CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Commission met bright and early Monday morning for a special-called meeting to approve a new plan requiring all persons entering the Cullman County Courthouse to wear masks and have their temperatures checked. The courthouse was closed Friday to allow for deep cleaning and sanitizing after at least one employee from the Cullman County Probate Office tested positive for the COVID-19 virus. It was recommended by the County's workers' compensation physician, Dr. James Thomas, that these measures be put into place to better protect Cullman County employees and citizens.

Employees will be required to wear masks and undergo temperature checks upon entering the building, but it will be left up to each department to determine if employees must wear masks once reaching their work areas.

Masks will not be made available to those entering the courthouse. People must have their own masks.

Monday's meeting was held in the courthouse parking lot, where Chairman Kenneth Walker explained, "I got with Dr. Thomas, and the reason I got with Dr. Thomas is he's our workers' comp doctor. We discussed taking temperatures three or four weeks ago and thought we were going to get that started, but then we decided things were looking better and we wouldn't need to."

Thomas addressed the commissioners, "I was asked to come Thursday to go over what the CDC and OSHA guidelines were to protect employees and also all individuals that are dealing with this COVID. After doing the presentation and sending out some emails, it was concluded on Saturday, we started doing temperature checks. There are some more guidelines that are available. Jason Neal announces re-election bid for Cullman City School Board, place 4

wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. –Jason Neal on Monday announced his bid for re-election to the Cullman City School Board, place 4. He will face challenger Nathan Haynes in the Aug. 25, 2020 Municipal Election.

Below is Neal's full, unedited announcement.

Jason Neal is a lifelong resident of Cullman. He is married to Stephanie Davis Neal and they have three children, Auston (wife Lynlee), Jordan, and Olivia. They are all active members of the First Baptist Church of Cullman. Neal has served the youth in Cullman by coaching both boys' and girls' athletics.

Neal graduated from the University of North Alabama in 1992 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Management. He is an agency owner for Liberty National Life Insurance Company in Cullman and has worked for the company since 1993.

"My children received their education at the primary, elementary, middle, and high schools in the Cullman City School System. For this reason, I understand the importance of continuously striving to make our school system one of the best in the state. I have a dedicated interest in the education of the current and future children served by Cullman City Schools," said Neal. "I want to continue to work towards implementing and accomplishing the goals we have set by the current board in the long-range capital plan. It is important for the board to continue working with the Mayor and City Council to ensure the safety and security of our students in all our campus facilities and to prepare for the spaced needed for the current and future growth of our city."

Neal supports the advancement of technology and believes CCS has one of the best technology departments in the state. "We witnessed their expertise during the recent closing of our schools due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the need to transfer to virtual learning. They assisted not only our students, but were always there to support our faculty and our staff." He would like to continue to provide strong leadership to help the board, administration, and teachers advance our school system into the future.

Neal considers the following accomplishments among the most notable during his last four years as a school board member:

Administrative

- Decreased expenditures in administrative services (i.e. Central Office) by replacing coordinator positions with experts who recently retired from other school systems.
- Reinstated the Technology Coordinator position as a stand-alone function at no additional cost to the system.
- Employed a System-Wide Athletic Director to assist with facilities, mentoring of coaches, scheduling, administrative oversight, and athletic partners.
- Streamlining form management by continually transitioning from paper to online. Revised personnel and financial handbooks throughout the system.

Athletics

- Revised the athletic supplements from set amounts to a percentage of the teaching salary. This ensured equity in responsibilities while incentivizing coaches to continue as they gain experience. Moved head coaches of major sports to annual contracts.

CONTRIBUTED

Jason Neal

- Repaired drainage issues at baseball field and installed turf.
- Initiated process to renovate CHS gym lights, windows, and add HVAC.

Facilities

- Removed all carpet from EES and WES. Replaced with PVC tile or refinished underlying hardwood.
- Installed new roofs at EES, WES, and CMS.
- Conducted a facilities assessment and population study to address the needs of Cullman City Schools.
- Developed a long-range plan for the growth of Cullman City Schools from the conclusions gained in the facilities and population assessments.
- Purchased the Hoehn Property adjacent to CCPS to provide the foundational opportunity to implement the long-range plan.
- Actively seeking funding to support necessary building projects arising from the population growth and expanding housing market.

Schools

- Maintained an overall A score for the school system
- Added Dance classes at CHS through the state-approved adjunct program.
- Added a full-time Assistant Principal at EES and WES.
- Expanded Archery program to cover EES, WES, and CMS.
- Added a summer foreign language camp for elementary students. Established a summer program for EL students.
- Partnered with Office of School Readiness to offer 6 classes of Pre-K

The importance of making positive decisions based on what is best for the children of Cullman has been Neal's priority in his previous terms and will continue to be a priority in the future. He supports safe and exceptional educational opportunities for all children during these extraordinary times.

"I desire to continue my service on the board and would appreciate your support and vote for re-election to the Cullman City School Board, Place 4."

Nathan Haynes announces candidacy for Cullman City School Board, place 4

Wendy Sack
wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Local businessman Nathan Haynes on Monday announced his candidacy for Cullman City School Board, place 4. He will face incumbent Jason Neal. The Municipal Election will take place Tuesday, Aug. 25, 2020.

Below is Haynes' full, unedited announcement:

Nathan Haynes, a local business owner, has announced that he will be seeking Place 4 on the Cullman City School Board.

Haynes started his own business, Haynes Auto Detail, while still in high school where he still serves today as its owner. Being a local small business owner and going straight into the workforce upon graduation, Nathan has seen the struggles of students with the same ambition to own their own business. That's why he believes it's time for change on the City School Board, and that the Board is need of new ideas and a younger mindset.

One priority that needs to be addressed is better spending habits, something Nathan had to learn quickly when starting his own business which now employs seven workers, many who are still students in the Cullman City School System.

We need to ensure that all campuses are receiving equal treatment when the new budget is proposed, this is something that Haynes feels like hasn't been done it quite a while.

As school board member, Nathan also believes in making it a priority to keep graduates in Cullman after they graduate and to build our local workforce. We see many students looking to go into business moving to other markets such as Birmingham, Huntsville, etc. and it's time that we keep them in Cullman. That's the choice that Haynes made and he wants to see others follow in his footsteps.

Some of Nathan's accomplishments include opening his own successful business and being recognized as Cullman's small business of the month, staying involved in local community service projects, providing jobs for many students just entering the workforce and showing young people all around our City that a successful company can be built from the ground up in Cullman.

CONTRIBUTED

Nathan Haynes

Nathan Haynes will be working on behalf of the students in all of our City Schools to fight for equal representation and financial management that includes all schools in our system. It's time for new ideas and new leadership to meet the School Board and that's what Haynes will be bringing to the table to serve the people of Cullman.

Mask (from Front)

lines about masks and staying 6 feet from each other and what to do when someone tests positive."

Based on the guidelines presented by Thomas, the commission concluded requiring masks would be the best course of action to limit the spread of the COVID-19 virus.

Walker said, "Wearing a mask is recommended, but we want to require that before entering the courthouse because there is no way to keep the 6-foot distance. We really encourage keeping the 6-foot distance, and just bear with us because if we don't implement this now, it's going to take us longer to get over this."

The commissioners were all in agreement on implementing the new policies.

Commissioner Garry Marchman said, "I know there are circumstances that have caused us to have to do this. I won't go into detail about those circumstances, but I also know there is conflict. Some people think it's silly to put on a mask and others don't. I understand that. We've been obligated by legislation to make policies and guidelines that govern our facilities here. It's not a popular thing because there are going to be people who disagree with us on that. I commend both these guys for stepping up and saying 'Hey, we need to implement something to protect people.' We really do."

Marchman encouraged those with special circumstances or needs to let the commissioners know so they can help in special cases.

The commission plans to revisit the policies July 3 to determine if masks are still necessary.

Said Commissioner Kerry Watson, "This is something we didn't take light and I know it's going to be aggravating for everybody. We are all creatures of habit and this is not a habit. We've all got to pull together on this even if this may not be what we want to do. Right now is the time we got to step forward and work together until July 3 and then we'll go from there."

West Point's Eli Folds earns invite to ALABCA All-Star Event

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

WEST POINT, Ala. – There will now be a pair of Warriors on the field at Troy University for this year's Alabama Baseball Coaches Association All-Star Event. West Point's Eli Folds received an invitation to the 21st annual event along with teammate Aubry Cleghorn who will be making his second appearance.

Folds put together an excellent start to his junior season on the mound, posting a 0.92 ERA with four saves, collecting 23 strikeouts and holding batters to a .205 batting average before the school year was cut short.

Warriors Head Coach Drew Bryson is excited to have two of his standouts participating in this year's event and has been very excited to see Folds develop into a real asset on the mound over the last couple of years.

"We are extremely excited for Eli and the opportunity he has to join Aubry at Troy in July and represent himself and the program at the ALABCA All-Star Event.

"As a sophomore, Eli was a great surprise for us on the mound.

"We knew he had a live arm and great stuff we just didn't know exactly where he would fit into the pitching rotation," Bryson said.

"We threw him in the fire out of the gate and slotted him into the closer's role.

"He's a different breed of player on the mound that performs better in the pressure situations and really embraced that role and was big for us in being someone we could give the ball and to and go get us those last 3-6 outs of a ball game.

"He's been off to a great start this summer and we expect him to continue to develop into a great player."

Eli is happy to get a chance to play some more baseball this year and not only will he be with a teammate that's been at the event before, he'll get the chance to impress some new people on the mound.

"I'm excited to show off some of my skills to some other people outside of the community and to play for some scouts. I'm just excited to have the opportunity to play at Troy.

"I've been keeping up with travel ball recently, so I've been getting back into the groove of baseball and it feels really good," Folds said.

"I'm happy to get to go with Aubry because we've been teammates these last couple years and just got our season cut short, so it'll be really funny to have someone down there that I'm teammates with."

Folds was an effective weapon on the mound for West Point last spring but he's still looking for new ways to develop his game even further this offseason.

"I've been trying to work on a changeup, I've got to add a changeup to my selection," Folds said.

"I need to be a three-pitch guy and I've been using two because I've been a closer and you don't really need a ton of pitches. So, I've really just been trying to add a changeup and work the strike zone."

This year's event is scheduled for July 7-10 at Troy University.

UAB Football Positional Preview: The Defensive Line

Ted Feeley
UAB Athletics

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. – A major reason why UAB has finished top 10 nationally in total defense each of the last two seasons has been due to its production up front on the defensive line.

NFL talent has been produced from the interior line each of the last two years (Anthony Rush – Philadelphia Eagles, Garrett Marino – Dallas Cowboys), and this season, nose tackle Tony Fair assumes the role of leading this unit.

In his first season with the Blazers in 2019, Fair earned Honorable Mention All-Conference USA honors in the absence of Rush and was a perfect complement to Marino.

He finished the year with 36 total tackles, 5.0 TFL, 1.0 sack, two forced fumbles and two quarterback hurries. Fair should once again be a dominant force in stopping the run and will be a focal point for opposing offenses to game plan for.

Redshirt junior Antonio Moultrie looks to fill the void left by Marino at defensive tackle and has potential for a breakout season.

He has 18 career games under his belt, including an appearance in all 14 contests last year as he finished with 20 total tackles.

A pair of redshirt sophomores in Fish McWilliams and Michael Fairbanks II, along with redshirt senior Mi'Cario Stanley will also provide depth and experience on the interior line.

Like Moultrie, McWilliams played in all 14 games last year and recorded 11 tackles, 2.5 TFL and 1.5 sacks. Stanley played in 12 games with three tackles (1.0 TFL), while Fairbanks II saw action in every game primarily on special teams.

The Blazers also landed a major addition to the line in graduate transfer Tyree Turner from South Alabama. Turner was a Second Team All-Sun Belt Conference selection in 2018, but suffered a season-ending injury in the first game of 2019 at Nebraska. Turner was a 2019 preseason First Team All-Sun Belt Conference selection by Phil Steele, Athlon Sports, Lindy's and Streets & Smith before his year was cut short in the season opener.

Also look for junior college transfers Tylan Jones and Isaiah Forte to be in the mix, as well as redshirt freshman Kevin Penn.

In the last two years, UAB has compiled 92 total sacks and 217 TFL, and has been one of the best teams in the nation at rushing the quarterback. With the depth, talent and experience on the 2020 interior line, more of the same should be expected this season.

UAB aims for its third straight C-USA West Division title and its second overall C-USA championship in the last three years. The Blazers have compiled the most wins (28) of any C-USA school since the start of the 2017 season and returns 18 starters to this year's squad.

UAB Men's Golf cleans up with C-USA postseason awards

Ted Feeley
UAB Athletics

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. – The UAB men's golf team had four players earn Conference USA postseason awards, along with Mike Wilson being named C-USA Coach of the Year and Khavish Varadan being honored as the C-USA Freshman of the Year.

Along with Wilson and Varadan winning specialty awards, William Walker III and Murray Naysmith were First Team All-Conference USA honorees, while Varadan and Ben Reichert were Third Team All-Conference USA Selections. Varadan was also a member of the Conference USA All-Freshman Team.

"I am really excited for our team to have four guys make All-Conference," said Wilson. "They were having a banner year and it's nice that they were able to receive these awards. What's most impressive is how consistent these guys were all season."

Walker III and Naysmith were the catalysts for the Blazers the entire year as Walker III led the team with a 70.3 stroke average, while Naysmith was right behind him at 70.8.

Their stroke averages rank them second and third, respectively, in school history for season stroke average only behind Graeme McDowell.

Both Walker III and Naysmith were at or under par in all six tournaments. Walker III finished inside the top 20 five times, the top 10 twice and the top five once. Naysmith was top 20 four times, top 10 twice and top five once.

In his first season as a Blazer, Reichert recorded a 71.6 stroke average as a redshirt junior. He had two top 20 finishes and his low round of 68 came at the Jerry Pate Intercollegiate.

Varadan finished his first season as a Blazer with an average of 72.2 en route to winning C-USA Freshman of the Year honors and earning Third Team All-Conference. He was under par in each of his final three tournaments of the season and finished 11th overall in each of the last two by shooting a collegiate low 210 (-6) in both.

The Blazers earned their highest ranking in six years on Oct. 16, 2019, checking in at No. 25, and were virtually a lock for the NCAA Tournament until the season was canceled due to COVID-19. UAB was the highest ranked team in Conference USA when the season ended.

UAB returns six of their seven top golfers for next season and have added tremendous talent with graduate transfer and Division III First Team All-American Drew Mathers, and freshmen Price Brown and Garrison Guthrie.

CULLMAN, Ala. – Northbrook Baptist Church (NBC) hosted a fun evening for families at its first-ever family movie night Friday. The church provided a free viewing of "Toy Story 4" and gave out refreshments. The event took place outside, with the movie shown on a giant inflatable screen.

NBC Children's Ministry Pastor Erica Turner smiled, "Tonight we have our movie night; it's the first one we've ever gotten to do at Northbrook and we're really excited about it.

"We're watching 'Toy Story 4' and we're looking forward to being able to give the community an outlet to just spend time together during all that's going on."

She continued, "Thankfully this is one of those easier events to put on, but we definitely put time into figuring out what movie to show, how to get the word out and trying to figure out, with all that's going on, what we could provide or serve people.

"We're glad we're able to give drinks and popcorn, and, like I said, just give people a chance to hang out.

"We just hope that families can create a good memory- with not being able to go to so many places right now with all the regulations and COVID-19, just the fact they can come here enjoy, relax and spend time together."

The church has another fun family event planned for July.

"We have another family event coming in July," said Turner. "We're going to do a family 'Amazing Race' on a Sunday afternoon and so we're really excited about that.

"We'll get our church families to hang out and then it'll be open to others if they want to join in. It's kind of like a scavenger hunt."

Keep up with Northbrook at www.facebook.com/northbrookbc.

'The support of the community here in Cullman is amazing': Back the Blue rally held in Good Hope

Christy Perry
christy@cullmantribune.com

GOOD HOPE, Ala. – A Back the Blue rally was held Saturday afternoon in Good Hope with a steady crowd of law enforcement officers stopping by and chatting with members of the community showing their appreciation. The rally was held at the Billy Bob's Fireworks Superstore, and by 2:30, a sizable crowd had gathered for food and fellowship in what turned out to be a laid-back event.

The Back the Blue Rally was hosted by Bob Hoglan, owner of the fireworks superstore.

He explained the motivation behind the rally, saying, "At the end of the day, our police officers are being wrongly attacked. There's bad in everything, but we have so many more good police officers than bad. They are getting persecuted and attacked and they are supposed to be our protectors and now we need to protect them. This is just my way to hopefully help lift their spirits. We damn sure need to make sure they don't walk off the job."

Different restaurants either donated food or offered food at special event pricing, so everyone received a free lunch.

Said Hoglan, "I called in some favors from some great friends."

One of those friends was Campbell's Towing out of Blount County, which came to make sure the American flag flew high above the rally.

"There's many men who have died for that flag and many more would die for that flag again," said Hoglan. "I honestly don't see white and black. I don't care what color a person is. If you are red, white and blue, you're my kind of people. If you are against the red, white and blue, you are my enemy."

Members of the Cullman Police Department, Cullman County Sheriff's Office, the Alabama Law Enforcement Agency and a few from surrounding area agencies stopped by to thank the supporters who came out.

Officer Joshua Spinks, who joined the CPD in April after serving in Jefferson County, said of the attitude toward officers, "It's night and day different. The support of the community here in Cullman is amazing."

He said that wasn't always the case in Jefferson County, where he regularly heard disparaging comments as he and his fellow officers were in the community.

Spinks smiled, "It's amazing here, and I tell them, 'Next time Cullman's hiring, you need to get out of there!'"

Back-to-work changes during the coronavirus pandemic

Theresa Jones, Patricia W. Smith

Millions of people are ready to go back to work. Because of limited income, many need to work for financial security. Across the nation, state restrictions imposed during the COVID-19 pandemic are slowly being lifted so people can return to work and socialize outside the home.

The White House has announced a three-phased approach to reopening. These guidelines are based on the states being able to fulfill the following criteria: the trajectory of reported symptoms, the trajectory of reported cases, and the ability of hospitals to care for patients and provide ongoing testing.

Many work environments changed in mid-March as the threat of COVID-19 spread. People have adjusted to a new way of living and working.

Parents have been working remotely while becoming involuntary home teachers because of school closings.

Some who have been working from home are now beginning to transition back to offices and other workplaces.

While working at home, many have discovered that in tough times they have had an opportunity to build stronger relationships that could foster improved work experiences.

This indicates that workers will probably rely more on each other to achieve overall common goals for their organizations and institutions.

As people return to work, caution needs to be practiced in the workplace—and it starts with each employee. There is growing concern that there will be a second wave of virus infection cases later this year. Because of this concern, follow these best practices to help protect yourself and others.

Disinfecting and sanitizing
Before you return, make sure that your workplace has been disinfected. Each day, employees should sanitize shared telephones, restrooms, breakroom sinks, and handles on stoves, microwaves, and refrigerators; copier and fax machine screens after each use and in individual offices; and office entrance and exit doorknobs and handles. Conference rooms that are used daily should also be disinfected.

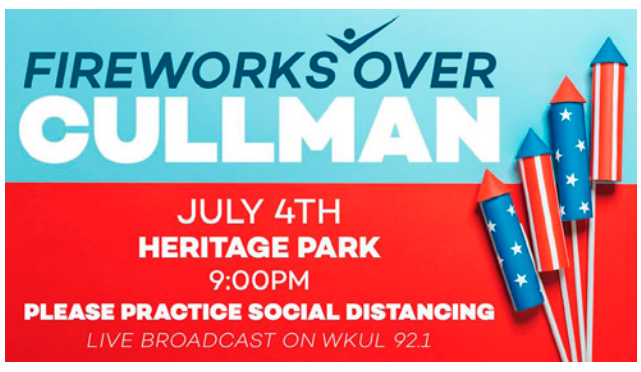

Consistent hand washing
All employees should wash their hands regularly to avoid picking up germs when touching items that a coworker may have forgotten to sanitize. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), wash hands with soap for a minimum of 20 minutes. For more details about handwashing, visit the CDC website. Also, keep hand sanitizer for immediate use or when you can't wash your hands with soap and water.

Wearing a mask
Make sure to wear a mask to work. Masks protect others from you and vice versa. It's okay to remove your mask when you are in your office alone. When you are in other parts of the building around coworkers, you should wear your mask and remain at least 6 feet apart. This indicates that you are practicing social distancing and decreasing your chances of getting COVID-19.

Communicating with coworkers and clients
Limit the number of people you socialize with in the office. When possible, communicate using virtual meeting tools such as phone and teleconferencing rather than in-person meetings. Limit group face-to-face meetings to 10 or fewer people, according to local, state, and federal guidelines. Keep face-to-face meetings with coworkers or clients short to limit exposure time. Discourage lingering and socializing before and after meetings.

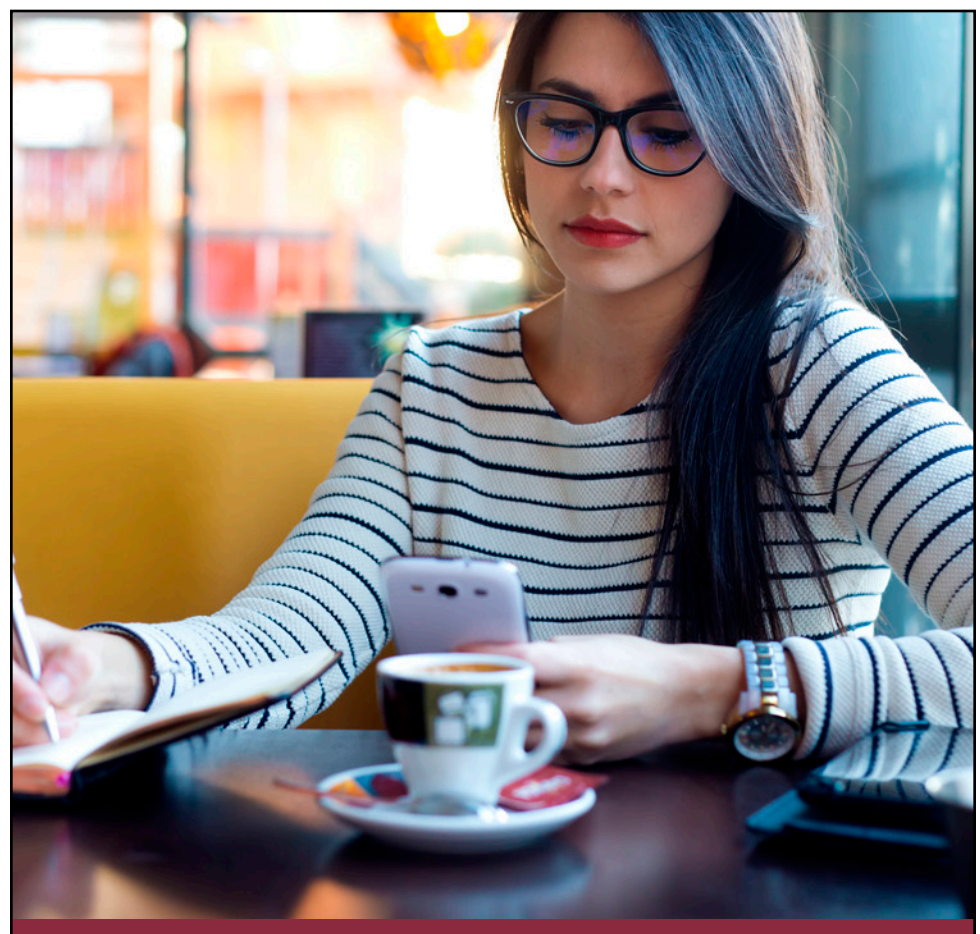

Using vending machines
If you have a vending machine in the workplace, use gloves or a disinfectant wipe before using. Wipe surfaces after use to protect the individual who will access the machine after you. We have to work together to protect each other.

As we gradually return to work, there is an excellent takeaway for all of us: Let go—the kind of workplace we originally signed up for does not exist anymore. Coronavirus means that we are in this together.

Timothy Greenfield-Sanders' new "Toni Morrison': The Pieces I Am' offers an "intimate meditation" on the life, works and recurring themes of this masterful storyteller and Nobel Prize winner. Morrison's personal story opens in the steel town of Lorain, Ohio, where she grew up, and leads her to '70s book tours with Muhammad Ali and political front lines with Angela Davis. The film also features interviews with Davis, poet Sonia Sanchez, writers Fran Lebowitz, Walter Mosley and Hilton Als, and Oprah Winfrey, who turned Morrison's novel "Beloved" into a feature film.

In post-World War II Germany, military red tape forces French army officer Henri Rochard (Cary Grant) to pose as a war bride to win permission to return to the United States with his wife, an American nurse (Ann Sheridan, TCM's star of the month for June) in this somewhat low-key 1949 screwball comedy from Howard Hawks. Although many viewers may be suffering from scandal fatigue these days, the new documentary "Opioids, Inc." may still shake some of them up with its account of how a drug company flooded the market with powerful opioids by bribing doctors and committing extensive insurance fraud. Produced in association with the London-based business and economic publication Financial Times, the film reveals how a company called Insys Therapeutics reaped a monetary windfall from a fentanyl-based painkiller that was 50 times stronger than heroin.

"Toni Morrison" airs on "American Masters" on PBS.

OPINION

Evangelism, part 8

Tom Fillinger
Tribune Columnist

As I write we are in the midst of the COVID-19 lockdown. This virus has changed most dimensions of life. What has not changed is the mandate of the Great Commission. There is no modifier that changes our responsibility to make disciples. Evangelism is the first phase of that process. Jesus stated – occupy till I come. How are you doing?

Last week we presented a painfully accurate portrait of the local churches of Cullman County.

DO NOT curse the darkness – light a candle. Be the light that God calls his people to be. YOU can do this in the power and enabling grace of the Holy Spirit. Here is the sequence you need to follow.

1. Honestly Assess - the church where you gather. Is YOUR church in precipitous decline? Do the issues we reviewed yesterday describe the church where you gather? If so, you are God's change agent in that assembly.

2. Pray – Ask the LORD to prepare you for the challenge ahead. I assure you when you speak Truth to POWER you will be abused and probably rejected. You will be accused of being a 'troublemaker' when in fact you are anything but. You are God's change agent and you are endeavoring to do his work in his way for his glory. Press on.

3. Respect Authority – Request a meeting with your pastor. Assure him that your motive and purpose is to do good and benefit his leadership, and most of all to honor the LORD who is the Head of the church.

At the appropriate time in your deliberations with him share the items we reviewed this past Monday.

They irrevocably prove that the church is in decline and must confess, repent and begin to minister effectively in obedience to the Great Commission.

4. Enlist & Equip – Transformation is accomplished by the entire body, not a few individuals. Enlist other members of your assembly and equip them with an understanding of the issues that produce a dying church. Enlist them in an Intercessory Prayer Group. Prayer is crucial and without it none of your efforts will be fruitful.

5. Leadership – If genuine transformation to effective ministry is to happen it will require the pastor's full support and that of other key leaders.

They must understand that to perpetuate Status Quo is the kiss of death. Make certain that you are their best ally. You desire only true effectiveness in reaching lost people and making disciples fully formed in the image of Christ.

Recent reports reveal that church attendance is off by 40-60%. Remember, the church is people, not the building. We are not relieved of our responsibility to make disciples because the patterns in which we gather have changed.

• Summary – This endeavor will be costly. You will be maligned and misunderstood. You will be falsely accused of sedition and worse. DO NOT let these accusations deter you.

The very life of the assembly of which you are a part hinges on success in this effort. Press on!

'We wanna make Cullman County a more inclusive place': Inaugural Juneteenth cookout held in Hanceville

Heather Mann, W.C. Mann
Contributors

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – With black voices and experiences being highlighted on a national and international stage since the death of George Floyd in Minneapolis Police custody in May, many Americans are just now learning about the holiday of Juneteenth. On June 19, 1865, federal troops arrived in Galveston, Texas to ensure all enslaved people (some 250,000) were freed. Two and a half years after the Emancipation Proclamation was signed, slavery had officially ended in the United States. Saturday afternoon, the Committee for a Better Cullman (CFABC) held a community cookout in celebration of the holiday - the first of its kind (at least widely publicized) in Cullman County.

CFABC members brought food, drinks and treats for guests to enjoy, as well as water guns for the kids. Attendees walked around the park, listened to music by black artists, encountered the local wildlife when a family of ducks walked up to the pavilion, enlisted the help of some kids with water guns to cool down from the heat and enjoyed each other's company.

Event coordinators and participants arrived to find their designated park pavilion, along with light posts and other fixtures around the park, decorated with pro-law enforcement blue ribbons, which were placed, according to a source in Hanceville city government, by members of the group CullmanStrong. Coordinators talked about removing the ribbons from the pavilion, but ultimately left them in place.

In the parking area at the park's other entrance, a group of concerned citizens assembled to keep an eye on the celebration, some using binoculars to keep a closer eye than others.

Despite community concern about the event, some of it voiced loudly to city leaders, the visible law enforcement presence at the cookout was not large, though officers remained on hand throughout the event and additional patrol vehicles passed by the park regularly. Event coordinators had four "Legal Observers" from the National Lawyers' Guild present. According to the Guild, observers are part of a larger program "designed to enable people to express their political views as fully as possible without unconstitutional disruption or interference by the police and with the fewest possible consequences from the criminal justice system."

Before the festivities kicked off, The Tribune talked to one of the event organizers, A.C. Poteete, to get an idea of how he felt everything was going.

"It's going well. I almost think we should've drug it out a little longer because I honestly wasn't expecting all the press. I kinda wanted to say something one time to everyone, but as soon as we got set up the cameras started coming out," he commented. "We're here to uplift black voices. We knew going into this that members of the black community may not feel welcome coming to an event like this, but that's why we're having this: to let them know that we're here and we want to hear your voices, what you need from us and what we can do for you.

"We love you; this is a day to celebrate you, and we wanna celebrate you every day. We wanna make Cullman County a more inclusive place, but to know what we need to do to help black people, we need to hear from black people.

"If the black community doesn't come out this year, once they see that it was all good this year then maybe they'll come out next year or maybe they'll reach out to me. Just reach out and we'll make things happen."

On the decision to hold the cookout, Poteete said, "In the wake of George Floyd's murder, I think it woke some people up here in Cullman. We were there to support those people (the protesters in Depot Park), and this just sorta grew out of that. We know that there are a few, but there are black people in Cullman County, so we wanted to say, 'We recognize this, we recognize you, and we love you. We wanna make this a place that's welcome for everybody.' We just wanna start the conversation. It's wild saying that in 2020, but we just wanna start the conversation."
