CRANE HILL, Ala. – Work has begun at the future home of Connie's Cottages in Crane Hill, an affordable housing community being developed for veterans. The community, along County Road 949, was the idea of Irv Jones and a gift to his wife, Connie, a four-time breast cancer survivor. Jones, who lives in San Francisco, has teamed with Walker Brothers in Baileyton to build the 10-11 cottage development.

Jones was in town Tuesday to visit with the contractors, as well as with two local veterans whom he sponsored to receive the new stellate ganglion block (SGB) shot for PTSD. He also sat down with The Tribune to give an update on the progress made at Connie's Cottages.

"It was hard to find somebody who was going to finance the construction," said Jones. "We met with both the Walker brothers yesterday, and they are just super. Their comment to me was, 'Irv, what do you need from us to make you feel comfortable with us?' Al Walker said that he was down with the project and wanted to be part of it." They are just super people. Their whole staff is."

Jones met with Walker Brothers Monday to determine the layout of the cottages and landscape. He described the project to be at the "embryonic" stage, but electric and water is already in at the site, and he said they are waiting on permits from the health department for septic. Jones said he expects the first foundation to be built after the permit process is complete.

LaShay Corbin with Walker Brothers said, "The initial goal is possibly 10 (cottages), and that's going to depend on the lay of the land and placing homes. That's going to factor in. Yesterday we had some guys go out and they marked off at least (what) they knew (sic) would look like a good size."

Corbin estimated it will take six months to complete the homes, but with so many outside factors to contend with, she emphasized that six months is a rough estimate.

As for the cottages, Jones said, "We are looking at roughly at 750- to 850-square-feet, under roof, and perhaps building out to one or two bedrooms. We want to be able to facilitate a family with one or two kids and provide the adequate square footage to facilitate that. That is still in the development stage, philosophically speaking."

Man imprisoned for conspiracy in 2010 Hanceville murder up for parole July 22

craig@cullmantribune.com

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – William Cecil Abbott, 39, of Hanceville, who pleaded guilty in 2013 to conspiracy to commit murder in the 2010 death of another Hanceville resident, Jerry Allen Martin, is eligible for parole and will receive a hearing before the Alabama Bureau of Pardons and Paroles Wednesday, July 22, 2020. Abbott has served nine years and eight months (including time served before the plea deal) of a 17-year sentence. Originally sentenced to the medium-security Fountain Correctional Facility in Atmore, he has more recently been housed at the minimum-security Camden Community Work Center.

Martin was a witness in a then upcoming rape/incest case against Abbott's father, William Henry Abbott.

On Nov. 22, 2010, the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) discovered a body in a burning car belonging to a member of the Abbott family near Hanceville, and found Martin's driver's license in the back pocket of the pants on the body. A later autopsy revealed a gunshot wound to Martin's neck, and an examination of the vehicle revealed two firearm cartridge casings and chemical accelerants.

The following day, Donna Abbott, wife of William Henry Abbott and mother of Cecil Abbott, reported her husband missing in the same vehicle.

With Martin's body identified, Donna Abbott eventually admitted that her husband and son had conspired to murder Martin and fake Henry Abbott's suicide. Cecil Abbott was arrested and charged with capital murder and conspiracy for helping his father dispose of the body and flee the area

On Sept. 17, 2013, Cecil Abbott entered a guilty plea to conspiracy to commit murder in exchange for a dismissal of other charges, a day after his father made his own deal to plead guilty to capital murder. Cecil Abbott was sentenced to 17 years in a state prison, while his father received life without the possibility of parole.

ALABAMA DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS

William Cecil Abbott

Cecil Abbott's reassignment from Fountain Correctional Facility to the community work center indicated that the Department of Corrections views him as a minimal threat to himself or others, and considers him capable of working offsite without the supervision of a correctional officer.

Ordinance (from Front)

wendy@cullmantribune.com

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – Citing increasing spread of COVID-19, along with record-high hospitalizations and decreasing ICU capacity across the state, Alabama Gov. Kay Ivey and State Health Officer Dr. Scott Harris on Wednesday announced a mandatory mask ordinance for the state of Alabama. The ordinance goes into effect Thursday, July 16 at 5 p.m. and is set to expire July 31.

"Here's the bottom line," said Ivey. "Overnight, last night, we had 2,141 new cases. That brings our total to 58,270 cases, and we've had 1,183 deaths. Over a two-week period, from June 29 to July 13, the total number of COVID-19 cases in Alabama rose by 50%. And the number of COVID patients hospitalized during this same time period has increased significantly.

"Nine of the first 13 days of July saw daily increases of more than 1,000 cases.

"Despite all our best efforts, we're seeing increased cases every day still occurring, and we're almost to the point where our hospital ICUs are overwhelmed. Earlier this week, 87% of our ICU beds statewide were occupied. Folks, the numbers just do not lie."

According to the FAQ sheet on the new mask ordinance, "You have to wear a mask when you are in public and in close contact with other people.

"Specifically, the order says to wear a mask when you are within six feet of a person from another household in any of the following places: (a) an indoor space open to the public; (b) a vehicle operated by a transportation service; and (c) an outdoor public space where ten or more people are gathered.

"There are five categories of exceptions. The largest category, exceptions for "practical necessity," covers people or situations where mask use is incompatible with the realities of life—for example, children six or younger, people with certain medical conditions or disabilities, eating and drinking, medical and dental procedures, and so on.

"There are also categories of exceptions for exercise, for communicating with an audience, and for certain essential job functions.

"An additional category carves out narrow exceptions for protected activities like voting and religious worship—but even then, wearing a mask is strongly encouraged."

"I always prefer personal responsibility over a government mandate, and yet I also know, with all my heart, that the numbers and the data over the past few weeks are definitely trending in the wrong direction," Ivey said.

Harris said one-third of Alabama's COVID-19 cases were added in the last two weeks and that the state's case fatality rate is about 2%.

"That's not a reflection of testing," he said, "because our percentage of tests that are positive continues to go up.

"The most recent complete data leading up to the 4th of July showed about 14% of all tests were positive. It's still preliminary, but the numbers we'll release for this past week are going to be between 16-17%."

Said Ivey, "Throughout this process, I have said that I reserve the right to come back and reverse course. This mask mandate is the first step of doing just that.

"Clearly, there's some other, more restrictive actions that we could take, such as closing things back down. But I don't want to go there unless there are absolutely no other options available."

Below is the specific wording from the amended Safer at Home Order:

2. Facial coverings for individuals. Effective July 16, 2020 at 5:00 P.M., each person shall wear a mask or other facial covering that covers his or her nostrils and mouth at all times when within six feet of a person from another household in any of the following places: an indoor space open to the general public, a vehicle operated by a transportation service, or an outdoor public space where ten or more people are gathered. But this facial-covering requirement is subject to the following exceptions.

a. Exceptions for practical necessity. The facial-covering requirement does not apply to:

(i) Any person six years of age or younger;

(ii) Any person with a medical condition or disability that prevents him or her from wearing a facial covering;

(iii) Any person while consuming food or drink, or seated at a restaurant to eat or drink;

(iv) Any person who is obtaining a service (for example, a medical or dental procedure) that requires removal of the facial covering in order to perform the service; or

(v) Any person who is required to remove the facial covering to confirm his or her identity, such as for security or screening purposes.

b. Exceptions for exercise. The facial-covering requirement does not apply to:

(i) Any person who is actively engaged in exercise in a gym or other athletic facility if he or she maintains six feet of separation from persons of another household;

(ii) Any person who is directly participating in athletic activities in compliance with paragraph 11 of this order; or

(iii) Any person who is in a swimming pool, lake, water attraction, or similar body of water, though wearing a face covering or social distancing is strongly encouraged if safe and practicable.

c. Exceptions for effective communication. The facial-covering requirement does not apply to:

(i) Any person who is seeking to communicate with another person where the ability to see the person's mouth is essential for communication (such as when the other person has a hearing impairment); or

(ii) Any person speaking for broadcast or to an audience if the person maintains six feet of separation from persons from another household.

d. Exceptions to facilitate constitutionally protected activity. The facial-covering requirement does not apply to:

(i) Any person who is voting, though wearing a face covering is strongly encouraged; or

(ii) Any person who cannot wear a facial covering because he or she is actively providing or obtaining access to religious worship, though wearing a face covering is strongly encouraged.

e. Exceptions for essential job functions. The facial-covering requirement does not apply to:

(i) Any first responder (including law enforcement officers, firefighters, or emergency medical personnel) if necessary to perform a public-safety function; or

(ii) Any person performing a job function if wearing a face covering is inconsistent with industry safety standards or a business's established safety protocols.

Masks or other facial coverings can be factory-made, homemade, or improvised from household items such as scarves, bandanas, or t-shirts. For instructions on how to make a facial covering at home, see the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)'s "How to Make Cloth Face Coverings," available at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/prevent-getting-sick/how-to-make-cloth-face-covering.html.

Wallace State athletics has 4 programs, 41 student-athletes recognized by NJCAA for academic achievements

Russell Moore
WSCC Athletics

HANCEVILLE, ALA. – Four Wallace State Community College teams and 41 student-athletes have earned National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) academic recognition for the 2019-2020 academic year.

Wallace State's women's cross country and softball teams compiled the second-best GPA in the nation in their respective sports and the men's cross country and volleyball teams also gained acknowledgement as NJCAA honorable mention academic teams for compiling a 3.0 GPA or better.

Wallace State's women's cross-country team, coached by Stan Narewski and assistant Tony Crider, put together a 3.75 GPA.

Wallace State's softball team registered a 3.69 GPA, narrowly missing out as the NJCAA Academic Team of the Year.

The squad is coached by A.J. Daugherty.

The college's men's cross-country team was sixth in the nation in its sport with a 3.5 GPA, and the volleyball team racked up a 3.43 GPA.

Men's cross country is coached by Narewski and volleyball by Randy Daniel.

All four teams were named Alabama Community College Conference (ACCC) Academic Teams of the Year last month.

The women's cross-country team was also named the National Junior College Cross Country Coaches Association Academic Team of the Year during the Fall 2019 semester after producing a 4.0 GPA.

Despite an academic year that was interrupted due to COVID-19, NJCAA student-athletes flourished in the classroom as 1,026 teams earned at least a 3.0 GPA or better.

Individual NJCAA academic achievements have also been unveiled.

Wallace State had 41 student-athletes earn NJCAA All-Academic recognition, including 18 on the NJCAA All-Academic 1st-Team with a 4.0 GPA.

Volleyball had eight players to make the 1st team and softball had five.

Wallace State student-athletes with 4.0 GPAs, earning 1st-Team accolades are volleyball's Kaitlyn Doyle, Karlee Hale, Mattrice Harris, Jordan Hollis, Kate Kent, Harlee Kate Reid, Anna Renshaw and Lauren Seibert; softball's Abigail Beech, Erin Chambliss, Chaney Phillips, Josie Thompson and Katie Wood; women's cross country's Logan Ayers, Juliana Ballew, Maggie Graham and Breanna Smith; and Taylor Nails of the men's cross country team.

NJCAA All-Academic 2nd-team members finished the academic year with a 3.99-3.80 GPA. Wallace State student-athletes in that category consist of softball's Brantly Bonds, Lily Calvert, Raven Clark, Andrea Harbin and Callie Ryan; women's cross country's Bailey Wick and Makala Worrell; and Drake Patton of men's cross country.

NJCAA All-Academic 3rd-team members finished the academic year with a GPA between 3.79-3.60.

Wallace State student-athletes earning 3rd-team status are softball's Madisen Adams, Olivia Ball, Kalli Cartee, Emma Hyche, Lauren McCoy, Jordan McMeans, Courtney Patterson, Lauren Quigley, Madison Sanders and Katelyn Williams; men's cross country's Hamza Abussamour and Joshua Jenkins; women's cross country's Alexandra Holt and Hannah Huntley; and Jiselle Woodson of the women's basketball team.

Throughout the NJCAA, 9,555 student-athletes garnered All-Academic recognition for achieving a GPA above 3.6.

Birx (from Front)

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – Governor Kay Ivey on Wednesday hosted Dr. Deborah Birx, the coronavirus response coordinator for the White House Coronavirus Task Force. The governor, Alabama State Health Officer Dr. Scott Harris and Birx met first in the governor's office, before moving to a roundtable discussion at the Capitol with various state health individuals, members of the business and religious communities and other lawmakers.

Birx emphasized very strongly that this is a critical time for the South to mitigate the spread of COVID-19 and that the governor's decision to issue a statewide mask order was "brilliant" and critical to keeping businesses open and running safely. A variety of topics were discussed and questions were asked on anything from testing, to Remdesivir and reopening schools and churches safely.

Birx explained that early on the virus seemed to be concentrated in large cities in the Northeast; however, this has not proven to be accurate in the South. She expressed how the South, specifically Alabama, has high rates statewide.

Birx told the governor she was personally worried about the South, which is why she visited the state in person.

Ivey said she is appreciative for Birx's time and knowledge and looks forward to keeping an open dialog with her and the Trump Administration as we work through the pandemic.

Home (from Front)

in a project with the potential for a huge positive impact on veterans, especially those struggling with PTSD, is important not only to Jones, but also to Walker Brothers.

Said Corbin, "We have been in this community for many years and for us to be able to help out and give back and help someone achieve a dream like this is very beneficial.

"We can't think of a better cause than helping our vets."

Walker Brothers has been doing business in Cullman and around the Southeast for more than 50 years, including the Smith Lake area.

Corbin added, "We are at Smith Lake a lot.

"Any of the issues of building in that area, we have dealt with before."

Jones also consulted with local veteran Col. Ken Brown when developing his plan.

Brown said of the project, "PTSD is a big deal. The source of the people coming to live in these tiny homes, when we get them done, is going to be the VA.

"Irv's concept and his wife Connie's concept from the very beginning (is) to take people who are battle-scarred who are trying to come down off the ceiling and decompress and all that sort of thing and get them into a pastoral, quiet, serene setting where they can calm down and where they can get a little peace and readjust back into the community."

He continued, "Jeremy Hogan with Saving Forgotten Warriors, they are working on the same type of project, temporary veteran housing.

"This is going to be permanent veteran's housing. You've also got the VFW and Saving Forgotten Warriors working together to send people to Annapolis to get the SGB shot for PTSD.

"Hopefully, the people who will be moving into these houses will be set up for an SGB shot to calm them down even more.

"It's a nice synergy where we got veterans organizations in the county supporting what Irv is doing and supporting what Jeremy is doing.

"Jeremy and Irv will be supporting each other creating a nice synergy going where we can help veterans not only from our county but elsewhere in the State of Alabama to come up here and get some relief. That's what we are all working for."

maggie@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Alabama's 15th Annual Back-to-School Sales Tax Holiday starts at 12:01 a.m. Friday, July 17 and runs through Sunday, July 19 at 11:59 p.m., during which time the State will forego its 4% sales or use tax on items commonly purchased for students. All eligible municipalities in Cullman County have also waived their sales tax for the holiday.

Tax-free items will include:

- clothing priced at $100 or less per article
- school supplies valued at $50 or less per item
- books that cost $30 or less per book
- tablets, laptops, computers and printers with a selling price of $750 or less

Alabama Retail Association President Rick Brown said, "This year's sales tax holiday will provide momentum for Alabama's continued economic recovery. Saving money for consumers while stimulating sales for stores is what this weekend is all about."

The Alabama Retail Association continues to encourage shoppers to buy from local retailers by promoting the use of the #ShopAlabama hashtag.

"Shopping with businesses that have a physical presence in your local area keeps businesses open and your neighbors employed," said Brown.

Because the tax holiday is only one weekend a year, families may want to consider purchasing items required for later in the year and stashing them until needed. Art supplies, computer paper and diapers are examples of items that will be exempt from taxes during the tax holiday but are used year-round.

Another way shoppers can support their local businesses and help others in their communities is to pick up extra school supplies to donate to local school children. A local example is Curt's Closet. Monograms Plus participates in a shoes and new underwear matching donation program with this boutique charity, where families "shop" for clothing, shoes, backpacks and lunch boxes, all for free.

For more information on the sales tax holiday, including a link to a more detailed item list, visit https://alabamaretail.org/resources/salestaxholidays/back-to-school/ and for an in-depth list of cities and counties participating, visit revenue.alabama.gov/sales-use/sales-tax-holidays/alabama-back-to-school-sales-tax-holiday-participating-localities/.

FPLLC rock hunt continues around Cullman County

RENÉE WELSH

Holly Pond's Guy Hunt Library Librarian Melody Camp and Friends of the Public Libraries of Cullman County Secretary Renée Welsh get ready to hide #read rocks in the Holly Pond area.

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Friends of the Public Libraries of Cullman County (FPLCC) last month introduced a new family-friendly painted rock-hunting game, hosted by the library's main branch, along with the Tom Bevill Library in Colony. Each hand-painted rock features a fun design with "#read" painted on the back with a number. Found rocks can be turned in to the library in exchange for a fun "brag tag." The rocks are hidden in easy-to-find places throughout Cullman- in parks, parking lots, shopping areas and downtown, all in safe and easy-to reach areas. The game started with 60 hidden rocks, but now the FPLCC has decided to keep the game going.

"We are encouraging this as an ongoing, safe-to-do activity. We've decided not to have an end on it!" smiled FPLCC Secretary Renée Welsh.

"People love hiding the rocks; they're actually finding the rocks and then they're hiding them again.

"The goal is we have people come to the library to get a library card and participate in the Take & Make (projects), and that's just what they're doing! Our goal to get people to the library is working! Children are coming in, they're taking the Take & Makes, they're getting their pictures and finding rocks; it's working!"

When asked what happens when all the rocks have been found, Welsh answered, "Most folks have loved the idea of hiding them again. The Friends loved the idea, too. The Dollar General (Literacy Foundation) Grant has provided us the ability to continue with the brag tag celebration for each rock and leaf art and Take & Make submitted."

Still haven't found a rock? Welsh suggested looking in these areas:

- Depot Park
- Heritage Park
- Ave Maria Grotto
- Festhalle
- The Warehouse District (around Karmas Coffee House)
- Around Colony's Tom Bevill Library
- Holly Pond Lions Club Park
- Guy Hunt library grounds

PGA Tour Golf

It'll be a "Bear" the four days as golfers tee it up today in the Memorial Tournament. Hosted by the "Golden Bear" himself, Jack Nicklaus, it will be contested on the Nicklaus-designed course at Ohio's Muirfield Village Golf Club, a 7,392-yard layout that has seen its share of spectacular play over the event's 44 years. One occurred a year ago, when Patrick Cantlay shot an 8-under 64 — and set a record for lowest final round score in tournament history — to defeat Martin Kaymer.

Invest in You: Ready. Set. Grow Your Future — A CNBC & Acorns Town Hall Special

CNBC personalities Jim Cramer and Kelly Evans host this live, one-hour town hall special, which brings together everyday Americans who have been critically affected by the current health and economic crises in the country, with financial experts, thought leaders and visionaries. The latter professionals take questions from the guests, then present strategies, investment tools and potential solutions for how Americans can turn around their challenges to reset and rebuild sound financial futures.

30 Rock: A One-Time Special

Liz Lemon (Tina Fey) is getting the band back together, so to speak, as the cast of NBC's Emmy-winning sitcom "30 Rock" reunite for one night only to help NBC announce news about its 2020-21 TV season. Alec Baldwin (Jack Donaghy), Jane Krakowski (Jenna Maroney), Tracy Morgan (Tracy Jordan) and Jack McBrayer (Kenneth Parcell) all reprise their familiar characters for the one-hour special, which was filmed remotely under quarantine. Another former NBC sitcom, "Parks and Recreation," drew praise for an April reunion of its own cast and characters.

7 p.m. on WTTO
Killer Camp

Comic Bobby Mair hosts this new genre-hopping reality competition series, in which 11 British strangers who think they've signed up for a fun new "Summer Camp" reality show discover they're actually participating in a horror whodunit, in which one of them is "killed" in each episode by a mystery maniac among them. Obviously, the object of the game is for the "campers" to figure out and identify which of them is the killer before they themselves are dispatched.

8 p.m. on WBRC
Labor of Love

This decidedly unconventional reality competition series wraps up Season 1 with the finale "Sleepless in Chicago," as Kristy Katzmann takes her final two men to her hometown as her decision day approaches. After introducing each of the candidates to her family, it's time for her to choose whether to opt for a future with one of these finalists or just continue along her solo path to motherhood. Kristin Davis is the host.

9 p.m. on A&E
Court Cam

ABC News chief legal analyst Dan Abrams returns as host as this well-received docuseries launches its second season, providing unrivaled access to engrossing courtroom moments from both high-profile trials to minor court proceedings. Woven into the filmed footage are interviews with judges, witnesses, victims and bystanders, allowing Abrams to give viewers a firsthand look at the workings of the U.S. legal system.

9 p.m. on FREE
The Bold Type

Sutton (Meghann Fahy) finds it impossible not to fall into regrettable behavior and repeat old patterns while paying a visit to her hometown in the Season 4 finale, "Not Far From the Tree." Jane (Katie Stevens) stumbles across a major story, but if it's published, it could well have some serious ramifications for Jacqueline (Melora Hardin). Elsewhere, Kat (Aisha Dee) is reluctant to tell Jane and Sutton about her new romance.

Tina Fey stars in "30 Rock: A One-Time Special" on NBC.

Colony receives $39K in CARES Act funding for COVID-19 response

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

COLONY, Ala. – The Colony Town Council announced Tuesday that the State of Alabama has made $39,000 in federal grants available to the Town under the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economy Security (CARES) Act. In accordance with CARES regulations, the money will be used to promote COVID-19 response in the community, including the purchase of masks, cleaning supplies, coronavirus education and response training and more.

According to Town Clerk Patricia Ponder, Colony has already received its first shipment of gloves and sanitizer for distribution to area residents.

She noted that the Town will need to be careful in spending the funds, as Colony must first pay for purchases then be reimbursed by the State.

She also added that auditors at both the state and federal levels will review purchase records, and Colony would not be reimbursed for any expenses not found to be related to COVID-19 response.

Mayor Donnis Leeth showed council members signs promoting the COVID-19 response, and said the signs will be distributed around the community.

Town gym gets attention

The council also discussed recent cleanup work at the town gym. Leeth and Councilwoman Ethel Alexander praised Desperation Church for spending its day of service last Saturday working in and around the gym and playground, and said the church team plans to return in August to paint and make other repairs to the building.

Councilman Melvin Hammond, who could not attend Tuesday night's meeting due to a medical issue, sent a message saying that a certified letter needs to be sent to the roofing contractor who worked on the gym roof, as part of the Town's efforts to deal with leaks that have continued since the repairs were supposed to have been completed.

Council members talked about setting rules for gym use and determining who will open the gym and supervise the facility when open.

Ponder told the council area youth who need community service hours for high school graduation can get credit for helping out and cleaning up around the gym, and any council member can sign off on their hours.

After discussion, Leeth said he will supervise the gym for the first three months of operation, remarking, "I'll set the standard."

The mayor also said the gym's rules will include a prohibition on firearms and other weapons on the property, including vehicles parked on the property.

Other council business

After complaints about certain residents being excluded from a recent distribution of food sponsored by the Cullman County Commission on Aging (COA), Leeth said all food distribution- including items from the COA, North Alabama Agriplex and Carpenter's Cabinet food pantry- will now be supervised by Ponder.

According to Ponder, several people who came to the last distribution to pick up food for disabled and homebound residents were denied boxes as distribution was limited to the number of people in the cars.

According to Leeth, the food boxes are intended to be distributed on a first come, first served basis without limitation to the number of people in a car.

Leeth told the council that, after examination of projected amounts, he determined the County Road Department can repair Ward Hill Road for less than a commercial contractor, so he will talk to the County about having the work done.

The council voted to have Alexander get a list of qualified voters and deliver it to the town clerk's office ahead of August's Municipal Election.

The mayor would normally do so, but is prohibited since he himself is a candidate.

The council also passed a resolution to distribute the signs displayed by Leeth.

The Colony Town Council meets for a work session at 5 p.m. the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at Colony Town Hall, with its regular meeting following immediately after. The public is invited to attend.
