Official ribbon-cutting ceremony held for Hartselle Health Park

Sara Gladney
sara@cullmantribune.com

HARTSELLE, Ala. — Cullman Regional celebrated the opening of the Hartselle Health Park on Wednesday with a ribbon-cutting ceremony attended by members of the Hartselle Area Chamber, Hartselle City Council and supporters of the health system. The facility has been open since November 2021 serving patients, but the official ceremony was put off due to high rates of COVID-19 in the community.

The newly constructed portion of the health park was built by Eidson and Associates, Inc. and is almost 18,000 square feet. It houses a state-of-the-art imaging center that offers CT, MRI, ultrasound, 3-D mammography and X-ray services. It also includes an urgent care center that operates seven days a week and afterhours. Cullman Regional CEO James Clements stated, "We're incredibly proud of Hartselle Health Park and the ability it gives Cullman Regional to provide much needed local access to quality health care. Our first round of thanks goes out to the Cullman Regional Board of Directors. Without the support of people like Perry Knight and Tim Culpepper here today, we would not have been able to approve the access to care that we have in Hartselle.

"In order to accomplish something like that, it takes a large number of people. In addition, I would like to thank the City of Hartselle, the Hartselle Chamber of Commerce and the Morgan County Commission.

"Without all of us working together, we could not have accomplished what we have today."

Cullman Regional Vice President of Physician Services Lisa Courtney added, "The Hartselle community has been great to work with as we planned, built and opened Hartselle Heath Park. We look forward to being a part of such a special community and serving Hartselle and Morgan County residents."

COVID-19 BY THE NUMBERS

Wednesday, March 16, COVID-19 update from the Alabama Department of Public Health's COVID-19 Dashboard Hub (https://bit.ly/3iVJwXK)

ADPH COVID-19 dashboard changes

Along with decreases in COVID-19 cases, hospitalizations and deaths, ADPH will be updating its dashboard less frequently. Effective June 7, the Data and Surveillance Dashboard will update Monday, Wednesday and Friday; the Vaccine Distribution Dashboard will update Tuesday and Thursday and no weekend updates will be made. Additional information may be provided in the future as ADPH gathers more data on the pandemic.

*The dashboard has been redesigned to help people better understand the current transmission levels in their communities and the impact of COVID-19 in Alabama. The moving 7-day sum is updated daily instead of weekly--instead of a 3, 7 and 14-day average, the dashboard will provide a 7-day moving sum for cases. The 2020 and 2021 breakdowns of cases and deaths will be provided - not just a total sum over both years.

Auburn Pro Day: 12 former Tigers showcase skills

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. — With personnel from 31 NFL teams and scouts from the XFL and Canadian Football League documenting each drill, 12 former Tigers showcased their skills Tuesday at Auburn's Pro Day.

"I feel like I did great today, I felt like I executed everything," said Auburn's highest rated pro prospect, defensive back Roger McCreary. "I've been with these guys for four years. It was great to be here and do the drills with them one more time."

A potential first-rounder, McCreary plans to be home in Mobile with his family when the 2022 NFL Draft begins April 28 in Las Vegas.

"My support system is the reason why I'm here," said McCreary, who ran an unofficial 4.46 40-yard dash at Pro Day. "That's who I want to celebrate with. I just need that one opportunity, that one phone call.

"Growing up, I always had a chip on my shoulder. I just want to prove everybody wrong. That was my mindset: prove everybody wrong and dominate the No. 1 receiver."

McCreary's teammate in Auburn's defensive backfield, Smoke Monday, reflected on his four seasons on the Plains and the professional opportunity ahead.

"It's been great. It's been what I dreamed it would be growing up," Monday said. "Not many guys get to feel this moment. If you work hard and you do everything right, God will put you in the right position."

For linebacker Zakoby McClain, Pro Day provided another chance to show the scouts that he's ready for the NFL at 6-foot, 227 pounds.

"I had to overcome that my whole life," McClain said. "They look at my game and see I'm a hard-nosed player. They can see how I love football. It's amazing to come out here with my brothers. It's a good atmosphere. I love it."

Fellow linebacker Chandler Wooten captained the 2021 Tigers after opting out of the 2020 season, selling scouts on his versatility and potential room for further development.

"It's awesome to come out here and compete with my teammates every single week," Wooten said. "It meant the world to me, now having the opportunity to chase my dreams so I'm looking forward to the future."

Looking lean at 6-foot-5, 306 pounds after changing his nutrition habits, offensive lineman Brodarious Hamm impressed the pros with his quickness and mobility

"I'm going to bring a hard worker, willing to come in and do whatever for the team," Hamm said. "I'm a team player, whatever you need me to do I'm there. At the end of the day, it's all about who's going to come in and work the hardest."

Defensive tackle Tony Fair, who joined Auburn as a graduate transfer for the 2021 season, has slimmed down 8 pounds to 342 and hopes to play at 325 in the pros.

"Everybody's talented, especially when you're going against SEC teams every week," Fair said. "That helped me a lot going against them to show how good I am.

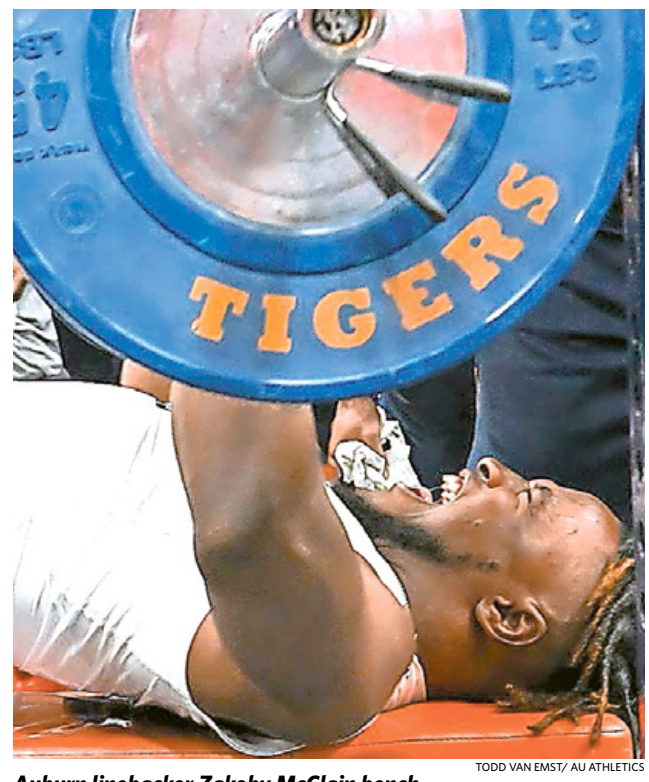

"I tell them they're going to get a big, athletic guy who's going to be able to move the whole front around. I'm very quick and agile, I'm not just a run stuffer. I can rush the passer."

Receiver Demetris Robertson ran an unofficial 4.47 40, making his case for NFL teams to invest in him.

"Everything went as planned. I give all my credit to God, my support system and the Auburn staff," said Robinson, elaborating on what he plans to bring to an organization. "A man of character, a hard-working athlete, someone who can be a leader on the team. I want to keep proving to myself and the NFL scouts that I'm that guy."

Measuring 5-foot-8 and 3/8 inches, walk-on Devin Guice dazzled with his 35-inch vertical leap and 10-7 broad jump.

"I know I have the athletic ability," Guice said. "I may be at a smaller stature, but I still have the power and everything I need to show the coaches and scouts that I can do everything they need me to do on the field.

TODD VAN EMST/ AU ATHLETICS

Auburn linebacker Zakoby McClain bench presses at Auburn's Pro Day Tuesday.

"I'm the most confident player you'll ever have but I'm also the most humble. I'll make sure that any team that brings me on, we're going to leave with the championship."

T.D. Moultry, Bydarrius Knighten Aidan Marshall and Clarke Smith also participated in Auburn's Pro Day.

Alabama earns No. 6 Seed in 2022 NCAA Tournament and will play the winner of Notre Dame/Rutgers Friday

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — The University of Alabama men's basketball team earned the No. 6 seed in the 2022 NCAA Tournament and will face the winner of No. 11 seeds Notre Dame and Rutgers on Friday, March 18, in San Diego, California. The exact tipoff time and television designation will be announced at a later date.

The Crimson Tide (19-13) earned the No. 6 seed in the West Region one year after garnering the No. 2 seed in last year's NCAA Tournament.

It is not only the first time earning consecutive tournament appearances in 15 years, dating back to 2005 and 2006, but the first time in 30 years earning back-to-back NCAA Tournament seeds of No. 6 or better (was a No. 4 seed in 1991 and No. 5 seed in 1992).

It marks the 22nd NCAA Tournament appearance in program history, with Alabama owning a record of 21-21 (.500).

The Crimson Tide's 2004 team is the only squad in program history to reach the Elite 8 while UA has appeared in the Sweet 16 eight times including a year ago.

NCAA Tournament notes

• The tournament appearance is the Tide's 22nd in program history and second in as many years after earning a spot in last year's Sweet 16 (No. 2 seed)

• The winner of the Alabama vs. Rutgers/Notre Dame game will advance to face the winner of the matchup between No. 3 Texas Tech and No. 14 Montana State on Sunday, March 20

• This is Nate Oats' fifth NCAA Tournament appearance as a head coach, with the others coming in 2016, 2018 and 2019 at Buffalo, as well as the 2021 and 2022 seasons at Alabama

• This will mark the Tide's second appearance in San Diego's Aztec Arena, last appearing in 2006 as a No. 10 seed when UA defeated No. 7 Marquette (90-86) before falling to No. 2 UCLA (62-59)

CULLMAN, Ala. — Cullman High School Principal Kim Hall is serving as the interim coordinator for the National Association of Secondary Schools in the State of Alabama, where she represents middle school and high school principals from Alabama in Washington, D.C.

She recently spent a few days in DC meeting with representatives from all 50 states, including Secretary of Education Miguel Cardona, who addressed the group to discuss key topics and answer questions from the elementary and secondary schools in attendance.

Hall also had the opportunity to meet with senators and congressmen from Alabama to discuss topics educators are facing today.

Some of the key topics Hall discussed with political leaders included the recruitment of teachers and the teacher and administrator pipeline, the mental health crisis facing we are facing in our schools, school infrastructure and Title II funds for professional development.

The trip was part of the annual National Association of Secondary School Principals Advocacy Conference and National Association of Elementary School Principals National Leaders Conference that brought 350 school leaders to meet with over 200 Members of Congress and their staff as they finalize the fiscal year 2022 federal education budget.

"It was a pleasure to represent our Alabama educators and have a chance to discuss the important issues facing our schools," Hall said.

"We had many productive talks and my hope is our legislative leaders came away with a better understanding of what teachers face every day, and how they can help."

NASSP CEO Ronn Nozoe added in a statement: "To best serve our students, our elected officials must learn from educators who are actually leading our schools.

"These amazing educators know what works in their respective communities and we must use their hard-earned knowledge to guide our way forward.

"But their efforts here today are just the beginning. Until we intentionally and systemically put principals at the design table, we will never break out of the cycle of 'try this try that,' which has plagued education for decades."

Month (from Front)

sara@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. — The Cullman County Commission on Tuesday evening proclaimed April as "Child Abuse Prevention Month" and applauded Cullman Caring for Kids for their child abuse awareness efforts and commended their promotion of programs in the community that are designed to help prevent child abuse.

County Attorney Emily Johnston read from the Proclamation, which states, "Cullman County supports and encourages all our residents and community leaders to wear blue each Monday in April in observance of Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Our commitment is to have healthy, happy children and to support the effort of Cullman Caring for Kids and all others who observe the importance to bringing awareness to this tragic problem."

The commission also amended the county employee handbook to allow new employees to have access to all sick and vacation time as it is earned during any probationary periods.

The current handbook had stipulations stating that probationary employees could earn leave time but could not use it until they became classified employees at the end of six months.

These stipulations were suspended at the beginning of the pandemic, so the council decided to continue the practice of allowing employees access to all sick and vacation leave earned immediately after hire.

The policy also states leave hours over 480 are forfeited at the end of the year. During the pandemic, many employees were absent, causing others to fill in, which meant they did not get to take their vacation time and have accrued more than 480 hours.

The commission voted to extend the annual leave carry-over through June 3.

In other business, the commission:

• Adopted the 2022 Division F Phase I Regional Hazard Mitigation Plan which is a plan that was already in place for the county and has now been adapted to a regional plan.

• Approved a tax abatement for Brothers Concrete Supply, LLC in the amount of $2,882,036. This is a new company forming in Cullman by the Dodge City Interstate 65 exit. It is projected to create 22 jobs and reporting pay at $60,000 a year. It will create approximately $100,000 over a 10-year period for community education systems and $404,000 a year in local business revenue.

• Passed an abatement extension for HH Technologies. An abatement was passed in 2020 for HH expansion in Bremen. During the pandemic, it has been difficult for the business to acquire labor and materials, and the building schedule fell behind. HH Technologies requested an extended timeline for work to be finished on their building.

• Authorized the ELC Detection and Mitigation Grant for Cullman County Correctional Facility through the Alabama Department of Public Health in the amount of $532,049 which will be used for upgrades at the jail. One major purchase will be a contactless walk-through scanner for visitors.

• Appointed James Golden to the Cullman County 310 Board with a term to expire in 2023 to fill the open position due to the death of Mrs. Peggy Day.

• Authorized the chairman and county attorney to sign the Federal 2022 Certifications and Assurances for the Federal Transit Administration Assistance Programs.

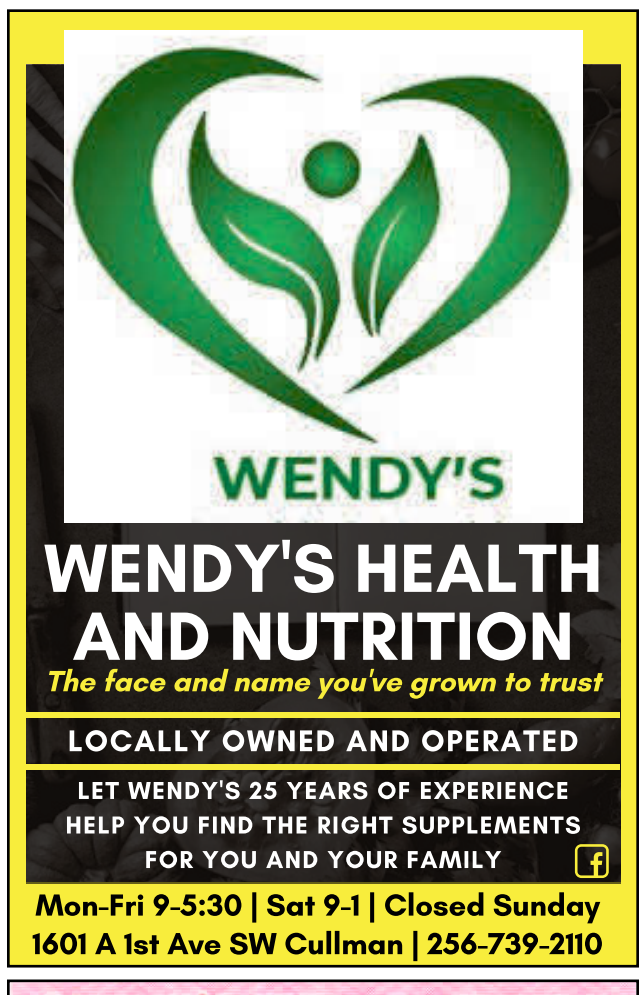

• Approved the proposed plat Priscilla subdivision containing 3 Lots located off County Road 1725 and County Road 1721.

The next commission work session will be Tuesday, April 19 at 4 p.m. The next meeting will be at 6 p.m. in the commission office conference room on the first floor of the Cullman County Courthouse. The public is invited to attend.

For pastimes, she loved to play piano, crocheted afghans as gifts for both family and friends and often relaxed with a Christian novel. She enjoyed reminiscing about growing up on a farm in Clarkston, Michigan. He was a graduate of Corner High school and was a man of great ambition and strong determination which he showed in all things including his love for the Lord, his wife Joyce Rickels, his church, his family and his friends. At the young age of 19, Butch started his own business known as Warrior Tire, which was located on Main Street of Warrior for 20 years before he moved on to build Warrior Tire II o the Hayden/Corner exit. You could always find a big yellow school bus parked right outside his shop. He drove a bus from 1986 - 2013, devoting 27 years to the children he transported every day. If not on a yellow school bus, you could sometimes catch Butch driving his personal white bus. This bus was known as a symbol of love and fellowship no matter where it traveled. From birthday parties to football games, to his many adventures to Canada to fish with all his family and friends, he had pride in driving it. Butch was wise and generous to a fault. His compassion was endless. He never met a stranger, and he was determined to encourage and inspire those who were fortunate enough to have known him. He was a busy bee, always available for odd jobs and help till the day he was unable to do so. Even then, he could be seen directing or supervising his odd jobs around the house from his scooter. No matter how tired he might have seemed, he was always ready to play a round of hand and foot, even if it meant you receiving a phone call any day of the week at any time with his invitation, though that invitation was more of an absolute attendance expected rather than an open-ended suggestion. He had a true servant's heart, and it brought him endless joy to be of service in any way he possibly could. He had many names, but some of the most treasured were: Honey, Dad, PawPaw Butch, Best brother in the world and friend. He was truly one of a kind and those who knew him and had the honor of loving him were blessed beyond measure. Workshop (from Front)

Sara Gladney

CULLMAN, Ala. — The Cullman County Extension office is hosting a Backyard Poultry Processing Workshop on Saturday, March 19 from 10 a.m. – 3 p.m. at the North Alabama Agriplex. The event will involve classroom instruction on backyard poultry processing and procedures used to turn a live chicken into a whole carcass ready for the freezer or dinner table.

Participants are encouraged to bring their own birds to process. They will be walked through all processing steps including slaughter, scalding, defeathering, evisceration and chilling. The Extension office may have a couple of chickens available, however Extension Coordinator Kira Sims says that in order to be sure to participate in the hands-on learning process, participants should try to bring their own.

The workshop is open to anyone looking to learn to process chickens, but predominantly people who already own their own small flocks of birds. Sims said, "It's for anybody with small flocks and that's why the workshop is called Backyard Poultry Processing, so whether you just have a few birds or want to get a few birds and process those for your own household consumption, or it could be folks that are interested in pastor poultry from a small-scale farming standpoint and want to learn how to process in order to figure out the rules to sell that bird."

Lunch will be provided by Alabama's Mountains, Rivers & Valleys and Resource Conservation and Development Council. Registration is $10 and can be completed online at Backyard Poultry Processing Workshop - Alabama Cooperative Extension System (https://www.aces.edu/event/backyard-poultry-processing-workshop/). For further questions, contact the Extension office at 256-737-9386.

Russell Moore
Wallace State

HANCEVILLE, Ala. — Wallace State Community College's Talent Search program hosted more than 170 high school students recently for the annual TRiO Day on campus.

Students from Wallace State's service area schools in Blount, Cullman, Marshall and Morgan counties were treated to an array of activities, including listening to keynote speaker Jonathan Parks and touring select departments on campus.

"Thank you so much for being a part of the Talent Search program. We believe what we're doing is helping shape your future, so we appreciate you taking those steps," said Todd Abbott, Wallace State's director of Educational Talent Search.

"Education is a wonderful thing. It's not just a means to an end; it's a way to brighten the world and live in a deeper, more meaningful way.

"The more you understand the world, the more you appreciate it."

At the outset, Abbott recognized each school in attendance: Holly Pond, Fairview, Hanceville, Cold Springs, Vinemont, Douglas, Fairview, Hayden, J.B. Pennington, Susan Moore, Falkville and Brewer.

Parks, a master practitioner of the Myers-Briggs and True Colors personality inventories and Diversity Outreach and Relationship Director at Vizient, Inc., was the event's main speaker.

Using multiple engaging exercises, Parks encouraged the students to always listen and use their imaginations.

"Learn how you learn and learn that way. Some of you are visual learners, some are hands-on and others learn through audio.

"If you want to be successful in life, learn how you learn and learn that way," said Parks, a Detroit native, who was making his first trip to Alabama.

"I also encourage you to create a board of directors for yourself and have those people in your corner through life.

"You'll be amazed at the things you can pull off with the right people surrounding you."

Students were also treated to a performance from the Wallace State Singers.

The latter part of the event gave students the opportunity to learn more about their detailed personality traits with Parks, visit with two financial literacy coaches from Regions Bank and converse with representatives from four-year colleges in attendance.

Opportunities were also available to tour the following Wallace State programs: Dental Hygiene, Diagnostic Medical Sonography, Respiratory Therapy, Nursing, Physical Therapy Assistant, Mechatronics, Diesel Technology, Welding, Salon and Spa Management, Culinary Arts, Criminal Justice, Business Education and the Fine and Performing Arts.

Wallace State's Talent Search is a TRIO program funded by the U.S. Department of Education to provide services to students in grades 6-12.

Its primary focus is to assist students and parents with a variety of activities involved in getting a student ready to attend college, including with academic advising, career exploration, financial aid assistance, college admission prep and more.
