CULLMAN, Ala. – Good Samaritan Health Clinic on Monday presented plaques to the children of Stephen K. Griffith for the contributions of the fund named in their father's honor to the charitable clinic's mental health services. Griffith, a prominent Cullman attorney, was murdered in 2017 by a man suffering from severe mental illness.

The next year, Griffith's family started the Stephen K. Griffith Memorial Fund to provide mental health services to Cullman County residents who cannot afford services or lack insurance.

Good Samaritan Executive Director Jolanda Hutson told the family and members of the fund's governing board, "We really appreciate that you all are allowing the tragic experience that y'all went through to be the motivation and the inspiration to really make a positive impact on so many in our community."

Hutson said the Cullman community has a great need for mental health services, and the partnership with the fund is "a stepping-stone and a starting point" for giving people the help they need.

Mandy Wilhite, a licensed counselor who operates Haven Counseling Services, provides Good Samaritan's mental health services.

She told the group, "Through tragedy, we have made numerous » PAGE 7

Stabbing (from Front)

Wendy Sack
wendy@cullmantribune.com

BREMEN, Ala. – One person was stabbed in what authorities called a domestic incident in the Cold Springs community Saturday evening. Two people have been charged in connection with the incident. The identity of the victim, who was transported to an area hospital for treatment of his injuries, has not been released. Monday, the Cullman County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) said Heather Schlecta, 33, of Bremen has been charged with third-degree domestic violence and James Melville Schlecta, 43, of Bremen has been charged with two counts of first-degree assault and third-degree domestic violence.

"I would like to thank the deputies and investigators for a quick response that led to the arrest of these two individuals," said Cullman County Sheriff Matt Gentry.

In addition to the CCSO, the Bremen, Cold Springs and Arkadelphia Volunteer Fire Departments responded to the scene Saturday night.

criag@cullmantribune.com

BREMEN, Ala. – On Saturday evening, family and friends of Herndon "Junior" Self gathered at Rooster's Corner in Bremen to remember the murder victim and call for changes to the 2015 mandatory release law that set his accused killer free two days before the stabbing that took Self's life. Nathan Winston Stephens was denied parole by the Alabama Bureau of Pardons and Paroles (ABPP) on Aug. 11, 2020 but was subsequently released Thursday, Sept. 10, 2020, two days prior to the murder, under a 2015 law requiring mandatory release of certain convicted felons, according to the Alabama Department of Corrections.

Nicholas Self, son of Junior Self, told The Tribune, "We're trying to bring awareness to my dad, but we're also trying to bring awareness to the state; there's stuff that needs to be changed. Our system needs to be better, because it don't just affect our family.

"There's more families that's been affected by the laws. We're just trying to make a change to make everybody else safer. We don't want to do away with the law, but we want the law to change. We want it to be better. I know we've got to get with certain people and try to get more steps to get involved in it a little bit more."

Self said that members of the family have reached out to Rep. Corey Harbison, R-Good Hope, and they hope to talk to other members of Cullman County's legislative delegation.

Said Self, "Maybe this'll get some more attention to where we can go further with it, and maybe they'll be willing to help us and let us help them."

Self remembered his father as a man with "a big heart," sharing, "He would do anything to help anybody. He loved his kids, and he loved his family. He spent most of his time with his family, you know, he was always with them. My daddy, he'd trust people a lot, and in this case, this is how that accident happened. He trusted somebody he knew, and he thought with them he would be safe. It never crossed his mind anything like that would happen.

"But as far as a person, he was kind. You know, he was hard when he needed to be hard; he was just there. He was a good dad, a good brother, a good son- just a good person all around- and always wanting to help somebody. Not many people nowadays would stop on the side of the road to help somebody, and he would, and that's just the way that he was. That was just Daddy being Daddy. He was willing to lend a helping hand.

"He always cared. He was always there for me and my brother. I have a baby brother; he was always there for both of us. If you called him, he'd come. He worked hard to provide for everyone he needed to provide for."

Murder victim's mother talks about proposed law

Self's family has found an ally in Angela Harris, the mother of kidnapping/murder victim Aniah Blanchard, whose accused killer was, according to Harris, out on bond for multiple attempted murder and kidnapping charges at the time. Harris came to Rooster's Corner to participate in the vigil and talk about "Aniah's Law" a proposed act that could change the way bail bonds are given to people accused of violent crimes or who have a history of violence.

Said Harris, "This person should not have been out of jail, period. And just to let you know, he was let out less than 24 hours after he beat a man almost to death- a 70 year-old man fighting for his life- they let him out on bond.

"So I knew when I found out about the suspect and what his history was, I knew then- before I even knew where my child was, because we were still looking for her- I knew that I was going to change some laws. I knew something had to be done. This is not right; this cannot happen. I was in shock that this is happening."

After Blanchard's remains were located, Harris said, she heard from a state representative who informed her about a bill that would tighten the restrictions on bonds for people who are charged with a violent crime and have a history of violence or are considered a threat to themselves or others. The representative asked permission to name the law, if passed, for her daughter.

Said Harris, "This is something that we need. People that are out here in Alabama committing violent crimes, not capital murder, but they're murdering and they're committing all these other violent crimes, then they're just getting out on bond to go back and reoffend. That's what we're trying to prevent with Aniah's Law- keep these violent criminals in jail where they need to be."

The bill that would create Aniah's Law was not presented in the 2020 Legislative Session due to the COVID-19 shutdown, but it could be presented in 2021. Harris encouraged the crowd to keep pushing for the reforms it hopes to see.

Harris also spoke about "Aniah's Heart," a nonprofit organization to promote personal safety and self-defense for young people.

"If the judicial system needs to be fixed, and these laws haven't been passed and they're not doing anything to keep us safe, what do we have to do? We need to keep ourselves safe, our families safe, our kids safe. We have to do that."

After Harris, the floor was opened for friends and family members who came and shared personal memories of Junior Self, through laughter and tears, before the crowd went outside to conclude the event with a candle lighting and balloon release.

Fairview Majorette shares special moment with young fan

sammy@cullmantribune.com

FAIRVIEW, Ala. – There are many amazing people out there who do a lot to help others. Whether it's paying it forward at a restaurant or store or befriending someone who is struggling. Or you may be surprised by a 5-year-old girl named Chandlyn Ellis giving you a giant hug during a halftime show. That came true for Fairview Head Majorette Riley Tucker a couple weeks ago during the Aggie Band's halftime show at the Fairview v. Crossville game Oct. 8.

MARTHA NEEDHAM/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Fairview High School Head Majorette Riley Tucker

"I was on the field; I was doing the halftime performance," Tucker said. "I was in the middle of something, then I looked down and there was this little girl. She just runs up, and I thought, 'What is happening?' She said, 'Can I have one?' I said, 'No ma'am you can't' because I had to run back, and she was telling me all of these things and then she just runs off. She gave me a hug and she ran off. Accidents happen, you know, and I think that plays into the friendship because we met in very unfortunate circumstances."

Tucker said the reaction from everyone in the stands wasn't surprising, and she hopes her friendship with Ellis grows stronger after the on-field encounter.

"Everybody was just shocked and amazed by what happened," Tucker said. "My dad was definitely amazed."

Tucker's father, Mikey Tucker, added, "The crowd went wild. When the little girl hugged her, the crowd went wild," Tucker said.

The high school majorette said she thinks what happened during the halftime performance really helped out community-wise at an already close-knit Fairview school.

"I think it'll help out the Fairview community by just knowing that there's still good people out there and knowing that not everyone is a bad person," she said. "Everyone at Fairview is really nice, and knowing that I think it'll really help out the Fairview community."

"This is a tight-knit community," said her dad. "We travel very well to the away games and pack the stands at the home games. It doesn't matter if the football team is doing good or bad. It was a very touching story and it's been all over Facebook. Good things happen to good people and I'm very proud of my daughter. I'm tickled. It was touching.

"The crowd just started cheering for that little girl. We were all looking at her and she just walked up and hugged Riley. I thought it was very good of my daughter when she went up into the stands to find her. She found her and gave her a hug and it was awesome. We need to see more good things in the world than the bad stuff."

Tucker and her dad hope more stories like this will continue popping up all over the community.

"I definitely hope that more stories like this happen because it just helps people know that nothing's wrong, like everything's good in the world," she said. "That's how the world should be. With everything that's going on, it's just nice to have that comfort of knowing that good things are still happening."

"It's kind of like the stories you see on ESPN, and that's what made me feel good. There are still some good people in the world; not everything is bad," Mikey Tucker added. "You need to see as much good as you do bad."

Riley Tucker said she was met with a warm welcome at school the following Monday.

"My band director said he heard what happened," Tucker said. "He said, 'That was a nice thing that you did,' and I said, 'Thank you.' Everyone knew about it. It was amazing. I don't really like the attention to be on me. I'd like the attention to be on everyone else."

Her dad added, "I wasn't surprised at all. Not in this community. Chris Gambrill, the principal at Fairview, is a very good guy. He's good to all of the kids here at Fairview, so if something good happens to any kid, he's going to be proud of them."

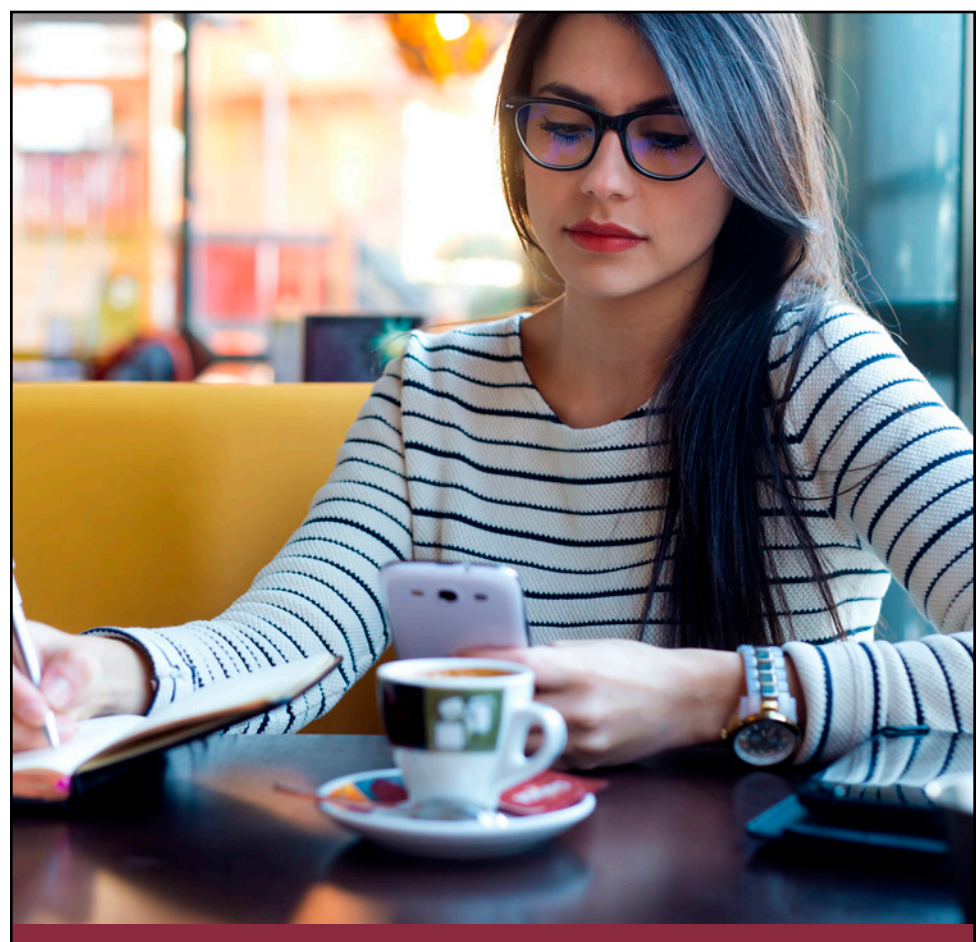

Tucker gave some advice to people that watched what happened during the halftime show that night.

"If something like that happens, and you know she wasn't supposed to be on the field, don't say anything about it. Just let it happen," she said. "Just keep your thoughts and negativity to yourself."

OPINION

Op-Ed: An inspirational pick

Ala. Gov. Kay Ivey, South Dakota Gov. Kristi Noem & Iowa Gov. Kim Reynolds

A century ago, the Suffragettes finally succeeded in winning the right to vote for women. They would be thrilled to see the nomination of a woman so uniquely qualified to serve on the U.S. Supreme Court as Judge Amy Coney Barrett, were they alive today. It's easy to imagine them storming the streets of America and urging that Judge Barrett be confirmed, and by a wide margin.

After all, the four female justices nominated before her were confirmed with lopsided votes by the U.S. Senate: 99-0 for Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, 68-31 for Justice Sonia Sotomayor, 63-37 for Justice Elena Kagan and 96-3 for the late Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg.

Sadly, it speaks to the times in which we are living that Judge Barrett's vote by the Senate will most likely come down to a tight vote, with nearly every Democrat opposing her nomination.

As governors who are either the first or second females to be elected in our respective states, we are rightfully proud to see diversity expand among the highest levels of government.

Notably, however, our support for Judge Barrett hinges not on her being a female, but rather her superior intellect, unflappable composure and impeccable integrity, all which combine to make her eminently qualified in every way.

Regretfully, we know – as do many others – that the climb for women into the upper echelon of American leadership has always been a bit steeper.

After all, when was the last time a man's haircut, the color of his tie or suit or the number of children in his family were scrutinized as part of the public discourse?

It is bittersweet that Judge Barrett followed her father's advice that she could do anything her male counterparts could do, only better, and yet, sadly, millions of women appear to oppose her nomination simply because she interprets the law as-written, rather than siding with them on every issue. Is this the new standard for qualification?

Many progressives, it seems, claim to believe in the power of women, but only for women who think and talk like they do.

We applaud President Trump for choosing Judge Amy Coney Barrett for service on our nation's highest court; she may well be one of the most qualified, extraordinary picks during the past century, and we urge the United States Senate to confirm her nomination in short order.

We especially like the direct answers Judge Barrett provided to two of the Senate Judiciary Committee members who questioned her last week.

When Sen. Chris Coons, D-Delaware, suggested that Judge Barrett would vote in the same manner as the late Justice Antonin Scalia, a conservative for whom she had clerked earlier in her career, she calmly responded, "I assure you I have my own mind."

And when the Committee's ranking Democrat, Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-California, asked her whether she believed that Medicare was unconstitutional, she cited the "Ginsburg Rule," so named for the late justice she will be following, of providing "no hints, no previews, no forecasts."

Perhaps one of the most powerful witnesses to speak in support of Judge Barrett was her former law student at Notre Dame, Laura Wolk.

Ms. Wolk is totally blind, but before pursuing the "impossible dream" of becoming the first blind law clerk at the Supreme Court last year, she was struggling with her classwork as a first-year law student, fearful of failing.

Laura recalled, "Judge Barrett leaned forward and looked at me intently. 'Laura,' she said, with the same measured conviction that we have seen displayed throughout her entire nomination process, 'this is no longer your problem. It's my problem.'"

Ms. Wolk went on to say that Judge Barrett helped her see a pathway to success.

She said the Judge will "serve this country with distinction not only because of her intellectual prowess, but also because of her compassionate heart and her years of treating others as equals deserving of complete respect."

When Judge Barrett raises her right hand to take the oath to "administer justice without respect to persons" and to "support and defend the Constitution of the United States," it will be a win-win for every female – young and old alike during the past 100 years – who has dreamed of seeing women advance to the top positions of our government.

Moreover, it will be a signal to every little girl – and boy – that the most qualified individual will get the job.

Signs (from Front)

Christy Perry

WEST POINT, Ala. – The West Point Town Council on Monday night made plans for the official swearing in of the mayor and council for their next terms. Mayor Gerald Schafer and all five councilmembers were unopposed in August's Municipal Election.

The swearing in ceremony is scheduled for Nov. 2 at 6 p.m. at West Point Town Hall.

Refreshments will be served.

The council suspended the rules to allow for a vote on the annexation of citizen Rebecca Manley's property.

The annexation was approved.

With no other old or new business on the agenda, Schafer briefly updated the council on projects happening around West Point.

He said Good Hope Contracting is expected to start this week on the repaving of County Road 1141.

He said the streetlights that needed maintenance have been fixed, and the bathroom stalls at the ballpark are currently having touchless toilets installed.

New signs have been constructed and installed at the town hall and park.

The new brick signs have been in the works for several months.

Schafer said of the finished signs, "Looks better than it did!"

Garden City (from Front)

Nick Griffin
nick@cullmantribune.com

GARDEN CITY, Ala. – The Garden City Town Council on Monday night approved an increase in the Garden City Volunteer Fire Department's stipend pay.

Resolution No. 2020-416 reads, in part:

"Whereas, the Town Council of the Town of Garden City wishes to express its deep appreciation to the members of the Garden City Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department for their frequent sacrifice of their personal time and safety each and every time they attend a training session or respond to an emergency call,

"Whereas, each active volunteer member in good and current standing with the Department's requirements, policies and procedures, will receive a payment based on the attendance of required trainings and emergency calls attended, on a monthly basis, a payment will be according to the following schedule:

Attending on training session per month - $10

Fire and rescue calls - $10 per call attended

Medical calls - $2 per call attended"

The council discussed and approved the purchase of a new truck for the department's use as well, a new mini-pumper from American Emergency Products at the cost of $95,000. The council began discussions on potential items the Town can surplus to offset the cost of the new truck.

The council approved a $25 non-refundable fee to rent the pavilion and Little School House. Council members began discussing options for the facility during last month's meeting.

Garden City will participate in the annual Severe Weather Preparedness Sales Tax Holiday next February. Section 1 of the ordinance (No. 2020-220) on that holiday reads:

"In conformity with the provisions in 40-23-230 through 40-23-233, Code of Alabama 1975, providing for a State Sales Tax Holiday, the City (Town) of Garden City, Alabama exempts "covered items" from municipal sales and use tax during the same period, beginning at 12:01 a.m. on the last Friday in February 2021 (February 26, 2021), and on the last full weekend of February each year thereafter until and unless annual participation is rescinded by further action of the council."

After the meeting's official business was concluded, the council took time to address a more personal matter.

Monday night's meeting was the last for Councilman Doug Pender, who stepped in to serve after Councilman Gene Norman passed away unexpectedly in June 2017.

"First of all, I would just like to thank the council for giving me the opportunity to finish out brother Gene Norman's term.

"The Lord saw fit to call Gene home, but I trust that during that time, I've done pretty much what Gene would've done and tried to benefit the town," Pender said.

"I really love Garden City and I really appreciate that opportunity you guys gave me to fill in for that time and I hope we've helped make the town better."

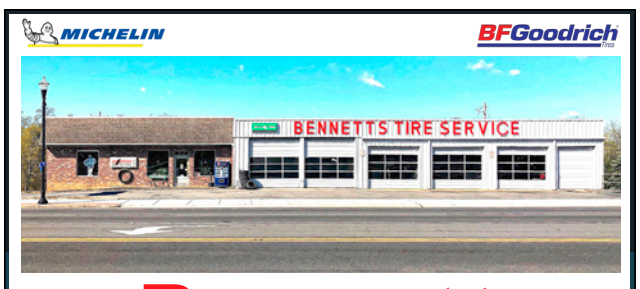

Mayor Tim Eskew took a few moments to thank Pender for his service to the community and willingness to step up when someone was needed after an untimely tragedy.

"Doug, I really appreciate you stepping up and taking brother Gene's spot after he passed on unexpectedly.

"You've helped us quite a lot as a council and you've helped us quite a lot as a city," Eskew said.

""You've helped the fire department grow in your term here and you've helped us all grow in our daily lives. There's just no way possible to thank you enough for what you have done for us."

The Garden City Town Council will hold its next meeting Nov. 16 at 6 p.m.

7 p.m. on WBRC
2020 World Series

After a 60-game regular season and three tiers of playoffs, Major League Baseball enters its championship round as the winners of the American and National Leagues clash at Globe Life Field in Arlington, Texas, in the 2020 World Series. Last year, the Washington Nationals won their first MLB title in franchise history with their seven-game triumph over the Houston Astros.

7 p.m. on WTTO
Swamp Thing

When her colleague and friend Harlan (guest star Leonardo Nam) comes down with the "green flu," Abby (Crystal Reed) turns Alec's (Andy Bean) lab upside-down looking for a cure in the new episode "He Speaks." Instead, she finds the latest supernatural reanimation from the Rot. Virginia Madsen, Henderson Wade and Derek Mears also star.

8 p.m. on WBIQ
American Masters

Filmmaker Ben Loeterman's new documentary "Walter Winchell: The Power of Gossip" chronicles the life and career of the syndicated columnist, radio news commentator and TV host who created the breakneck, gossip-based, politically charged culture that still thrives today. At his career peak, he had a combined print and radio audience of 50 million, until his alliance with Sen. Joseph McCarthy turned fans against him. Stanley Tucci, who won an Emmy in the title role of HBO's 1998 TV-movie "Winchell," lends his voice to the film.

Tell Me a Story

Maddie (Odette Annable) begins to second-guess her imminent wedding to Tucker (Paul Wesley) as he continues to put more distance between them in the new episode "Writer's Block." Elsewhere, Ashley (Natalie Alyn Lind) finds a moment of solace with Beau (Eka Darville) as she struggles to adjust to her new reality. Meanwhile, Simone (Ashley Madekwe) attends the funeral of her estranged father and discovers that her stepmother (Garcelle Beauvais) may be even more evil than Simone ever dared to imagine. Carrie-Anne Moss also stars.

9 p.m. on BRAVO
Don't Be Tardy ...

In a new episode called "A Country Ghost Town Jamboree," the road-tripping Biermanns come face to face with ghouls and ghosts in what purports to be the most haunted house in the United States. Any chills from that experience pale, however, up against Kim's abject horror when she drops her beloved phone into the toilet of their RV.

9:01 p.m. on WVTM
Transplant

In the new episode "Far From Home," an unexpected turn of events leaves Bash and Amira (Hamza Haq, Sirena Gulamgaus) in a precarious situation. Elsewhere, Theo (Jim Watson) gets a surprise visitor at home, while at work he confronts a stubborn, closed-minded patient. Language proves to be a barrier as Bash and Mags (Laurence Lebeouf) team up to help a patient from overseas. Meanwhile, June (Ayisha Issa) comes to a decision about her relationship with Lou (Eddie G).

9:30 p.m. on FREE
Kal Penn Approves This Message

In a new episode called "Kal Penn Approves the Environment," host Kal Penn continues his personal crusade to inform and empower young voters by spending time discussing environmental policies with young Americans from all sectors of the political spectrum. With luck, he hopes to discern whether and how age may be a greater dividing factor than political affiliation for this particular voting demographic.

Crystal Reed stars in "Swamp Thing" on The CW.

OPINION: Sin, part 2

Tom Fillinger
Tribune Columnist

Today we continue our focus on the topic of sin. What is sin as defined by the text of scripture? God's word is precise. The language of the Old and New Testaments provides us with a clear comprehension of what sin is in the eyes of God.

What is sin? When one seeks the answer to this question in the many and varied definitions of men, he or she is left somewhat confused. There is a difference between the way God describes and explains sin, on the one hand, and the way, on the other hand, that men describe and explain sin.

Most people rather than comparing themselves to God and his standard compare themselves to other sinners, and by doing so may look good. Invalid! When you stand before God, and you will, his standard- not your comparison with other people- will be that by which you are judged. Prepare now for then!

Dr. Charles Ryrie (now deceased) provides a list of Hebrew and Greek words which define sin. The following are some of those words: OT today and NT tomorrow.

Chata, sin (Exodus 20:20); Moses said to the people, "Do not fear, for God has come to test you, that the fear of him may be before you, that you may not sin." The basic meaning of this word chata to miss the mark Sin is renders you a bad marksman. God has a standard and sin cause you to fail to meet that standard.

Avon, iniquity (I Samuel 3:13); And I declare to him (Eli) that I am about to punish his house forever, for the iniquity that he knew, because his sons were blaspheming God, and he did not restrain them. The basic meaning of avon is twisted or crooked. The conduct of Elis' sons was crooked or perverted.

Snh, wander away (Isaiah 28:7); These also reel with wine and stagger with strong drink; the priest and the prophet reel with strong drink, they are swallowed by wine, they stagger with strong drink, they reel in vision, they stumble in giving judgment. The priest and prophet wander from God's pathway and lead the people in that sin.

Pasha, rebel (Ezekiel 48:11); This shall be for the consecrated priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept my charge, who did not go astray when the people of Israel went astray, as the Levites did. Sin renders you a rebel.

1. Sin is disobedience to God.
2. In the OT sin involves both positive and negative ideas. Sin is not simply missing the mark but hitting the wrong mark. (3) Sin takes many forms. All are a violation of God's Holiness.

Has this brief study of OT words changed your understanding of sin?

Impact (from Front)

touches throughout our community, touches that would not be possible without the support of the Good Samaritan Clinic and the Stephen K. Griffith Memorial Fund

"Programs such as this are what makes Cullman among some of the most blessed places just to live.

"We are currently in a society where mental health assistance is often overlooked, not accepted, unavailable or unachievable due to financial constraints.

"Through this memorial fund, we are readily available to help those in need through the Good Samaritan referral system, that would not otherwise be able to receive these services.

"We are a community blessed with many talents, services and those willing to go above and beyond their calling."

Plaques were presented to Griffith's children Wyles Griffith and S.F. Lovell.

Additional plaques will hang at Good Samaritan Health Clinic and Haven Counseling Services.

The Stephen K. Griffith Memorial Fund is administered by Stephen Donaldson, Steve Glasscock, Shawn Nelson, Shay Persall and Dr. Tom "Big Doc" Williamson, with advisors Charna Brown, Fess St. John and Jeb Williamson.

For more on Good Samaritan Health Clinic's services, which include primary medical care, certain dental procedures and now mental health services through Haven Counseling Services, visit www.goodsamaritancullman.com.

Cullman High collects 351 pairs of shoes for Curt's Closet

Cullman City Schools
Contributor

CULLMAN, Ala. – Cullman High School students kicked off their Sunday shoes — and probably a few more pairs, too — as part of a shoe donation drive for local nonprofit Curt's Closet.

The drive, led by the school's Student Government Association, brought in a total of 351 pairs of shoes as part of the Footloose Shoe Drive for Curt's Closet, which provides clothes and shoes to local children and families.

The nonprofit was founded in 2017 by Ashley Wilson in honor of her late son Curtis.

Cullman High School Principal Kim Hall said she was so proud to see students rally around such a great local cause, adding it was an amazing way to honor Curt's legacy while echoing the district's mission to inspire students for lifelong success through character, citizenship and scholarship.

"It is wonderful to see our students take the opportunity to show good character and good citizenship through their benevolent efforts," she said.

"Curt's closet is very close to our heart as we lost our beloved Curt Wilson just a few years ago. We miss him dearly.

"We are so proud of the work that Ashley is doing to carry on Curt's name and to give back to others in our community."

Wilson said the shoe donations will be provided to local families in need as we head into the winter and middle of the school year. The nonprofit provides shoes and clothes for those 19 and younger, with families able to come and "shop" for donations, all for free.

"Of course, we appreciate the support Cullman High has given, and they've supported us since Day One," she said. "The faculty and students are amazing, and I really couldn't do it without them. The shoes we've collected and are able to use here will be cleaned up and we'll get them to children in need."

For the donations that aren't a good fit locally, Wilson said they'll be refurbished and donated to a charity overseas to be distributed in developing countries.

"These donations are going to bless a lot of people, in Cullman and all over the world," she added.

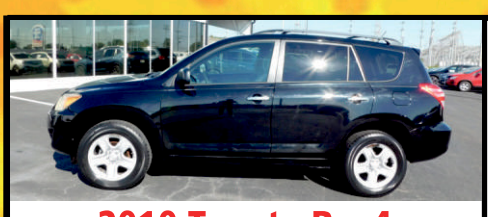

Curt's Closet is located at 1515 Saint Joseph St. NW, Cullman, Alabama.
