HANCEVILLE, Ala. — Karen Cook of Cook Ministries is hosting an event to bring nonprofits together to support those struggling with mental health issues. The event, named Superhero Fire, will feature 25 vendors that specialize in one of four categories: suicide prevention, human trafficking, domestic violence and addiction recovery. Superhero Fire will be held at the Hanceville Civic Center Saturday, Sept. 17, from 4-6 p.m.

"The vision for Superhero Fire came with one thought of all of these amazing superheroes with their very own super strengths, all under one roof," Cook said. "Each vendor at this event is a superhero at what they do every single day, and we want to share their super strengths with our community. This is an annual networking event bringing various nonprofits and organizations together all under one roof, bringing each superhero's strength to light and meeting people within our communities to help each other's needs."

The event is free, and free meals will be provided. A sign language interpreter will be present from the Alabama Institute for the Deaf and Blind (AIDB) Shoals Regional Center. » PAGE 2

Peinhardt (from Front)

CULLMAN, Ala. – Each fall, Cullman's Peinhardt Living History Farm opens its gates to the public for a hands-on farm experience from the 1930s and 1940s. After being canceled the last two years because of the pandemic, the popular festival is back – and expanded. Normally only one day, this year Peinhardt Farm Day(s) will take place over two days: Saturday, Oct. 15 and Sunday, Oct. 16, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Attractions and activities across the 40 acres will include woodworking, mules, horses, wagon rides, antique tractors, field crops, farm animal petting, syrup making, a grist mill, blacksmithing, sawmill and horseshoeing.

Immigrating to Cullman County with an influx of families from Germany, Karl Peinhardt arrived in the Bethsadia community in the late 1870s. A few decades later, his son, Otto, purchased land and began farming at the farm's current site off U.S. Highway 278 near the Interstate 65 interchange.

Upon graduation from Alabama Polytechnic Institute (now Auburn University), Otto Peinhardt's son Carl implemented row crops, dairy cows and hogs on the land and a new generation was born.

Carl Peinhardt developed a reputation as a master in the dairy industry and soil conservation. He and his wife, Irene, developed registered Guernsey dairy cattle.

The Renaissance man was a skilled carpenter, rock mason and even musician whose commitment to hard work was evident until mere hours before his passing in 1992 when he was making repairs to a pasture fence at age 80.

From there, Carl Peinhardt's offspring took the helm. Peinhardt Living History Farm provided an inside look at farm life in the 1930s and 1940s for the first time in 1993.

Farm Day, held yearly in October, provides a small taste of what life was like for the children of Carl and Irene. Of their children, only Bill and Eddie remain after their beloved sister Pat was tragically lost earlier this year.

The Peinhardts, in their youth, grew up working hard planting and picking cotton, milking cows by hand and caring for chickens and tending hay crops. Eventually the family invested in a hay baler, with Eddie Peinhardt taking charge, and a milking machine was added in 1953. Men, women and children put their hearts and souls into the family farm.

Peinhardt Living History Farm is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit and is located at 1711 Talley Ho St. Admission for Farm Days Oct. 15-16 is $10. Children 2 and younger get in free.

Event (from Front)

Lacy Tolar, founder of Rescue 1 Global in Tennessee, will give the keynote speech centered around human trafficking.

Cook spoke about the importance of raising awareness about suicide prevention and mental health issues. She shared some of the reasons why she believes these conversations can be so difficult.

"After my brother's death, I got into the history of suicide. I wanted to study it. I wanted to know where it first started, how it happened, about suicides even in the Bible. I read all kinds of stuff, and if you look at some of that, you'll find that years ago, it was taboo," she said. "If you died by suicide, you were not even allowed to be buried in certain cemeteries. If you tried it and it was not completed you would go to jail. People just don't talk about it. Then with mental health, it's just kind of hush-hush. Maybe someone has got a mental health issue at home and they're the ones that nobody talks about. That's what we've got to overcome."

Cullman EMS Director James Curtis, who assists Cook Ministries with mental health awareness programs, shared his perspective as one of the first responders to some tragic scenes.

"From my experience – from the emergency services and from veterans – we're the people that come to fix things, and everybody expects us to have all the answers, but the things that you see day in and day out, it adds and piles up on the wagon. You pull that around with you and it accumulates to the point that it's so much for people to bear," he said.

"What I want to get across to people is it's okay to need some help. It's okay for us to get help for ourselves. You can't pour from an empty cup. If we don't take care of ourselves mentally, emotionally and physically then we can't go out there and take care of the people in the community.

"It's such a burden on people emotionally to see the things that we do every day. It's okay to not be 10 feet tall every day. It's alright. It's not a weakness, it's a sign of strength to me because you know that you need some help, and if you're willing to get some help so you can carry on with your mission of saving lives or protecting people, then that's a win."

Both talked about the importance of being kind to strangers and that no one knows what other people are going through.

Cook shared a quote from her brother Johnny: "Sometimes people are struggling with life and carrying a smile always trying to be strong. Be kind to the people you meet; you never know what is going on in their life. A kind word may be all it takes to help them thru another day."

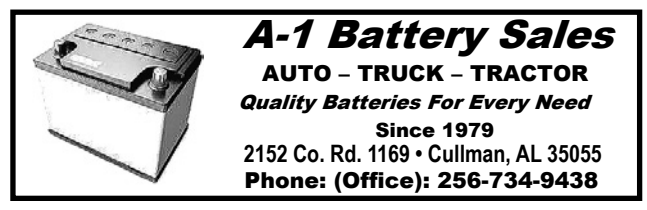

Cooks said Superhero Fire's confirmed vendors include AIDB, Alabama Teen Challenge (Hayden), Alabama Suicide Prevention & Resource Coalition (ASPARC), Cullman Re-Entry Addiction Assistance (CREAA), Cook Ministries, Cullman County Human Trafficking Task Force, Cullman County Sheriff's Office, Domestic Violence Crisis Services of Marshall County, Dove Renew You/ Arise Coffee Co., Duty to Render Aid, Hope Filled Rooms (Birmingham), North Alabama Human Trafficking Task Force, Our Father's House Ministries (Gadsden), Redeemed Ministries (Blountsville), Rescue 1 Global, Restoration Counseling Services, Sleep in Heavenly Peace (Hartselle), Soul Savage Ministries (Tennessee), The Crossing, The Lighthouse, The Pathfinder (Huntsville), Victim Services of Cullman, Wal-Mart Heart and Well-Stone (Cullman).

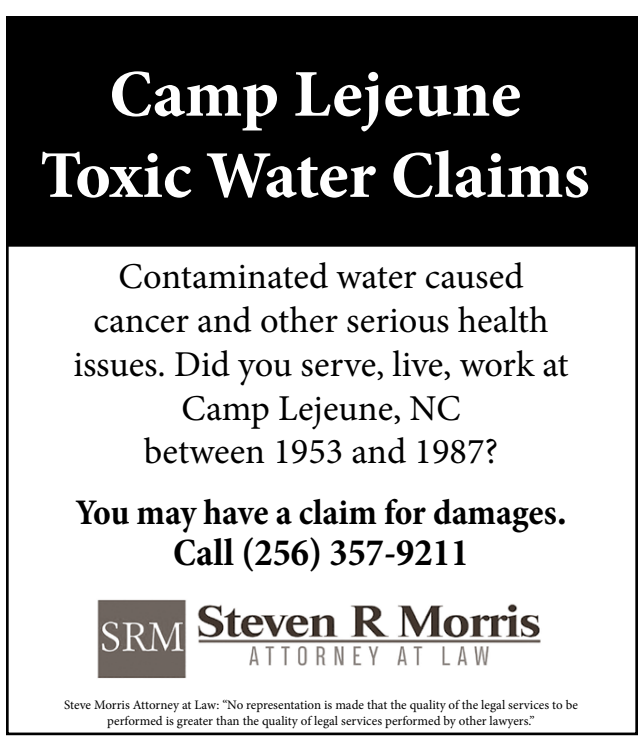

She added, "My personal goal is that someone comes through the door that needs a vendor, and if they don't need that vendor then they are going to need the one next to them. There's plenty of people there that are more than willing to help people."

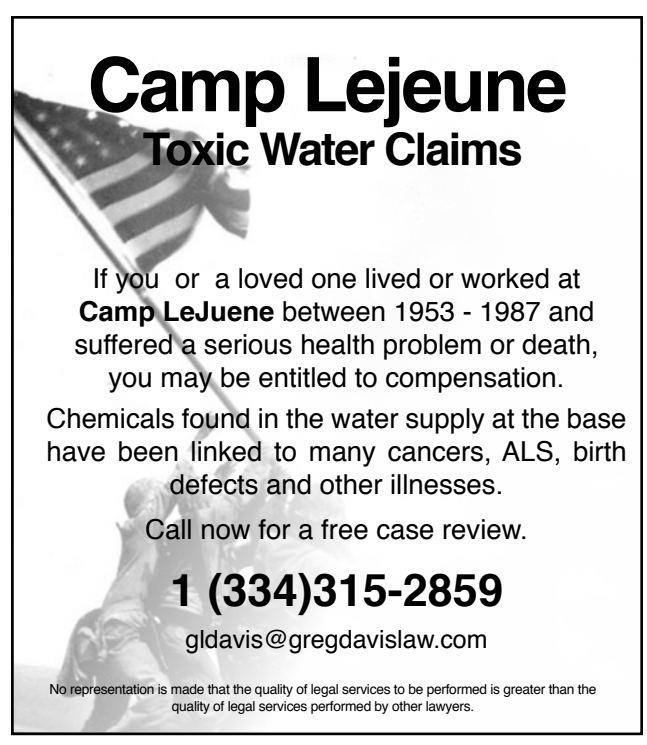

Cook Ministries a faith-based organization dedicated to restoring mental health through recovery programs focused on addictions, substance abuse, depression and suicidal ideation.

Addison sweeps Curry at home

Todd Walker
Tribune correspondent

ADDISON, Ala. — The Addison Lady Bulldogs hosted the Curry Lady Yellow Jackets at Allen Stephenson Gym on Tuesday afternoon, and the home team came away with a solid sweep in two sets 25-15 and 25-19.

The first set saw the Lady Dawgs jump out to a 4-1 lead. Addison would score two or three points and then the Lady Jackets would follow with a couple of their own. There were several long rallies as both teams played solid defense. Bailee Ory had several key digs and Abby Waldrep had enough kills to be on the FBI's Most Wanted List. Addison led 10-8 and after a timeout, went on a 12-3 run to take control of the game. Addison led 22-11 but the Lady Jackets wouldn't quit as they scored four of the next five points to cut the lead to 23-15. The Lady Dawgs put the game away as they scored the final two points of the game to take the first set, 25-15.

The second game was a back-and-forth affair as the visitors from Curry were determined to send this match to a third set. Addison jumped out quick, again taking a 5-2 lead. Addison's All-State Senior Setter Gracie "Bug" Manley did what she does best by setting up her teammates for the kill. Dacey Baker would take the set and destroy the ball giving the Lady Jackets nothing but flash burn as the ball went by their faces. The Jackets returned the favor as they refused to quit. The Jackets took four of the next seven points to cut the lead to 8-6. The Lady Bulldogs said enough is enough and went on a 5-2 run to push their lead to 13-9 but it was still anybody's game.

Just when you thought that the Lady Dawgs would pull away, here come the Jackets. Curry went on another 4-3 run to cut the lead to 16-12. After another timeout, both teams split the next 14 points at 7 apiece. Hadley Butler, the team's starting Libero, also is adept at passing the ball and she set up her teammate, Katie Barrett for numerous kills. With the score standing at 23-19 Addison took the final two points to take the match 25-19.

Addison Head Coach Kaydi Woodard seemed pleased at the end of the match. "We looked much better today. The ladies took care of business and didn't fold when (Curry) put pressure on them," Woodard said. "I am very happy on how we played today and the way that the ladies communicated on the court."

Unofficial stats for Addison:
Waldrep and Baker led in blocks with one each. Manley led in assists with 15 while Butler had 10. Ory had 11 digs and Manley had nine. Waldrep had nine kills, Baker and Barrett had five apiece. Manley had six.

HOLLY POND, Ala. — Holly Pond hosted a tri-match with West Point and Southeastern Monday night and the Lady Broncos collected wins over both of them. The Lady Broncos collected sweeps of the Lady Mustangs and the Lady Warriors while West Point picked up a sweep of its own against Southeastern.

Holly Pond 25 - Southeastern 16 (First Set)
Aliyah Ryan got the first point of the game for Holly Pond on an ace and later on, a kill by Kamryn Tankersley gave the Lady Broncos a 4-1 lead. They held a 20-9 lead late in the game, but the Lady Mustangs came storming back into the contest as they went on a 7-1 run to make it a 21-16 game. Holly Pond, though, quickly righted themselves and they ended up finishing the game strong as Tankersley and Black each got a kill and Kaylee Rohrscheib added an ace to help the Lady Broncos take game one, 25-16.

Tankersley finished with a pair of kills and an ace for Holly Pond. Earl added a pair of kills. Black ended up with a kill and an ace. Gracie Armstrong finished with a kill, while Ryan and Rohrscheib each added an ace.

Tankersley got a pair of kills, Black got a pair of points and Rohrscheib collected a pair of aces during that run as the Lady Broncos held an 8-3 lead. They later held a 13-7 lead, but the Lady Mustangs had a quick answer of their own as a 6-1 run helped cut the deficit to just one at 14-13. After Southeastern made it a 15-14 lead, Holly Pond finally pulled away from Southeastern for good as Ryan collected a trio of aces at one point during the run, Rohrscheib got an ace of her own, and Armstrong added a kill as well. The Lady Broncos ended up taking game two, 25-15.

Rohrscheib and Ryan each finished with a trio of aces for Holly Pond. Black added three points. Tankersley ended up with a pair of kills. Armstrong added a point, and a kill and Burks collected a point.

Holly Pond 25 - Southeastern 12 (Third Set)
Holly Pond got off to a fast start in game three as another ace by Ryan and two more by Rohrscheib helped them jump out to a 6-2 lead. A point by Black and a Tankersley ace made it 10-3. Southeastern cut it to 11-6 later on in the contest, but the Lady Broncos didn't let them get any closer than that the rest of the contest. After the Lady Mustangs made it 14-8, Ryan helped push the Holly Pond lead to double-digits as she collected four straight aces to increase their lead to 19-8. Black collected a point to finish things off for Holly Pond as they swept Southeastern in its first region match-up of the season, 25-12.

Ryan had a huge game for Holly Pond as she finished with five aces. Rohrscheib added a pair of aces of her own. Burks ended up with an ace and a point. Black added a pair of points. Tankersley collected an ace and Earl finished with a kill.

West Point 25 - Southeastern 13 (First Set)
A point by Liberty Shadix gave West Point an early 2-0 lead and later on, a kill by Caitlee Simmons and a Brooklyn Wells ace pushed their lead to 5-2. They padded their lead even more as Laklin Shadix got a kill and that was followed by an ace from Liberty Shadix as that made it 10-3. Southeastern, though, answered right back with a run of their own as six straight points by them made it an 11-9 game.

The Lady Warriors quickly settled down and began to pull away for good from the Lady Mustangs as Wells got a point and Brindlee Phillips added an ace as that pushed their lead to 17-11. Another point by Liberty Shadix made it 21-12 and Simmons finished off the contest with a kill as West Point took game one, 25-13.

Liberty Shadix finished with two points and an ace for West Point. Simmons added a pair of kills. Wells ended up with an ace and a point. Laklin Shadix added a kill and Phillips collected an ace.

West Point 25 - Southeastern 16 (Second Set)
Phillips got the game started with an ace as West Point got on the scoreboard first. Later on, they broke a two-all tie with three straight points as Liberty Shadix got a block point and a pair of aces to help give them a 5-2 lead. A Patton Fell ace made it a 7-4 contest, but Southeastern cut it to 8-7. The Lady Warriors reeled off four straight points in a row, including a kill by Laklin Shadix, a point by Liberty Shadix, and a pair of aces by Charli Aris, to push their lead to 12-7.

Back-to-back kills by Marli Powell and Liberty Shadix made it a 14-9 game, but the Lady Mustangs didn't make it easy for West Point as they cut it to 14-12 later in the contest. West Point went on yet another run as Wells collected a point and an ace, Macie Brown got a kill, and Liberty Shadix added back-to-back aces as the Lady Warriors padded their lead to 19-13. Fells added yet another ace to make it 21-14 and the Lady Warriors would go on to sweep the Lady Mustangs, 25-16.

Liberty Shadix had a big game for West Point as she finished with four aces, two kills, and a pair of points. Laklin Shadix added a pair of kills and a point. Fell and Aris each ended up with a pair of aces, Wells added an ace and a point. Phillips finished with an ace, and Brown and Powell each collected a kill.

Holly Pond 25 - West Point 18 (First Set)
Tankersley collected the first two points of the game for Holly Pond, and they later pushed their lead to 4-1 early on in game one, but West Point quickly came back to tie the game up at four. Brown broke the tie with a point and a kill as that gave the Lady Broncos a 7-4 lead; they later pushed their lead to 11-5 on a pair of aces and a kill by Earl. A Brown ace increased Holly Pond's lead to 14-6. The Lady Warriors slowly started to get back in the game as an ace by Aris, a kill by Powell, and a block point by Liberty Shadix, made it a 16-10 contest.

The Lady Broncos padded their lead up to 10 at 20-10, but West Point cut it to 20-13 on a Laklin Shadix kill and later to 24-18 on a block point by Powell and an Aris ace. Earl finished off game one with a kill as Holly Pond ended up taking game one, 25-18.

Laklin Shadix ended up with a kill and a point. Simmons added a kill, and Liberty Shadix and Kylee Quinn each collected a point as well.

Holly Pond 25 - West Point 21 (Second Set)
West Point got off to a very fast start in game two as Liberty Shadix started things off with a kill and Wells followed that up with a block point to give them an early 2-0 lead. They later padded their lead to 6-2 on a Wells ace, but Holly Pond got a trio of aces by Tankersley at one point during their 6-0 run as that gave them an 8-6 lead.

Both teams kept the game close for a while as there were more than a handful of ties for several sets. A Powell point gave the Lady Warriors a 15-13 lead, but the Lady Broncos went on another run, scoring six straight points, as Tankersley got a kill and Rohrscheib added an ace, to give them a 19-15 lead.

Holly Pond held a 21-17 lead late in the game, but West Point made things very interesting in the end. Laklin Shadix got a kill to make it 21-18, and later on, she got a point and Simmons added an ace as well and the Lady Bronco lead was swiveled to just one at 22-21. Holly Pond was able to finish off West Point when they needed to as they got the final three points of the contest, including a Burks ace, and were able to hold off the Lady Warriors in game two, 25-22.

Holly Pond will travel to Guntersville to take on Southside-Gadsden and the Lady Wildcats Tuesday, while West Point will host Brewer and Good Hope.

OP-ED: My brain lied to me

Suicide Prevention Awareness Month

Amy Leonard

On average, 130 American lose their lives by suicide every day. More than five lives per hour. One life lost every 11 minutes. On Dec. 27, 2012, my mother was one of those lives. Seven years later I tried my best to be one of those lives.

For decades I was unaware of my depression. I assumed the general malaise and inferiority that clouded my brain was felt by everyone to the same extreme I felt. I thought that cutting myself with razors just to feel anything during bouts of detachment and profound numbness as a teenager was normal. I thought my poor, self-sabotaging judgment to choose a vagabond life filled with alcohol and drugs over a free ride to college was a sound choice.

I can't remember when I didn't toy with the thought of suicide. Even at a young age, life felt needlessly difficult and heavy. Getting out of bed and facing a regular day was overwhelming. The art of putting on a happy face while participating in life was mastered early although my brain repeated its mantra of "I don't want to be here. They're judging you. It's all a sham" constantly.

In my mid-20s, a doctor suggested that I return to therapy and begin taking an antidepressant. I took his advice and felt nominally better-ish. Yet, I couldn't shake the foundational misconception that "it" was all wrong. Not the medication or the cognitive behavioral therapy but me, the world and life. I was an inherently bad human being who had no right to be in this world according to my belief system.

After severing my relationship with alcohol and drugs through rigorous work in a 12-step program, I was disheartened that I was still left with the dark cloud over my head, casting shadows on a productive life steeped in being of service to others. I gave more, did more and tried to be more, stretching and pulling myself to feel like I was enough.

I would often gaze over the edge of mountain passes as I drove and romanticize taking off my seatbelt and driving over the edge. I knew how much medicine was in my home, ensuring there was always enough to fall asleep and never wake. Instead of a life insurance policy, I maintained my death policy. It was always there, readily available whenever I finally had enough.

In December 2012, the phone call came. Because of my mom's honesty with me about her mental health struggles and suicidality, I had long before accepted that eventually depression would win the battle she fought for decades. Yet, I was unprepared. My beautiful, smart as a whip and deeply flawed mother, my No. 1 protector and defender, was gone. Her mental illness won. She was only 55.

Her death opened the door for my mind to delve deeper into the thought of suicide. I no longer had to worry about the devastation it would cause her. Plus, I missed my mom and wanted nothing more than to be with her again. Days, weeks and months found me curled up in bed saying over and over again, "I just want my mama" like a toddler left home with a babysitter.

Fast forward to February 2019 when I was a college graduate, working in a field that I loved, a homeowner and married to an all-around great guy. I was tracking household medications again and those steep drops off the interstate were calling to me again. I knew I was losing my battle with mental illness and my days or hours were numbered. I was tired of fighting my own mind to stay alive. I was tired.

I made a phone call to my regional director from outside my workplace and hysterically told her that I needed help. She directed me to the closest emergency room where my husband met me. My denial had me doubting that I would qualify for treatment. I was wrong. It seemed that suicidal ideation with multiple plans and means was the exact qualification for inpatient treatment for mental health.

I can't say I was happy to be hospitalized, but I was so relieved to be safe and to finally be honest about the extent of my struggles without fear of being judged. I was gifted a reprieve from working on anything but my mental health, coping strategies and establishing authentic connections with other patients, one of whom is still a dear friend to this day. (Hey Julie! I love you!)

In my two weeks of wearing grippy socks and sleeping on a 2-inch foam mattress, I wasn't taught any skills that I didn't already know. That's the weird thing. Logically, I knew everything they taught me. Hell, I had taught the same skills to others in my career. Yet, I required other human beings to make it click in my head. I couldn't fix my brain with my self-knowledge. I required outside help.

Whether my mental illness is determined by nature or nurture, a genetic predisposition or my environment, it doesn't matter. Yes, many of my immediate family members and ancestors have struggled with mental illness, and yes, I was raised in a home with mental illness that resulted in profound physical, mental and emotional abuse. I can rationalize it, but I can't control my disease on my own. My mental illness can't be cured, but it can be managed and treated like many other diseases.

AMY LEONARD/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

It would be swell to report that life is all rainbows and unicorns today. That's not my reality. I am still tasked with staying on top of my mental illness. After research, I found a therapist who works well with me, and we have delved into EMDR therapy to address my PTSD. I still have mental health diagnoses and choose to take medication to offset the symptoms. Just like any other chronic illness, my depression requires lifelong treatment to be managed. Today, I am grateful to have that opportunity.

If you are struggling, please call 988 or text TALK to 741741. You are not alone.

Cullman City Schools

CULLMAN, Ala. — Students at Cullman City Primary School have always gotten some exposure to science, technology, engineering and math (STEM), but this year the school is taking young learners even deeper into the concepts with a special curriculum and approach unique at the primary school level.

The school has hired Anna Anderson part time to serve as a specialized STEM teacher, providing bi-weekly classes to all kindergarten and first-grade students in a class solely devoted to STEM opportunities.

This will be in addition to the STEM curriculum already in place.

At Cullman City Primary School, Alabama's digital literacy and computer science, math and science standards will heavily influence the direction of STEM instruction.

The goal is to expose even the youngest learners to the basics of abstraction, algorithms, robotics and coding, while teaching them the impact that technology has in everyday life.

There will also be opportunities for students to develop problem-solving skills by planning, creating and testing ideas through hands-on learning experiences.

"Mrs. Anderson is also in the process of planning a STEM Day during which students will have the chance to participate in multiple hands-on STEM stations," Cullman City Primary School Principal Elizabeth Shaddix said.

"There will be a variety of stations for classes to visit which include virtual welding, a forklift simulator, an industrial robot, unplugged coding and many more fantastic learning opportunities. We are so excited for our students to learn from this unique experience!"

There are a number of advantages to introducing STEM to students as early as possible. STEM activities foster critical thinking, problem solving, listening, communication and vocabulary development.

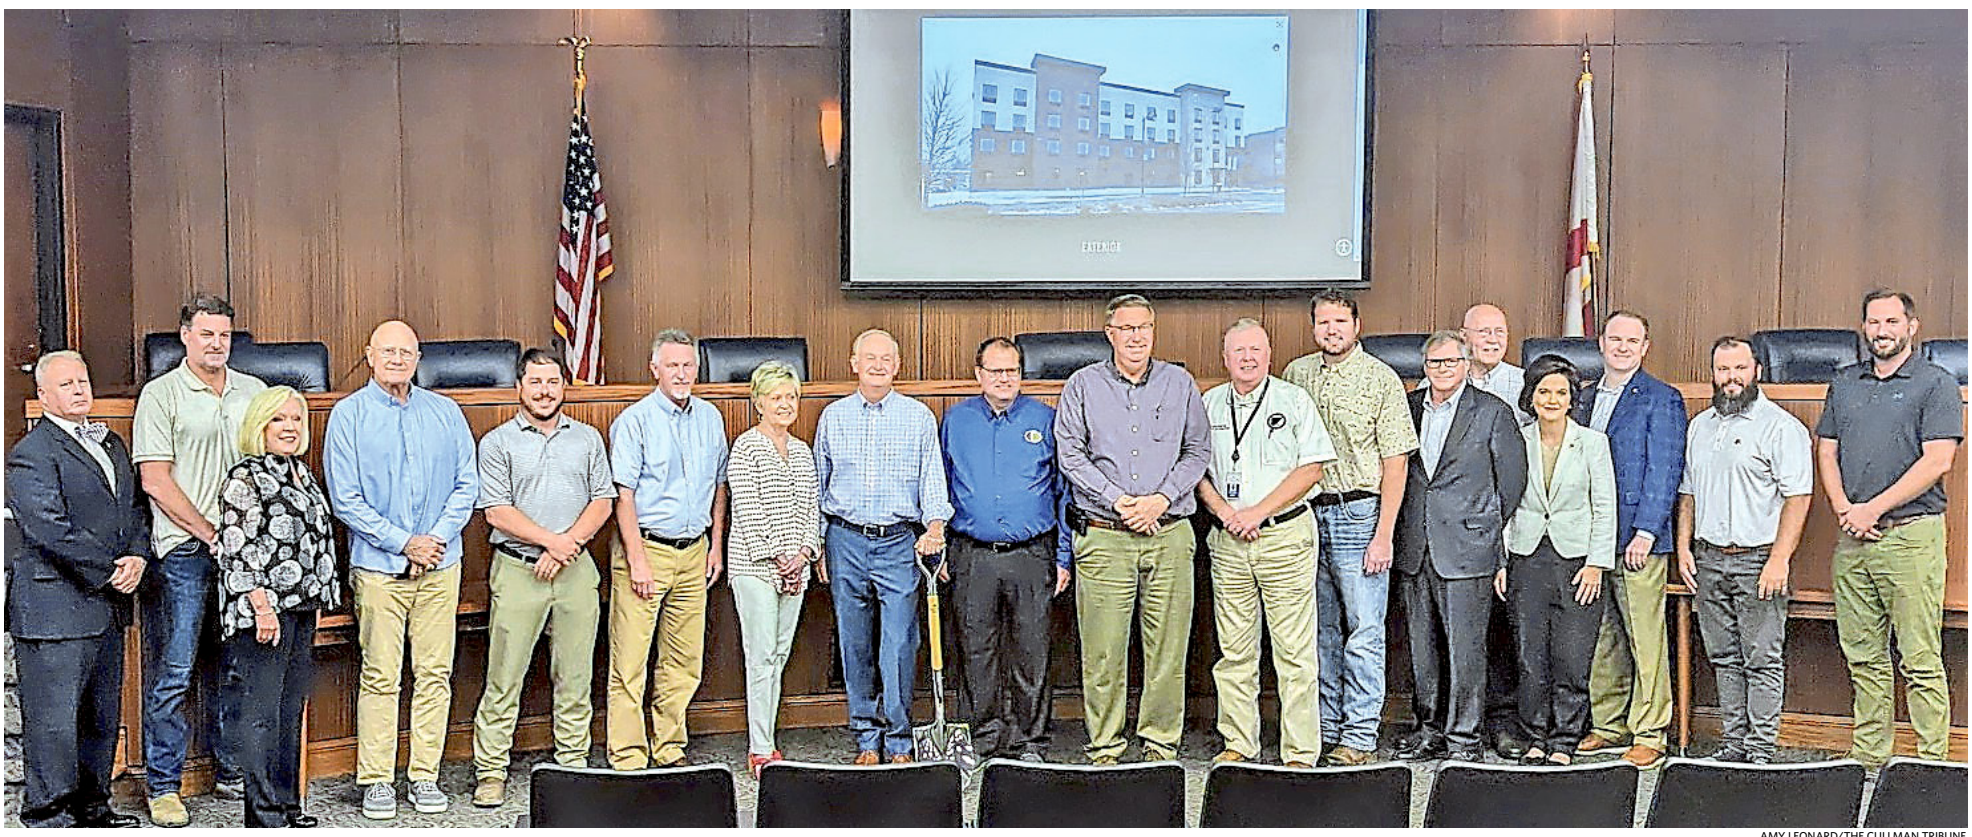

STEM also provides opportunities for students to acquire social and emotional intelligence and confidence, and it requires them to plan, create, test and adapt.

STEM instruction can also provide students with a deeper understanding and application of Alabama's digital literacy and computer science, math and science standards.

"These skills carry over into every subject area and will follow them throughout their lives," Shaddix noted.

"We hope our students gain the confidence to 'think outside the box' while also growing their vocabulary and communication skills, and the best part is that they will likely have a lot of fun in the process!"

If you're seeking more information on the STEM program at CCPS, or would like to be involved, contact Anna Anderson at aanderson@cullmancats.net.

Community leaders came together with Cobblestone Hotel & Suites representatives for a symbolic "groundbreaking" at Cullman City Hall Tuesday, Aug. 30.

Construction (from Front)

amy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. — The planned Cobblestone Hotel & Suites at 1835 Main Ave. SW in Cullman is now closer to reality. Cullman Area Chamber of Commerce Interim President Keith Varden welcomed guests to a symbolic "groundbreaking" ceremony Tuesday at Cullman City Hall, and ground clearing at the site has begun.

"Cobblestone Hotel & Suites is an exciting next step for Cullman," Varden said. "It's the first of its brand in Alabama and we're super grateful (sic).

"It's the first hotel in the downtown area. What this is going to do for us is tie in our industrial area but also the great growth in the addition of WildWater, of the new sports complex and the sports entertainment district that we're creating. The need for this is great."

Cobblestone Hotels President Jeremy Griesbach said of his first experience driving into Cullman, "We came in on the main corridor and took the exit by all of the hotels."

Initially, Griesbach said, he didn't see the need for an additional hotel after passing the numerous hotels lining Alabama Highway 157 near the interstate.

He continued, "But then we drove the five minutes to get downtown and drove around the area and met with (the Cullman Economic Development Agency's) Susan (Eller) and Dale (Greer) and looked at things. I was like, 'Wow! This really is almost two different communities when you look at it.' You have the interstate area and then you come into what I'm going to call 'Cullman proper' and you guys definitely have two great things going on within one larger community.

"This makes all the sense in the world when you see your downtown area. (We) went out to your industrial park and came back and forth a couple of times."

After getting the lay of the land and appreciating the sports and activities near the tentative site, along with Cullman's new WildWater water park nearby, Griesbach said he saw the vision and put the wheels in motion to bring the hotel chain's first Alabama location to Cullman.

Greer, a longtime proponent of teamwork, said, "In the city and county we share a lot of these taxes.

"We share sales tax. We share a workforce. We share all of those things working together."

The 63-room hotel, an $8.8 million investment, is expected to employ at least 22 staff members and will include a Wissota Chophouse featuring premier steaks and local and regional craft beers. Construction is projected to take 12-15 months.

Headquartered in Wisconsin and founded in 2008, Cobblestone Hotels has locations in 29 states.

Amenities at the new location will include refrigerators, microwaves, 24-hour Starbucks Coffee service, flat screen televisions, luxury linens, complimentary breakfast, guest laundry, an on-site convenience store, high-speed wireless internet, a fitness center and an outdoor pool.

In a previous statement, Griesbach said, "Cobblestone Hotels is very excited to break ground on the first Cobblestone Hotel and Wissota Chophouse in Alabama.

"The location near downtown Cullman positions us to be part of the community and will give our guests the opportunity to take advantage of all that downtown Cullman has to offer."

Retail Specialists represents Cobblestone in its expansion in Alabama and other parts of the Southeast by identifying markets and specific locations within those markets.

Retail Specialists was instrumental in locating the selected site and helped Cobblestone navigate incentives with the City of Cullman, according to a press release.

"We have a long history with Jeremy and the Cobblestone Hotels team," said Jeff Rouzie, associate at Retail Specialists.

"Breaking ground in Cullman is the first of many we'll see in the Southeast. We have relationships with municipalities throughout the region and strive to help create a positive economic impact by increasing revenues through sales tax, hotel tax and jobs."

Varden summed up the opportunity Tuesday, saying, "This project is a huge investment in our community that meets the needs for an ever-growing number of visitors to Cullman every day."

CULLMAN, Ala. — The Cullman Police Department (CPD) responded to a bomb threat at Cullman Regional around 11:02 a.m. Tuesday. After investigating, the department said the call was a hoax. Later Tuesday, the Jasper Police Department (JPD) released a statement saying a 14-year-old student had been arrested for allegedly making multiple bomb threats.

The JPD statement said, "At approximately 11 a.m., Jasper Police were notified of a bomb threat called in to Walker Baptist Medical Center. Jasper Police, along with Jasper Fire and Walker County Sheriff's Office personnel responded to the scene and secured the buildings.

During the course of the investigation, Jasper Police learned that another threat had been called into a fast food establishment in Sumiton and Cullman Regional Medical Center. The suspect in all three threats was identified as a 14-year-old student at a county school and is currently in a juvenile detention facility awaiting charges. The hospital was cleared, and there is no threat to the public."

"I appreciate the hard work from our officers and investigators, as well as the assistance from the Walker County Sheriff's Office," said Jasper Police Chief J. C. Poe. "Our patrol officers did an outstanding job of responding to the hospital and locking everything down. I'm glad we were able to bring this to a close and identify a suspect so quickly."

CPD Public Relations Officer Adam Clark said a caller reported that C-4 was around Cullman Regional and hostages were being held in a room.

"The room they claimed to have the hostages in did not exist," Clark said. "Nothing has been found and they believe the call was a hoax."

Clark said Cullman Regional was not evacuated.

been met and the sheriff's office will no longer be accepting clothing donations.

The community immediately offered an outpouring of support for Trimble. Chick-fil-A in Cullman (1830 Cherokee Ave. SW) is hosting a benefit breakfast this Friday, Sept. 2, from 6-10 a.m. A portion of all sales will go to support Trimble and his family.

Ben Wilson of Redline Leather Workz in Hanceville (318 Arkadelphia Road) has put together an essentials drive for the Trimble family that will run through Sunday, Sept. 4. Redline Leather Workz will be accepting donations of toiletries and cash. All donations will be delivered to the family on Sunday afternoon or Monday morning.

Wilson shared, "As a first responder, we're out there daily putting our lives on the line for complete strangers, but then who is there to help us in a time of need? We lean on each other for support, but a lot of times that ain't always enough.

"If I can get the public to step up and lend a hand and show our first responders the same support they're shown in a time of need then hopefully it will bridge the gap to creating a better understanding of how life affects each of us in different ways. We all live, work and socialize in the same community, and no matter what each of us do for a living or in our pastime, we should all be able to get along and live in some form of unison."

Donations are being taken by friend of the family Amanda Miller at the Holly Pond Marathon gas station (10824 U.S. Highway 278 E). The store is accepting cash donations and gifts cards for food or gas. Miller has also received many clothing items for the family from the Holly Pond community.

Monetary donations can also be made at the Cullman branch of Premier Bank of the South (101 First Ave. NW), where a special account has been set up. All proceeds will go to Trimble and his family.
