112 DAYS

This weekend, the country will celebrate Independence Day while several of our remaining veterans of World War II will be experiencing day 117 of mandatory quarantine. The men and women who did whatever they had to do to keep our country moving forward for future generations, like us, are once again carrying the greatest burden.

CULLMAN, Ala. – With public pools just now being opened, many people had already taken it into their own hands to find ways to swim and cool down. Because of this, many areas report that their local pool builders have been overwhelmed by the sudden influx of orders for backyard pools.

Berlin holds Census Day, celebrates fire department's 45th anniversary

BERLIN, Ala. – To aid its residents in completing the 2020 Census, the Town of Berlin on Saturday held a Census Day event at the community center. As extra incentive, the Town raffled off a 50-inch UHD Samsung TV. The event also doubled as a celebration of the Berlin Volunteer Fire Department's 45th anniversary.

Mayor Patrick Bates said turnout was lighter than he expected.

"Most of the folks coming by have already filled out the census and just came by to get confirmation, and most of them filled everything out with the people outside so things in here have been pretty slow," he commented.

Rain in the area during the first half of the event likely contributed to the lower than expected turnout for census participation.

The fire department had its trucks on display at the community center, and inside the building a team of volunteers assembled barbecue plates for visitors to take home or enjoy inside.

Fire Chief Ralph Laney, who has worked with the BVFD since 1977, said the department is already preparing for the addition of 280 homes in the Kingfisher subdivision. A groundbreaking for the new neighborhood will take place Tuesday.

"We currently have 10 trucks in our fleet, and we'll be replacing two of them with those two there (gesturing to photos of what the new trucks will look like)," he said. "Those new trucks should arrive in about a year."

Both Chief Laney and his wife, Janice, who was helping assemble the barbecue plates, said they had seen a pretty good turnout for the celebration, considering the weather.

"It started off pretty slow," Janice Laney said, "but then we had an EMT carry out about 15 for their team and then another person asked for 10, and that's when we realized it was starting to pick up."

She said the department served around 150 plates.

ALEA resumes normal driver's license operations

Derek Campbell
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – Despite the challenges of COVID-19, the Alabama Law Enforcement Agency's (ALEA) Driver License Division has continued to serve the citizens of the state of Alabama while resuming face-to-face operations and making safety a top priority.

The division closed its offices to the public Friday, March 27; however, employees continued to provide services to the public via phone, email and online. ALEA was able to ensure it did not compromise the health and safety of both its customers and employees during the pandemic.

After Governor Kay Ivey issued a Safer at Home Order, ALEA's Driver License Division began a "soft opening" at 13 locations across the state Monday, May 4. In the following weeks, the agency gradually reopened other offices. By Monday, June 29, 95% (69 of its 73 locations) were open to the public. ALEA will ensure the public's safety by implementing safety procedures and adhering to all COVID-19 guidelines during each transaction.

ALEA Secretary Hal Taylor said, "We meticulously and strategically developed a plan to reopen our Driver License offices to avoid putting anyone at risk during this precarious time. The absolute last thing we wanted was to contribute to the spread of the coronavirus. In addition, ALEA's Driver License Division is striving to alleviate the accumulation of a COVID-19-related backlog, and it will continue to utilize new and innovative procedures to reduce the congestion at Driver License offices throughout the state."

Since the soft opening in early May, 66,244 customers have received face-to-face service in Driver License offices, and 98,167 online customers were served between March 16 and June 19. ALEA saw a significant increase in online transactions, whereas in 2019, only 33,337 were served.

On Monday, June 2, the agency resumed Class D Road/Skills tests on a limited basis. Between June 2 and June 19, 5,544 road tests were completed, which is an increase of 115% as compared to the same period in 2019. Currently, Driver License personnel have administered 6,922 Class D Road/Skills tests for regular driver licenses and 706 Commercial Driver License Skills tests. Another 8,000 customers have been served through ALEA's partnership with the Alabama State Department of Education to streamline the Yellow Card/Vessel License process for 16-year-old students who passed the required road test with an instructor. The State Department of Education also has resumed Drivers Education programs to allow students to catch up from the spring semester.

Taylor said he is pleased with the progress the agency's Driver License Division made during such a challenging time for the state. "We thank everyone for their patience and understanding. We continue to ask everyone in need of Driver License services to adhere to the Alabama Department of Public Health's guidelines and use masks during visits to Driver License locations. It is important we all follow guidelines to curb the spread of the virus."

ADOL announces Extended Benefits unemployment program to begin

Tara Hutchison
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – The Alabama Department of Labor (ADOL) announced Monday that the state will begin offering Extended Benefits (EB) for those who qualify and have exhausted previous benefits.

This is a separate program from the Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation (PEUC) program that was enacted under the CARES Act.

The EB program is a federal program that is triggered when a state's insured unemployment rate exceeds 5.9%. Alabama's weekly insured unemployment rate* of 6.11% triggered the state onto a 13-week EB period beginning the week of May 31.

It is usually available during times of adverse economic conditions. The last time Alabama offered the EB program was during the Great Recession of 2008.

While EB is available for UP TO 13 weeks, not all claimants will be eligible to receive all weeks.

Alabamians can begin claiming these benefits July 5, 2020.

Claimants must first exhaust all regular UC and PEUC benefits before they will be eligible for EB benefits. Claimants must not be eligible for unemployment compensation benefits in another state or Canada, must have no disqualifications, have qualifying wages, and must have at least one week in the benefit year that begins in an EB eligibility period. Specific eligibility criteria can be found at: https://wdr.doleta.gov/directives/attach/UIPL/UIPL_24-20.pdf.

Individuals are only entitled to benefits if they are no longer working through no fault of their own and they MUST be able and available for work.

The EB program has more stringent work search requirements and requires claimants to engage in a "systematic and sustained" effort to obtain work during each week and to provide evidence of efforts.

Due to the pandemic, the submission of required work search contacts has been TEMPORARILY waived due to Covid-19 restrictions.

However, claimants should continue to look for work where possible, and maintain a record of their efforts on a weekly basis.

This waiver may end at any time.

Once this waiver ends, claimants will be required to provide a minimum of three (3) work search contacts each week during the weekly certification process.

ADOL will notify those eligible for EB benefits via the UI Claims Tracker and by mail.

Claimants will not have to apply for these benefits, but should continue to file weekly certifications.

CHOCTAW, Miss. – On Sunday afternoon, 2009 Cullman High School graduate and student athlete Blaise Wilson tied for first place in the Emerald Coast Golf Tour stop at Dancing Rabbit Golf Club/ Pearl River Resort in Choctaw, Mississippi. Over three days, Wilson shot rounds of 65, 68 and 67, matching the overall 200 shot by Valley, Alabama's Jacob Harper. The two pros walked away from the event with $3,600 each in winnings.

Wilson told The Tribune, "It is another winning step towards my final goal. The total score of 200 shattered the scoring record at that tournament. So my game is heading in the correct direction as my season continues."

Proud mother Ashley Wilson said, "I am extremely proud of Blaise. I have seen the hard work and dedication he has poured into making his dreams come true."

Woodson is among 50 athletes from across the country named All-Stars. They'll all enter their sophomore campaigns during the 2020-2021 season.

Woodson, a Corner High graduate, averaged 12.5 points per game as a freshman for Wallace State. She led the Alabama Community College Conference (ACCC) in 3-point percentage, shooting 40.8 percent and was second in the league with 133 assists.

Those accomplishments led to her also being named an ACCC North Division 2nd-team selection.

Wallace State women's basketball has had NJCAA All-Star selections in two consecutive summers. Imari Martin was chosen last year, and she went on to become the first NJCAA 1st-team All-American in Lady Lions' program history.

The 13th annual NJCAA Women's Basketball Coaches Association All-Star event that usually takes place in July had previously been canceled because of the ongoing presence of COVID-19. Woodson and her fellow All-Stars were selected nonetheless.

Woodson helped the Lady Lions finish the 2019-2020 season with a 24-6 record, earning an at-large NJCAA Division I National Championship berth – the sixth in program history.

NFL cancels Hall of Fame induction, game due to coronavirus

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

CANTON, Ohio – This year's Pro Football Hall of Fame induction ceremony and accompanying game between the Dallas Cowboys and Pittsburgh Steelers is the latest coronavirus victim in the sports world. The NFL made the call to postpone this year's game and inductions, scheduled for Aug. 6 and 8 respectively, to 2021.

This year's Hall of Fame class will be honored and inducted Aug. 7, 2021 and the game has been slated for Aug. 5, 2021 between the Cowboys and Steelers.

This year's Hall of Fame class includes former NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue, NFL Films co-founder Steve Sabol, former New York Giants executive George Young, former coaches Jimmy Johnson and Bill Cowher, and former players Troy Polamalu, Steve Hutchinson, Edgerrin James, Isaac Bruce and Steve Atwater.

Pro Football Hall of Fame CEO David Baker explained the motives behind Wednesday's decision, saying the priority is the health and safety of everyone involved.

"This is the right decision for several reasons, first and foremost the health and welfare of our Gold Jackets, incoming centennial class of 2020 members, hall personnel and event volunteers," Baker said.

"We also must consider the most appropriate way to fulfill the first tenet of our mission: To honor the heroes of the game. This decision meets that duty."

Baker went on to talk about the plans already in place for next year's event and is optimistic that it will be worth the wait for the fans.

"We're disappointed to postpone the events for this year, but you might want to get your hotel room and your tickets right now for 2021", Baker said.

"The 2021, interestingly enough, is gonna have a guy named Peyton Manning in it, and I suspect it'll take about 10 seconds to get him selected. But it may also have Charles Woodson, or Calvin Johnson in that class.

"They'll be first-time eligible as well".

One of Baker's biggest concerns is ensuring that each and every inductee gets his due and he's happy to report that the Hall has already started working on plans for next year.

Baker also said this year's inductees were relieved to wait until next year.

"When you combine that with the Centennial class that has 20 Hall of Famers, that could be anywhere between 24 to 28 enshrinees that will all be enshrined in that one weekend", Baker said.

"We will have separate ceremonies for each of those guys, but they'll all be in the same parade, they'll all be in the Ray Nitschke luncheon. They will all have the gold jacket ceremony.

"They will be a part of the enshrinees roundtable. But in terms of the ceremonies, they'll all be separate.

"I know in talking to all of our enshrinees today, frankly, they were all relieved, they were thankful, but now they've got a little more time to plan for their speech and to make sure that that bronze bust is just right, because it's gonna last for 40,000 years".

Fans may keep their tickets for the 2020 Hall of Fame Game to ensure their seats for the matchup in 2021 at the same price, or they can apply for a refund.

Fans who keep their tickets for the Enshrinement of the Centennial Class of 2020 will hold those seats, and they also will be included in the presale opportunity for tickets for the Enshrinement honoring the Class of 2021.

Each class will have their own separate enshrinement ceremony.

Fans who want a refund on their ticket purchases have until Friday July 31 to submit their requests.

The refund policy, an online form for submissions and answers to other questions will be posted Monday, June 29 at www.profootballhof.com/2020ticketoptions/.

sue, The Tribune reached out to Burks Brothers Pools & Spas to see how the pandemic has affected them and their customers.

Chad Burks of Burks Brothers said that this time of year is always overwhelming for his business, but the unprecedented COVID-19 circumstances have had a large impact on the retail aspect of his business.

"You've got a lot of people who maybe already have their own pools but haven't opened them in a year or two, and they're starting to open them up and clean them out for their families, their friends, their kids," said Burks.

Because of this, the demand for pool maintenance has heavily increased, he said, sharing, "We have some people waiting until the beginning of next year for pool installations, but we usually stay so busy during the building season that this happens often."

Burks said orders for in-ground pools have not increased too much beyond the usual, stating that his business usually works on digging four or five pools a month around this time.

However, he said, he receives between 15-20 calls a day for above-ground pools.

This has put a lot of pressure on the business because they have no pools to sell, and they will be unable to get any from their distributor for several months because the distributor is also out.

"We're getting all these calls every day asking for an above-ground pool, and we don't have any to sell them," shared Burks.

"We can't even get any because the folks we get them from don't have any."

Overall, Burks said the pandemic has not drastically affected Burks Brothers.

"We open around the end of March, beginning of April - though we opened a little earlier this year because it got warm quicker - and we close in November because past it gets too wet and muddy to do any construction," he said.

So, we have a period of about three and a half months where we have no income, so the time we are open we're just going non-stop."

Burks said because his business was declared essential at the start of the shutdown, it hasn't lost out on too much income.

"You know, in subdivisions and neighborhoods where they've got a lot of pools - you see a lot more of these in places like Montgomery, but there are still some subdivisions here in Cullman - these places have to keep their pools sanitized to keep them from becoming mosquito beds.

"So pool supply stores like us have had to stay open to keep sanitizing these pools to avoid having mosquito bites and diseases on top of everything else," he said.

"Add in the fact that we do water testing here, too- not just commercial and private pools, but we can test tap water and we've even tested the City water once - and we've not had any issues with business being down."

Note: The Tribune also reached out to Blue Dolphin and Burks & Son, but did not receive any comments.

Cheryl Harrison announces candidacy for Cullman City School Board, place 3

Cheryl Harrison

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cheryl Harrison on Monday announced her candidacy for Cullman City School Board, place 3. Place 3 is currently held by Lee Powell. The Municipal Election will take place Tuesday, Aug. 25, 2020.

Below is Harrison's full, unedited announcement

Cheryl Gable Harrison has announced her bid for Cullman City School Board, Place 3 in the August election.

Harrison is a lifelong Cullman resident, and a proud product of the Cullman City Schools. After graduation from Cullman High School, she studied at Wallace State Community College Hanceville and earned a degree in Interior Design from the University of Montevallo.

"I have worked in the field of Interior Design for almost 20 years - both commercial and residential. It is a profession that takes vision, diligent planning, creativity, and flexibility," Harrison said. "I believe that the same business philosophy of looking at what is both sensible and economically feasible needs to be applied to the school system."

Harrison feels that the City Schools are at a very important cross-roads. She understands that at no other time has leadership and communication been so important. Her primary focus is first and foremost, to be an advocate for education - making sure that the voices of administrators, teachers, students, and staff are accounted for in all decisions.

She acknowledges the fact that there are some much needed facility improvements within the system ranging from structural to traffic flow.

"It is no secret that the most pressing issues within the school system center on aging structural concerns and traffic congestion," Harrison said. A pathway forward should continue the high standard of academic excellence for which the Cullman City Schools are known. Cullman is on the verge of the biggest housing boom in at least the last 40 years. "We must prepare for this from an instructional and capacity standpoint. My goal is to ensure that throughout this process, we keep our priorities straight in addressing individual needs as they develop."

Harrison's focus when elected will be to strengthen the bridge between the City and the School System. Her stance is that no great progress can be achieved without constructive collaboration and frequent communication between all leaders in the community.

The COVID-19 pandemic and how it dramatically altered the public education system structure has only heightened the need for communication.

"Open dialogue between city officials and the school system is imperative." Her view is to develop a vision and turn that vision into a workable plan acceptable by all the stake holders.

"My family loves this town. We have been fortunate to call it home for most of our lives. My husband and I left Chattanooga after living there for five years to move back to Cullman because we wanted our daughter taught in the Cullman City Schools. Why have I chosen to run for school board? I am running because of the passion I have for Cullman and the people of Cullman. I am extremely proud of the Cullman City School System and would like to play a role in making it an even better platform to serve our students and this community."

Cheryl is married to Ben Harrison. They have two children, Sophie, a 2020 graduate of Cullman High School, and Cole, an upcoming 8th grade student at Cullman Middle School.

"The bar has been set high by those that came before us and past leaders should be proud of the lofty achievements and rankings of Cullman City Schools. However, we must always be willing to raise that bar so that we do not become complacent. I feel that complacency is education's greatest enemy. I humbly ask for your vote for Cheryl Harrison for Cullman City School Board, Place 3," Harrison said.

Days (from Front)

christy@cullmantribune.com

112 days. That's how long our seniors, the members of the Greatest Generation, have been locked down inside assisted living and nursing homes. 112 days. That's how long the senior centers have been forced to remain closed. 112 days. That's how long the rest of the world has continually failed to take simple steps to slow the spread of the COVID-19 virus. How many more days will the seniors of our community be overlooked and left to endure the greatest inconveniences of this pandemic?

Mother's Day and Father's Day have both come and gone during this pandemic. People smiled and waved from their cars as they passed by their loved ones, and in many cases, simply hoped their mother or father saw them.

As sweet as the parades have been during this time, the time lost cannot be regained. Communicating via poster boards does not equate to sharing a story, a hug or a laugh.

The lessons a person can learn from sitting down with our seniors and listening to their experiences and advice is invaluable. Each day they are locked in quarantine is another day those stories go untold and another day they wish they could tell them. All residents in our assisted living and nursing homes are treasures we are ignorantly turning our backs on while arguing over the legitimacy of wearing a mask in public.

In the two years I have faithfully visited the guys and gals at Westminster Assisted Living, Hanceville Nursing Home, Folsom Center and the many amazing senior centers throughout Cullman County, I have absorbed their advice on love, parenting, faith, hard work, sacrifice and perseverance.

They have a beautiful and loving way of conveying life lessons that one can't help but implement in his or her own life. They've taught me patience and, most of all, what is important in life-spending time with family and loved ones. The aspect of life they cherish the most is the one they are being forced to live without right now.

Our senior centers are a tremendous resource, and this pandemic has shown a spotlight on their importance. The senior centers are where so many of Cullman's seniors go each day for fellowship, meals, exercise and fun. For 112 days, seniors have been home and separated from their friends.

At least once a week, we hear of the passing of another senior who was active in the senior centers. The saddest part of losing these amazing men and women is knowing their last days were spent away from the one thing they loved the most.

They loved getting up each day and playing games with their friends. They enjoyed singing together and laughing. The senior centers were their livelihoods, and for 112 days, they have been cut off from that.

Finding a person who enjoys wearing a mask is likely rare, but this isn't about our enjoyment.

If wearing a mask, following social distancing guidelines and staying at home when possible is what needs to be done in order for our seniors to regain their freedoms, so be it!

It's the least we can do for the generation that sacrificed so much for us. Being asked to wear a mask is giving up nothing, comparatively. Until they have the ability to get back to their normal lives, it's selfish to go back to ours.

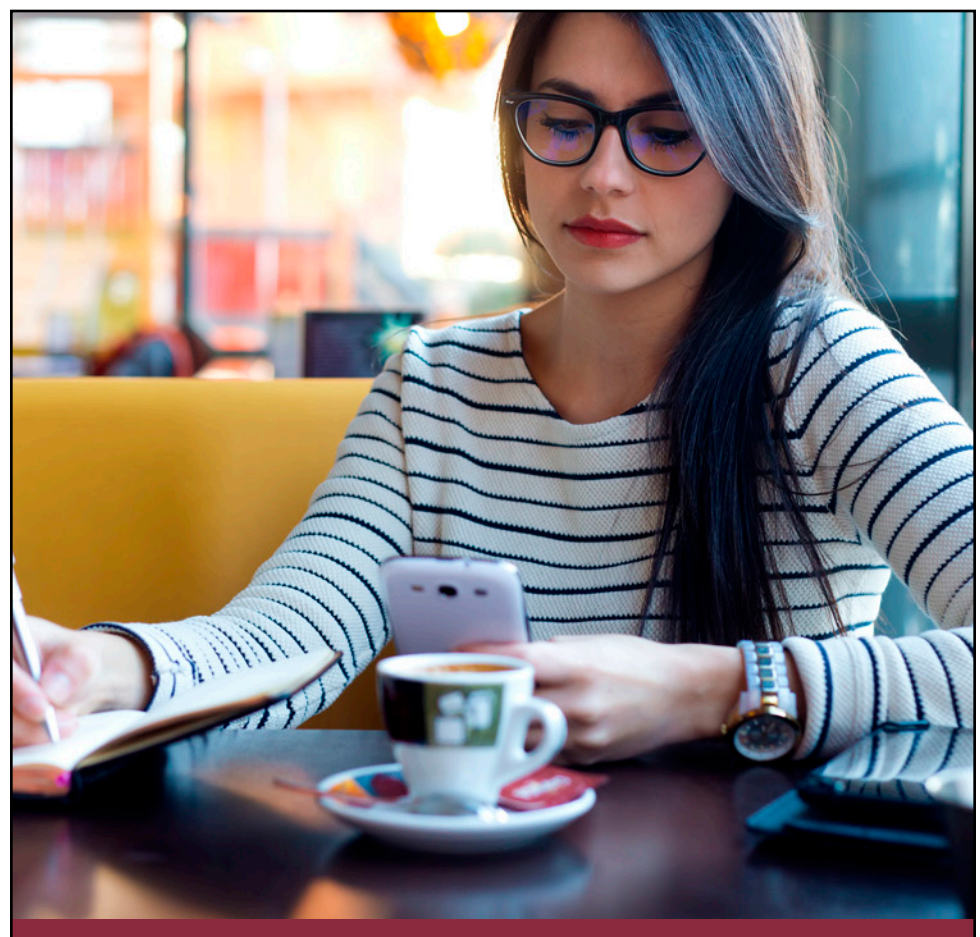

This weekend, the country will celebrate Independence Day while several of our remaining veterans of World War II will be experiencing day 117 of mandatory quarantine. The men and women who did whatever they had to do to keep our country moving forward for future generations, like us, are once again carrying the greatest burden.

So, when you are headed to Wal-Mart for grilling supplies or stopping by the fireworks stand, put forth whatever effort is asked to make sure they are not forgotten. Wear the mask. Do it for them. Do it so they can see their families. Do it so they can gather with their friends again. Do it because you appreciate all they did for you.

Barry Brewer: Chicago, I'm Home

Comic Barry Brewer wrote, directed and co-produced this new hour of stand-up comedy, recorded in front of two sold-out crowds at the Studebaker Theater in his hometown of Chicago. Brewer's set is, in some respects, a culmination of his 15 years as a comic, drawn on real-life experiences and delivered in a winning, self-effacing style. For those watching with younger family members, it's also worth noting that Brewer "works clean," avoiding rough language and explicit material.

Mallory's body was found in 1999, but Irvine's remains have not been recovered. The production team faces major hazards of their own during this mission.

Danielle and Adam manage to sustain a sense of stability and normalcy in their home by keeping the girls entertained with activities like gardening, constructing extravagant tent forts and taking turns dressing one another. The parents face another challenge, though, as the quints' turn 5 under quarantine, making a conventional birthday party impossible.

In the Season 1 finale, "The Hot Case," a St. George, Utah, detective invites investigative genetic genealogist CeCe Moore to help investigate her first case involving a crime that happened just three weeks ago: the rape of a 79-year-old woman. Moore doesn't waste any time getting started, since she knows the assailant could strike again at any moment. While working this case, she also has the satisfaction of seeing a conviction in a murder case she handled in the season finale.

Movie: Welcome to Chechnya

David France's 2020 documentary focuses on the shocking anti-gay purges in Russia during the late 2010s decade, with France interviewing several LGBT refugees about their harrowing experiences. Given the need to protect the interviewees and shield their identities, the filmmaker took the unorthodox approach of using advanced facial replacement techniques from visual effects technology so audience members could see different yet recognizably human faces displaying visceral emotions, without revealing their real-life likenesses.

CeCe Moore stars in "The Genetic Detective" on ABC.

OPINION

Evangelism, part 9

Tom Fillinger
Tribune Columnist

The church is distinctly and unchangeably a theological organism. Many/most churches operate as though the church should be governed by methodological rather than theological precepts and principles. Not so. There is much lip service given to the authority of scripture but often little application of sound exegesis and the fruit of same to ministry. People defend the authority and inspiration of scripture yet ignore the sufficiency which is the application of truth.

The Gospel has been modified and compromised over time. What is now passed off as evangelism is not an accurate declaration of the whole counsel of God. There are scores of so-called preachers proclaiming what is known as the "Prosperity Gospel." In truth this is no gospel at all. It is corrupt and fails to confront sinners with the TRUTH. They proclaim a deficient message. Steve Lawson declares there are two kinds of preachers. Those who preach the whole counsel of God and those who should resign!

Not the least of these deficiencies is the profile presented in the doctrine of Anthropology, the Doctrine of Man. Man is presented as being "sick" and in need of healing. Indeed. This is a subtle but deadly error.

The text of scripture states without ambiguity or apology that natural man is DEAD. Dead men do not need help, they need life. God did not send his Son to make bad people good. He sent his Son to make dead people alive.

The Apostle Paul, perhaps the greatest theological that ever lived, states this in clear declarative terms.

Ephesians 2:1-2 "And you were dead in the trespasses and sins in which you once walked, following the course of this world, following the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that is now at work in the sons of disobedience."

When Adam and Eve sinned, they plunged mankind into a state of spiritual death. The only resolution of this deadness is the regeneration of the Holy Spirit. This is stated clearly in Titus 3.

Titus 3:4-6 "But when the goodness and loving kindness of God our Savior appeared, he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, whom he poured out on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior."

Until the Holy Spirit regenerates a person they are absolutely and totally incapable of responding in faith to the gospel message.

This is what grace is. Grace enables a person to do what they are commanded to do but are unable. Grace enables. This is the message of evangelism.

Next week we examine the effects of this spiritual deadness.

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala. – Citizens Bank & Trust is pleased to announce the addition of Laura Kay Kappler-Roberts to its Board of Directors.

Kappler-Roberts is president and CEO of Kappler, Inc., a global leader in chemical and biohazard protective fabrics and apparel based in Guntersville.

Kappler-Roberts joined Kappler in 1997 following college graduation, but her history with the company started much earlier. She grew up in the business founded by her father, George Kappler, and always planned to return to the family operation and pursue a career in manufacturing.

Kappler-Roberts took the reins as president and CEO of Kappler in 2015. Over a 20-year career with the company, she has worked in virtually every area of the operation, starting as a cost engineer followed by several years in each major department.

In addition to serving in professional organizations, Kappler-Roberts is currently a member of the Guntersville City School Board. She is also active in civic and community efforts ranging from student workforce development initiatives and membership in the Lake Guntersville Rotary Club.

A magna cum laude graduate of the University of South Alabama, Kappler-Roberts earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Operations & Systems Management. She and her husband, Patrick Roberts, have two sons, Jacob and Joseph.

Citizens Bank & Trust President and CEO Charlie Williams said, "As our bank continues to grow and evolve, we continue to focus on how successfully we address the banking and financial needs of the communities we serve. Because of this, we are truly pleased to have Laura join our Board and support our bank team.

"Her experience, engagement and her leadership in both her community and at Kappler were all part of a skill set we recognized that could add to what we already felt was a high-quality Board of Directors. We are confident that her views and perspectives, along with her manufacturing and leadership talents, will not only be additive to the bank going forward, but will also assist us with shaping the efforts of the bank through time.

"I think it is safe to say that we are both living, and banking, in challenging times ... economically, socially, politically and even from a life and health standpoint. Laura understands and fits all of the core values we aspire to exhibit within the bank, and will bring new insights and energy not only to the Board, but to our bank as a whole. We could not be happier and more honored to have her join the Citizens Bank & Trust Board of Directors and our bank team."

CULLMAN, Ala. – Sunday was an emotional day at Cullman Wellness & Aquatic Center as friends, family and colleagues gathered in the main gymnasium to celebrate the life of longtime Cullman Parks, Recreation & Sports Tourism Director John Hunt. Hunt passed away in March from injuries sustained in at accident at his home. Hunt served as parks & rec director in Cullman for 22 years before retiring from the department in 2014. He also spent time as the golf director at Terri Pines Country Club before accepting a job with Sand Mountain Park in Albertville.

After a song to begin the service, Desperation Church Lead Pastor Andy Heis was the first speaker to make his way to the podium and share some thoughts and memories about Hunt. Heis touched on some of his experiences with Hunt and what made him such a positive influence on the people around him.

"John is one of the most loving guys I've ever met. He was always laughing, always upbeat, loved peace. About the only time I ever saw him without peace was when he played golf, but every other time, absolutely," Heis joked. "And the main legacy he has left in everyone's life in some way, form or fashion is his kindness. That is one thing that sticks out about John as much as anything else. You never really caught him without a smile. He was always kind and loving everywhere he went."

Hunt's wife, Elizabeth, shared several thoughts and memories with the crowd, closing her time at the podium with a statement for her late husband.

"I will be forever thankful for saying yes to John when he asked me out on our first date, and we went to an Auburn football game. We love each other deeply, not only as husband and wife, but we were best friends," she smiled. "I would not change anything in our lives that has happened. I'm sorry that you went too soon. So, what I would like to say to John, is that you will always be in my heart, I love you and I will see you soon."

Cullman Mayor Woody Jacobs took some time to talk about Hunt's professional legacy in Cullman, elaborating on just some of the major projects he helped lead to make Cullman the community it is today.

"Heritage Park was the beginning of turning Cullman Parks and Recreation from a rec league, into a sports tourism department known throughout the southeastern United States. It wasn't an easy project because no one understood it and pretty much no one believed what it would become," Jacobs said. "But, after the success of Heritage Park, other projects followed. It's easier to get people to believe in you after you've had a success. So, John came up with Chester (Freeman) and we built Field of Miracles. The facility that you're in today took a few years, but with John and Chester's persuasion, it became a reality and with his leadership, Cullman became an important parks and recreation department, for all citizens. He strived to build something that everyone can enjoy, from a child of all abilities to senior adults. All of the departments he tried to make top notch. This is his professional legacy, and Cullman is a much better place."

Hunt's brother, Scott Hunt, made his way to the podium as well and shared a lot of laughs with the crowd, recalling several of his favorite memories of his big brother.

"My earliest memory was always just trying to be like John. He didn't know it and I really didn't know it at that time either. I was always trying to keep up with him. He rode a bicycle so what did I have to do? I had to go ride the same bicycle," Scott Hunt said. "Playing ball, I can remember the first team that he every played on in Gurley and I cried because I couldn't be on the team. Mom and Dad, along with (John), talked to them and they let me be on the team because I was the little brother. That's what little brothers do, and big brothers take care of little brothers."

Hunt's son, Ryan, was the final speaker at Sunday afternoon's service and he was joined at the podium by his wife, Hannah. After sharing an emotional speech with those in attendance, Ryan Hunt encouraged everyone to live their lives having fun with a smile on their faces just like his dad always did.

"Dad believed in hard work, but he also believed in having fun. As you all know, you never saw him without smiling. He always had something nice to say and I can tell from all of your stories that he always put a smile on your faces. Dad was always a people person, he could make a friend out of just about anyone, especially if they were an Auburn fan," Hunt said. "I've never met someone that didn't have a nice thing to say about him. He made sure every child that wanted to play a sport was given the opportunity and made sure everyone was well fed on Thanksgiving when he helped with meals at the church. He gave me many wonderful memories that I will cherish forever. Memories like going to Auburn football games in the fall, white water rafting on the Ocoee in the summer and watching James Bond movies together in the basement. Dad was always there to make sure I was having a good time and was just happy to be there with me."
