It's prime Autumn decorating time!

CHRISTY PERRY/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Stackable pumpkins, like these at Gibbs Garden Center, are a popular item this year for fall decorating.

CULLMAN, Ala. – Fall is definitely here, but saying good-bye to summer doesn't mean saying good-bye to beautiful blooms and plants. Area garden centers have boundless varieties of beautiful colors for fall, as well as some great Autumn decorating trends.

Stackable pumpkins are this year's must-have and Gibbs Garden Center has pumpkins and gourds galore. Taylor Oslin at Gibbs on U.S. Highway 31 North in Cullman was busy helping customers Tuesday as they browsed the many varieties in every shape, size and color imaginable. Pumpkins and gourds are a great fall look, and the stacks are a unique alternative to the traditional orange pumpkin.

The mum still reigns supreme as the top-selling fall plant, and Oslin said multi-colored mums are among the most-sought types this year. Coming in so many bold colors, mums are a great way to spruce up any area.

Pansies, violas and snapdragons are also available now, and Oslin said, "They will keep their color until spring."

Pat and Chris Thompson at the Man Cave Market in South Vinemont have many beautiful fall plants including pansies and violas. Pat Thompson was excited to introduce us to some great fall flowering plants the Man Cave recently received.

"Crotons- there's different varieties of them. We've got kalanchoes and calandiva, which is a double bloom kalanchoe. Those are really good. They'll bloom in sun or shade and they'll bloom year round. That's a great plant!" he smiled.

"Pumpkins, pansies and mums are what most people ask for, but I've had a lot of people asking about orchids. Even though that's not really a fall item, lots of folks are still asking about them," Thompson said.

The Man Cave still has orchids and Thompson said their continued popularity is perhaps due to being able to tend to them inside.

Ornamental pepper plants, shrimp plants, Keepsake azaleas, Crown of Thorns (a type of kalanchoe) and Mona lavender are some of the interesting plants available and can add color to your home or yard throughout the year.

Thompson said of the Mona lavender, "It won't take the cold and it's a shade plant, but it's also a great house plant. It will actually bloom like that inside. You can damage it by watering it too hard, but it's a great plant."

Thompson said he is also a fan of Muhly grass, which he described as a low-maintenance plant. "You can grow it anywhere you want. It takes full sun and I love it!"

Also popular this fall is decorating with driftwood and adding air plants, succulents and moss for a great conversation piece. » PAGE 2

Operation Safe Families initiative to combat domestic violence in Alabama

Cullman Tribune staff
Contributor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. – U.S. Attorney Prim F. Escalona on Tuesday announced Operation Safe Families, a new initiative to fight domestic violence in the Northern District of Alabama. Through Operation Safe Families, the U.S. Attorney's Office will work with federal, state, and local law enforcement to use federal firearm laws to combat domestic violence. Additionally, the Office will work closely with partners in the community who are focused on prevention, education and survivor support. Operation Safe Families is a partnership between the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, Birmingham Police Department, Jefferson County Sheriff's Office, Jefferson County District Attorney's Office, One Place Family Justice Center, YWCA, Hispanic Interest Coalition of Alabama and the Crisis Center.

"Domestic violence tears at the fabric of our communities and affects every demographic of society," Escalona stated. "Through Operation Safe Families, we look forward to working with our local partners to combat domestic violence in the Northern District of Alabama. Our top priority is to keep our communities safe by keeping guns out of the hands of domestic abusers."

"Removing the criminal element that uses a firearm to facilitate violent crimes related to domestic violence is a priority of ATF," ATF Acting Special Agent in Charge, Toby Taylor stated. "These focused investigations will have a lasting impact within our communities."

Federal firearm laws prohibit gun possession for domestic abusers. These firearm laws can be used to prosecute abusers – often without the testimony of victims, who may be hesitant to testify in a court proceeding against their abuser.

The pertinent federal laws that may relate to domestic violence crimes fall into two broad categories:

• Crimes under the Gun Control Act, which prevents prohibited persons – including convicted felons, individuals previously convicted of misdemeanor domestic violence offenses, and individuals subject to certain protective orders—from possessing firearms, or from lying to firearms dealers about their status

• Crimes under the Violence Against Women Act, which prohibits interstate stalking, cyber stalking, and using interstate commerce to commit domestic violence or violate protective orders

Beginning this month, Assistant U.S. Attorneys from the Northern District of Alabama along with agents from the ATF Birmingham Field Division will provide training to local District Attorney's Offices and federal, state, and local law enforcement to assist those agencies in selecting cases involving domestic abusers that are appropriate for federal prosecution.

Autumn (from Front)

"The good thing is it's interchangeable. You can change it with your moods, so you don't have the same thing on there. The root systems on all of these things are very small and it doesn't take a lot of water. People love doing that kind of thing. Creating something. When they create it, it changes their moods. Plants are therapy," said Thompson.

Even the dreaded fire ant bed can create a great art piece for your home, he said. "They pour hot aluminum down a fire ant bed and this is what comes out of it (gesturing to a finalized piece). They pull it out, knock all the dirt off of it, paint it and mount it. That's a local person who does that."

Gibbs Garden Center and The Man Cave Market, besides offering wide varieties of fall pumpkins and mums, also have corn stalks, seasonal wooden signs, decorations and other fall necessities.

Gibbs Garden Center is located at 5847 County Road 616 Hanceville, Alabama 35077 and 1600 Second Ave. NW (Hwy. 31) Cullman, AL 35055. Find Gibbs online at www.gibbsgardencenter.com and www.facebook.com/gibbsgardencenter.

Warriors getting hot down the stretch

Chris Pugh
Tribune correspondent

WEST POINT, Ala. You don't really find out what a person or team is made of until pressure is applied. West Point found themselves at 0-5 after several close losses and could have easily let the rest of the season slip away. With a two-game road trip looming, and their backs against the wall, West Point responded to adversity and fought back to have a chance to still make it to the postseason.

Reeling off two dominating wins over Crossville and Sardis has set up for a big home game this Friday night against Douglas, followed by an away region finale against the top team in the region, Guntersville. During this stretch of wins, West Point has seemed to find its identity and it's what they have known they could be all year; a high-powered offense with a stingy defense that forces opposing teams to earn every yard and point.

Let's start with the offense. If you remember during the jamboree game, senior receiver Jacob Dye started off with a hat trick, scoring three times in the season opener. The offense lost him mid-season due to an ankle injury and the impact was definitely felt, but Dye has shown he is back and ready. During this win streak he has hauled in nine receptions, over 200 yards, and four touchdowns.

Teammates Will Bowers and Carter Thornton have shown that the Warriors have weapons all over the field. Both have proven to be threats anytime they touch the ball, but over the last two weeks, opposing defenses have had to learn that the hard way. Both Bowers and Thornton have tossed touchdowns in the last two weeks, catching the defense sleeping early.

With weapons all around it takes two key pieces to sustain success, a quarterback to get the ball in the hands of the playmakers and a running back to keep a defense honest. Senior quarterback Will Cochran and junior running back Kelton Washington are just that and more. Cochran has cemented himself as a true dual threat quarterback. Whether he is dropping back and hitting a receiver in stride, moving around the pocket to create time, or running it himself, Cochran is always making plays in the air and on the ground.

Washington on the other hand has been focused on one thing, pounding the football on the ground. Over the last three weeks he has rushed for an eye-popping 520 yards and four touchdowns. That stat in and of itself is impressive, but stats don't tell the entire story. If you want to understand what makes Washington so impressive it's simple, yards after contact. I don't know that I have seen a play all season where he has gone down after first contact. He runs like a combination of several former Alabama running backs. He spins like Eddie Lacy, jukes like TJ Yeldon and will lay the truck stick down like Derrick Henry. His second, third and sometimes fourth efforts have been imperative to the offense's success and he looks to continue his dominance the rest of the way.

BILL PIPER/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

The West Point Warriors will host Douglas for another crucial region matchup Friday night.

On the defensive side of the ball you truly see a group effort that takes a lot of pride in making offenses grind for every yard. It seems like every drive teams are forced to have to convert third downs over and over in order to have any kind of success. The defense struggled getting off the field on third down early in the year, but over the last two weeks they have been forcing several three and outs which means they're handing their explosive offense more and more opportunities to score.

The defensive line has been anchored by Ashton Thraikill and Kenyan Baker, both of whom are always making big stops and forcing turnovers. Linebacker Keaton Chappell is always flying to the football and defensive back Branson Smith has been key to stopping the passing threats. Thornton has proven to be a key piece on the defense as well, making impacts against the pass and run.

This Warrior team is hitting its stride and they have proven to be a force. They'll host Douglas Friday night, seeking their first home win.

My prediction? West Point-35, Douglas-18.

Tank Bigsby breaks out, draws Cadillac comparison

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. – When Tank Bigsby signed with Auburn last December, running backs coach Carnell Williams said, "He can do it all."

Making his first start in his third college football game, Bigsby did it all, all right, netting 268 all-purpose yards in No. 13 Auburn's 30-28 win Saturday vs. Arkansas, drawing Cadillac comparisons in the process.

"He's running like Cadillac Williams," said offensive lineman Alec Jackson. "He was being a tank today. He did his thing."

"Coach Cadillac, that's my man," Bigsby said. "He's in my ear, making sure I do everything right, on the field and off the field."

Regarding their similar running styles, Bigsby will let others opine.

"I just leave that up to other people," he said. "I really haven't seen Coach Lac play, but I've seen some footage of him. I know he was a great player, but we have a lot in common, on and off the field.

"I don't watch myself unless it's film. Of course, I'll be trying to beat all of his records."

Bigsby rushed for 146 yards on 20 carries (7.3 yards per carry), added 16 receiving yards on four catches, and returned four kickoffs for 106 yards.

"He broke tackles," Auburn coach Gus Malzahn said. "He ran extremely hard. That's what I saw. He bounced a couple out, he cut them back, ran some guys over, broke tackles, kept his legs moving and protected the football. I thought he did a good job."

Perhaps the only person Bigsby failed to impress was himself.

"It was all right," he said. "I could have done a lot of things better, pressing, being more patient, working on getting in the end zone, running the ball more physically.

"I'm just really glad we won. I'm okay with my performance, but down the road hopefully, I know it will get better."

Nothing Bigsby accomplished surprised Cadillac.

"He can run between the tackles. He's fast, big, can catch out of the backfield, is a willing blocker," Williams said on signing day.

The 6-0, 209-pound Bigsby ranked in the top five nationally at his position at Callaway High School in LaGrange, Georgia, scoring 27 touchdowns and rushing for 1,636 yards as a senior.

"The thing I love most about this young man, not only does he have really great talent, but he's a high-character guy," Williams said. "He's going to come in, work hard, he's selfless."

Bigsby surpassed the 100-yard mark in the first half on a 26-yard run where he started running to his left, found yards up the middle, then cut to his right for his biggest gain of the game.

Like a veteran, he credited his blockers for creating running lanes.

"The O-line did very well today," Bigsby said. "They were in the trenches and they won.

"I just went out there, handled my business. I just thank the O-line and my team for being with me.

"I'm very hard on myself and expect more from myself. It was really good to have my first 100-yard game in college. Hopefully I have more to come."

Freshman Auburn running back Tank Bigsby posted 268 all-purpose yards in the Tigers' 30-28 win over Arkansas Saturday.

UAB Football set to host WKU Saturday at Legion Field

Ted Feeley
UAB Athletics

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. – Coming off a bye week, the UAB football team returns to Legion Field in search of its 21st consecutive home victory as the Blazers host WKU on Saturday. The game is set for 12:30 p.m. CST on Stadium, which can be seen on the Fox Sports GO app, Fox College Sports on YouTube tv or Stadium Plus on YouTube tv.

THREE THINGS TO KNOW

With 144 yards vs. UTSA, senior running back Spencer Brown moved into 14th place in Conference USA history for career rushing yards. He now has 3,572 rushing yards and needs 13 more this weekend to move into 13th place in league history. Of Brown's 450 rushing yards this season, 294 have come after contact.

UAB's pass defense ranks second nationally in passing yards allowed (153.2/game) amongst teams that have played multiple games this season. The Blazers have yet to allow a team to pass for more than 200 yards and are coming off a game in which they held UTSA to just 90 total passing yards.

UAB (3-1, 1-0 C-USA) is 21-6 vs. Conference USA opponents since returning to action in 2017. One of those six losses came at the hands of WKU last year as the Hilltoppers defeated the Blazers 20-13 in Bowling Green. WKU enters this Saturday's contest at 1-3 overall and 1-1 in league play.

HEAD COACH BILL CLARK

Opening Statement . . .
"Coming off an open date after the UTSA game, as with all open dates, it's a chance to heal up some. It's nice to work on things you need to work on. It was a lot of video and a lot of academics at the first and the end of the week. The middle of the week was just normal practice with a lot of fundamentals.

"We are just trying to get better. Moving into this WKU game at home, it's a big game. I think a lot of coach Helton. I have known him for many years. We go way back. Obviously, I know his whole family. What a good job he has done there. You have to remember us going up there last year and them beating us. We have a lot of respect for their team.

"They have lost some close games and probably wish they had started a little better. We are going to get their best game.

"In conference play, it's a championship game every week. You throw the records out. I have been very impressed with them. We are going to have our work cut out for us."

On WKU's quarterback Tyrrell Pigrome . . .
"This is a guy who we knew who he was. We recruited him. He comes from really good high school coaching then goes to Maryland and does very well there and has an injury. He is super dynamic. He has a big arm and great feet. He is a running quarterback, and they have kind of built that whole offense around him. They do what they do also. That are very multiple with a control passing game and a really good running game. They take their shots when they are there. Coach Helton calls that offense. They do a good job. (Pigrome) went out the other night in the third quarter. I think they were trying to get another guy in to see if they could get a little spark. The backup led them to two touchdowns. You never know how that will go. We will just have to try to be prepared for a couple of guys, which is what we had to deal with two weeks ago. Pigrome is definitely dynamic and explosive."

On Wilson Beaverstock's sock drive . . .
"First, we talk about giving back. That is kind our whole mission statement: trying to serve others. Wilson is just that kind of guy. He is going to go into the medical field. When you can get a guy who is a good player, but a better person, that is the most important thing to me, my staff and his family. What a great guy. I really did not know a lot about this. This is not some kind of 'get attention' deal. It was truly giving back situation. That is who he is and I can't say enough great things about Wilson."

UAB ATHLETICS

UAB will host Western Kentucky at Legion Field Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

On receiving votes in the AP Poll . . .
"You want to be there when it is all said and done. That is what we have been trying to do ever since we have been here. To try to be in that thought process. Up to this point, we are deserving. Past that, it is all game-to-game. There is nobody in this building who is going to get a big head or anything like that. You are only as smart as today and what you do this week. It is nice. I think it is just one more thing that helps us in everything we do, which is promoting our program, getting recruits and everything about where our program is headed."

On limiting turnovers . . .
"We talk so much about it. We are obsessed with it. Ball security is where it starts. It is a true team activity. Bryson played well. You have to make the right read. His first throw was a missed read on a safety. The second one, I think we should have gotten out of bounds. Then he gets hit on the third one as he is throwing. It is just a constant. I don't know if we will see anybody that pressures us more than UTSA did. Give them credit. If you go back to the first play of the game, we ran Watkins on a hide route, and they bring fire. If he catches it, he probably scores. That was the feast or famine mentality that they were playing with. He didn't catch it and they lived to play another down. He will be better for it. We will be better for it. The one thing you want to give those quarterbacks is experience."

On the latest rounds of COVID-19 testing . . .
"We are at zero. We have been at zero since the Miami game. We are knocking on wood and keeping on doing the right things."

Artist Stacy Beam to host art exhibition in Arab

got together and decided to have a fundraiser Powder Puff game.

"The proceeds raised were graciously donated to the Cullman Caring for Kids/ United Way food bank. It was our pleasure to meet such nice and respectful young men, who stepped up and served the community in a positive way. It is because of young people like you that we look forward to the future."

Later in the afternoon, Bryant told The Tribune, "To me, it was amazing that young people think outside the box.

"They are making a difference in our community by doing the things that are just so creative. It really is amazing to see these young people step up and care about people that are hungry."

Grace added, "It makes my heart happy to see students giving back to the community."

Mum's the word

Mary Leigh Oliver
Contributor

AUBURN UNIVERSITY, Ala. –With fall here, the radiant autumn colors of chrysanthemums for sale begin line the entrances of grocery stores across Alabama. Chrysanthemums, better known as "mums," are a signature fall flower in the South.

"Mums add variety and color to the fall landscape during a time when most gardens are beginning to lose their attraction," said Lucy Edwards, a regional home grounds agent with the Alabama Cooperative Extension System.

Knowing how to pick the right mum for a garden or front steps can help liven up the fading colors of fall and prepare for Halloween festivities.

Know your mum

There are two main categories of mums: floral and garden. Floral mums are not typically grown outside and are sold by florists for arrangements, and garden mums are seen in the garden centers or outside of grocery stores in the fall.

They can also be categorized by shape or type. The two most common types of flowers on mums are daisy and decorative. Colors can range from white, bronze, yellow, red, coral, pink, lavender and red.

"When purchasing, select colors that will complement your home's exterior," Edwards said. "Pairing with pansies, snapdragons, and pumpkins can create a festive fall display."

How to pick a healthy mum

To ensure mums thrive throughout the fall season, pick mums with their blooms not entirely open. This allows for longer bloom time.

"Always inspect the mums in the store for signs of insects or disease," she said. "No one wants a sick plant!"

Powdery mildew is a disease most common on mums in the fall, resulting from hot, humid weather, which is an almost certainty in Alabama. If you discover powdery mildew on your plants, remove the infected leaves, and treat with a labeled fungicide.

Proper care

Mums are relatively easy and grow, especially in Alabama weather, either in containers or a planted landscape. These flowers perform best in moist, well-drained soil with added compost. Try to avoid wet, poorly drained soil.

Sunlight is essential for most flowers. Choose a planting site that receives six hours or more of sun.

"Regular sunlight and watering can keep mums thriving until the first frost," Edwards said.

When planting in a landscape, plant at the same depth as the container the mum came in. Typically, garden mums are planted in late fall after they have finished blooming.

These perennials survive best divided every two to three years. If not divided, the new growth will be long and spindly with fewer blooms.

"Pinching the new shoots in the spring will encourage lateral shoots, resulting in more flowers and a fuller plant," Edwards said.

Do not pinch after July, or the mum may not have time for blooms to develop.

ADDISON, Ala. – Addison will advance and host a sub-regional tournament at Stephenson Gymnasium Friday after the Lady Bulldogs knocked off both Cold Springs and Hatton to win this year's 2A, Area 13 Tournament. Addison swept both the Lady Eagles and Lady Hornets to secure the area crown.

Addison 3 – Cold Springs 0 (25-4, 25-5, 25-14)

After jumping out to an early lead and dominating the first set against Cold Springs 25-4, the Lady Bulldogs generated another fast start in the second set. Addison built a 7-2 at the start the grew to 11-4 midway through the set. A 7-1 scoring run stretched the lead to 18-5 and the Lady Bulldogs pulled away to take the second set 25-5.

The third set was the tightest of the afternoon between the two teams. The score was knotted at 4 early but Addison managed to pull ahead and take an 8-6 lead. The Lady Bulldogs added to their lead, making it 12-7 midway through the set before using a 9-1 scoring run to take a 21-9 lead.

Cold Springs wouldn't go down easily and managed to cut into the deficit, but it wasn't enough, and Addison won the third set 25-14 to complete the sweep and advance to the area tournament finals.

Gracie Manley posted four aces, two kills and a pair of digs in the win while senior Sunny Snoddy added three aces and a team-high 11 kills. Addisyn Smothers posted a pair of aces, seven kills and three digs, Hadley Butler finished with two aces and a dig and Abby Waldrep racked up seven kills for the Lady Bulldogs.

NICK GRIFFIN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Addison 3 – Hatton 0 (25-9, 25-4, 25-13)

The area tournament finals more of the same for Addison. The Lady Bulldogs held a slim, 5-3 lead early in the first set but began to create separation and built a 10-4 lead. The run continued and Addison pulled ahead 17-5 before running away with the opening set 25-9.

The Lady Bulldogs had even less trouble with Hatton in the second set, going on top 10-3 early before taking a 15-4 lead midway through the set. A 10-0 run gave Addison a 25-4 win in the second set and a 2-0 lead in the match.

Once again, the third set of the match was the most competitive for the Lady Bulldogs. They led the way 13-6 midway through the set and used a 6-2 run to create a 19-8 lead. The Lady Hornets continued to fight back but they couldn't overcome Addison on its home floor and the Lady Bulldogs pulled away to take the third set 25-13 and sweep the area tournament to advance to the sub-regionals.

Manley added another five aces in the match against Hatton to go along with four kills and two blocks. Smothers racked up a team-high 11 kills, four blocks and an ace in the win. Butler recorded five digs and Bailee Ory and Molly Gilbreath each finished with four. Waldrep finished with another four kills and three blocks for Addison.

The Lady Bulldogs will be back home Friday night to host a sub-regional tournament.

Finding a new way to have fun

How West Elementary P.E. classes are keeping kids healthy and safe in 2020

Cullman City Schools
Contributor

CULLMAN, Ala. – Kids are still having fun in P.E. class this year — their teachers and coaches just have to get a bit more creative in 2020.

With schools across the state and nation making adjustments to keep students as safe as possible during the COVID-19 pandemic, even the most basic school-day staples had to be rethought to increase social distancing and limit common touch points.

When it came to physical education, the P.E. crew at West Elementary School aimed to drastically reduce class sizes, while rethinking activities to make them as safe as possible — while still making sure kids are having fun in the process.

Call it P.E. 2.0. — or maybe P.E. 2020.

West Elementary School P.E. teacher Joseph McPhillips said in the past, they'd have as many as 100 students at one time during a P.E. course — though obviously that wasn't going to work in the era of social distancing.

"That was the old way we'd done things for as long as I've been here, where we'd have basically the whole grade level at once," McPhillips explained.

"The biggest change, now, is that instead of 100 students we have around 18-25 at a time.

"Basically, we're doing one homeroom at a time, so those students stay together throughout the day."

Classes are divided out across the school's different P.E. teachers, with each class being held in a separate location to "bubble" the student groups by homeroom.

So that takes care of the social distancing, but what do they actually do in P.E. now? McPhillips said they had to get creative, and one big component of P.E. this year is an evolution of the "Wellness Wednesday" program to promote overall fitness.

The idea was a perfect fit for the era of social distancing.

"We'd have anywhere from 8-16 stations set up, like jumping jacks, or push-ups, or step-ups — just a variety of exercises so kids can rotate around. So we're able to keep kids as active as possible one at a time, using not very much equipment at all," McPhillips explained.

"Of course, we limit kids from handling a lot of equipment, and what we do use is sanitized between every class.

"But we think it's more important than ever now to give kids a chance to move around and be active, during that break from the classroom."

Along with workout stations, the P.E. staff has also put news spins on old games — all with an aim toward keeping them as fun, and safe, as possible.

"We've obviously tried to stay outside as much as possible, so we can let the kids spread out and move around, so they can have a bit of time to feel normal for a while, and bring some normalcy to this year," McPhillips said.

"Our first unit we did was a soccer unit, because the only equipment you really need is a ball, and you're using your feet instead of your hands.

CULLMAN CITY SCHOOLS

West Elementary School students exercise as part of the "Wellness Wednesday" program the school has doubled down on in 2020, to keep students safe and healthy this school year.

"We're doing new games that factor in social distancing and limit contact, like a fitness game called 'Pacman,' where students try to stay on a line and tag the players by touching with a dodgeball to limit contact.

"We're keeping kids safe, but for them it's just a fun game and a different way to play it."

The P.E. staff is also using this year as a chance to reinforce hygiene education, encouraging students to frequently wash their hands and not touch their face.

"Those are always great lessons to reinforce, now more than ever," McPhillips said.

West Elementary Principal Dr. Jay Page said the "Wellness Wednesday" program began last year as a way to better position students to attain the Superintendent's Award and Governor's Award in the Physical Fitness testing — and he's glad to see it help leading the charge to a healthier 2020 for his students.

"I am proud of Coach Knop, Coach Little and Coach McPhillips for challenging our students, and I am proud of our students for rising to the challenge to increase their fitness," he said.

"This year, it has been fun to see our students adapt to the new requirements of P.E.

"The games that our coaches are using are fun and engaging.

"It is so important for students to keep physically active.

"Being physically active promotes and increases our students' academic achievement."
