FAIRVIEW, Ala. – The Fairview Lions Club on Monday held a scaled-back version of its annual Labor Day Extravaganza at Randall Shedd Community Park, opting out of its regular parade and attractions like bouncy houses, and going with a car show, socially-distanced craft vendors and club-staffed cookout. Though small by the event's usual standards, coordinators saw a good number of cars, trucks, tractors and motorcycles turn out for an event they hoped would give the COVID-restricted community a hint of normal fun and a reminder that the Lions are still going strong.

Fairview Lions Club Vice President Barbara Long said, "We've got a good turnout, but we'd have liked to had more."

"We really haven't been able to have any events since the early part of the year, because of all this COVID-19. We're hanging in there, just like everybody else is," President William Criscoe said. "So far, we haven't had a big demand for (eye)glasses (one of the Lions organization's major community services), but with school just starting back, that's something we see in the near future that we'll need to be helping with. Some of the other people that we've helped through the year with backpack programs and stuff, all that stuff got canceled, too. So there's still needs out there, and we're just trying to adapt to the situation, to be able to help where we can. This is one outlet that we can raise money to help."

Look for more coming up!

Said Criscoe, "We're planning a movie night here in the park in

Holly Pond's Evan Roden brings home 2 titles from East Alabama Invitational Lamb Show

W.C. Mann
craig@cullmantribune.com

HOLLY POND, Ala. – At the Alabama Lamb Producers Association's East Alabama Invitational Saturday, Holly Pond Middle School eighth grader Evan Roden, son of Holly Pond High School Agriscience teacher Rusty Roden, won Champion White-Faced Ewe Lamb and Reserve Champion Overall Market Lamb.

Proud dad Rusty Roden told The Tribune, "That's what he loves to do: he loves showing the lambs. We went to Denver last year, and we're planning on probably going to some other big show this year."

He continued, "Showing lambs is the number one thing he enjoys doing.

"He enjoys the competition, he enjoys the friendships, probably the friendships he's made- not only in Alabama but all in other states- the connection with those kids is cool."

Let The Tribune know if you hear about area students excelling in school or outside, in academics, in community service, in individual or team competition with or without cleats!

Evan Roden took honors in two categories at the East Alabama Invitational Lamb Show Saturday.

mid-October.

"It doesn't raise a lot of money, but it gives people a chance to get out, and they can still social distance here in the park, see a movie and enjoy being out with the family.

"I'm still hoping that we'll be able to have our Christmas parade here in December, so, hopefully, things will ease over some by then.

"One reason we wanted to try to continue to have this today is we want everybody to know in the community that we're still here and we're still trying. It's trying times for everybody. This is our home and our community; we want to support it that best we can, and neighboring communities, too, that doesn't have a Lions Club. We want to try to present something for the public, an outreach, and to be able to help people through that."

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman County Animal Shelter's Donna Ruttkay shares The Cullman Tribune Pet of the Week:

Quincy is a 1-year-old Golden Retriever/Collie mix. He's a laid-back, low- to medium-energy pet with great leash skills and good spatial awareness. He's flexible in his tastes, just happy to be wherever his people are. Ruttkay calls him "a friend for a lifetime!"

Quincy has the makings of a good therapy or companion/reading dog.

Quincy's adoption fee is $100 which includes DHLPP vaccine, Bordetella vaccines, rabies vaccine, wormer, general exam at the vet, neutering, microchip, free 30-day health insurance policy issued by 24PetWatch (with valid email only) and a free bag of food from Cullman Pet Depot (you must pass sales tax).

Animal shelter staff and volunteers work with their dogs to make sure they are accustomed to being around people, walking on a leash and practicing good behavior. Several of the shelter's canine friends have even been "hired" to work as therapy and special needs service dogs.

Please consider adopting, to give a rescued pet a chance at a happy and healthy life.

Contact the Cullman County Animal Shelter at 256-734-5448 or cullmancountyanimalshelter@gmail.com. Visit the shelter at 935 Convent Road NE.

Good news!
Ruttkay reported that former Pet of the Week Cupid, who has working hard as a nanny to several of the shelter's newer pups, and as an ambassador for the shelter to community organizations, has finally found a forever home of her own.

Ruttkay said, "Cupid was the perfect 'aunt' who assisted with the rehabilitation of Kipper, Sprout and Clementine, who were all adopted! When her work was complete, the perfect family appeared.

"Cupid will be spoiled, living inside, in air conditioning, taking care of her new momma!"

Model (from Front)

Wendy Sack
wendy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman High School on Sunday announced it is switching to a hybrid class model beginning today, Tuesday, Sept. 8, through Friday, Oct. 2 due to the number of individuals in quarantine because of COVID-19.

An exact number of students and/or faculty and staff with positive cases or in quarantine was not provided.

In an email to families, Principal Kim Hall said, "Due to cases of COVID among CHS students and families and increased exposure on campus, we believe it is necessary to amend our schedule to a hybrid format at this time. Our students must change classes multiple time a day. We have made many adjustments to do our best to mitigate the spread of the virus. With 50% student capacity on campus, we can ensure social distancing in our classrooms to maintain 6-foot distance among students. Many students are having to quarantine due to the protocol laid out by the ADPH (Alabama Department of Public Health) stating that individuals in close proximity (6 feet for more than 15 minutes) of an infected individual must be quarantined. According to the ADPH, individuals in close proximity of the infected individual must quarantine if they were within that range 48 hours prior to the infected individual's symptoms. By ensuring that students are 6 feet apart, which will be possible with smaller class sizes, only the possibly infected student will have to be sent home and not the several they are sitting in close proximity."

Hall said the administration will continue to monitor the situation carefully and make adjustments as needed.

Following the hybrid model this week, Group A (students with last names beginning with A-K) will attend in-person classes Tuesday and Wednesday, and Group B (students with last names beginning with L-Z) will attend in-person Thursday and Friday. Beginning Monday, Sept. 14, Group A will attend in-person Monday and Tuesday, and Group B will attend in-person Thursday and Friday, with all students learning remotely Wednesdays. Students not scheduled to be at school on their remote days must participate in the class Google Meets at the designated times and complete daily assignments on Schoology in order to be counted in attendance for the day.

"We will follow this hybrid schedule until Oct. 2," said Hall. "We will continue to monitor the situation in an effort to provide for the education and safety of our students."

Construction (from Front)

CULLMAN, Ala. – As the Warehouse District Streetscape Project moves forward, progress means temporary hardship for area merchants during a time when many businesses already face enough obstacles with COVID restrictions and the lingering effects of the shutdown. Developer Shane Quick came up with an interesting idea to deal with difficult front door access to Warehouse District merchants: let customers in through the back. Mid-block alleys on the east side and a newly-cleared and lighted alley on the west side will allow a means of access not directly exposed to construction activities, and could stay around even after the new streetscape is finished.

Quick told The Tribune, "The Warehouse District is excited to partner with the City in creating a new pathway for customers to be able to enjoy during the construction. You know, it's been great to see these customers continuing to support the local businesses. We wanted to make sure that we had a nice, comfortable- and it's actually a pretty inspiring- area. You're seeing some parts of the buildings that people haven't seen in decades. These buildings were built around 1905.

"The cool part is, you can actually enter the building; you can enter all the shops from the back side of the building where the new alley is. You can literally go in, from Ashley Mercantile all the way down to Monograms Plus. There is a way to get to your favorite store in the Warehouse District.

"That's on both sides, as well. You're talking about the east and the west side of the Warehouse District. You can get in Kernel Kullman, you can get in Oh Baby, you can get in Platform and all the boutiques. Basically, you can enter all the shops in the Warehouse District through the back side of those buildings."

According to Quick, all of the merchants are on board with the idea and are making arrangements for the new points of access.

"The City's been a big helping hand in helping keep these stores open and comfortable for customers during this construction," he added. "When the construction's done, it's going to be absolutely beautiful. Everyone in the Warehouse District couldn't be happier, couldn't be more thankful for the investment that the State- because it is a state grant that the mayor and the council were able to get to revitalize the Warehouse District- but it's a great investment the State is making in our area."

Hopes for completion of district streetscape before Christmas shopping season

"It's going to be beautiful when it's done, but obviously, we have got to be able to stay open and stay alive during the construction," Quick said. "The City has really worked hard, worked hand-in-hand with all the stores in getting us a pathway for customers during the construction. We're hoping sometime in October that the Warehouse District block will be finished, which is a very vital time in the lives of these local stores. That's when they make a lot of their income; people start their Christmas shopping. They're working hard, they're working double time to get that done.

"Keeper Alley" could be a long-term fixture

"That new entrance, that new alley, you know, we're calling it 'Keeper Alley;' it's basically the shopkeepers' alley. But there's lighting; we bought lighting for it, and the City and Parks and Rec were able to let us borrow their bike rack (barriers) so we can keep it safe. It's a good, shaded area, because it's shaded most of the day through there. I think customers will actually enjoy it. My goal is, as landlord, is to keep that alley open, even beyond the construction. I think it's going to be a cool place for people to enjoy Oktoberfest, different times of the year."

According to the Cullman Economic Development Agency, the front entrances and sidewalks will also remain open, to allow ADA-compliant access to the businesses. Currently, there is no parking on First Avenue in the Warehouse District. Parking is available behind the Cullman County Museum, at the Festhalle and next to Lavish Boutique, as well as the south end of the Warehouse District.

Auburn practice week ends with 'old-school' scrimmage

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. – On the day Auburn's 2020 season was originally scheduled to kick off, the Tigers scrimmaged for 90 plays Saturday at Jordan-Hare Stadium, three weeks before the revised season opener.

"Overall, it was really good," Auburn coach Gus Malzahn said. "It was almost 50-50 as far as run-pass by design. The last scrimmage was run-heavy."

The scrimmage concluded a four-practice week, leaving Auburn 15 more practices before Kentucky comes to the Plains Sept. 26 to commence a 10-game, all–SEC schedule.

"For the second scrimmage in a row, no major injuries which is a true blessing with everything else that's going on," he said. "We've had a very good week of practice. I liked our attitude; I liked our energy."

Scrimmage highlights included an 80-yard touchdown catch by running back Shaun Shivers, and three turnovers, including interceptions by Jamien Sherwood and Devin Guice.

Shaun Shivers' 80-yard touchdown reception highlighted Auburn's offensive output

"Scrimmages are the best way to see where we are," Malzahn said.

Quarterback Bo Nix continues to assert his leadership, Malzahn said. While the 2019 SEC Freshman of the Year wore a no-contact jersey, Auburn's backups QBs went live during the scrimmage, providing offensive coordinator Chad Morris a prime evaluation tool.

"A year ago to now is completely different," Malzahn said. "He has a much better understanding, not only of defenses, but the college game. You can tell he's more confident."

Auburn plans to scrimmage again next Saturday as the Tigers start to focus on the first game against the Wildcats.

"It will be more situational," he said. "The last two are just old-school, put the ball down and let them drive the field and if they don't, you punt, get off the field, and if you end up in the red zone, you end up in the red zone. We're still developing our foundation, our techniques and fundamentals."

Coach Malzahn also said...

On COVID-19 testing: "We had 16 players that missed this week of practice [with a combination of positive tests and contact traces]. The positive note is we tested Sunday and last Wednesday, we had zero positives. That was a really good sign that I feel like we're adjusting with our students back on campus.

"We'll test again tomorrow and Wednesday, too. We're hopeful that will stay the same and we can start getting a routine and get our guys out to the practice field, our whole team."

Oscar Chapman, a punter from Australia, and freshman receiver Malcolm Johnson Jr. will be ready to practice this week, Malzahn said.

On defensive tackle depth: "We've got a bunch of young, inexperienced guys who are getting a chance to do their thing and show what they can do. They're talented. They're getting a lot of reps in practice. [Associate head coach] Rodney [Garner] likes to play 10 guys a game anyway, so we'll be rotating. We feel good about where we are with the guys we have. We've still got good numbers."

On offensive and defensive lines: "There's been some really good competition. We're trying to be more physical than we have any fall camp. Getting these guys experienced on the run at an accelerated pace. We've got a lot of good options on both sides of the football, it's just a matter of coming together. That's why we're out there practicing."

On outside linebackers coach Al Pogue: "He's a relationship guy. He's very knowledgeable. He has a lot of positive energy. He doesn't have any bad days."

On freshman running backs Tank Bigsby and Mark-Antony Richards: "Both of them have play-making ability. They can create big plays. We've seen that throughout practice. Both those guys can catch the ball out of the backfield. That's been one of Chad's emphases, getting the ball more in the passing game to our running backs. Those two guys are getting experience.

"They're learning every day. The overall running back room, I think [assistant coach Carnell] Cadillac [Williams] is really impressed with the group as a whole with their attitude, their work ethic. He likes the overall depth he has."

On defensive back Roger McCreary: "Roger McCreary is really taking the next step. You can just tell his confidence level is at a different level. He's had an excellent camp so far. He's one of our leaders. He's not a real vocal guy but he does it more by example.

The Path Forward: Race and Opportunity in America

Jon Fortt and Andrew Ross Sorkin co-anchor this special that explores the problem of the under-representation of Black workers and leaders in corporate America, and questions whether that glaring imbalance results in an "opportunity gap" that affects the nation's broader economy. The program also highlights potential solutions and viable ideas from corporate America, entrepreneurs and government leaders.

The death of a popular Kingdom Scrolls live-streamer triggers an existential crisis for Nicky (Will Merrick), but Meg (Alexa Davies) spots an opportunity for herself in the new episode "Big Nose." When Alison (Charlotte Ritchie) invites Nicky and Meg to a party she is throwing, the occasion only serves to remind the socially awkward pair how incapable they are of socializing with "normal" people. Sargon Yelda and David Mumeni also star.

Biography: I Want My MTV

This new two-hour special charts the rise of a music channel that came to define a generation as a cultural phenomenon. In the early days of cable TV, MTV's scrappy, irreverent lineup of music videos eventually evolved into a reflection of America's youth culture. As the channel and its programming matured and became more sophisticated, MTV pushed the envelope with art, sex, gender and race, and when the information revolution ignited, MTV was at the forefront in new technologies. Interviews include Pat Benatar, Sting, Annie Lennox and many others.

America's Book of Secrets: Special Edition

A new episode called "Crimes and Punishment" looks at America's kings of crime, an unsavory rogue gallery that encompasses serial killers, terrorists and the mafia. The two-hour presentation reveals what goes on behind the stone prison walls and iron bars that hold these villains, while also exploring the question of how much government officials really know — and more to the point, how much they're prepared to reveal.

Harbor From the Holocaust

This new one-hour documentary chronicles the saga of how some 20,000 Jewish refugees fled Nazi-occupied Europe during World War II and took refuge in the Chinese city of Shanghai. The film explores the largely unknown relationship that developed between these refugees — dubbed "Shanghailanders" — and their newly adopted home. It's a story that is unusually nuanced and complex, much like Shanghai itself.

While assisting Bash (Hamza Haq) on treating a patient with a tricky diagnosis, Mags (Laurence Leboeuf) starts to realize that her new colleague's experience as a combat doctor has conditioned him to take an instinct-based approach in the new episode "Tell Me Who You Are." Elsewhere, head nurse Claire Malone (Torri Higginson) frets over whether Dr. Bishop (John Hannah) is rushing things by coming back to work so soon after his accident. Ayisha Issa also stars.

"Harbor From the Holocaust" airs on PBS.

OPINION

Leadership, part 8

Tom Fillinger
Tribune Columnist

I heard a pastor on the radio make the following statement: "The purpose for which God gave the pillar of fire to Israel was to keep them warm at night in the desert." Folks, that is horrendous. The man should not be a leader in the church if he is this ignorant of the Scripture. Steve Lawson states there are two kinds of pastors. Those who preach the text and those who should resign. The man who made the statement referenced above should resign, pronto!

Everything rises and falls on leadership. Listen carefully. Take notes. Apply what you hear to the church where you gather.

The Church is a Theological Entity and as such we know God's blessing and fruitfulness when we honor and apply the ministry structures and practices that are clearly revealed in the text of Scripture.

NT Leadership must be:
I. Theologically Grounded
The Church is a theological entity and as such ministry must be guided by theological considerations. Cf. David Wells' five (5) volumes written between 1993 and 2008 for an examination of the departure from this principle.

John 17:17 Sanctify them in the truth; your word is truth.

2 Timothy 3:16-17 All Scripture is breathed out by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, 17 that the man of God may be competent, equipped for every good work.

II. Exegetically Substantiated
God's Truth must be represented with impeccable accuracy. The delivery of the message of the Gospel must be accurate and integrated. We must practice both biblical and systematic theology.

Acts 20:27-28 for I did not shrink from declaring to you the whole counsel of God. 28 Pay careful attention to yourselves and to all the flock, in which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to care for the church of God, which he obtained with his own blood.

John 1:18 No one has ever seen God; the only God, who is at the Father's side, he has made him known.

III. Boldly Executed
Boldness is not arrogant. Boldness is not self-sufficient. Boldness is the expression by a man serving as a servant-leader who knows who God is, what He has said and what man must do to honor God. He calls people to submit to the Truth and obey all Jesus has commanded.

Acts 4:13 Now when they saw the boldness (freedom, confidence) of Peter and John, and perceived that they were uneducated, common men, they were astonished. And they recognized that they had been with Jesus.

I invite response to these articles. You may contact me by phone at 803-413-3509; leave a voice mail. Or send me an email at info@igniteUS.net. I am available to serve as an interim pastor or for pulpit supply. I look forward to your inquiries.

Festival (from Front)

christy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The 24th Annual Sweet Tater Festival took place Monday at Smith Lake Park, with a large crowd coming out to celebrate Labor Day and enjoy some outside merriment. Sweet Tater had most of its usual sights and sounds- food and craft vendors, a petting zoo, cloggers, live music and vintage vehicles, but this year's festival was modified from those in the past, shortened from two days to just one, and the popular pie eating and Pepsi chugging contests were shelved. Also missing? Sweet potatoes. But none of that seemed to put a damper on the beautiful day.

Cullman County Parks and Recreation Director Doug Davenport said he was unsure in the days leading up to the festival how many vendors would participate or how the public would respond due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. He got his answer soon after the gates opened at 9 a.m. Monday morning.

"The staff has told me there are more cars this year than last," he said, "but we don't have a count."

Admission to the festival was free this year, which could be a reason so many chose to come out, but many of the people The Tribune spoke to were just happy to have something to get out and do, after a long, hot summer lacking most of the usual summertime events around the county.

Crowds enjoyed the Clog Wild Cloggers out of Fultondale.

The dance troupe entertained with its high-energy routines on the Smith Lake Stage, followed by the traditional golf cart parade. Across from the festival, a great showing of classic cars and trucks was enjoyed. Dogs, almost as plentiful as people, strolled about the grounds.

Feathered Friends Cockatoo and Horse Sanctuary once again brought its popular petting zoo, complete with horse and pony rides.

Wednesday the Camel was there, too, delighting the kids as they fed him carrots and he washed them down with the occasional cold Gatorade.

Ally Cole Swader came from Decatur with her mom, papaw and nana. She enjoyed riding the pony, according to her papaw, who said, "We are all having a great time. She (Ally) loves the animals."

As to the lack of the titular spud?

Davenport said local farmers were late getting them in the ground this year due to rain, so the potatoes weren't mature yet, and the vendor who usually doles out the sweet potato ice cream did not attend.

However, lines to the food and drink vendors were busy throughout the afternoon, and a return to normalcy seemed to have everyone in a great mood.
