Electric Co-op holds 86th annual meeting; no changes to board of trustees

Amy Leonard
amy@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. — Cullman Electric Cooperative members participated in its 86th annual meeting on Saturday at Northbrook Baptist Church, enjoying free entertainment by the Cotton Pickin' Kids and the Avenue G Band, hot dogs served by the Fairview High School Band Boosters, inflatables, a health fair, presentations, and, most importantly, voting for the only contested position on the board of trustees.

While three positions on the board were on the ballot, two were uncontested. Sheila Sizemore, representing District 2, and James Fields Jr., representing District 3, ran unopposed. All terms are for three years.

Sizemore retired last year from Peoples Bank after a 30-year career in banking and has been an active member of the Kiwanis Club for 30 years. Earning degrees from Wallace State » PAGE 6

Cullman's harbinger of autumn: The hay people

CULLMAN, Ala. — The first sign of Oktoberfest was seen in Cullman Monday, as the hay people made their return to various locations around town including the intersection of U.S. Highways 278 and 31, Goat Island Brewing and Depot Park.

The hay people were brought to life by Cullman's Philip and Pat Clemmons, beloved community members and former posthumous burgermeisters.

Inspirated during a trip to Germany in 1999 where the Clemmonses saw their first hay people, the couple made their own incarnation of the hay-stuffed favorites soon thereafter.

The couple tragically passed in 2008 but their tradition has been carried on by their daughter, Nancy Clemmons Moore, and other members of the community. Dutifully hauling the three bales of hay needed for each hay person, dressing one in lederhosen and hat and the other in a dirndl and braids, Moore and her helpers brought the Cullman tradition back on Monday, again assembling the community favorites and keeping her parents' memory alive and well.

'Never settle for being good': West Point's Bethany Minck excited for senior season

Sammy Confer
sammy@cullmantribune.com

WEST POINT, Ala. — Last season was one to remember for the West Point Lady Warriors as they not only punched a ticket to regionals, but they also clinched a spot at the state tournament for the very first time in program history. Despite falling a few games short of winning the title, they still had an amazing season and West Point senior Bethany Minck talked about what she learned during that incredible run.

"It was definitely a great season, one that we'll always remember. It takes a lot of hard work to go that far in the postseason but having teammates that are willing to work hard and having great coaches like coach Harbison and coach Josh guiding and pushing us is a great thing to have.

"This was my fourth season on varsity and year after year, you can see the talent and dedication grow every year with each player. I'm just proud to be a part of it."

Minck played with three amazing seniors in Carlie Wilkins, Braelee Quinn and Nikki Tyree, and she took away so much from her time playing with them.

"Our seniors last season had their own things they brought to our team. Nikki was always trying to keep everyone in an upbeat attitude and to stay positive no matter what.

"Braelee was there playing ball because she loves it; she already had a volleyball scholarship, but she still played softball for the love of the game and her school. Carlie's hard work and extreme competitive drive to be the best player she could be really pushed and motivated all of us, especially myself. They are leaving some major big shoes to fill next year."

Minck has played for two great coaches so far at West Point and has soaked up as much as she can from them.

"They couldn't be more different, but that's what has made it great to play for both of them," Minck said.

"Coach Harbison is the more laid-back coach that makes us laugh and has fun. He really cares about everyone on the team and the program as a whole. Coach Josh is more of the in-your-face, go-hard type.

"Coach Harbison has taught me to enjoy the game and the people around the game of softball and coach Josh has taught me to never settle for being good, work hard to be even better."

Minck has been working on her game a lot during the summer and has learned so much during her softball career so far.

"I've been working on everything. I've been to six college camps, and I have three more to go to. I've been playing travel ball a lot and I still continue to see my hitting coach.

"My goal this summer is to do something softball-related every single day. I'm preparing myself to play at the next level and to be the best player and teammate I can be as a senior at West Point next year," Minck said.

She added, "I've learned that if you want to get better, you got to work. If you want to win, you got to work, and if you want to be a good leader, you got to work. I've also learned that if you have passion for the game, it's easier to put in the work and it takes sacrifices to get where you want to go. I can't wait to start my senior year and I'm really looking forward to everything that comes with it."

NICK GRIFFIN/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

West Point's Bethany Minck

Minck talked about the experience that will be back this season and the team's expectations as well.

"I wouldn't be surprised if we made another state championship run next season because we have eight returning starters in the field, so our defense will still be really good.

"That will be a great confidence boost for our upcoming freshman pitcher Kara Jones, who is very good. We have some great, young, talented hitters moving up to help make up for losing Carlie's and Braelee's bats, plus we have eight or nine returning hitters that are working hard to be even better than last season. Personally, I'm expecting another successful season next year."

Wallace State Men, Women collect tournament wins

HANCEVILLE, Ala. — Wallace State Community College men's golf team took home the win Tuesday at the Dan York Memorial Golf Tournament held at Cross Creek Golf Course in Cullman. The tournament is dedicated to the memory of longtime WSCC golf coach Dan York.

Strong finishes in the final round sealed the victory for Wallace State.

"We had a two-shot lead going into the final round and extended that to a 22-shot lead," said coach Sylas Elliott. He credited strong showings by sophomore Zackery Coker, the event's low medalist, and freshman Keith Hunter among others for the success of the third round.

"All in all, it was a big team effort, but we did have some freshman that really stood out for that last round," Elliott said.

The Wallace State team finished three rounds -12 under par with a final score of 852.

The second-place team of Central Alabama Community College came in at +10 over par, with a total score of 874. Eastern Florida State came in third at +12 over for a score of 876. Par for the course is 72.

Coker, of Gulf Shores, topped the individual leaderboard with a low score of 208, -8 under par, and received the low medalist trophy. On the final day of play, Coker was -4 under par, with an eagle on the fourth hole and three birdies at holes 5, 10, and 18.

Fellow teammates freshmen Keith Hunter and Alex Citron and sophomore Davis Aaron finished high on the leaderboard. Hunter tied at fourth, finishing -2 under par.

Hunter was the low scorer for the final round, coming in at -6 under par for the day at 66, the lowest daily score through all three rounds. Citron and Aaron were among those tied for seventh place, each finishing -1 under par.

Tuesday's tournament win was the team's first since winning the Region 22 Preview event last fall, hosted by Snead State Community College.

"We're glad that we could win this tournament in memory of Coach York, who started this program for us and built a great get success with it," Elliot said. "We just hope we can continue that tradition."

The Wallace State men's golf team has made 28 National Tournament appearances and holds 13 Alabama Community College Conference championships.

This year's roster includes sophomores Davis Aaron of Tuscaloosa, Zackery Coker of Gulf Shores, Brayden Nelson of Eva; freshmen Carson Bachara of Jacksonville, Fla., Alex Citron of Olathe, Kan., Billy Gunyon of Essex, UK, Keith Hunter of Ontario, Canada, Liam Meaden of Nottingham, UK.

Women's Golf

Wallace State Community College's women's golf started the new season with a victory in the 2022 Fall Invitational hosted by Snead State Community College at Twin Bridges Golf Course in Gadsden.

The team rose 27 strokes above their closest competitor to win the tournament trophy and four of the top five players were Wallace State Lions.

Wallace State finished both rounds of play in first place and ended with a tournament total of 652, besting second-place finisher Calhoun Community College who finished with 679 points. Jefferson State (806), Snead State (828) and Northeast Community College-Rainsville (860) comprised the rest of the top five teams.

WSCC ATHLETICS

The Wallace State women's golf team won the Fall Invitational at Snead State last week.

WSCC freshman Aidan Hathcock was the tournament low medalist, winning her first college tournament. Hathcock, of Homewood, finished with a score of 159, three strokes ahead of Raina Choi of Calhoun Community College who came in second with 162. WSCC sophomore Hope Harrell of Guntersville finished third with 164 and freshman Abby Gattis, of Jacksonville, and Sydney Epes of Water Valley, Miss., tied for fourth, both finishing with a score of 165. Brileigh Roberts, a sophomore from Fairview, finished in eighth place with 173.

Harrell, Epes and Gattis all were named to the All-Tournament Team.

"I'm very proud of these ladies," said coach J.J. Adams. "Having four Wallace State golfers in the top five is a good way to start the season.

The Wallace State women's golf team is the reigning Alabama Community College Conference (ACCC) Champion and Adams was the 2022 ACCC Coach of the Year, earning the title for the third consecutive season.

The complete roster for the 2022-2023 WSCC women's golf team includes sophomores Abby Brown of Brewer, Hope Harrell of Guntersville, Brileigh Roberts of Fairview; freshmen Alyssa Berry of Hartselle, Sydney Epes of Water Valley, Miss., Abby Gattis of Jacksonville, Aidan Haithcock of Homewood, Emma Ray of Alexandria.

‘We want to celebrate every kid’

C.A.S.T. for Kids at Smith Lake Park

Sara Gladney
sara@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. — The annual C.A.S.T. for Kids event was held Saturday at Smith Lake Park, giving children with special needs the opportunity to have a fun day of fishing on the lake.

“When the children get here, they get to have a shirt, a hat, a fishing pole, a tackle box, a day out with a boat captain. All of this is volunteer,” said organizer Emily Chamblee.

The event is made possible by shore volunteers, boat captains and sponsors. This year there were 82 volunteers, 24 boat captain, three co-captains and 29 kids participating. A total of 212 fish were caught.

C.A.S.T. for Kids Foundation Eastern Regional Director Jeff Barnes said the event has been around for 31 years nationally and at Smith Lake Park for four years.

“We do events for children with special needs, take them fishing,” said Barnes. “Some events, like this one, we have volunteer boaters take them out on the lake for a few hours and then bring them in. Some events we do on shore.”

Children are served lunch, and each child participates in an award ceremony where he or she is recognized, regardless of the number of fish caught.

“We want to celebrate every kid and give them their moment to shine. A lot of them, through COVID, have not had camps to go to or activities outside, so this is a great way to get them out, get them mixed up with some good volunteers, teach them how to fish,” said Barnes.

The kids get to take home their fishing poles and tackle boxes in the hopes that they will continue to fish. Barnes added, “A lot of these families of these kids with special needs, a lot of times it’s a single-parent family.

“They just don’t have the means or the knowledge to get their kids out fishing, so this is a great thing to come to, and some of the kids have made friends with their captains and they come out every year.”

Upcoming C.A.S.T. for Kids events will be at Lake Guntersville on Oct. 8 and Walker County Lake on Oct. 21. For more information, visit www.castforkids.org.

CCPS celebrates Grandparents Day

CULLMAN, Ala. — Grandparents from across the community turned out to visit with Cullman City Primary School students earlier this month as part of the annual Grandparents Day celebration, which offers an opportunity for grandparents to visit the school, read stories with their grandchildren and share stories about their lives with young Cullman City Schools learners.

“It is an opportunity for our school community to show their gratitude and respect for this generation,” CCPS Principal Elizabeth Shaddix said. “This year several classes asked grandparents to participate in show and tell. Grandparents were able to bring something from their home and tell the students about it. Some grandparents brought in rotary phones while others brought in cassette tapes. Students enjoyed seeing items from different generations.

CULLMAN, Ala. — The beautiful blue sky, towering pines trees and moderate temperatures provided the perfect backdrop for the fall rendition of the Sportsman Lake countywide yard sale, a favorite among bargain shoppers near and far. The grounds of the park were covered by vendors in the former campsites, pavilions and pathways selling their wares.

Perusing everything available, from custom woodworking, clothing, shoes, hospital equipment, home decorations and everything in between, shoppers walked the grounds of the park looking for good deals.

Parking continued beyond the park grounds and deal finders walked along the road in search of the deal of the day.

Sportsman Lake Park is operated by Cullman County Parks and Recreation and is open seven days a week. The park and walking trails are free with train rides, miniature golf, fishing, paddle boats and kayaks available for a fee. For more information, visit www.cullmancountyparks.com/sportsman.html.

Operation Clear Track: ALEA 'trains' residents on railroad safety

ALEA
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — According to the Amtrak Police Department, a person or vehicle is hit by a train in the United States every three hours. To bring awareness to the potential dangers surrounding railroad tracks and trains, the Alabama Law Enforcement Agency (ALEA) is joining fellow law enforcement agencies and first responders across the nation and in Canada to participate in "Operation Clear Track," the single largest rail-safety law-enforcement initiative in North America.

The annual safety campaign, which is coordinated by the Amtrack Police Department and Operation Lifesaver Inc, aims to reduce serious injuries and deaths each year in the U.S. This collaborative railroad safety initiative is one of several events scheduled during Rail Safety Week (RSW), which began Monday Sept. 19, and ends Sunday, Sept. 25. Once again, ALEA Troopers will be stationed at railroad crossings and various locations across the state to distribute educational materials to motorists, pedestrians and cyclists to reinforce the importance of crossing and trespass laws. Additionally, ALEA will participate in virtual rail safety messaging on all social media platforms, including Facebook, Twitter, Nextdoor and Instagram.

"Many of the first responders who are passionate about this initiative are the same men and women who have responded to railroad incidents and have experienced firsthand the tragedy when a life is lost in conjunction with the devastating consequences experienced by that individual's family as well as their community," said ALEA Secretary Hal Taylor. "Whether on foot or in a vehicle, we want all citizens and local communities to be aware of the risks and empower everyone to make safe choices around railroad tracks and trains."

"Trespassing on train tracks is not only dangerous, but it is also illegal in all 50 states," said ALEA's Department of Public Safety Director, Col. Jimmy Helms. "We are proud to be a part of this ongoing safety partnership within the first responder community and do our part in reducing deaths and injuries, in order to save lives. Together, we can help stop track tragedies."

Community College, Athens State University and Louisiana State University, she has also completed credentials for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) Credentialed Cooperative Director, Leadership Certification and Gold Leadership Certification.

Fields' career with the Alabama Department of Industrial Relations saw him serve as the assistant administrator and North Alabama Fraud Unit supervisor.

Completing his education at Jacksonville State University, Fields completed coursework for the NRECA Credentialed Cooperative Director and earned the NRECA Director Gold Credential.

Jeff Byars ran against incumbent Daryl Calvert for the District 6 board position. After the vote, Calvert retained his position.

Calvert owns and operates a lawncare company after retiring from Wal-Mart Fleet Maintenance after more than 20 years. Calvert spent those years as a diesel mechanic and farmed for a decade. He, also, completed the curriculum to be a Credentialed Cooperative Director through the NRECA.

Byars, a patient advocate with more than 20 years of experience in accounting, graduated from the University of Alabama at Birmingham with an accounting degree. A licensed EMT, Byars is the president of the Bethsadia Volunteer Fire Department and treasurer for the Alabama EMS Association. He has served his community with volunteer fire departments for more than 30 years.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the annual meeting's in-person celebration was put on hold for 2020 and 2021, making this year's event especially meaningful.

Co-op Chairman of the Board Robert Tidwell said, "The annual meeting is a celebration of the unique role members play in a cooperative business."

Eight presentations were provided on topics ranging from economic development, education, electric vehicles, leadership and more. The "Spark Talks" provided a platform for "leaders in our community to come talk about issues that are relevant and important to the co-op and our members," shared Brian Lacy, Cullman Electric Cooperative's communications director.

Members of the cooperative who attended the meeting received a $15 credit on their bills in addition to eligibility to win various door prizes including a 70-inch television.

HANCEVILLE, Ala. — Superhero Fire, an event organized by Karen Cook of Cook Ministries to bring nonprofits together to support those struggling with mental health issues, took place Saturday at the Hanceville Civic Center.

Cook Ministries is a faith-based organization dedicated to restoring mental health through recovery programs focused on addiction, substance abuse, depression and suicidal ideation. With Superhero Fire, Cook wanted to expand her mission of recovery to include more organizations that cover every area in which an individual may need assistance.

The event featured 23 organizations that specialize in one of four categories: suicide prevention, human trafficking, domestic violence or addiction recovery.

Keynote speaker Lacy Tolar of Rescue 1 Global spoke about her experience working with human trafficking victims.

"Ninety percent of the girls that we deal with in our safe houses, the first thing we have to do is get them to recovery for 30 days because they can't hear me until they get to a point where they are clean," she said. "When I first came into the world of human trafficking, I said to myself, 'This looks like an addiction issue.'"

Tolar spoke about the interconnectedness of each of the categories covered by the attending organizations, saying, "Most of this (human trafficking) happens to people who are already vulnerable because of poverty, domestic violence, addition issues, abuses in their past."

She said many human trafficking survivors will continue to compound their trauma because they will not have a place of safety available to rest and heal.

"Yes, some of it is their own bad choices. We're all the sum of our own bad choices, but that does not have to define us or their future. What we do is we look at the victims of human trafficking and those that have made bad choices and look at them and say, 'You are a priceless treasure, made in the image of God.' That's the only reason people like Karen and I can get up every morning and keep doing the things that we do, because it's not fun and it's not pretty," she said. "It's dirty and it's uncomfortable. But we understand that we serve something greater."

The organizations at the event, many of which are local to the area, had the chance to network and provide valuable information to. Organizations included Alabama Teen Challenge (Hayden), Alabama Suicide Prevention & Resource Coalition (ASPARC), Cullman Re-Entry Addiction Assistance (CREAA), Cook Ministries, the Cullman County Human Trafficking Task Force, the Cullman County Sheriff's Office, Domestic Violence Crisis Services of Marshall County, Dove Renew You/ Arise Coffee Co., Duty to Render Aid, Hope Filled Rooms (Birmingham), the North Alabama Human Trafficking Task Force, Our Father's House Ministries (Gadsden), Redeemed Ministries (Blountsville), Rescue 1 Global, Restoration Counseling Services, Sleep in Heavenly Peace (Hartselle), The Crossing, The Lighthouse, The Pathfinder (Huntsville), Victim Services of Cullman, Wal-Mart Heart and Well-Stone (Cullman).

CULLMAN, Ala. — Chambers Farm and Garden Supply held its second annual fall festival Saturday, continuing its effort to bring the community and its customers together.

Judy Snead of Snead's Farmhouse was an organizer of the event, which had a strong turnout for its first year and an even bigger showing this year.

In all, 63 vendors set up booths with arts and crafts and food items for sale.

There were plenty of kids' activities, including face painting, bounce houses and a balloon artist.

Eight different vendors brought animals to create a petting zoo with pigs, goats, ducks and chickens.

Most of the vendors who participated in the festival are customers and supporters of Chambers.

Owner Chris Chambers spoke about the inspiration for the event, saying, "This is just something for the community to do and for us to give back and do like a customer appreciation day. Our customers support us, and we wouldn't be able to do it without them."

Live music was performed by Chuck Carpenter, who also teaches at Tony's School of Music.

Snead deemed the event a success, smiling, "We had more animals this year, and we hope to expand with animals next year. We had a great turnout."
