked to The Tribune about doing business during the project. She said that, like other business people in the area, she is not particularly happy about the dust, gravel and general inconvenience, but is excited to see what the completed project will bring to the district.

Said Todd, "I think we're all excited about the end result, as I think most of our customers would be. It's going to be inconvenient for a little while, just like any kind of remodel or house remodel or anything like that. But we've seen plans for the end, and it's supposed to be really pretty, and we're excited about having the lighting over the street, and a little bit more accessible sidewalks and that kind of thing. So, we are excited for the end result.

Warehouse District summer street sale coming soon!

Todd also shared about the upcoming Warehouse District summer street sale, telling The Tribune, "It was supposed to be this weekend, but if y'all have seen the weather, you know that we have some tropical storms that are coming in, so we have postponed that to next weekend."

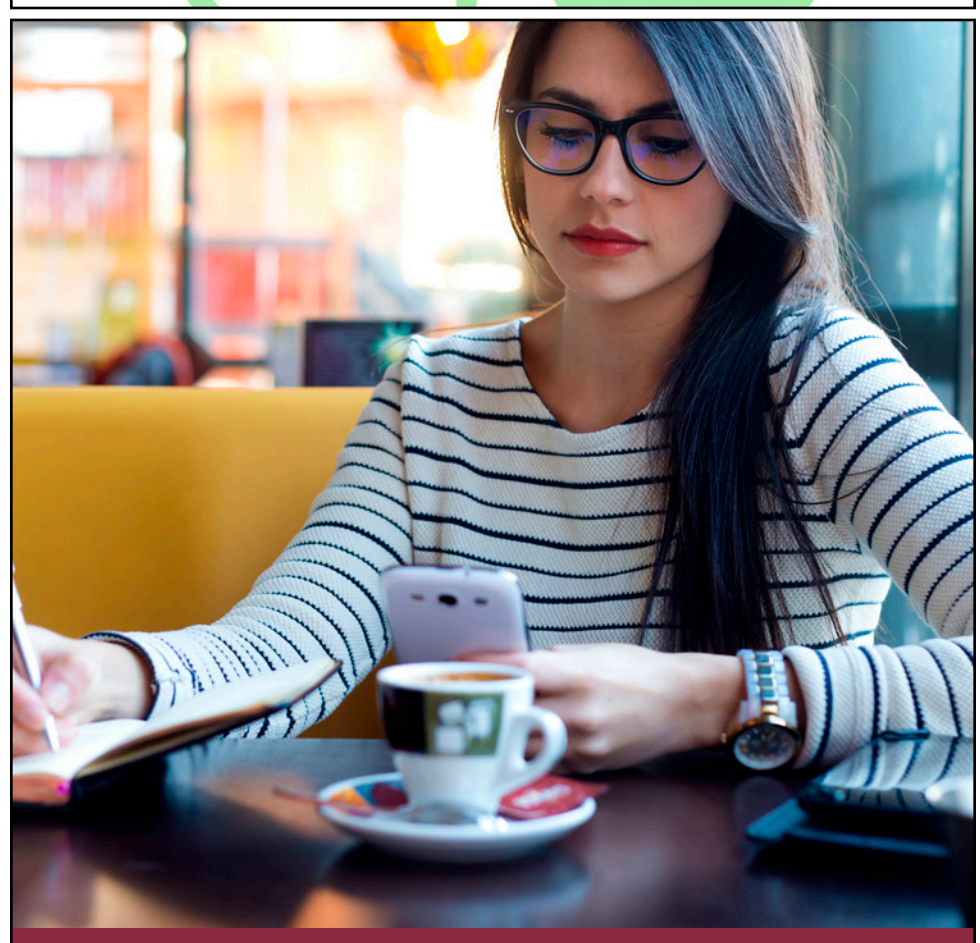

The street sale will take place Friday and Saturday, June 12-13. Hours will be 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday.

Todd said, "Most of the merchants here will be participating, and they will have sales up to 70% off, so lots of good deals and bargains out on the street next weekend!"

Movie: Monkey Business

The Marx Brothers are up to their usual shticks in this 1931 comedy, playing stowaways on an ocean liner. When their presence becomes known, they resort to all kinds of fast talk and disguises to stay ahead of the crew, eventually getting hired as bodyguards by two rival gangsters. A comic highlight is the brothers' attempt to pass themselves off as Maurice Chevalier by singing one of his songs — even the silent Harpo. The film kicks off a four-movie "Marx Brothers Madness" marathon.
