Next phase of Warehouse District Streetscape Project begins; merchants remain open for business

The next phase of the City of Cullman's Warehouse District Streetscape Project has begun, but residents are advised that the merchants in the Warehouse District remain open for business. While construction is ongoing in front of the businesses, the east and west side shops will both have back entrance access. Some of the stores on the south end are still working on the best solutions.

Saving Forgotten Warriors holds open house for Veterans Transitional House in Hanceville

W.C. MANN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Saving Forgotten Warriors held an open house for its Veterans Transitional House in Hanceville Wednesday morning.

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – Veterans services organization Saving Forgotten Warriors (SFW) on Wednesday morning held a grand opening celebration and open house at its transitional house along Hopewell Road in Hanceville, displaying its progress as staff and volunteers work toward a projected facility opening next week.

SFW Founder/Director Jeremy Hogan told The Tribune, "We wanted to showcase what we've done over the last few months, and let everybody know that we're within a week of opening and having veterans in-house. We'll have seven beds available by the end of next week."

One side of the duplex is almost complete, awaiting countertops, bed frames and a few other touches. SFW will open the other side at a later date, doubling the facility's capacity. Housing will be provided for up to eight veterans on each side, though Hogan said he hopes to keep that number at seven per side to give long-term residents a little more space. He added that the extra beds can be used for emergency housing.

Hogan and his staff will identify local veterans in need of housing, and will work with Veterans Affairs to identify others as well.

A big group effort, starting at the top

Asked about who should be recognized for contributions and support to the project, Hogan told The Tribune, "God, first and foremost, and my wife (Julie May Hogan)."

With The Tribune and later with the crowd gathered outside the house, he shared a list of people and businesses including Beds Express, Hanceville Lions Club, Cullman Elks Lodge, Wilco Cabinets, Artisan Workshop, John Weygand, Zac Lee and Lowe's, Hanceville Mayor Kenneth Nail and the Hanceville City Council, Sen. Garlan Gudger, R-Cullman and Rep.

City, County students to get free breakfasts, lunches through Dec. 31

wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Starting Thursday, Sept. 3, all students in the Cullman City and Cullman County public school systems will receive free breakfasts and lunches. For now, this will go through Dec. 31, 2020.

The free meals are made possible by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA's) Food and Nutrition Service, which is extending its summer meal programs.

A statement from Cullman City Schools Wednesday evening said: "We are so excited that the USDA has approved for us to serve ALL STUDENTS FOR FREE STARTING TOMORROW!!! That means each and every student!

"Paid and reduced students will also all be FREE for BREAKFAST AND LUNCH!! This will be in effect until December 31 or until USDA says otherwise.

"VERY IMPORTANT! Please continue to fill out the household application for free and reduced form as we need those for our schools to continue to receive their federal funds.

"As of now, your child will go to their regular approved status in January, so this form is still very important.

"Be sure to join us for breakfast and lunch for the rest of the semester at no charge! A la carte items will still be available for purchase as well."

The Tribune did not receive an official announcement from Cullman County Schools; however, several of the schools themselves have posted the information to social media.

Food delivery service coming to Arab, Joppa, Baileyton, Union Grove Sept. 11

maggie@cullmantribune.com

ARAB, Ala. – Thanks to Josh Gaddis and Chris Sivley, founders of Hometown 2 Go, food delivery will be readily available for Arab and surrounding areas.

"We will cover Arab, Joppa and parts of Baileyton and Union Grove," said Gaddis, who also shared what inspired the pair to launch the service.

"This was mostly inspired by personal experiences using DoorDash and similar services," he said.

"We believed we could bring this convenient service to our hometown of Arab but do it just a little better than the others.

"The COVID-19 pandemic inspired us to roll it out sooner so customers and restaurant owners could take advantage of the benefits when it is needed the most."

Gaddis said some hometown favorites have signed on to participate.

"Milner's Dairy Delight, Midas Burger, Sierra's Mexican Restaurant, Hog Leg BBQ, The Funky Feather, and Town & Country, just to name a few," he said.

Customers inside Hometown 2 Go's service range will be charged a flat $4 delivery fee, and Gaddis noted, "We have a flat rate for our standard delivery and then a premium charge of no more than $3 for orders outside that standard range."

As to the timeline on the launch of the mobile app, he said, "We tested Apple last weekend. We're testing Android this weekend. We plan to roll out full scale next Friday on Sept. 11."

HOMETOWN 2 GO

Hometown 2 Go will be fully available to the public Friday, Sept. 11, 2020.

As far as health precautions, Gaddis said, "We are sealing orders in the restaurant before leaving, and it will not be opened until the order arrives. Customers have the option to choose a contactless delivery. Drivers are also wearing masks. Both founders are ServSafe certified as instructors and proctors."

To the crowd, Hogan said, "I would say my word of the day is perseverance, because that's exactly what it's taken to get this thing done . . . It has been probably one of the hardest things I've done in quite some time, to get this place together and to go through the hurdles we had to go through, including playing with a saw with my finger, to who knows what, to raising funds even.

"So, God willing- He made it happen- we're here today; we've made it!"

ALDOT halts construction on interstates for Labor Day holiday

Allison Green
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. – To accommodate expected higher traffic volume during the Labor Day holiday weekend and for the safety of the traveling public and roadway workers, the Alabama Department of Transportation (ALDOT) will have no temporary lane closures on Alabama interstates after noon Friday, Sept. 4 through midnight Monday, Sept. 7.

Alabama's rest areas and welcome centers are open to the public.

ALDOT asks travelers to practice social distancing and follow the public health guidelines set forth by state and local agencies, as well as act courteously to fellow travelers.

HOLIDAY DRIVING TIPS

1. Don't drive under the influence of alcohol or drugs. People are seven times more likely to die in a crash when the driver is under the influence of alcohol or drugs, as shown in ALDOT crash reports.

Designating a sober driver before drinking is key to preventing these deadly crashes.

2. Wear your seat belt, in both front and rear seats. Alabama law now requires all occupants of a vehicle to wear a seat belt.

Surviving a crash is much more likely when wearing a seat belt.

Latest stats from Drive Safe Alabama show that almost 60 percent of people dying in crashes on Alabama highways are not wearing a seat belt.

More safe driving tips are available on the Drive Safe Alabama Facebook page.

Motorists planning their holiday travel route can find Alabama traffic and road condition information at www.ALGOtraffic.com or by downloading the ALGO Traffic app available in the Apple App Store and on Google Play. ALDOT asks motorists to use ALGO Traffic responsibly. Drivers should never text, tweet or use a mobile device while operating a vehicle.

Kipper (from Front)

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Animal Shelter has love to spare, so Donna Ruttkay shares a bonus Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week:

Kipper is an approximately 1-year-old Leopard Hound mix. She's a laid-back, low- to medium-energy pet who's skilled on her leash. Described as a "delightful soul who accepts each day with joy in her heart," she loves human companionship and can be a snuggler.

Kipper has the makings of a great therapy or companion dog.

Kipper's adoption fee is $100 which includes DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, spaying, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pay sales tax).

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior. Several of the shelter's canine friends have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

Local teams kicking off region play in week 2

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

Last week's slate of games was packed with matchups between local teams and now its time to get region play underway. Every local squad with the exception of West Point are preparing for region openers and many of them will be on the road. The Warriors will host Lawrence County in a non-regional matchup and Arab, Hanceville, Cold Springs and Meek are playing at home Friday as well. Cullman, Fairview, Good Hope, Holly Pond, Vinemont and Addison will be forced to travel for some critical regional showdowns.

(2-0) Cullman at (1-1) Hartselle

Its been two weeks and the Bearcats still haven't allowed anyone to get on the scoreboard. Cullman has shut out Grissom 23-0 and Jasper 21-0 to start the season 2-0 and now they have another massive game in front of them. The 'Cats will travel to face another historic rival, the Hartselle Tigers. Cullman is averaging over 200 yards per game on the ground right now and its defense has been playing lights out so far, but it always comes down to the wire when the Bearcats play the Tigers. Hartselle is coming off a 34-14 win over Mae Jemison and after the way Cullman took last year's meeting, expect the Tigers to be ready for another shot at the Bearcats. Hartselle leads the all-time series 48-46-4 but the 'Cats plan to cut into that deficit Friday night.

(1-1) Arab v. (0-2) Fort Payne

Last week's loss to Guntersville was a tough one for the Knights but they'll have to shake it off and refocus for their region opener against Fort Payne Friday. The Wildcats have had a slow start to their season, dropping their first two games to Briarwood and Gadsden City but this week's trip to Arab is an opportunity for them to start region play on the right foot. Arab's defense was stellar at Albertville two weeks ago but had trouble containing Guntersville's passing attack last Thursday. To get back in the win column against Fort Payne, the Knights will have to tighten back up defensively, limit their turnovers and get the running game going. If they do those things well, they'll have a good chance to begin region play with a win.

(0-1) West Point v. (0-1) Lawrence County

Last week's wet weather didn't do the West Point offense any favors at Good Hope but hopefully with some dryer conditions on their home field, the Warriors' passing attack can find its rhythm against Lawrence County. The Red Devils are coming off a tight loss on the road against Hazel Green and fell to West Point 42-14 a season ago so look for them to be ready and focused when they arrive Friday night. Warriors Quarterback Will Cochran and his weapons will be anxious to hit the field and bounce back from last week's road loss with a high-scoring performance against Lawrence County.

(2-0) Fairview at (2-0) Guntersville

The Aggies are off to a fast start in 2020. They handled Falkville in a jamboree 20-0 and put away Vinemont 41-14 last week. Now, Fairview will hit the road to tackle region play. Guntersville is coming off an impressive 35-9 win at Arab last week and the Wildcats looked sharp on both sides of the ball, airing it out for big gains, creating turnovers and holding the Knights' running game in check. However, the Aggies are bringing a potent offense with them, led by the backfield of Parker Martin and Tyler Simmons and they plan to get region play started with a big road win.

(2-0) Good Hope at (1-1) Ashville

Colton Bagwell and the Raiders put on an impressive show in their muddy victory over West Point last week. Good Hope's running game and defense has helped the Raiders start things 2-0 but there's a new challenge in front of them this week. Good Hope will kick off region play on the road against the Ashville Bulldogs and Friday night's meeting will be the first ever between the two schools. The Bulldogs narrowly defeated Oak Grove in their season opener but fell in a tight matchup at Southeastern last week. They'll have their hands full with the Raiders coming to town Friday and if Good Hope can continue to run the ball, protect the ball and play solid on the defensive end, it'll have a good chance to start region play with a win.

(0-1) Hanceville v. (0-2) Fultondale

The Bulldogs have had a week to rest up and regroup after falling just short on the road against Vinemont in the season opener and this week's matchup provides a great opportunity to bounce back in a big way. Fultondale is coming to town Friday night to open up region play against the Bulldogs and they too will be looking for their first win. Hanceville fell to the Wildcats on the road last season so a win Friday night would provide some real momentum for the Bulldogs going forward this season. Keep your eye on this showdown Friday night because if Bo Joles, Zach Campbell, Logan Guthery and the rest of that Hanceville can find its rhythm, the Bulldogs will have a great shot at taking out Fultondale.

(1-1) Holly Pond at (1-1) Oakman

The Broncos had a little trouble getting their offense clicking last week against the Cold Springs Eagles, but they'll have another chance to show what they can do this week when they travel to Oakman to play the Wildcats. Oakman fell to Gordo in its season opener but bounced back with a win over Curry last week, so the Wildcats are aiming to keep that momentum going in the region opener against Holly Pond. Oakman boasted a high-scoring offense last season and put up 40 in its win over Curry so the Broncos will be put to the test on both sides of the ball this week.

JOE MCELROY, BILL PIPER & MARTHA NEEDHAM/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Cullman's Jake Dueland, Good Hope's Colton Bagwell and Hanceville's Bo Joles.

(1-1) Vinemont at (1-0) J.B. Pennington

Last week's trip to Fairview was one the Eagles would like to forget, and they'll have to do just that before they hit the road to take on J.B. Pennington Friday. The Tigers defeated Oak Grove 34-6 last week, so they'll be confident on both sides of the ball when Vinemont arrives. The Eagles' last win against the Tigers came in 2009 so a road win at J.B. Pennington this week would be a great way to start region play. With a couple games under their belt now, the Eagles' offensive weapons will be ready to put some points on the board and leave Blountsville with a big win.

(2-0) Cold Springs v. (0-2) Sulligent

Cold Springs is off to a 2-0 start this fall after collecting wins over Meek and Holly Pond but now the Eagles will have to prepare for the arrival of Sulligent and region play. The Blue Devils are coming off back to back losses to open the 2020 season, so they'll be anxious to hit the field and get into the win column this week. Ayden Alexander and the Cold Springs offense have been filling up the stat sheet and putting points on the board so far this season and the Eagles will need more of that when they face Sulligent. Friday night's matchup with Sulligent is the start of a difficult stretch on the schedule for Cold Springs so getting that gauntlet started with a win would be a great way to get region play started.

(1-1) Addison at (1-1) Aliceville

After dropping its season opener on the road against Haleyville, Addison bounced back in a big way last week by trouncing the Lynn Bears 50-0. Everything was clicking for the Bulldogs last week and they'll try to keep the ball rolling this week when they travel to Aliceville. The Yellow Jackets fell at Gordo 30-12 last week, so they'll be trying to bounce back with a region win when Addison arrives. The last time and only time these two schools have met was in the third round of the state playoffs two years ago and Aliceville defeated the Bulldogs 38-22. The younger players on that team are veterans today and they no doubt remember that postseason loss so expect both of these teams to be anxious to see one another again Friday night.

(0-2) Meek at (1-0) Brilliant

After falling just short against Cold Springs on the road in the season opener, Meek suffered a tough loss last week in its home opener against Winston County. The Yellow Jackets pulled ahead early and the Tigers were unable to recover from the early barrage. Now, Meek will head back out on the road to face Brilliant in a duel of the Tigers for the region opener. Meek leads the all-time series 16-14 and the teams have split their last two meetings. A road win over the Brilliant Tigers Friday night would be a great way for Meek to start region play and create a big wave of momentum going forward this fall.

Good Hope edges Vinemont on the road 18-16

Ryan Guthery
Tribune correspondent

VINEMONT, Ala. -- The Good Hope Raiders traveled to play county rival Vinemont Tuesday night after the contest was rained out Monday and after a close, muddy matchup, the Raiders left with an 18-16 win. Good Hope started the game with a pooch kick that was recovered by the Raiders. Four plays later they found the endzone when Malin Tucker scored from 3 yards out, putting Raiders up 6-0 with 6:15 remaining in the opening quarter. Vinemont went on a lengthy drive that carried over into the second quarter, but the drive stalled when the Eagles failed to convert on fourth down.

The Raiders marched down the field and capped off another scoring drive with another Tucker touchdown run, this time from 15 yards out with 26.5 seconds remaining until halftime. The score extended the Raider lead to 12-0.

The Raiders took the second half kickoff and four plays later, Tucker found the endzone for a third time, this time from 7 yards out, stretching the Good Hope lead to 18-0 with 5:43 left in the third quarter. Vinemont began to climb back into it and cut into the lead with a five-play scoring drive of its own capped off by a 3-yard touchdown run from Rush Sandlin that made it 18-8 after the successful conversion late in the third quarter.

On the first play of the ensuing Raiders possession, the Eagles forced and recovered a fumble that set up a 37-yard touchdown run by Kayden Henderson as time expired in the third quarter, sending the game into the fourth quarter with the Raiders hanging on to a slim 18-16 advantage. Good Hope drove down the field and got into a first and goal opportunity with a chance to put the game away but the Eagle defense stepped up to force a turnover on downs and give their offense another opportunity to score and with the game.

However, Vinemont was unable to convert on fourth down and Good Hope was able to run out the clock and secure a big, 18-16 victory on the road.

Land (from Front)

CULLMAN, Ala. – Unsheltered International (UI) director Travis Sharpe announced Wednesday that the homeless services ministry has come one step closer to its plan for a tiny home village in Cullman County to house homeless individuals and families. The organization signed a contract to purchase 17 acres near the Bethel community in west Cullman County. The circumstances that enabled the purchase seem almost miraculous, but the kind of miracle common in the Cullman area, known for its charitable generosity.

Sharpe told The Tribune, "We've been planning this project for quite some time now, and anyway- long story short- we found a piece of property a couple of weeks ago, 17 acres, and we decided to pursue that. We had zero money to start out with, now. In 14 days, the people of Cullman- with a little bit of outside help, but mostly people from Cullman- gave $66,000 for us to purchase this land. That was really awesome, just two weeks. We've got a contract on the land, and hopefully, we will be closing in a couple of weeks on that land. So the big hurdle of trying to find and raise money for land is over!

"Now, as we close on it, we will begin raising money and starting the process of clearing land and getting the infrastructure worked and everything ready to move forward with our tiny home village."

According to Sharpe, the village will be built in phases, using 14- by 40-foot prefabricated buildings set up to provide fully functional living spaces with complete baths and kitchens. The first phase will bring four homes to the site, three capable of serving an individual or small family, and one to be a manager's office. UI will add four to eight more homes in each of the second and third phases. The total number of homes will be determined by civil engineers as they survey the property and create a site plan, but Sharpe hopes to see up to 12 tiny homes in the wooded setting, fashioned as cottages to give the village what he described as a "state park vibe."

Said Sharpe, "It'll be really relaxing, peaceful, a serene type of place. They can get away, so to speak; super nice, a place where people can come and really concentrate on their life and their relationship with God, and overcoming the obstacles in their life that are preventing them from having housing and being functioning members of society. It's going to be a really awesome place!"

In phase one, according to Sharpe's presentation on the UI website, "The three homes in this first phase will be used as needed. With these larger, full bath and kitchen houses, we can house families, mothers with children or singles. Phase one will be a time of learning and understanding how to operate the village. The specifics about our program will be developed during this phase as we learn and grow into the operation of the village. These first three homes can be used as emergency housing or longer-term housing. We will adjust the usage depending upon the needs."

Before houses are moved in, land must be cleared and surveyed for a site plan, a road must be constructed into the site and other infrastructure elements must be completed. Development of the village, not including the purchase of the land, is expected to total between $150,000 and $200,000.

Streetscape (from Front)

christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The next phase of the City of Cullman's Warehouse District Streetscape Project has begun, but residents are advised that the merchants in the Warehouse District remain open for business. City Engineer Erica York and Cullman Economic Development Agency Retail & Workforce Development Manager Susan Eller on Wednesday afternoon gave an update on the project's progress and how the City will help support and promote businesses as improvements continue.

The first phase of the Streetscape Project is in its final stages and work on First Avenue in front of the shops of the Warehouse district is now underway.

"Everybody back here, I think, is super excited about the project," said Eller. "They have been asking for lighting for years in that area. This will give them that lighting. The street has been cut and they will have a brand new street. The sidewalks are going to be beautiful and be ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act)-compatible. We are actually improving that area so much."

The project will include new bistro lighting rather than traditional street lights.

Explained York, "Normal street lamps would interfere with ADA. The minimum (sidewalk width) is 4 (feet) but we strive in our zoning to shoot for 5. That's what we require. If you were to put those big pedestal street lights in, it would take your accessibility to have a sidewalk."

The bistro lights will be in the first block of the Warehouse District with decorative light posts in the other areas.

York continued, "Our focus today is, let's keep this end focus in mind and we are going to do our best to keep these stores successful. We want you to shop and support these local businesses and keep the end goal in mind."

Eller said she has been busy making sure the stores are accessible throughout the project.

"(Property owner) Shane (Quick) actually came over to us and said, 'Hey, I have an idea.' So all of the stores have access from the ends or access from the back, on the west side. Shane has got back there and cleaned that up."

While construction is ongoing, the plan is to have visitors park and walk to the side entrances or through the back entrances of the shops. To remain ADA-compliant, access to the front entrances will remain accessible to those with disabilities.

The first phase of the project, beside the Festhalle, is expected to be finished in the next week or two with the exception of the final topcoat of paving.

Eller said, "Once they finish that, you will actually be able to have car traffic in there."

That will open up more parking for access to the Warehouse businesses. The City of Cullman has also ordered signage to help visitors navigate the Warehouse District during the construction.

When the project is complete, the center of First Avenue Northeast will have cobblestone stamped concrete and new crosswalks adding to the aesthetics and walkability of the area. New brick pavers have also been added during the project.

York explained, "We wanted it to tie in to some of the other beautifications that we have done. Like (U.S. Highway) 278 and (U.S. Highway) 31- we've done the brick pavers there and we wanted it to be the same kind to match for a more uniformed look. The cobblestone idea was we wanted to give it that historic feel, that vintage feel."

During festivals and events, removable bollards will be placed to block off streets.

While York and Eller did not give a specific date that the project will be completed, they did say they believe the phase reducing access to the Warehouse storefronts is expected to be completed in time for the main holiday shopping season.

Currently, there is no parking on First Avenue in the Warehouse District. Parking is available in the Cullman County Museum parking lot, Festhalle and next to Lavish Boutique. Parking is also available on the south end of the Warehouse District.

"That's not in the front door parking, but we are working on making parking accessible," said Eller. "The main thing is, we want to help these merchants survive. They are your friends and your family members. There is still access available to their buildings."

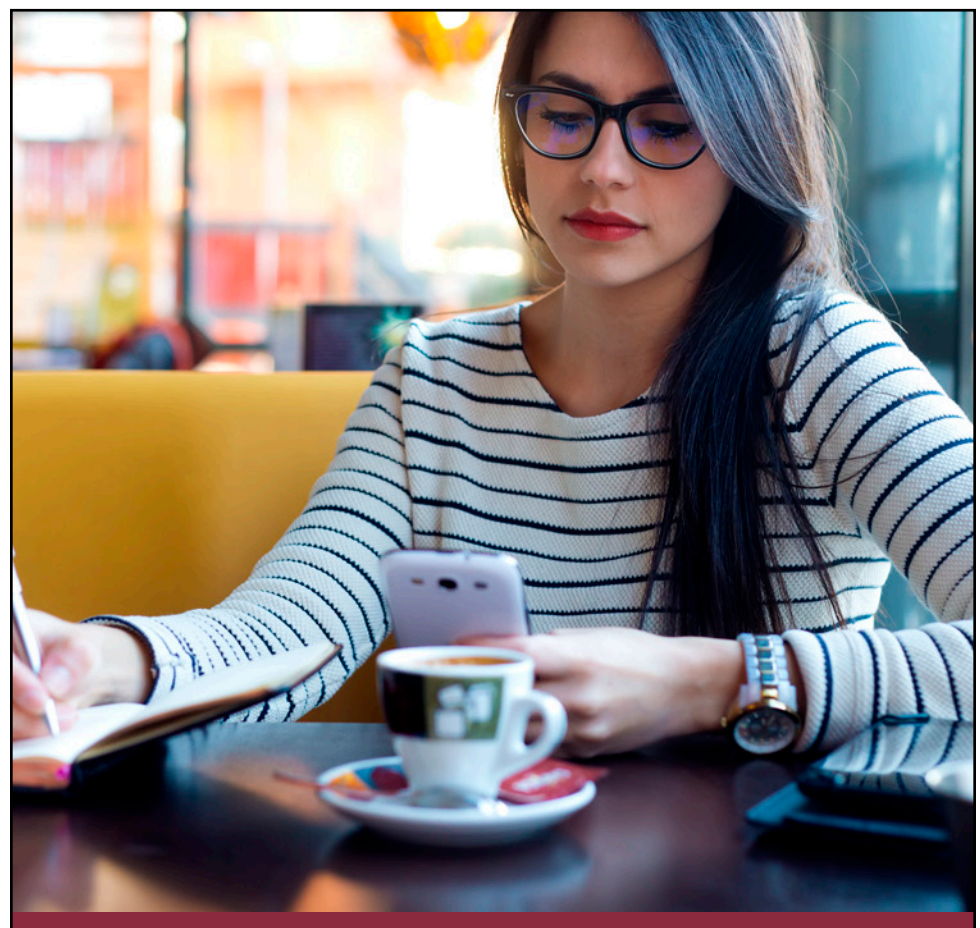

The east and west side shops will both have back entrance access. Some of the stores on the south end are still working on the best solutions.

"We will have signs everywhere to direct you!" Eller said.

The creative team behind this movie franchise probably made a wise decision to wrap things up given this subpar 2014 sequel, which finds night watchman Larry Daley (Ben Stiller) setting out on an epic quest to the British Museum in London to return an Egyptian artifact before its magic disappears. Robin Williams, Owen Wilson and Ricky Gervais, among several others, reprise their roles from the earlier films; Dan Stevens ("Downton Abbey") is among the newbies.

Fall armyworms marching in Alabama fields

Justin Miller
Contributor

AUBURN UNIVERSITY, Ala. – They say there are only a few things that are certain in life. Most forage producers in the Southeast would argue fall armyworm invasions are one of them. Yes, once again, fall armyworms are making their way onto the scene in multiple parts of Alabama.

Katelyn Kesheimer, an Alabama Extension entomologist, said the hot, dry weather conditions the state is experiencing have paved the way for a fall armyworm outbreak.

"Growers have already found treatable numbers of armyworms in many bermudagrass fields," Kesheimer said. "If not already doing so, producers should start scouting their fields and be prepared to treat."

Start scouting now

Fall armyworms can cause untold damage to pastures and hay fields if growers do not take proper scouting measures. Kesheimer said it is important to catch populations while they are small.

"Young caterpillars do not eat much and therefore are not going to cause substantial damage," she said. "However, if left undetected, they can continue to feed and reduce yield." If regular scouting is not in place, it may seem like armyworms appear overnight. It's hard to spot fall armyworm damage until it is already too late. This is why scouting for worms instead of damage is so important.

"By the time a producer sees obvious feeding damage or big worms, they have likely already lost some yield and control will be difficult," Kesheimer said. "That's why getting out there early with a sweep net to scout is the best defense we have against this consistent pest."

Proper scouting methods

A sweep net is the easiest and most efficient way to scout a field. Kesheimer said it is a good practice for producers to keep a sweep net in their vehicles. If a producer does not own a sweep net, most Alabama Extension county offices have one that they can borrow. Fall armyworms do not like to be out in the heat of the day. Because of this, scouting early in the morning or later in the evening will offer the best results.

"During the heat of the day, worms will crawl down into the thatch layer to stay cool and will be more difficult to spot," Kesheimer said. "If you scout when it's still cool, you'll likely catch the armyworms on the grass blades feeding and your counts will be more accurate."

Control early

It is better to be proactive against armyworms and seek control early while the worms are small. Kesheimer said larger worms cause the most damage and are the most difficult to kill with insecticides. "If producers find worms in a field that is close to being ready to harvest, the best action is to go ahead and harvest it," she said. "If the worms are found in a field that is used for grazing, use the cattle to intensively graze before they eat everything." When scouting, if a producer finds several worms, they should select a few other areas of the field to examine. In these areas, they should mark off approximately 1 square foot and scout for worms. Kesheimer said if there are two to three caterpillars per square foot, she recommends chemical control.

Chemical options

There are several available products that provide control of fall armyworms. Kesheimer said it is important to note the pre-harvest interval of any product that a grower chooses to use.

"These may vary depending on if the grass will be cut and bailed for hay or if it will be grazed," she said. Cost per acre also plays an important role in deciding what chemical to use. While pyrethroids, such as Karate and Baythroid, are an effective and cheap option, they do not have as long of a residual as the insect growth regulators. Insect growth regulators, like Intreprid and Dimilin, are slower-acting and most effective when the caterpillars are small, but provide a longer residual. Growers should also note that pyrethroids are restricted-use products. They will need a valid pesticide applicator license to purchase and apply them.

Kesheimer said in some cases, growers may want to tank mix two products, one pyrethroid and one insect growth regulator.

"In a year like this where there is heavy pressure early in the cutting cycle, the pyrethroid will provide a quick knockdown of the worms, while the insect growth regulator will provide residual control," Kesheimer said. "If you are more than one week away from the next cutting, using something with a longer residual is likely worth the additional cost per acre."

Insecticide options for controlling armyworms are available in the Alabama Extension Pastures and Forage Crop IPM Guide.
