CULLMAN, Ala. — The North Alabama Agriplex Board and Foundation hosted its seventh annual Harvest to Home Local Foods Dinner and Silent Auction fundraiser Thursday night at the Wallace State Community College Conference Center. Doors opened at 5:30, allowing guests to peruse the silent auction. Agriplex Board Chairman Mike Roden revealed the plans for a new facility at the Agriplex.

"This year, in order to house our current services and expand and continue our mission, the board has determined that the Agriplex needs a new space. Tonight, I'm happy to announce that we are kicking off a new 'Home to Har- » PAGE 5

Addison crowns 1-year old Saige Hall homecoming princess

Saige Hall, 1, who is battling stage 3 kidney cancer, was crowned Addison homecoming princess Sept. 16, 2022. She is seen here with her dad, Reggie Hall, and mom Sadie Hall.

ADDISON, Ala. — Sept. 16, was a special night in Addison. It was homecoming, and the Bulldogs took on Waterloo, but that wasn't the highlight of the evening. After the homecoming court was announced, 1-year-old Saige Hall, who is battling stage 3 kidney cancer, was crowned homecoming princess. According to her mom, Sadie Hall, there was not a dry eye in sight.

"When we got the call saying that the senior class wanted to honor her in a big way, I never would've guessed this is what they had planned. There were honestly no words, just tears. We just felt so honored that people wanted to recognize her at all, especially something as big as this. It was a special night that I will never forget," Hall said. "There are no words to really express the gratitude we have for them to do this. Walking across the field, the love and support was just beaming from the stands. It was just incredible for them to choose a night as special as homecoming to honor her. It was incredibly humbling to see a big crowd on that night. We've had so much support through this process, so it was nice to see everyone."

Hall talked about her daughter's cancer and what the process has been like for her and her family.

"She was diagnosed with stage 3 kidney cancer – Wilms' tumor – 12 days after her first birthday. Wilms' tumor is the most common type of kidney cancer in children. We were told it has a 90% survival rate. Her tumor was 12 cm and it had taken up about half of her abdomen. There's not a known cause of how they come about, but more than likely, she was born with it. We definitely have our good and bad days as any parent would, » PAGE 5

'You have to earn it': Andy Light remembers his Bronco days

Sammy Confer

HOLLY POND, Ala. — In this interview, I talked to former Holly Pond football and baseball player, Andy Light. Light had some great sports memories during his time at Holly Pond and always learned something new at school.

"My favorite baseball memories were when I hit my first home run my junior year and when we made it to state my senior year. One of my favorite football memories was when I returned a kickoff for a touchdown against Vinemont. I wasn't the person that normally returned the kickoffs, so for me to return it for a touchdown was very special to me. After that, I tried to do it every time and if I couldn't, I tried to get as many yards as possible every time." Light said. "My favorite thing about Holly Pond was there was always something new and different every day."

Light feels lucky to have played for some great coaches in football and baseball and soaked up as much as he could from them.

"I played for a lot of great baseball coaches: Mark Bell, Kolton Sellers, and Nick Boulahanis. I'm very thankful to have played for them. My dad coached me ever since I started playing baseball and he helped me the most," Light said. "They all want to push you to be better and they pushed you to be the best that you can be. If you want something, you have to work for it. You have to earn it."

"My football coaches last season wanted us to give it everything that we had. They all pushed us to be better and do the plays perfect in practice. I loved having them all as my coaches and it wasn't always just about football. They wanted us to be prepared for life and what life might throw at us. Don't stop and give up."

Light learned a lot at Holly Pond and feels very blessed to be a Bronco. He will deeply miss being at Holly Pond this year.

"I've learned to be a hard worker, to be a good leader, and to lead by example. Holly Pond's a small school and the environment is relaxing, but it's also high-energy and they make you feel welcome every day," he said. "I'm mostly going to miss sports, from the early morning workouts, to the late practices, to the jokes that we made, and all of the conversations that we had on the baseball field. I'm also going to miss some of the teachers, like coach Neal and coach Rankhorn, and some other teachers that made an impact on my life."

Light will also miss being a leader to the younger players and he taught them a lot during his time at Holly Pond.

"It was very important to be a leader to the younger players because they are the future of these programs. I tried to be a leader and act a certain way on the field because they look up to the older boys. You have to show them how to act and not to goof off too much, but to have fun with it and listen. Pay attention and do things the right way and play like you practice."

Light gave some words of advice to the students that just started high school a few weeks ago.

"Have fun in high school and enjoy it."

vest,' which is our 2023 capital campaign."

The campaign seeks to raise funds in the next year for the new administrative and community hub that will be located on the Cullman Agriplex campus.

It will be home to Agriplex and Cullman County Extension administrative offices and feature a demonstration/training kitchen to house current services and allow for a space to hold job training courses, including ServSafe.

The new facility will help to expand programs including the farm technical assistance program led by Tony Glover. It will be a place where local farmers can meet, gather and share resources.

Roden said that the facility will enable the Agriplex community to expand work in food insecurity and nutrition education.

It will help the organization continue its gleaning programs and further the ability to teach the community to grow and prepare its own food.

"This is really going to be a great enhancement for Cullman and the surrounding area. I was asked how much is this going to cost? Well, if one of you wants to write a check for $2.2 million, we'll name it after you," joked Roden.

Alabama Farm Credit was the event sponsor, with Cullman Internal Medicine sponsoring the entertainment and Wallace State providing the venue. The Cullman Farm-City Committee and Cullman Area Technology Academy (CATA) students served at the event. Alabama Web Press was the print sponsor, and Elise Thomason Print Studio was the artwork sponsor.

Local bluegrass band Cotton Pickin' Kids, featuring six siblings, provided the musical entertainment for the evening.

Alabama Farm Credit Branch Manager Chuck Roberts said, "At Alabama Farm Credit we feel it's important to partner with organizations that offer hands-on learning experiences revolving around agriculture to the community and schools.

"That's exactly the mission of the Agriplex...We find it most prevalent when talking with young adults that agriculture isn't something that they are very aware of. Cullman County is lucky to have an organization that offers these opportunities to their community."

The dinner, prepared by Chef Aaron Nichols and the Wallace State Culinary Pride featured fresh, locally sourced ingredients.

The entrée was preserved peach airline chicken from Cullman County with creamed southern peas with bacon, tarragon-toasted, red wine-marinated pears and crispy rosemary sweet potato.

Donations to support the Agriplex can be made at www.agriplex.org/WPtest.

Senior Day (from Front)

Amy Leonard

CULLMAN, Ala. — Cullman Parks, Recreation and Sports Tourism pulled out all the stops on Thursday morning and early afternoon for area elders at Oktoberfest's Senior Day celebrated at Festhalle. With wooden tables and folding chairs filling the outdoor event space during the cool morning, many seniors opted to find places to sit in the sunshine while others warmed their blood by cutting a rug.

Cullman County Commissioners Kerry Watson and Gerry Marchman along with several people from their office made their way through the crowd greeting familiar faces and making new friends. Commission Chairman Jeff Clemons was all smiles and in his element with his favorite Cullman citizens.

Clemons expressed his gratitude for all the organizers who place the county's seniors as a top priority. He also touched on the beginning of his time in office almost three years ago.

"When I came into office it was the beginning of COVID and it was hard times especially for our senior citizens. They were getting sick, and we lost so many of them. They had to stay at home during the lockdown without their friends and community.

"It was hard on them. Today, looking at their faces and seeing them smile is just wonderful. We are all together again and having a good time.

"We sure do appreciate our seniors and everything they give Cullman County with their wisdom," Clemons shared.

2022 Burgermeister Mike Mullaney continued his duties at the event and 2011 Burgermeister attended fully festooned in his lederhosen as well. After a blessing, attendees enjoyed lunch and bingo game. The top prize for the cover-all bingo game was $350 and won by Julia Bagley. Cullman Regional Medical Group sponsored all over the bingo prizes totaling over $1,700.

The event was a team effort which included the Active Adult Center, Cullman County Commission on Aging and many sponsors.

but we are overall hopeful and remaining strong in our faith that she is in God's hands and we believe that He will heal her," she said. "We go for chemotherapy once a week and we are hopeful that she'll have surgery to remove the tumor, kidney and kidney tubes very soon. Saige has handled her treatments really well, which I think has really helped us get through this whole process."

Hall graduated from Addison and currently lives there. She teaches and coaches volleyball at Haleyville. She said both communities have been an enormous help during this whole process.

"It's been overflowing. We've had two communities going to war for us since Saige was diagnosed. They've both organized fundraisers, sold T-shirts, bracelets, had car washes, donations, etc. You name it, they've done it. My co-workers at Haleyville donated enough days for me to have the entire school year off to be with Saige," she said.

"I'll never be able to repay for what all has been done for us. Our family just feels so blessed to be a part of two incredible communities that love us. That's the thing about small towns: when their people are going through something, they come running to help in any way they can. We just happen to be blessed enough to be a part of two of them."

Hall gave families also dealing with cancer some advice.

"We had someone open a bank account for Saige at BankFirst; it's named SaigeStrong. We've had several people do that, along with the other fundraisers people have put together for her," she said. "We believe God chose our daughter by name for this battle. We believe He's using her and her testimony to glorify Him. I encourage anyone going through this to learn to praise God on the good and bad days. It's not easy, but we have really leaned on our faith in this situation. It's OK to accept help from others. People want to help, so do your best to be open to accepting it. That can be hard, too, but let people love on you."

Mobley (from Front)

Delton Blalock
Contributor

A lady of great accomplishment and longevity celebrated her 100th birthday on Sept. 22, 2022. She was born on Sept. 22, 1922, to Samuel Andrew Foust and Jessie Dodson Foust.

She is the oldest of 40 grandchildren. Mrs. Mobley's Foust family came to America (i.e., Peter) just a few years after the Revolutionary War. Peter was born in Germany in June 1776. It is very fitting that the Foust family name in Germany means "lucky" or "fortunate." That sure applies to Lillian Foust Mobley.

Mrs. Lillian's parents were married in 1921. They moved several times in the 1920s and 30s. So, their daughter attended serval different schools, including Bolte, East Cullman, Grandview and Good Hope.

Mrs. Lillian married J.C. Mobley in 1940. Kenneth was born in 1941, Delean in 1943 and Sammy several years later in 1950. Son Kenneth died Oct. 11, 2003, in a traffic accident in Tennessee. Sammy died Oct. 7, 2021, from cancer. Daughter Delean married Gary Williams, and they currently reside southwest of Jones Chapel. Mrs. Mobley has three grandsons, one granddaughter and several great-grandchildren.

While growing up, she was an excellent student and full of adventure, especially at home and at family get-togethers. She was very strong and athletic and plowed a mule before age 13. After she and J.C. were married, they purchased a farm overlooking Ryan's Creek on Trimble Road (County Road 222). They made a great team growing row crops and eventually had a very successful egg business next to Trimble Road.

When the children were grown, or close to it, Mrs. Mobley and J.C. purchased a five-and-dime store by U.S. Highway 31 in downtown Cullman. She made it a huge success by customizing such items as flower arrangements and also offered very friendly service. People actually cried when the Mobleys sold the store. Mrs. Mobley responded to any needs around her, whether it was food for families with sickness, death or just somebody down on their luck.

She is the only person living that was a charter member of Brickyard Baptist Church in Cullman. Several of her ancestors were Methodist ministers. She was an active member of the historic Center Hill Methodist Church in Grandview. She taught adults in Sunday school for over 50 years.

Mrs. Mobley was vital to the community and farm groups. She designed Grandview displays, which won first place several times at the county fair. While her children were in school, she actively supported PTA and teachers. Her contributions were recognized in the 1990s, when she was named "Woman of the Year."

After her husband passed away in the early 90s, I spoke to her about doing a column for The Cullman Tribune. She did a wonderful job with Grandview and Bethsadia news for over two decades.

She was also a great cook and enjoyed cooking lunch for people almost every day and cooking for family get-togethers. This outstanding lady canned and froze large quantities of fruits and vegetables. In recent years, before suffering a stroke, she and her son Sammy's family shared a large garden.

Mrs. Mobley currently resides at the Folsom Center. To congratulate her, please send a card to the Folsom Center at 401 Arnold St., NE, Cullman, Alabama 35055. A reception was held on Sept. 25 at the Folsom Center in her honor, hosted by her family.

This remarkable woman has truly been a blessing to scores of people. It is a privilege to know and love her. She sure matches the virtuous woman in the Bible.

Ivey announces $2.6M in Rebuild Alabama-funded projects

Office of Gov. Kay Ivey
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Gov. Kay Ivey on Wednesday announced that more than $2.6 million in state funding is being awarded to cities and counties for various road and bridge projects. After only being effective for just under three years, there has been at least one Rebuild Alabama project in all of the state's 67 counties. This is on top of state and local projects.

The funding is made available through the Annual Grant Program, a program created under the Rebuild Alabama Act. The Rebuild Alabama Act, overwhelmingly passed by the Legislature and signed by Ivey in 2019, requires ALDOT to establish an annual program setting aside $10 million off the top of the state's share of new gas tax revenue for local projects.

"I am incredibly proud that Rebuild Alabama has now made road and bridge projects possible in all of our state's 67 counties," said Ivey.

"Three years ago, I promised the people of Alabama that every single penny would go to road and bridge projects, and we are seeing that the proof is in the pudding.

"This is a remarkable milestone for our state, and I look forward to furthering these efforts to make Alabama a better place to live, work and raise a family."

There are 11 projects across Alabama receiving funding in the final award under the Annual Grant Program for the 2022 fiscal year.

Of those awarded projects, cities and counties also contributed a total of over $1.1 million in local matching funds.

Matching funds are not required to be eligible. All projects are required to move forward within one year of the awarding of funds.

With this round of awarded state funding, more than $130 million in state transportation funding has been awarded through the local grant programs created by the Rebuild Alabama Act.

For more information about the Annual Grant Program, visit the program's dedicated webpage at www.dot.state.al.us/programs/RAAGrantProgram.html.

Jacobs proclaims October Domestic Violence Awareness Month

Leanne West
Contributor

CULLMAN, Ala. — Cullman Mayor Woody Jacobs on Wednesday proclaimed the month of October 2022 Domestic Violence Awareness Month (DVAM) in the city of Cullman. On-hand to accept the proclamation from Victim Services of Cullman, Inc. (VSOC) were Prevention Educator Jonna Wimburn and Court Advocate and Special Assessment Intervention and Liaison (SAIL) Specialist Emily Ray.

National Domestic Violence Awareness Month has been recognized each October since 1987 as a way to connect and unite individuals and organizers working on domestic violence issues and to raise awareness of these issues. The theme of this year's event is "We Stand Against Domestic Violence."

Domestic violence affects more than 10 million people in the United States each year. It is the single most common source of injury to survivors – more common than automobile accidents, muggings and rape by a stranger combined.

Domestic violence can affect anyone regardless of economic, racial, gender, educational, religious or societal status.

Domestic violence violates a person's privacy, dignity, security and humanity through a pattern of abusive behavior intended to control and dominate another person. That abusive behavior can be physical, sexual, emotional, verbal, social, economic, psychological or spiritual.

U.S. domestic violence hotlines receive around 20,000 calls each day from domestic violence victims.

These victims are in need of things like emergency shelter, housing, counseling, transportation, childcare, legal representation and more. VSOC provides crisis response, recovery and prevention programs for families impacted by domestic and sexual violence. VSOC was established in 1991 to help victims of domestic violence. In 1996, it began also providing services to victims of sexual assault. Its mission is to "break the cycle of family violence and sexual assault, preventing future acts of abuse through education, outreach and empowering the survivors through support and advocacy."

"We appreciate Victim Services and other individuals and organizations in our community that work to help victims of domestic violence," said Jacobs, "and the City of Cullman does stand against domestic violence!"

To find out more about VSOC, visit www.victim-services.online or call the administrative office at 256-775-2600. If you are in a domestic violence situation, call the VSOC 24-Hour Crisis Line at 256-734-6100 or the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE (7233).

Farmers Federation awards $140K to outstanding Auburn students

AUBURN, Ala. — The Alabama Farmers Federation is cultivating growth and inspiring future leaders as it awards more than $140,000 in scholarships to students pursuing degrees in agriculture, forestry and related fields at Auburn University (AU).

Eighty-two students were recognized during the organization's annual scholarship reception Sept. 26 at Lazenby Farms in Auburn.

Federation President Jimmy Parnell praised the achievements.

"We are committed to the next generation," said Parnell. "We believe that these students are the future of this state, nation and this organization."

During the reception, Parnell left the students with this charge: work hard, think and make connections – advice given to him during his time as an AU College of Agriculture student in the '80s.

A special program between the Alabama Farmers Agriculture Foundation (AFAF) and county Farmers Federations helps provide $1,750 scholarships to land-grant university students.

During the evening, three students were awarded special scholarships honoring individuals who played an integral part in the agriculture industry. Maggie Holloway of Cullman County received the Donaldson Memorial Scholarship, and Will Jordan of Clay County won the Mike Henry Memorial Scholarship.

Will Cowan of Lee County was awarded the special recognition Alabama Catfish Producers scholarship.

AU sophomore Kameria Doss from Pickens County spoke on behalf of recipients during the reception. Doss thanked the Federation for its financial support throughout her college career.

Doss is a biosystems engineering major who plans to focus on environmental problems and designing equipment to aid agriculture.

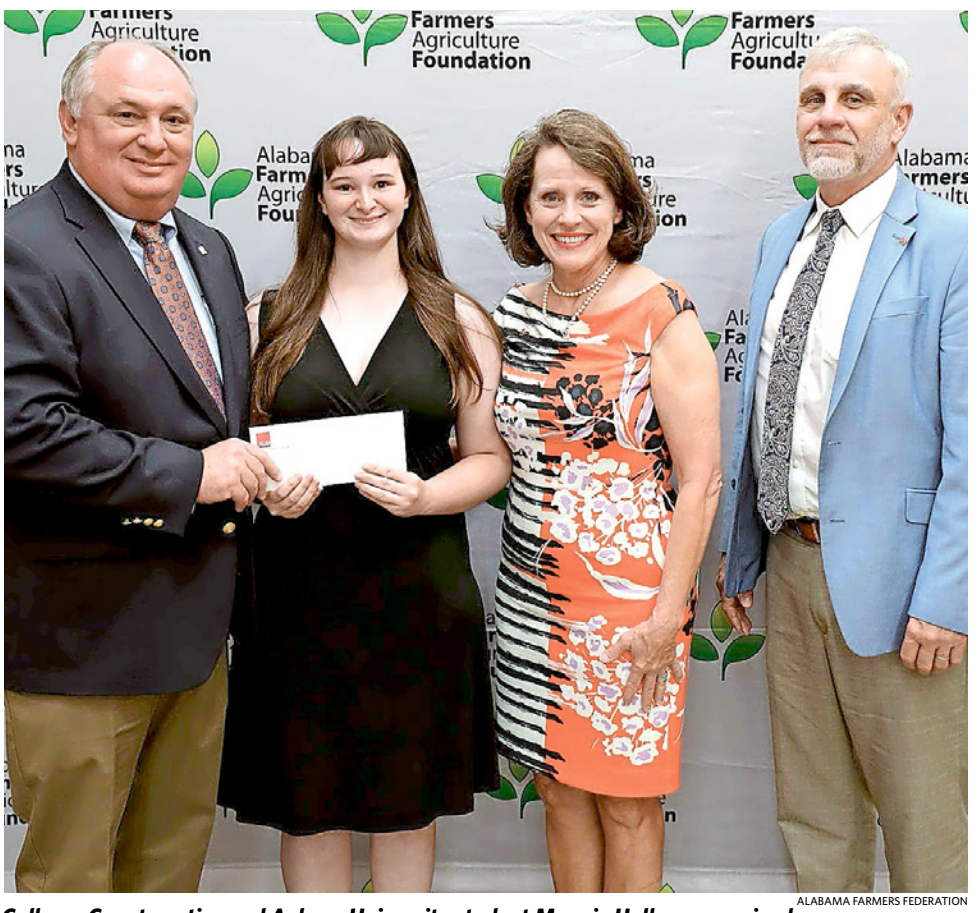

"I desire to discover and improve upon new ways to sustain our natural resources," Doss said. "Growing up, I would spend my summers with my grandparents on their farm. I desire for their farm, and farms across Alabama, to be a place generations can enjoy."

Chambers County Farmers Federation President Chris Langley congratulated recipients on their success and encouraged them to think boldly – and plan.

"My goal is for y'all to see through a crystal ball and look out to your future," Langley said. "You have to have faith in the Lord and your family. That will carry you through."

Scholarships from the Federation have been awarded to AU students since 1983. AFAF was founded in 2009 as a platform to support agricultural education and is primarily funded through Ag Tag sales.

The 2023-2024 scholarship application opens Nov. 1 and can be found at AlfaFarmers.org/scholarships.

Ivey awards $1.64M for outdoor recreation, including $300K to City of Cullman

Office of Gov. Kay Ivey
Contributor

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Gov. Kay Ivey on Thursday awarded nearly $1.64 million to improve outdoor recreational venues in Alabama. Funds from the federal Recreational Trails Program will be used to build, restore and improve trails in eight communities across the state.

"Alabama's outdoor trails are an excellent invitation for individuals, groups and families to get outside and enjoy our state's natural beauty," said Ivey. "I am proud to award these funds and create more opportunities for Alabamians and visitors to enjoy outdoor recreation in our beautiful state." Governor Ivey awarded the grants from funds made available by the Federal Highway Administration's Recreational Trails Program. The Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs (ADECA) is administering the awards.

"Trails and recreational facilities add so much to the quality of life in Alabama communities," said ADECA Director Kenneth Boswell. "Seeing a well-kept and well-used trail or other recreational facility relays to everyone that this is a community that takes pride itself and its people. ADECA is pleased to join Governor Ivey in supporting these trail projects."

Below is a description of the awarded grants.

Brundidge – $200,000 to resurface with asphalt and extend the trail at Ramage Park and expand the parking area

Calhoun County Commission – $300,000 to construct a trailhead campsite with water, sewer and electric hookups at the former Fort McClellan Army base in Anniston. The site offers about 20 miles of trails for hiking and horseback riding.

Cleveland – $90,148 to construct a walking trail, new gate and benches at the Cleveland Family Recreation and Wildlife Habitat area. The project will include building a boardwalk across a pond.

Colbert County Commission – $244,952 to expand the Alloys Park campground by adding 17 campsites with hookups, a parking area and sidewalks. The campground is located at the Wilson Lake compound of the Tennessee River.

City of Cullman – $300,000 to construct a partially lighted motorized trail for golf carts at Palomino RV Resort at Burrow-Hamilton Farm. The 170-acre park is located off Cullman County Road 222 west of Interstate 65. It offers recreational vehicle and other campers opportunities to fish, paddle, swim and play pickleball and basketball and more.

City of Fayette – $210,000 to construct a quarter-mile-long, 10-foot-wide multi-use trail in downtown along an abandoned railroad bed as part of the first phase of the 2.2-mile-long project. The trail will extend from the Fayette Railroad Depot to Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard.

Opelika – $210,000 to construct a multi-use trail along the banks of Pepperell Branch off Waverly Parkway and U.S. Highway 280

52 ODES TO JOY: AUTUMN S.U.N.S.

ODE TO AUTUMN

Autumn days are here,
blue sky clear and dear.

Let's harvest a bushel of joy and fall cheer.

Our S.U.N.S. (Smile-Making, Uniting, Neighboring, Spellbinding) group this first week of fall shared joyous memories from many previous autumns and how each of us is adding joy to our life this splendid season.

Among the reflections were: jostling bumper cars and the soaring Ferris wheel at a harvest carnival, bonding with two grandkids born in different autumns, insulating windows for a military veteran and marching band practice for a parade.

Enjoy the cooler temps as you recall previous autumn joys and create new ones. Slip on a sweater, steep a pot of tea and let these 50-plus ideas inspire you.

AUTUMN S.U.N.S. (SMILE-MAKING)

1. ROASTING MARSHMALLOWS AND MAKING "SAMOA" S'MORES Warm up with a glamping twist on the classic from "Outside Magazine" (September 2016). According to food writer, A.C. Shilton, "This recipe will bring you back to the Girl Scout campouts of your youth. It's on the menu of the Sanderling Resort in Duck, NC, which has a nightly s'mores setup with unexpected topping options.

Ingredients: 2 marshmallows, 1 graham cracker, 1 ounce caramel-filled chocolate (Ghirardelli or Carmelo make great options), 1 Tablespoon toasted coconut.
Instructions: 1. Toast marshmallow. 2. Assemble remaining ingredients atop graham cracker. 3. Accept your "S'more Master" merit badge."

2. START A "GRATITUDE JOURNAL" with daily updates to reflect on and possibly share near Thanksgiving.

3. CREATE YOUR OWN AUTUMN-SEASONED, FALL FILM FESTIVAL Consider "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown" and "Hocus Pocus." Treat yourself to some Halloweenie scream-inducing treats like "Friday the 13th" and anything spawned by a Stephen King horror novel. And, if falling in fall love is more your heart's desire, all of the swoony screen gems wafting from the Jane Austen novels feature walks through dustings of autumn leaves.

4. GO FOR A LEAF-SHUFFLING WALK in the woods, a park or an arboretum. "They took all the trees and put 'em in a tree museum. And they charged the people a dollar and a half just to see 'em." Those lyrics from Joni Mitchell's "Big Yellow Taxi" is how I think of "tree sanctuaries" known as arboreta, but when I visit one, it changes my thinking and I always find it SPELLBINDING.

If some far-thinking soul in your neck of the woods hasn't created an arboretum, I hope you and your NEIGHBORING, tree-hugging friends will noodle how this would add to the natural world. Here are five arboreta to lift your thinking to the treetops: F.R. Newman Arboretum, Cornell University (Ithaca, NY), Crosby Arboretum, Mississippi State University (Starkville, MS), Cowling Arboretum, Carleton College (Northfield, MN), Abbey Arboretum, St. John's University (Jamaica, NY) and Madison Arboretum, University of Wisconsin (Madison, WI).

5. BUY A NEW SCARF OR PAIR OF GLOVES Search ebay.com and you may be able to re-purchase the scarf and gloves you left in some café at the end of last winter.

6. HALLOWEEN HUMOR HEROES AND HEROINES What a grinfest it would be to encounter a gaggle of your favorite funny folks trick-or-treating this fall! Imagine the SMILE-MAKING you and your friends could spread as Charlie Chaplin, Lucille Ball, Mark Twain, Cheech and Chong, Madea, Bozo the Clown, PeeWee Herman, Margaret Cho, Red Skelton, Mrs. Doubtfire, Louis Armstrong, Fred Rogers, Moms Mabley and more. Leave the usual heroic suspects for the kiddos, this year, every year needs more smiles and laughter.

7. SQUARE PUMPKINS Be a not-so-well-rounded grower and a shower. Five easy steps: 1) Get pumpkin seeds that have promise. Tom Fox, Racer, Charisma, Rock Star, Expert and Champion are good choices for this SMILE-MAKING fun, 2) Plant seeds in compost like a bag of store-bought Black Kow, 3) Transfer "growing teenager" pumpkin to a translucent box mold (easily available online), 4) Monitor our pumpkin-in-a-box (especially don't let rain get in the box and cause "jack rot"), 5) Pluck your square pumpkin from the stem and enjoy the bragging rights and envy.

8 GO TO A FUN, FALL FESTIVAL Search for state fairs near and far. Here are five favorites for the fall: 1. THE GREAT JACK-O-LANTERN BLAZE (Croton-on-Hudson, NY) which has more than 7,000 pumpkins in jaw-dropping jack-o-lantern designs on the historic grounds of Van Cortlandt Manor, 2. SANTA FE (NM) WINE and CHILI FEST, 3. NATCHEZ HOT AIR BALLOON FESTIVAL (MS) jazz and joy rides on the high bluffs above the Mississippi River, 4. COCONUT GROVE PUMPKIN PATCH FESIVAL (Miami, FL) amazed south Florida could grow a Midwest-worthy corn maze, 5. WEST COAST GIANT PUMPKIN FLOATING REGATTA (Tualatin, OR) may win the SMILE-MAKING fall festival prize with costumed racers canoeing in hollowed out giant pumpkins as they compete in wacky water games.

9. BOUNTIFUL BREAKFAST OATMEAL WITH LOCAL NUTS In most parts of the U.S. you won't have to look far to find some nuts to warm up your breakfast pleasure.

10. GET A NEW OR PREOWNED FALL FUR THROW OR LAP RUG Every year when my house gets cooler, I look at the beautifully staged photos of real fur throws like Tibetan lamb or American rabbit, then I weasel out of buying in part because they are pricey but also fearing my more righteous animal-rights friends might show up on my porch like villagers with torches and pitchforks—so maybe I'll get that faux fox blankie on eBay. Another seasonal fave: Hudson Bay "Point" blankets with the signature stripes date back to Canadian autumns in the late 1700s.

11. MICROWAVE CARAMEL CARNIVAL APPLES Get your carny on with a bag of caramels and an easy recipe at food.com.

12. BUILD A RESPONSIBLE BONFIRE My dad, a college professor/caveman, never aged out on the SMILE-MAKING of building a roaring campfire. He harkened back to our Native American ancestors to construct a tepee shape that would ultimately bun responsibly and fall into itself. Dad would be impressed with the fire-making tips found at instructables.com/How-to-Build-a-Bonfire.

AUTUMN S.U.N.S. (UNITING)

13. FALL IS DOGGONE GREAT FOR DOGWASHING Before it gets too cold to lather up Lassie outdoors, watch your calendar for a warm day to make your mutt a nicer, cold weather companion indoors.

14. SENIORS MAKE BETTER STORYTELLERS Some of my most pleasurable memories of Fall are sitting around a crackling fire listening to the vast troves of treasured tales from seasoned storytellers. At the risk of having an age bias on this, and there are some gifted, young-ish story-weavers, we elders simply have more stories, and especially more rehearsed ones, stored up for sharing around the tribal fires.

15. AIR OUT AND CLEAN YOUR SHELTER TOGETHER Every individual who chooses to cohabitate has a responsibility to cooperate in regular and seasonal upkeep of the place. Before cold air forbids it, fall is a prime time to air everything out, purge the undesirable and ready to share the warmth of the home fires.

16. COZY UP WITH SOMEONE ON THE COUCH

17. THE GREAT PANDEMIC FRIENDSHIP PURGE Most cartoons connect with us because they communicatee a bit of shared truth. During the worldwide coronavirus lockdown, a cartoon in "The New Yorker" showed a cohabitating couple sorting through an address book and one stating how the contagion-caused isolation caused them to "know which friends we can live without." Yes, biting wit, but reminds us to value even more those we hold dear. Fall is a good time to be thankful for those who matter to us and plan to send winter holiday cards and gifts.

18. MAKE A "WARM FRIENDS" BASKET Why wait until Christmas? Cooler fall days could be a good time to give your loved ones a thank-you gift like a couple of mugs and a tin of tea. If your friends have smart-sized their things as so many of us have, you might consider recyclable cups and tea bags. It truly is the warm thought that counts.

19. CREATE A MASTER GARDENER-WORTHY, "WELCOMING FALL" RED CONTAINER GARDEN In an orange-y red terracotta pot, plant Euonymus alatus "Compactus," which, with its intensely red leaves, is one of the first shrubs each year to express the coming of autumn. Let the understory be golden-yellow Ceratostigma willmottianum Sapphire Ring (aka "Lissbrill") and the burnt orange of Dryopteris erythrosora. Together, these will radiant your S.U.N.S. message even from a shady corner. (Inspired by a DIY article in the elegant, British periodical, "Gardens Illustrated" September 2020)

20. GIVE A ROUSING SALUTE AT A VETERAN'S DAY PARADE to all the men and women who have served in the U.S. military. Americans celebrate on Nov. 11 and have each year since the end of WWI with the proclamation by President Woodrow Wilson.

21. CELEBRATE YOUR HOMECOMING at a football game boasting a giant chrysanthemum blossom on your lapel and cheering on the marching bands at the parade.

22. FLING SOME FLANNEL AT A FALL PICNIC The summertime Thermos of frozen margaritas gives way to warming Kahlua and cream. "Country Living Magazine," (September 2021) has a delish recipe for Grilled Mushroom Panzanella with Tomato Vinaigrette. A mushroom shopping tip per the article: "Look for fun varieties like oyster, Hen of the Woods, and chanterelles, which have varying textures and flavors (peppery and earthy for chanterelles and spicy and nutty for Hen of the Woods.)"

23. GO HIKING WITH YOUR BEST FRIEND or if you don't have a dog, maybe a human friend. If all else fails, invite your spouse to take a hike.

24. HELP A "FRIENDSGIVING" HAPPEN Some of the most fun don't have an entire cornucopia of "should and oughts." Set a date/time that is near/on Thanksgiving Day. Pick a place, pick some friends and get comfortable with the randomness of a "potluck palooza." However, if you and your friends prefer formality and are Food Network fans, enjoy sweating the details. The essential elements are FRIENDS + GIVING. Go get your SMILE-MAKING gobble going.

25. TAKE YOUR HONEY or YOURSELF ON A HAYRIDE Also, YouTube "The Louisiana Hayride," a radio and later television country music show that broadcast out of Shreveport from 1948-1960. Hank Williams joined the "Louisiana Hayride" after being rejected by "The Grand Ole Opry," and Elvis Presley's very first television appearance was on the "Hayride."

AUTUMN S.U.N.S. (NEIGHBORING)

26. PLAYING UNDER A QUILT FRAME ONE FALL as my mom and a group of ladies from the new community we had just moved to (Grandview, AL) stitched my family some quilts is my earliest memory. I was 16. I'm joking; I was 3, which would be almost 70 autumns ago. Fall is a wonderful season for creating heritage crafts and warm, NEIGHBORING memories. "Crafting with Flannel: A Beginner's Guide to Making Gifts, Accessories and Home Décor" by Sarah Ramberg would make a terrific "how-to" addition to any cool weather crafter's library.

27. ENGINEER A MUSHROOM VALLEY I've been volunteering with fellow Master Gardeners to revitalize a woodlands glade in one of our public parks. There is a drainage ditch in this enchanted forest that could be fairly easily and inexpensively transformed to what the French call a "Vallee de Champignons." Next fall we could host an "outdoor test kitchen" and sample the deliciousness of morels, shitake, wood blewit and other 'shrooms. Many public parks could offer such tasty lessons of culinary NEIGHBORING.

28. A CHARCUTERIE BOARD CO-OP with friends cooperating to create a splendid array could be a good way to take your fall tailgating to a new level. Charcuterie boards have been around since the 15th century in France but are even better with today's imaginative sourcing of global components like olive tapenade, prosciutto, grapes, baguette slices, bleu cheese, pomegranate arils, cheese curds, fresh figs, cornichons and Marcona almonds.

29. PRESSING APPLE CIDER I saw my friends Donna and Tim Richter demonstrating this to an enthusiastic crowd at Peinhardt Farm Days Heritage Festival one autumn and have been eager to try my hand (and elbow grease) at it since.

30. THROW WILDFLOWER SEED BALLS (search online for easy instructions) into public meadows this autumn to create more spring blooms for bees and other pollinators.

31. DONATE FUNDS FOR BINOCULARS to your local birding group or the Audubon Society.

32. HELP SOME NEARBY HOMESTEADERS CHOP WOOD

33. JOIN LOCAL FRIENDS FOR A FALL FOLIAGE BUS/TRAIN TOUR Can't find this sort of tour locally? Start one.

34. GOBBLE ONE, GIVE ONE turkey this Thanksgiving holiday.

35. RE-CREATE "THE FIRST, LOCAL THANKSGIVING MEAL" in your area. My county was originally founded as a "German colony in Alabama." I'm imagining an 1870s, autumn feast of Native American pecans and wild turkey, African American fried yams and German American sausages. Danke, y'all.

36. WRITE A "THANKSGIVING THANK YOU NOTE" to every person in a nursing home near you.

37. GO OVER THE RIVER AND THROUGH THE WOODS TO A FAMOUS GRANDPARENT'S HOUSE I live about an hour from the former home of the poet Samuel Ullman and once communicated with his grandson to arrange a visit. Mr. Ullman wrote the poem "Youth," which opens with these encouraging words: "Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind; it is not a matter of rosy cheeks, red lips and supple knees; it is a matter of will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions; it is the freshness of the deep springs of life." Who is a "famous grandparent" you might go over the river and through the woods to salute this fall?

38. GET SPOOKED FOR A REASON "Haunted" houses and graveyards and such theatrical fright shows support charities across the country. If you're going to get scared this fall, let it be for a good cause.

39. SHARE A PHOTO OF THE MOST GORGOUS LOCAL FALL TREES with a local Facebook group page. Last fall, my favorite snapshot was of a sugar maple next to the Catholic cemetery. It seemed to make a poetic statement about the passage of time.

40. MAKE FLEECE BLANKIES FOR NEWBORNS to give to your local maternity ward. (Note: In Alabama, if a hospital wants to offer a fleece blanket to the parents of a new baby, it is wise to first ask if their baby is a "Roll Tide" or "War Eagle" fan.)

AUTUMN S.U.N.S. (SPELLBINDING)

41. HARVEST SOMETHING Ask a local farmer if you can come gather. This week, I drove past acres of cotton bolls near a busy interstate highway. If I lived nearer, I'd love to do some nostalgic cotton pickin'. Practice the NEIGHBORING act of "gleaning."

42. DE-LEAF TOMATO PLANTS The sun is waning, so tomatoes need to be exposed to it as much as possible. Also, watering will go to the fruit not to the leaves.

43. CARVE A JACK-O-LANTERN for some SMILE-MAKING and SPELLBINDING.

44. COLLECT PINECONES Enjoy the intricate geometry of their natural construction with a basket near your hearth and plan on creating peanut butter-slathered feeders for winter birds.

45. CREATE A SCARECROW Consider the "33 Cool Scarecrows" at sowanddipity.com.

46. LEARN TO IDENTIFY BIRDS as you increase your aviary knowledge for the Christmas Bird Count.

47. CHOP! CHOP! MAKE SOUP Fall is a good time to chop fruits and vegetables for freezing. I'm dreaming of the winter pies my friends will bake and share after I share some autumn bounty.

48. TELL OR READ REAL GHOST STORIES This past week, a friend, Hollybird, and I talked about the famous ghost in a dormitory of the University of Montevallo (AL). So, I shared with her my favorite real ghost story collection by Kathryn Tucker Windham.

49. COUNT THE PLANKS IN A COVERED BRIDGE and imagine the long-ago autumn sounds of carriage wheels carrying folks over the river and through the woods.

50. BUY SOME RUBBER WELLIES so you have one less excuse for not hiking through wet leaves.

51. GATHER NUTS I bet there are some around you this fall. There were plenty last year when Auburn played Alabama.

AUTUMN ROASTED CHICKEN WITH ROOT VEGETABLES—OHIO CHICKEN
(Source: allrecipes.com)

Each week, "The JOYrontologist," shares a recipe saluting a healthy food produced in America. This delicious and nutritious collection is called "The S.U.N.S. Longevity Cookbook" and highlights vitamin B-3 (niacin) which many gerontologists believe holds the promise of a long, healthy, joyful life.

INGREDIENTS

- 1 (4-6 pounds) whole chicken
- Salt and ground black pepper to taste
- 1 tbsp. unsalted butter, melted
- 1 pinch saffron
- 1 pinch saffron
- 1 medium lemon, sliced
- 1 clove garlic, halved
- 4 large carrots cut in 2-inch pieces
- 1 large fennel bulb, cut in thin wedges
- 1 large red onion, cut into 1/2-inch slices

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Wash the chicken and pat dry. Poke it with a toothpick all over about 40 times. Season with salt and put in the refrigerator to chill for 8 hours.

2. Preheat the oven to 425F.

3. Combine melted butter and saffron in a small bowl. Pour over chicken to cover, and season with salt and pepper. Stuff chicken with lemon slices and garlic. Tie the chicken legs with kitchen string and tuck legs underneath.

4. Lay carrots, fennel and onion at the bottom of a roasting pan and rest the chicken on top.

5. Roast in the pre-heated oven for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Spoon the juices from the chicken over the vegetables. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Continue to roast until no longer pink at the bon and the juices run clear, 10 to 15 minutes. An instant-read thermometer inserted into the thickest part of the thigh, near the bone, should read 165F.

6. Remove from the oven and cover with aluminum foil; let sit for 15 to 30 minutes before serving to allow chicken to absorb all the juices.

"The JOYrontologist RECOMMENDS pairing a California Chardonnay or a New Zealand Pinot Gris with root vegetables. CULLMAN, Ala. — Cullman's popular Downtown Grill is back, a little more than year since a fire shut the restaurant down.

Owners Justin and Sara Lee experienced a complete loss of their business last fall when an electrical fire in the Grill's kitchen claimed the staple restaurant in Cullman known for great wings in a family atmosphere.

"The fire happened around 4 a.m. on Sept. 2 of 2021," said Sara Lee. "Thankfully, no one was there, but it was a total loss for us and it's taken a year to bring the restaurant back from the ground up. What you'll see now is a completely different and larger space, and we hope the community will love it as much as we do."

The Tribune toured the Downtown Grill prior to its recent soft opening.

The Lees purchased the space next door to create a bar area with additional seating. "We're calling it the Side Bar," Lee said.

"You'll have a larger dining area than in the previous space and additional seating in the new bar area where there is also a space for bands to come and play on the weekends. The bar and the dining area will be two separate locations, so the family atmosphere and area just to come and enjoy a meal will be the same."

A neat surprise was the Cullman history the Lees chose to incorporate in their newly constructed restaurant.

"Everything that you'll see in the restaurant that is wood, my husband Justin built. We really wanted to represent our family history here in Cullman, so we used doors from Cullman Cabinet, Justin's family's business, to build our entryway desk and bars," Lee said.

"Also, our family owned the Cullman Holiday Inn in the 1980s, and we restored some of their furniture as our table bases in the dining area. We love to celebrate our family history and wanted to highlight it here in the restaurant."

Although a terrible situation happened to enable what the Lees have built, Sara Lee said it helped to create a vision for expanding their restaurant and they are thankful.

"No one wants to face such a trying time like that in order to bring goals to life, and although it was an expensive push, it was just that in the right direction," she said. "We're so thankful for the blood, sweat and tears that went into creating this new building."

Lee said the opening date isn't official yet, but the goal is Oct. 3.

"We are doing the soft openings this weekend, hosting different local groups," she said. "The menu is mostly the same, but there will be some new items as well."

The Downtown Grill, located at 108 Fourth St. SW, will host a ribbon-cutting ceremony Monday, Oct. 3, at 10:30 a.m. The new phone number is 256-747-5533. Hours of operation will be: Monday-Thursday, 10:30 a.m.-11 p.m.; Friday-Saturday, 10:30 a.m.-midnight; Sundays, closed.

Public comments

When the meeting was opened for public comments, one city resident and three county residents spoke out against the upcoming Cullman Comes Out event on Oct. 8 citing concerns for "Christian values," traffic logistics, Leninism, monkey pox, Satan worship and gangs.

City resident Boyd Langford asked for the special event permit to be revoked as "not even a mask over the rectum will slow the spread (of monkeypox) nor flatten the proverbial curve." Langford voiced his fear that the spread of monkeypox is far graver than the COVID-19 pandemic and referred to Alabama Governor Kay Ivey as "the shutdown queen in Montgomery."

Langford and another speaker also voiced concerns over possible traffic issues which they expect to come with the event. Cullman Comes Out, their event of concern, is scheduled the weekend following one of the city's largest downtown festivals Oktoberfest.

The following three speakers were residents of Cullman County, not within city limits, and voiced similar concerns.

An online copy of the City of Cullman FY 2023 budget will be posted once it is made available.

BILLY BOB'S STORIES AND STUFF

You'll stick a stick in your eye

Bill King
Tribune
Contributor

Over the past 10 years, I have thought quite a bit about what it might be like to be blind. Vision is one of the greatest gifts God has given us. It is so precious that he even gave us a spare eye. Two eyes work best, but at least we can still see if we only have one.

Somewhere around 40-years ago, after a routine eye exam, my optometrist informed me that I had lattice degeneration. The only thing I knew called lattice was that crisscrossed-wooden stuff that people put up around their porch. I was afraid I was going to have to replace all of mine around my house, but then I remembered that I don't have any! Lattice degeneration is an eye condition that causes a thinning of the retina.

He warned me that I could possibly develop tears and even detachments one day because of this issue. After a while, I didn't give it much thought, but then the gnats came swarming. I hate gnats, don't you? They are pesky little critters that fly in your face. Some of them are like kamikaze pilots bombing our eyes, ears, and mouth. They won't kill us, but they cause us to want to kill them.

I first noticed my problem at a Baptist church fellowship dinner. There was a good group there, including a squadron of gnats. I kept trying to swat them away from my face, but to no avail.

Jean asked, "What are you doing?" I answered, "Those sticking gnats are driving me nuts." She said "I think you've already gone there, because I don't see any gnats." The gnats went home with me and everywhere I went for the next few days. No one else seemed to see them, only me. Then one night, I began seeing flashes of light that no one else saw either. That's when I remembered what my optometrist had told me all those years earlier. He said if I ever saw flashes of light, to get myself to a doctor ASAP.

My optometrist sent me straight to Montgomery to see an ophthalmologist. He dilated my eyes, looked in with that blinding light, rolled back on his stool, and said, "Oh my! We've got to get you to a retina specialist." During my first vision check, the young lady asked, "What is the first line you can read on the chart?" I answered, "What chart?"

Over the next several weeks I had 5 surgeries, which included repairing the retina and a hole in the macula. Eventually, I developed a cataract in that eye, so there was another surgery to replace the lens with an artificial one. Even after all that, my vision is not great, but if there really was an elephant in the room, at least I could see it. I can't read the bottom lines on the eye chart, but I can see the chart now!

This week I had another scare. A huge limb had fallen in my backyard. After cutting it up with my handy-dandy chain saw, I removed my safety glasses and began loading the limbs in my wheelbarrow. Even though I had seen those gnats, I didn't see that little stick that was headed straight for my eye... my rebuilt eye, at that. The good news is that other than some pain and light sensitivity, there was no apparent damage.

We should guard our eyes and protect our vision. In his Sermon on the Mount, Jesus warned about having a plank in our own eye, but seeing the speck in someone else's. We must always be careful.

POET'S CORNER

The Breeze of Fall | April Mccay

The breeze of Fall

Awakens my senses,

And my imagination runs wild.

The true beauty of this season

Stirs something within me,

My most favorite season of them all.

God's chilly breath of wind

I notice rustling the leaves in the air,

As He decorates in warm hues, the trees so tall.

The smells of chili, soups and fire

Bringing seasonal comfort as a flannel blanket to y'all.
