OPINION

A special "thank you" to the Cullman Electric Cooperative

Barbara Graham
Contributor

So many times, people forget to say thank you for things that they do. My name is Barbara McGraw.

I am writing to say thank you for the Cullman Electric Cooperative employee by the name of Mr. Graham, for you see he called my mother Juanita Goings to let her know that her heat bill is over $500 and (the) month is not over yet.

Thanks to Mr. Graham we have found that her heat system has to be replaced.

Of course, this is not good, but at least she will not have any more huge heating bills. Again, thank you Mr. Graham.

BILLY BOB'S STORIES AND STUFF

Were there really monsters under my bed?

Bill King
Tribune
Contributor

When I was a youngster, I believed monsters lived under my bed. There are a number of reasons why I thought such silly things. One is because I have always had a strong imagination. I am not an only child, but my siblings were all several years older than me. Because of our age differences, and the fact that my sister happened to be a girl, I mostly played by myself. I did have two imaginary friends who played with me. Actually, they never spoke to me, but I did to them.

I'm not sure how old I was when I quit pretending to have those friends, but when Jean and I married she would not allow them to move in with us!

Having a strong imagination kept me from being lonely in those early years. It has also helped me as a writer, storyteller, and songwriter.

Those older siblings were another reason I believed monsters lurked under my bed. They will delightfully tell you such things!

The one I called Bubba, took great pleasure in trying to scare the devil out of me, and then tell me he was under my bed...the devil, not Bubba.

I imagined all kinds of monsters and boogers living under there. I lived with great trepidation of getting too near the edge of the bed. I slept in the middle, with my head covered, so they couldn't reach over and grab my leg or arm and drag me under, to never be seen or heard from again.

My bed was an old iron-frame bed that set about a foot off the floor. Even though I stored a few toys and stray clothes under there, there was still plenty of room for some good-sized boogers to hide.

Bubba had an unusual talent. He could turn his eyelids wrong-side out. I still don't know how he did it, but he could make the pink underside of his eyelids show. He thought it was funny...and I do now. We did not have light switches on the walls.

Instead, we had pull strings that hung from the light fixture. The string in my bedroom hung over the middle of my bed, so I could not reach it without climbing on the bed. Sometimes when I pulled the string and the light came on, Bubba stood in the room with his eyelids turned wrong side out! I think he has grown out of such behavior now, and as I've grown older, and with good counseling, I'm much better!

Often, I ran through the dark and dove for the bed, hoping I could get in the bed before the monsters dragged me under and ate me alive... bones and all!

Eventually, I came to realize there was nothing under my bed, but a couple of pairs of shoes, my lost shirt, and a stray sock. There were a few animals too, sometimes my cat Frosty and a few dust bunnies.

As we face the future, especially in light of this past year, it is easy to imagine all kinds of boogers out there. There are even some people who will tell us stories of what is coming and scare us half to death, if we allow them. Obviously, we can't look into the future like we can look under the bed. We can; however, look in the Bible for some things to come. David said, in perhaps the most loved Psalm, "Yeah though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for You (God) are with me, Your rod and Your staff, they comfort me."

Clinic (from Front)

christy@cullmantribune.com

HANCEVILLE, Ala. – There were smiles all around Friday morning on the campus of Wallace State Community College (WSCC) as health science students and instructors received their first doses of Moderna's COVID-19 vaccine. The school hosted an Alabama Department of Public Health (ADPH) Satellite Clinic at its School of Nursing and Center for Science, where 250 vaccines were administered by health science students and instructors to their peers.

WSCC Vice President for Instruction and Dean of Health Sciences Lisa German explained, "We are a mini clinic through the Alabama Department of Public Health, and this one is targeted for our health science faculty and students. It's been good."

The clinic was set up to meet all Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines with temperature checks upon entry and adherence to mask wearing and social distancing. The vaccines were not mandated.

"In a month, we will have the same setup for the folks who received it today to come back and receive their second dosing," German said.

"CRMC (Cullman Regional) has notified us that we can work in conjunction with them to provide access to the vaccine for our remaining employees, but that is through CRMC."

WSCC has 17 health care programs on campus, and although the nursing students organized the mini clinic, volunteers from throughout the programs came out Friday to lend a hand.

Added German, "Doing the injections are our nursing students and faculty, and faculty volunteers are overseeing that process. These students have all been checked off and they were re-checked off before this because this vaccine is a little different. You handle it a little differently. It is a good experience for our students and also a good community outreach."

"We are so excited! We are very excited!"

Those were Deborah "Pepper" Hoover's feelings about Friday's clinic. Hoover, director of nursing education, said, "Vice President German and I have been plotting since December when it came out that health science students were in group 1a (of Alabama's COVID-19 Vaccine Allocation Plan) and we knew they were eligible.

"They are back in clinicals so we really wanted to offer a way for them to be protected because we also feel if they are more comfortable, they can really be a help to these health care workers that are exhausted.

"They are going into clinicals and maybe they can be an extra set of hands to try to help these heroes, but we also need our students to be in clinicals to complete their education."

WSCC President Dr. Vicki Karolewics visited the students and instructors Friday morning during the clinic.

"I am grateful that they were put at the top of the list, and it makes common sense that they would be. I am grateful because they are first-line/frontline workers even if they are in a clinical environment, and it's only right that they be vaccinated," she said.

"It's the beginning of the end, hopefully. This past year, I think we have all had a tremendous sense of helplessness. Here we are having to do our very best dealing with a pandemic that we have spent years trying to anticipate, plan and prepare for. Yet, (we were) not prepared for the emotional impact of it. The feeling of gratitude today... I am grateful that the president was able to get emergency use vaccine and was able to get it out to the public so that we can save lives."

The WSCC Department of Nursing Education is designated as a Center of Excellence by the National League for Nursing (NLN). It is one of only 17 programs across the nation to receive this designation for the years 2020-2025.

They include nursing programs across the country and the academic spectrum of higher education in nursing as well as leading teaching hospitals and clinical sites. Currently, there are only four community colleges in the nation that have been designated by the NLN as Centers of Excellence.

Said Hoover, "We were first designated in 2016 and we were redesignated in 2020, so this is just part of our pursuit of excellence. We are just happy to do this. It was a prayer and a dream, and now the reality of today is so exciting to us.

"It's working out. When you plan something, you never quite know, but ADPH has just said that they love the flow. We have the resources, so why wouldn't we want to be part of the solution instead of part of the problem with the pandemic."

A handful of other WSCC faculty and staff was also vaccinated at the clinic.

According to Assistant to the President for Cultural & External Affairs Kristen Holmes, "The clinic was set up for vaccinations for the Health Science division faculty and students.

"When scheduled individuals were unable to attend, vaccines were made available to other faculty and staff so that all 255 vaccines were utilized, and no dose was wasted. Once a vial is entered/opened it must be used within six hours."

POET'S CORNER

A Winter Sky

By: Ann Coberley, Texas

A storm of trees
hurl their branches against a cloudless sky

sway with an icy wind that moans like rushing water as it scours winter fields and howls through naked canyons.

The sun is misleading,
a buttery summer yellow that warms my face in the shelter of porch walls, making me dream of longer days

and clear night skies, of children's laughter
chasing fireflies in the dark.

BBB Scam Alert: Phony Amazon callers are phishing for your info

Better Business Bureau
Contributor

The COVID-19 pandemic has people shopping online and ordering from Amazon. Naturally, scammers are finding ways to cash in. Better Business Bureau is receiving reports that con artists are posing as Amazon employees, calling people, and claiming to need information about their account or that something is wrong with an order.

BBB warns to be on the lookout for suspicious calls and emails because in some cases, it looks like the call is coming from BBB.

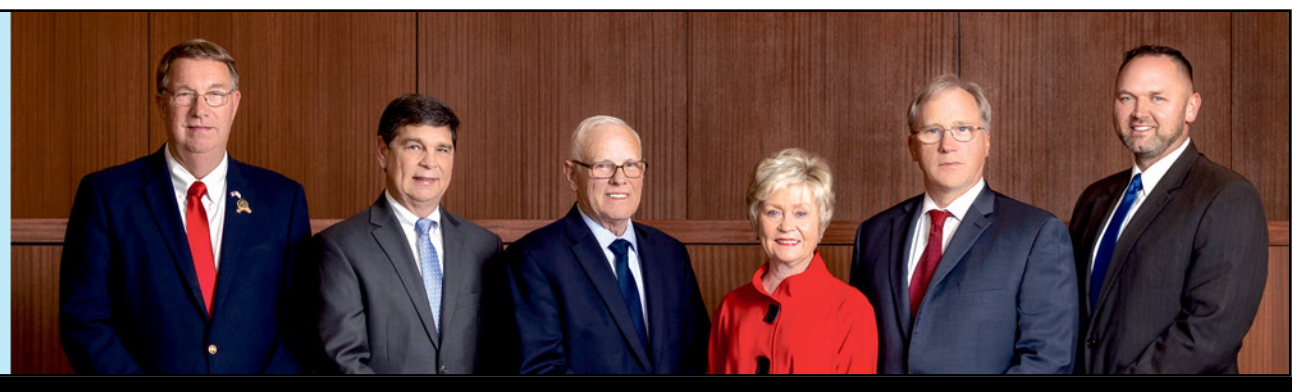

How the scam works:
The phone rings and when answered, it is a recorded message claiming to be from Amazon stating there is a problem with your Amazon account. The messages range from a fraudulent charge on your Prime card to a lost or damaged package to an unfulfilled order for an iPhone. But no matter what the recording is, these scammers have the same goal: getting your personal information. The con artists will either outright ask for credit card and account login details. Or they will request remote access to your computer under the guise of "helping" to solve the issue.

The Federal Trade Commission published examples of these scam calls (http://bit.ly/3twISov)

There is a confusing twist on this scam. The con artists are spoofing other organizations' phone numbers to help disguise their calls and lend them credibility - including BBB's number! That means they probably using other phone numbers too, so watch out.

How to spot this scam:
- Be skeptical of email and unsolicited calls. Some departments at Amazon will call customers, but Amazon will never ask you to disclose or verify sensitive personal information or offer you a refund you do not expect. Amazon will never ask you to make a payment outside of their website and will never ask you for remote access to your device.
- Ignore unsolicited messages that ask for personal information. Amazon will also never send you an unsolicited message that asks you to provide sensitive personal information, such as your tax ID, bank account number or credit card information.
- Ignore calls for immediate action. Scammers try to get you to act before you think by creating a sense of urgency. Don't fall for it.
- Beware of requests to pay via wire transfer, prepaid debit card or CashApp (such as MoneyPak, iTunes or similar cards). These are almost always a sign of fraud.
- Report it to Amazon. Any customer that receives a questionable email or call from a person impersonating an Amazon employee report them to Amazon customer service. Amazon investigates these complaints and will takes action, if warranted.

A Round of Applause for 365 Joy-Givers in 2021: The Bright Lights Birthday Party

Ben South

BendigoArt.com/CullmanTribune.com

Thomas Edison, one of the American joy-givers whose birthdays we are celebrating this week, was called "The Wizard of Menlo Park, New Jersey." That is where Edison created his invention, testing and demonstration facility, but our party venue is at his birthplace, now a house museum, in Milan, Ohio.

Edison, through his many iterations and advances of the electric lightbulb, quite literally took America from the darkness into the light. Born at home on the evening of Feb. 11, 1847, Edison came into a world that was still lighted by oil lamps and candles. Years after becoming an incredibly wealthy and world-renowned inventor, Edison arranged to purchase his birthplace. His last visit to this site was in 1923, and he was shocked to find the house, ironically, had not yet been wired for electric light.

So, we start "THE BRIGHT LIGHTS BIRTHDAY PARTY" with a nighttime, torch-lit parade to Edison's Ohio home. We warm ourselves in the candlelit parlor, progress to gently flickering, early electric light for dinner, and with our dessert we enjoy a dazzling, 21st century, LED light and music show.

You sense the joy the minute our party begins. HOORAY FOR THE JOY-GIVERS! (Note: The comments attributed to these famous joy-givers come from words they have written or said.)

Please give A ROUND OF APPLAUSE for these American joy-givers born in early February:

Feb. 6 - George Herman "BABE" RUTH, Jr., aka "The Bambino" and "The Sultan of Swat," who played 22 seasons of professional baseball and won fame as a hard-slugging outfielder for the New York Yankees, one of America's greatest sports heroes (Note: Ruth never played a professional baseball game at night)

Feb. 7 - CHRIS ROCK- raspy-voiced stand-up comedian who won early acclaim as a regular on "Saturday Night Live," then produced his own sitcom, and is a film actor/producer

Feb. 8 - JOHN GRISHAM- best-selling author of legal thrillers; his novels have sold more than 300 million copies, enjoyed 28 consecutive no. 1 top-sellers and been translated into 42 different languages

Feb. 9 - Carole King- singer/songwriter of hits like "The Loco-Motion" for Little Evie and "A Natural Woman" for Aretha Franklin while working as part of a songwriting team. Her breakthrough solo album, "Tapestry," in 1971 sold 75 million copies, the most for any woman for 20 years, and the four-time Grammy Award winner was saluted by the Broadway, Tony-winner, "BEAUTIFUL: THE CAROLE KING MUSICAL" in 2014.

Feb. 10 - JIMMY DURANTE- nightclub singer/pianist/comic, television host of "The Hollywood Palace," who with a gravelly voice and a Lower East Side accent plus a comic butchery of the language, combined with his endless, self-deprecating jokes about his out-sized nose ("The Schnozzola") made him one of the most popular public personalities of the 1920s-1970s. Durante left a "nose print" in the wet cement outside Grauman's Chinese Theatre in Hollywood.

Feb. 11 - THOMAS EDISON- considered America's greatest inventor; his genius inventions of the phonograph, motion picture camera and early versions of the electric light bulb had a widespread impact on our modern, industrialized world.

Feb. 12 - SID CAESAR- early television writer/actor/comedian/producer and saxophonist best known for pioneering the 90-minute, LIVE, weekly TV hit, "Your Show of Shows" and its successor, "Caesar's Hour;" he played Coach Calhoun in the movie "Grease."

COMMENTS OVERHEARD at "The Bright Lights Birthday Party" for American joy-givers:

"My nose isn't big. I just happen to have a very small head."—Jimmy Durante

"I still believe that everyone is beautiful in some way and by seeing the beauty in others we make ourselves more beautiful."—Carole King

"You know the world is going crazy when the best rapper is white, the best golfer is Black, the tallest guy in the NBA is Chinese, the Swiss hold the 'America's Cup,' France is accusing the U.S. of being arrogant and Germany doesn't want to go to war."—Chris Rock

"Politics is developing more comedians than radio ever did."—Jimmy Durante

(Describing one of his fictional characters) "He's a two-faced, cutthroat, dirt-dumb, chickensh*t, slimy, little bastard with a bright future in politics."—John Grisham

"The best thing about humor is that it shows people they are not alone."—Sid Caesar

"Sometimes when I reflect on all the beer I drink, I feel ashamed. Then, I look into the glass and think about the workers in the brewery and all of their hopes and dreams. If I didn't drink this beer, they might be out of work and their dreams would be shattered. I think, it's better to drink this beer and let their dream come true than be selfish and worry about my liver."—Babe Ruth

"Five percent of people think; ten percent of the people think they think; and the other eighty-five percent of people would rather die than think."—Thomas Edison

"The guy who invented the wheel was an idiot. The guy who invented the other three was a genius."—Sid Caesar

"I don't get high, but sometimes I wish I did. That way, when I messed up my life, I would have an excuse. But, right now, there's no rehab for stupidity."—Chris Rock

"Some people have more guts than brains...If you're gonna be stupid, you've gotta be tough."—John Grisham

"In my songwriting career I've never felt that my being a woman was an obstacle or an advantage. I guess I've been oblivious. Sensitive? Humbug. Everybody thinks I'm sensitive...There is a downside to having one of the biggest-selling albums ever."—Carole King

"There are three things women need in life: food, water and compliments."—Chris Rock

"Everybody wants to get inta da act...My wife has a slight impediment in her speech. Every now and then she stops to breathe."—Jimmy Durante

"It's hard to beat a person who never gives up."—Babe Ruth

"I haven't failed. I've just found out 10,000 ways that won't work...Many of life's failures are people who did not realize how close they were to success when they gave up."—Thomas Edison

"You can't go wrong if you start each day with a song."—Jimmy Durante

"You've got to get up every morning with a smile on your face and show the world the love in your heart."—Carole King

"You should never let the fear of striking out keep you from playing the game."—Babe Ruth

"Genius is one percent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration."—Thomas Edison

"Once the inspiration comes, that directs where the perspiration goes."—Carole King

"To invent you need a good imagination and a pile of junk."—Thomas Edison

"In between goals is a thing called "life" that has to be lived and enjoyed."—Sid Caesar

"If you want help, help yourself; people like to see that."—Chris Rock

"I never did a day's work in my life; it was all fun."—Thomas Edison

"I'm like a plant, I reach for the sun."—Carole King

"Make someone happy, make just one someone happy, and you will be happy, too."—Jimmy Durante

PARTY MENU for "The Bright Lights Birthday Party:"

APPETIZER—Jimmy Durante's Meatball Buns (tasteofhome.com)

SALAD—Sid Caesar Salad (The Last Caesar Salad Recipe You'll Ever Need at allrecipes.com)

SOUP—Carole King's Chicken with Rice Soup which she wrote a song about with these lyrics: "In February, it will be my snowman's anniversary...happy once, happy twice, happy chicken soup with rice."

ENTRÉE—John Grisham's Catfish Lafitte, the novelist's favorite catfish recipe at myrecipes.com. About another favorite fish, Grisham wrote, "Anyone can cook a trout. The real art is in hooking the damned thing."

BEVERAGE—Chris on the Rocks Cocktail/Mocktail (Chris Rock is a dedicated fan of cannabis, and he and other celebs have invested in Lowell Herb Company, a California cannabis brand), so maybe instead we'll honor Thomas Edison with Lightbulb Extra Pale Ale from the Verdant Brewing Company.

DESSERT—Baby Ruth Cookies at cantstayoutofthekitchen.com

PARTY MUSIC:
Edison invented the phonograph, so the night's music goes back to his earliest recordings on tinfoil in 1877; he later developed a solid wax cylinder record. You can hear early Edison recordings of brass bands, folk songs, jazz, blues, opera and Tin Pan Alley pop at the National Park Service website nps.gov. As the "Bright Lights" show entertainment glows, music recordings bring us up through King's latest creations and loops our joy-giver birthday celebration to the finale with her lyric, "Tonight, the light of love is in your eyes, but will you love me tomorrow?"

ONE TO GROW ON: There are many biographies of Edison, but the most-respected is Matthew Josephson's 1959 publication, "Edison: A biography." The author makes Edison's life readable, but it is not simply a glowing chronology of the "wizard's" many wondrous inventions. Josephson explores creative hurdles Edison had with the inventor's need for constant praise and the distractions of what today we might label as attention deficit disorder, which led to many unfinished projects.

At the end of "The Bright Lights Birthday Party," the other American joy-givers ask Durante about the signature, goodnight sign-off he gave to his radio and television audiences. The comedy singer/pianist says he toured a lot in his early career and one night he called his cherished wife, Jean, from Calabash, North Carolina. And he ended this call to his valentine by saying, "GOODNIGHT MRS. CALABASH, WHEREVER YOU ARE."

Keyser (Gail) of Fairhope; her son Charles Homer "Chip" Durham, III (Leslie); her daughter Kimberley Addison (Mark) of Cullman; her grandchildren Michael Addison and Laura Addison of Cullman; and numerous nieces and nephews. She lived much of her life in Mobile, Alabama, where she graduated from Murphy High School. She was married to Charles for 26 years and had two children, Chip and Kim. She was a loving mother and an active participant in her children's lives serving as a Cub Scout Den Mother, Girl Scout Troop leader, PTA president, and in numerous volunteer positions. She began her career at the Mobile Press-Register and later worked at the GM&O Railroad. She was skilled and efficient, excelling at office positions at the Little Sisters of the Poor and in admissions at the University of South Alabama Medical Center Emergency Department. She retired from the Alabama Medicaid Agency to spend more time with family. Upon retiring, she moved to Cullman to be with her grandchildren and to be closer to her son and daughter. She was a fun and enthusiastic "Nana" and shaped her family's lives with her wisdom and kindness. In Cullman, she made many new friends, was a member of the Sacred Heart Altar Society and was a founding member of the First Source for Women pregnancy center. She loved knitting with her Stitch & Knit group and knitted countless baby hats for the infants at the hospital nursery and the pregnancy center. She traveled frequently, both with friends and the Red Hat Society. In her mid-80s she traveled twice to Germany and the Czech Republic to visit her brother. Lois was a strong, independent, self-reliant woman whose generosity and kindness to others was well known. She was a sharp-witted and gifted problem solver, mastering cross word, jigsaw and Sudoku puzzles with determination and speed. She found humor in every situation, even near the end when the struggles of daily life left her exhausted but still determined. She was a great leader, grandmother, aunt, co-worker, world traveler, storyteller, cook, nurse and best mother anyone could hope to have. Lois expressed her wishes that no one's health be placed at risk by her passing; therefore, no visitation will be held. A Mass of Christian Burial will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 27, 2021 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Mobile. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to St. Vincent de Paul Society, Sacred Heart Church Cullman, or to First Source for Women, P.O. Box 1343, Hanceville, Alabama 35077.

Rumors (from Front)

craig@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Annette Harris, owner of Rumors Deli has announced the sale of the landmark Cullman eatery to the Coombs family of Houma, Louisiana. Mother/son team Jolene and Aaron Coombs will take charge of the deli March 1, with Harris staying on short-term to help the new owners get settled in and accustomed to Rumors' way of doing business.

Harris told The Tribune, "It's a good thing. I've been wanting to- you know, I've done this for so long- I kind of wanted to do something else, which, I've got some projects going.

"I'm not ready to say what that is, yet, because I'm just working on some stuff, but I do have a plan."

Harris was not ready to reveal her new plans, but she did say that they did not include another restaurant.

The longtime owner said that, after spending most of her life in the restaurant business, she is looking forward to something else but in no hurry to get out.

"I was just ready, and the opportunity just came up," said Harris. "It wasn't something I was actively seeking, but an opportunity came up, so I was excited about it . . . It was just the right time, right place, right people."

Expanding hours, expanding menu, but the Scoop (and much more) is safe

When the Coombs family takes charge, they plan to maintain the traditional daytime menu and schedule, but hope to expand shortly with evening hours, alcohol service and a new evening menu that will include bar food standards like burgers and wings, and a nod to their Louisiana home in the form of shrimp po'boys.

The family has applied for an alcohol license and is awaiting the processing of the application. According to Pat Coombs, who accompanied his son up from Louisiana this week, they will add a bar to the restaurant's floorplan after the license is approved.

Pat Coombs added, "We hope to retain all the employees, and we're hoping to hire more employees because, with expanded hours, we're going to need more people."

Aaron Coombs and mother Jolene Coombs will co-own Rumors, and Aaron Coombs will also act as manager.

Aaron Coombs told The Tribune, "We're super excited to take over. I think it's really going to be a positive thing. I think it's going to be just a smooth and good transition into the new ownership."

Harris concluded with a wish for the deli's new owners and old customers: "I want the community to surround them like it did me, because they're nice people and I think their head and heart is in the right place for this. I'm ready for it because I've done this for so long, but I'm excited that it's something that's going to carry on, and that they will add to it."
