CULLMAN, Ala. – Desperation Church and Daystar Church, both multi-campus congregations with bases in Cullman County, on Saturday held a day of service, supporting worthy causes in local communities.

Desperation Church visits Colony Community Center

Around 20 volunteers from across Desperation Church's campuses went to Colony to clean the building, playground, parking lot and yard, make a few minor repairs, and assess needs for further repairs on a future visit.

Desperation Church Executive Pastor Cody Miller told The Tribune, "Desperation Church is a part of ARC, which is the Association of Related Churches. July 11 is a global serve day for ARC, so there are literally hundreds of churches all around the globe that have gone out to serve their cities in practical ways.

"So for us, we just wanted to find community partners that we could » PAGE 2

$600 FPUC benefit set to expire July 25

Tara Hutchison
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – ADOL is reminding all unemployment compensation claimants that Federal Pandemic Unemployment Compensation (FPUC), the additional $600 federal benefit granted by the CARES Act, will expire on benefit week ending July 25, 2020.

Across all states, the $600 FPUC payments are set to expire the benefit week ending July 25, 2020. At this time, the federal government has not changed or extended the FPUC program. States do not have the ability to extend FPUC. If a claimant is eligible for retroactive benefits on their claim, they will receive the additional $600 FPUC payment for eligible weeks between March 29, 2020 and July 25, 2020 even if the claim is processed after July 25, 2020.

ADOL offers no-cost services to help in finding a new job. Jobseekers can visit their local Career Center or search jobs online at www.alabamaworks.alabama.gov.

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Animal Shelter's Donna Ruttkay shares The Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week:

Ollie is a 9-month-old Heeler mix. He's a lively-but-not-hyper, medium-energy pet whom Ruttkay refers to as an "unassuming fellow."

He's developing good spatial awareness, and is already quite skilled on his leash.

Eager to please his people, he will stay close by when out and about.

Ollie has the makings of a good therapy, companion or hiking dog.

Ollie's adoption fee is $100 which includes: DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neutering, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior.

Several of the shelter's canine friends have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com.

Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

Service (from Front)

go out and serve our cities in those very practical ways, just to be the hands and feet of Jesus, to just say, 'Hey, we love you, and today loving you looks like shrubbery, and it looks like cleaning the floors, and it looks like freshening up the playground.

"We're thankful to Mayor (Donnis) Leeth, who met (Desperation Senior) Pastor Andy (Heis) playing basketball here in their community center, and just saw an opportunity to come out and freshen things up and be a blessing to Colony, because some of our guys come and play basketball, and built that relationship with the mayor and kind of opened up that door to come and be a part of what he was doing in his city. We're super excited and appreciative to Mayor Leeth for that."

Desperation volunteers were joined by Colony residents who wanted to take a hand in the refurbishing of their community center. Kim Carwell organized a group of area youth to help with the cleaning and yard work.

"What we really want to do is show the community that we're here to support and continue to have this area right here for kids to have a safe haven. What I mean by that is it's important that they understand we care about them, and to have them do some positive things and have a positive place to come to," said Carwell. "This community center, to me, should be open 24/7 for these kids. They love sports, they love to come out here and play, and it's been kind of messed up for a little while. We are really thankful for Desperation Church coming out here and helping us get things back on track."

Said Leeth, "Today we're out here trying to get the center cleaned up pretty good and opened up for the kids. I think it's a great thing to get it cleaned up, let the kids come out again during the summer while school's out. It's just a good thing for the whole community and around the community. They come from everywhere to play basketball down there: Jasper, Blount County, Cullman, Hanceville. They come from everywhere: Cold Springs; all of them come, you know. It's a good thing to see people together and playing sports and having a good time. I just love it and love it and love it!"

Daystar Church visits Good Hope Middle School

Around 20 volunteers from Daystar Church met at Good Hope Middle School to paint hallways and convert a storage room into a new teachers' lounge. Saturday's activities were the start of a project planned to be completed before the start of school in August.

Daystar Global Outreach Director Chris Hopper told The Tribune, "We are helping them finish paint out their hallways, and we're also redoing a teachers' lounge for the teachers. Right now, they have a little bitty one, and they're taking an existing room that's kind of been used to store stuff, and they're turning it into a teachers' lounge for the teachers. You know, they're here; they're the ones teaching the next generation and raising them up, and they need a place to kind of come and relax, and regroup during the day.

"We started this project back right before coronavirus hit, and then now we weren't actually able to come through with it, but we're starting phase one today, and that's painting the walls and painting the cabinets, just being a blessing to the teachers. They're a blessing to this community, and we want to bless them."

"The last semester of the school year last year was crazy, because the teachers were moved to doing virtual school and Zoom and all over the place," said volunteer Carol Ann Hopper. "We really wanted to revamp the teachers' lounge here at Good Hope Middle to give them a place to rest and relax, and catch their breath, and just honor the teachers for everything that they do."

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Desperation Church Executive Pastor Cody Miller clears brush from a fence at the Colony Community Center.

Once painting in the new lounge is completed, the Daystar team plans to return to install new flooring and furniture.

Cullman's Norton commits to Jacksonville State

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Another Cullman Baseball standout has made his college decision. Standout senior third baseman Brennen Norton will be taking his talents east to play for the Jacksonville State Gamecocks and Head Coach Jim Case. Norton announced his commitment to the Gamecocks on Twitter Friday afternoon.

Norton has been an impact player for the Bearcats since his freshman season and his role has only continued to grow since then. Brennen has become one of Cullman's biggest weapons at the plate and on the mound over the last couple seasons, collecting huge outs in pressure situations and coming up with big hits in big moments. Perhaps the biggest play of his Bearcat career so far came against Chelsea in game one of last year's state championship series when he ripped a 2-out double in the bottom of the seventh of a scoreless game. It was Cullman's only hit of the game and just a few pitches later, Norton came around to score the winning run on an error and give the 'Cats an early lead in the series. Cullman went on to win game two 9-4 and capture that year's 6A State Championship.

Brennen was well on his way to a stellar junior campaign before the coronavirus pandemic brought an early end to spring sports in March. He'll have one more year to play with the black and gold this spring before beginning his college career in Jacksonville in 2021.

Auburn Athletics 'going the extra mile' to protect student-athletes, prevent coronavirus spread

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. – From high-tech testing and tracing to hourly locker room cleanings, Auburn Athletics is taking extraordinary measures to protect student-athletes from the coronavirus.

"In the middle of a pandemic, we're doing everything conceivable to keep our student-athletes safe," said Dr. Michael Goodlett, Auburn's team physician since 1993 and a member of the SEC's Return to Activity and Medical Guidance Task Force. "We're doing everything imaginable to make it a safe environment for them to work out and prepare to play."

Before student-athletes returned to campus this summer for voluntary workouts, they completed a questionnaire regarding COVID-19 symptoms, exposure and travel history. Upon arrival, student-athletes answered the same questions, needing to answer no to each before being admitted to athletics facilities for testing.

"We elected to test everyone when they arrived," said Goodlett, who administered a PCR test, which requires nasal and pharyngeal swabs. "It's the gold standard to determine if you have it or not. It's not pleasant, but it's the best one, very sensitive and very specific."

"Doc and his team, along with our administration, they spent months preparing for our guys to come back," Auburn football coach Gus Malzahn said. "They're going the extra mile to try to keep our players safe and healthy."

Auburn also tested for IgM and IgG antibodies to see if student-athletes and the staff who interact directly with them had been previously infected with COVID-19.

"We had hoped that a lot of people would have antibodies, and that that would provide immunity from COVID," Goodlett said.

"What we've found out is not many of us had antibodies, and the presence of antibodies did not guarantee immunity, because we've had people with antibodies who initially had negative tests subsequently test positive. But that's still good information."

Auburn Athletics' physicians performed heart tests – a blood test to determine troponin levels, an EKG and a stress echocardiogram - on anyone who had antibodies or tested positive for COVID-19, which ruled out cardiovascular damage in all cases.

Auburn's commitment to contact tracing – monitoring anyone in close contact with someone who's infected - has minimized COVID-19's spread, Goodlett said.

Auburn Athletics chief operating officer Marcy Girton and technology director Kevin Duvall devised a system that uses a QR code to generate a mobile symptom questionnaire, record temperature readings, and which athletics facilities the respondent will visit that day.

"That way, if someone tests positive, we can immediately pull up the spreadsheet and see everybody that's in that building that day," Goodlett said. "That's been very useful because we knew we were going to have some positives. We haven't had an overabundance of positives. When we have had one, in every case it's been limited to where maybe a roommate is also positive. But we've had no widespread clusters where one positive caused five cases or more."

In consultation with State Health Officer Dr. Scott Harris, Auburn limited its summer workout groups to 10, eight student-athletes plus a strength coach and athletic trainer.

"Our facilities are big enough that we can work out four groups at the same time but they're way socially distanced," Goodlett said.

"You worked out with your group of eight but had no real interaction with other groups. One group was gone before the next group arrived, and everything was cleaned."

Auburn Athletics partners with Synergy Laboratories in Mobile, which also supplies COVID-19 tests to East Alabama Medical Center and Auburn University Medical Clinic.

"They have some of the finest testing in the world," Goodlett said. "We're fortunate that we've got as much as we need to help keep our student-athletes safe. It's amazing how many people have been our partners in doing this.

"We have been testing on a very frequent basis. If you have a positive, we immediately quarantine your roommate for at least five days and start the testing algorithm on the roommate. We quarantine and test your workout group initially and hold them until we get the test results.

"By using small groups and contract tracing we have done, I believe, a really good job of limiting the spread when we have had a positive. The great news is, the few positives that we've had have all been virtually asymptomatic throughout the whole two-week isolation." Dr. Michael Goodlett."

In most cases, news of a positive COVID-19 test has surprised student-athletes, Goodlett said.

"The large majority have been asymptomatic," he said. "I tell them they're positive and they look at me like, 'Are you sure? Because I feel fine.'

"The great news is, the few positives that we've had have all been virtually asymptomatic throughout the whole two-week isolation.

"We've had a couple who looked like they had a bad cold for two or three days, and we've had quite commonly smell and taste be a little altered. But that's been transient, none of that has been permanent."

Student-athletes who test positive isolate for 14 days. Each day at noon, Goodlett and head football athletic trainer Robbie Stewart deliver their lunch, check their temperature and conduct a brief physical.

"Probably the most important thing we do every day is call and talk to the parents to make sure they know that things are going well," Goodlett said.

Auburn's equipment staff contributes to the effort by aggressively cleaning and disinfecting, associate athletic director Dana Marquez said.

After laundering, Auburn's gear goes into an Ozone chamber, which releases a high-oxygenated gas.

"At that point, we should have killed 99.9 percent of any superbug left on that fabric," Marquez said.

Auburn Athletics' facilities and operations staff provided an electrostatic sprayer that uses a disinfectant approved by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to clean locker rooms, athletic training rooms, offices, hallways, elevators and student-athlete residence halls.

"A lot of time and effort goes into it," Marquez said. "Working in conjunction with the strength staff and the athletic training staff and Doc Goodlett's sports medicine group, it's been a really good team effort. The procedures have been in place, we've just ramped up the process."

Auburn's strength and conditioning team works with the equipment staff to clean the weight room during and after each session.

"Ryan Russell and his group have done a phenomenal job of wiping everything down while the lift is going on," Marquez said. "Then we go in right after the lift and spray down the entire room."

In compliance with a new Occupational Safety and Health Administration policy, Auburn keeps a sanitation log to record each electrostatic spray. For the locker room, that's an hourly process.

"Just staying on top of that and continue to hopefully keep everybody healthy including our staff," Marquez said.

"I've been very proud of our players," Malzahn said. "The way they responded, being responsible and doing what was asked of them by Doc Goodlett and our medical team."

Car and motorcycle show benefits Karma in Cullman

GOOD HOPE, Ala. – Karma in Cullman got a boost Saturday as car and motorcycle enthusiasts came together at Adapris Pizza in Good Hope for a benefit car and motorcycle show.

Karma Director Rachel Fillmore told The Tribune, "Today, we're here with Explicit Perceptionz Car Club and Knights of the Brotherhood (motorcycle club, often called KOTB). These guys are here today to help do a car show, bike show to help Karma raise some money and, right now, the money is going to go towards our back-to-school project, where we're going to try to help kids go back to school with five outfits of clothing, shoes, backpacks and supplies.

"This year is going to be much more important than it has in years past, because this year, we're going to have families that's never needed help before, that's going to be needing help. So these guys-this is the second year we've done it with Explicit Perceptionz, and we cannot thank these guys enough for helping us."

Trey Davis of Explicit Perceptionz said, "We just try to help out any way that we can with the community. Karma's been there to help a lot. We decided when we first started that we wanted to try to do something to make a difference.

"We did it last year; this year, we decided we're going to try to make it an annual thing and do it every year, and we brought KOTB on board as well, to help out, help get them involved with us, and try to make it something even bigger and just reach out to the community and get much more diversity out of everything this time."

Gesturing to Davis, KOTB's "Papa Bear," Nicklous Brown, told The Tribune, "This is an opportunity my brother give me to bring my club up here and do this. It's our first year; it's a learning curve for us, but we want to put it out there. We want to be more involved with the community that we live in, to be a part of it. That's why we're here today."

Fillmore added a special note of thanks to Adapris Pizza "for allowing us to take over their parking lot and feeding us really good food today!"

Karma in Cullman will begin signing children up for its back-to-school program in the next two weeks, starting around July 21. The group usually serves approximately 150 kids, but Fillmore expects to see more this year.

Movie: My Journey Through French Cinema

On this Bastille Day, French director Bertrand Tavernier ("Coup de Torchon") proves an amiable aesthetic travel guide as he looks back at his country's cinematic history, with a largely subjective focus on some 1930s-50s classics. At more than three hours in duration, this documentary is a little exhausting, if not truly exhaustive, but the sheer emotional impact some of these films clearly have had on Tavernier is deeply touching. The film also offers portraits of such masters as Jean Renoir, Jean-Luc Godard, Francois Truffaut and Claude Chabrol, among others.

Frontline

The 2003 invasion of Iraq and the war that followed hasn't lacked for coverage by Western filmmakers, but award-winning director James Bluemel's new documentary "Once Upon a Time in Iraq" promises a different perspective. The film is constructed of eyewitness accounts from Iraqis from all different backgrounds, who share their stories of what it meant to survive those violent years from the fall of Saddam Hussein to the end of the Islamic State Group.

Alice Wetterlund: My Mama Is a Human and So Am I

Performing before a live audience in Denver, comic and actress Alice Wetterlund ("People of Earth") delivers a set that's a comedic tour de force, spanning topics ranging from alcoholism and her chronic problems with peeping Toms to the complexities of rearing cats and the secret alien conspiracy behind new country music.

8 p.m. on BRAVO
Million Dollar Listing Los Angeles

The new episode "Storm the Castle" finds Tracy trying to balance her new portfolio with her incredibly demanding developer, who has sky-high expectations and a decidedly stormy history of working with Josh Altman. Elsewhere, James and David are up against both a business deadline and Mother Nature's body clock to find their pregnant client her dream home before she goes into labor.

8 p.m. on HBO
Showbiz Kids

Best known for his iconic comedy work with Keanu Reeves in the "Bill & Ted" movie series, former juvenile actor-turned-filmmaker Alex Winter directed this new 2020 film, which throws a spotlight on children who grow up in the world of show business. Becoming famous at an early age brings with it both advantages and drawbacks, as illustrated through interviews with some of the most famous former child stars in the world, including Henry Thomas ("E.T. the Extraterrestrial"), Mara Wilson ("Mrs. Doubtfire") and Wil Wheaton ("Stand by Me").

8 p.m. on OWN
Greenleaf

Grace (Merle Dandridge) hopes her family's luck may be turning when she finds a key informant who can provide important answers for her investigation into Bob Whitmore's (Beau Bridges) old company, Edenvale Landing, in the new episode "The Fourth Day." At the church, preparations for the last Sunday service at Calvary turn contentious when Charity (Deborah Joy Winans) stands her ground against Phil and Judee (Sean Blakemore, Valerie Jane Parker). Bishop (Keith David) takes the matter of the house into his own hands.

9 p.m. on USA
Dirty John

This true-crime anthology drama series concludes Season 2 — which has revolved around the Betty Broderick case — with a finale called "Perception Is Reality." Betty (Amanda Peet) has found it possible to avoid confronting the reality of her actions, thanks to a wave of support from strangers, but ultimately the time arrives for her to face the music. Christian Slater also stars.

"Alice Wetterlund: My Mama Is a Human and So Am I" airs on The CW.

OPINION: Evangelism, part 11

Tom Fillinger
Tribune Columnist

Today we continue our focus on Effective Evangelism. We continue our review of the Noetic Effects of sin upon mankind and specifically those effects on the will of man. The Fall renders man spiritually dead. In that state of spiritual deadness, he is incapable of responding to the gospel message apart from the grace of God through regeneration accomplished by the Holy Spirit.

The picture this draws for us is that of man becoming a new creation. He receives a heart of flesh in exchange for his heart of stone. He is literally made spiritually alive. This is not by an act of his will but by the providence and election of our Sovereign God.

Ephesians 1:3-7 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in Christ with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places, even as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and blameless before him.

In love he predestined us for adoption through Jesus Christ, according to the purpose of his will, to the praise of his glorious grace, with which he has blessed us in the Beloved. In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace.

That is a portrait of genuine redemption. Many people have been received as members whose response was one of emotion or a desire to "not go to hell." A genuine response to the true gospel renders a person unconditionally surrendered to Jesus as LORD. If they have not done this, then they are yet in their sin and the Noetic Effects of sin continue to plague them.

5. Faulty perspective: Because of our finitude, we all have a finite perspective on reality. Had we not sinned, we would all share a right and accurate perspective.

As it is, we are shaped by cultural, linguistic, tribal, ethnic, historical, individual, familial, and other blinders. We do not see things as others see them, but we assume that others who are right-minded must-see things as we see them.

The famous "parable of the fish," often attributed to Aristotle, asks the question, "Does a fish know that it is wet?" The idea conveyed in the parable is that if you want to know what being wet is like, then do not ask a fish, for he does not know he is wet.

In the past 50 years much of what has been labeled "Evangelism" has been an appeal to emotion rather than the mind and heart of the listener. Martin Lloyd Jones correctly stated that the appeal of the Gospel must be first to the mind. Emotions change rapidly. Transformation begins with the Holy Spirit bringing regeneration to the spiritually dead. Then and only then is there an expression of genuine faith.

He received the Purple Heart. Bert returned to Cullman from service in 1947 and accepted a position with Ingalls Shipping. In 1948 he was offered an opportunity to become an operator for Shell Oil Company... and thus began the building of McGriff... the business. From 1948 to current, Bert's company grew under his direction with his philosophy of be fair, work hard, provide excellent customer service and do your best no matter what the job, "because you never know when someone is watching." This philosophy and his belief of always surrounding himself with strong people has led to what is today – McGriff Tire with 380+ employees with locations throughout Alabama and Tennessee. Bert was instrumental in the tire industry while serving as charter member of Eldorado Tire Company, serving 12 years Hercules Tire and Rubber Board, and founding member of Alabama Tire Dealers Association. He had a strong love for Cullman and worked hard to promote his community. He was a member of the "Flying 50s," a group of Cullman business men involved in bringing new businesses and jobs to Cullman. He was a partner in building the first Cullman Shopping Center. He was a founding member of the Chamber of Commerce. Years ago, he served on the Cullman Hospital Board and was a charter member of the Lions Club. He also served on the board of several banks in Cullman. In 1980 he developed and opened Terri Pines Country Club with an 18-hole golf course, as well as Southern Pines, a residential development in Cullman. Bert continued to be involved in the business. On any day you could find him at one of the tire stores, at the office, or on the golf course. Even at his age, he had a sharp eye, always looking for a new project. He loved nothing better than talking with his employees, customers and anyone with whom he came in contact. If you ever asked Bert what his primary duties were, he would answer "the fun stuff... golf, fishing and entertaining customers and friends." A selfless man, Bert lived his life helping others. He believed in giving back and lending a helping hand whenever possible. The way he lived his life was a testament of his faith. He forgave freely, he judged no one and befriended everyone. He believed in the salvation promised to believers of Jesus Christ and we take great comfort in knowing he is in heaven. As a family we are sure that dad lived a full life. He received each day as a gift! The family is grateful for all of your prayers and kind words. A heartfelt thank you to his special friends Stan and Dena Graham and to Becky Lynn for their years of friendship. In lieu of flowers the family requests donations to WSCC Future Foundation, Bert McGriff Endowed Scholarship Fund, PO Box 568, Hanceville, AL 35055, www.wsccfuturefoundation.org/funds or to Desperation Church Building Fund, 510 Fifth St. SW, Cullman, AL 35055.

GOOD HOPE, Ala. – Bakery lovers, rejoice! After a little more than a year, local favorite, The Sunflour Bakery & Eatery, will officially reopen to the public today, Tuesday, July 14. On Monday, a celebratory ribbon cutting was held, and owners Brad and Amanda Quattlebaum welcomed representatives from the Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce and Good Hope City Council, along with Rep. Corey Harbison, R-Good Hope.

"It's been a long road; we're excited, nervous and scared – all in one!" Amanda Quattlebaum shared. "We're going to be super busy. We thank everyone for everything. Even though we've done this once, it's still like starting on day one. We're excited to be open."

Last May the bakery burned and was a total loss.

"On May 30 last year, our business burned," continued Quattlebaum, "in what they assumed was an electric fire. We lost everything, and it's taken us a little over a year to be rebuilt and restarted."

Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce Interim President and CEO Peggy Smith shared, "We're really excited about being here today for the reannouncement and reopening. This is fabulous-after several months of not being able to operate and now rebuilding, we're just really excited to be a part of this."

"We did a little informercial here a couple of weeks ago and we had the most response we've ever had out of 11 that we've put on," smiled Good Hope Mayor Jerry Bartlett. "I think we had over 10,000 people that had liked and shared it. I told Amanda and asked her if she was getting a little nervous and she said, 'Yes,' and so I know they're going to be bombarded tomorrow and that's a good thing. We're so proud of Brad and Amanda for coming back here to Good Hope and the whole time they were out here building people would stop and be all excited about when they're going to happen and now that's here!"

McGriff (from Front)

CULLMAN, Ala. – One of Cullman's most prominent and beloved businessmen, Bertis E. McGriff, passed away Saturday afternoon, July 11 at his home of natural causes. McGriff, a World War II veteran who founded McGriff Tire Company and Terri Pines Country Club and was a member of Cullman's "Flying 50," was 94 years old.

There will be no visitation, but funeral services will be held Tuesday, July 14 at 11 a.m. at Desperation Church. According to his obituary, "Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the family is concerned for your health and safety. Working with limited seating capabilities, those that would like to participate without being present, please go to DesperationChurch.tv, Facebook Desperation Church or YouTube Desperation Church. Burial will follow the service at Cullman City Cemetery. Moss Service Funeral Home directing."

McGriff was born in Cullman March 31, 1926 to Lonnie and Bell McGriff and was married to the late Berta Mae Holmes McGriff for 63 years.

He was a farmer until he joined the U.S. Armed Forces in 1942. He served in World War II and received the Purple Heart.

"In 1948, he began working for the Shell Oil Company, and after being given a management opportunity began building McGriff Tire Company, Inc. McGriff's company employs more than 380 people today.

"Mr. McGriff was a pillar of our community and his leadership and enthusiasm will be missed. Sadly, we are all saying goodbye to another veteran of World War II and a member of the Greatest Generation to be sure," said Ken Brown, colonel, USAF (RET).

McGriff was a member of the "Flying 50," a group of Cullman businessmen involved in bringing new businesses and jobs to Cullman. He was a partner in building the first Cullman Shopping Center. He was a founding member of the Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce. In 1980, he developed and opened Terri Pines Country Club.

"Mr. McGriff was a great man," said Cullman County Commission Chairman Kenneth Walker. "He loved Cullman County, he loved his family, he loved his friends and his golf. He helped bring a lot of jobs to Cullman and the state of Alabama and the southeastern United States. We will all miss him riding around Terri Pines on his golf cart."

"Everyone who knew Bert knew he was a remarkable man. From his brave service to our country during World War II, to his many contributions to Cullman as a businessman and communitarian, to his dedication to his family, Bert has left behind a legacy of love, leadership and service.

"He will be greatly missed, but always remembered. My thoughts and prayers are with his family and friends," said Cullman Mayor Woody Jacobs.

"The loss of Mr. Bert's leadership will be profoundly felt by the Cullman community. A true Southern gentleman of integrity, wisdom, and greatness.

"A longtime supporter of the Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce, and all things Cullman," Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce Interim President and CEO Peggy Smith said. "His death has left a gaping hole among the ranks of leaders in Cullman. Never too busy to stop and share a kind word or hug. He will be deeply missed by each of us who knew and loved him."
