CULLMAN, Ala. — Several new restaurants are coming to Cullman, including Half Shell Oyster House, 7 Brew, Dunkin' Donuts, Outback Steakhouse and a second Goat Island Brewing location.

"It's pretty remarkable what's happening in this community and the interest here and the growth. I just think Cullman is a great place for those, and a lot of these retail establishments who are very interested," said Cullman Economic Development Agency Director Dale Greer. "You asked in particular about a couple - Dunkin' Donuts is under construction in the shopping center on the south end of town, down there by Kentucky Fried Chicken. You go on to Lowe's there is the 7 Brew, which is a coffee shop with a drive-thru that's in their park- » PAGE 5

Gauge Day
gauge@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. — Cornerstone Revival Center is set to host its fifth annual Christmas Market on Saturday, Nov. 16, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., an event designed to bring the community together in the spirit of the season. This year's market will feature more than 40 local vendors, providing an expanded selection of unique, locally crafted items, including baked goods, jams and jellies, handmade crafts, Christmas decorations, quilts, Myra bags, custom laser-engraved gifts, ladies' clothing and much more.

"Our church hosts this community event with the heart to bring people together, celebrate the season, and support local businesses. This year our market is organized by a diverse team of volunteers under the leadership of Robert Brantley to cultivate a community event that holds memories for a lifetime and inspires each attendee," said Madeline Roberts, a representative for Cornerstone Revival Center. "The Christmas Market isn't just about shopping; it's about sharing the reason for the season by celebrating God's love and bringing the community together. We are here to serve and share the gospel in everything we do."

In addition to shopping, the market will offer food options from local favorites, including El Mezcal and Carnival food trucks, along with coffee from Altared Coffee. A bounce house will also be available for children. Admission is free, and each attendee will receive a punch card upon entry. Visitors can collect stamps by visiting each of the four vendor areas around the campus. Completed punch cards can be entered for a chance to win a $100 cash prize. Additionally, attendees can follow Cornerstone Revival Center on its social media pages for a chance at a gift card giveaway to be used for extra shopping money at the market.

For additional information, contact the church office at 256-796-2899 or info@crccullman.com. Cornerstone Revival Center is located at 3151 Alabama Highway 69 North in Cullman.

Greer continued, "We're seeing people begin to take advantage of spaces that exist for the smaller things and filling in the needs and those kinds of things."Outback Steakhouse is under construction in the North Shopping Center. Luncheon (from Front)

Special to The Cullman Tribune, Jen Baker

HANCEVILLE, Ala. — Wallace State Community College's Future Foundation raised a record $384,621 at its 20th annual Student Investment Luncheon on Thursday, Nov. 7. The event, held at the Traditions Bank Arena inside Tom Drake Coliseum, is the premier fundraiser for the organization that funds hundreds of scholarships benefitting Wallace State students each year.

Of the amount raised, $176,831 was generated through seven new scholarships, three of which are endowed, said Suzanne Harbin, vice president for advancement, before announcing the grand total. Those new scholarships include the following:

- Andy Nash Aspiring Aviator Scholarship
- Hanceville Nursing and Rehab Endowed Scholarship
- Glenn and Sharon Horton Memorial Scholarship
- Path to Perseverance Endowed Scholarship
- WSCC NC3 Scholarship
- WSCC Social and Behavioral Science
- Representative Corey Harbison Endowed Scholarship
- Senator Gudger Endowed Scholarship

Another $146,350 was raised through table sponsorships. The silent and live auctions raised a combined $48,390 and a paddle-raise brought in $13,050 to establish a new scholarship.

"Today's luncheon marks not only the 20th anniversary of the Future Foundation but also celebrates the incredible progress we've made since our founding in 2004," said Wallace State President Dr. Vicki Karolewics. "Starting with just six visionary board members and $35,000 in assets, the Foundation now holds close to $8.5 million — a testament to the dedication and generosity of our supporters."

As an example of the Foundation's growth in 20 years, Karolewics noted that 50 students were presented with an average award of $500 or less when the first scholarships were awarded in 2008. For the 2024-2025 academic year, the Future Foundation awarded a record 251 scholarships totaling $465,000.

The Foundation offers more than 100 named and 70 endowed scholarships, with awards averaging $2,000 per student and supports over 200 students each year.

"Over the last two decades the Foundation has awarded over $3 million in scholarships to over 3,500 deserving Wallace State students," Karolewics said.

"Donors, please never underestimate the impact of your gift," Karolewics added. "You give more than financial support—you offer a gift of education that changes lives. Education is an investment, and lack of access is far more costly in the long run."

Before giving the invocation, Wallace State scholarship recipient and Lion Leader Riley Simpson thanked those in attendance for their support of the college.

"Personally, I'm very humbled and very honored to stand before you today," Simpson said. "I know many students in my position don't have the same opportunity as myself to be here, so this event today is just a testament to the hard work for our students and the opportunities provided by Wallace State."

Donna Guthrie, president of the Future Foundation Board of Directors, said a goal of the Foundation is to raise funds that will allow each graduating high school senior in Cullman County could receive a scholarship

"Think how wonderful that will be if you were graduating high school...and know that you could go to Wallace state and begin your journey in education and learn skills for the workforce," Guthrie said.

"When you invest in these students you're investing in your future workforce and the future of this community," she added.

Foundation board member John Riley took the stage to recognize leaders of the college and Future Foundation who have been instrumental in its success. Those recognized included Karolewics, Harbin, Cherie Smith and LaDonna Allen.

Riley said these women often give credit to others, but "these individuals are always the ones that bring it all together and make it happen," he said.

BILLY BOB'S STORIES AND STUFF

What can I get for this?

Bill King
Tribune
Contributor

I've noticed in recent years, even though I've paid for a motel/hotel room in advance, the check-in clerk always wants my credit card for incidentals. That's so I don't skip out without paying for that Coke Zero and peanut M&Ms I scarfed down, or that $5 bottle of water in my room. Even though we pay for most things with a card these days, I still like to travel with a little cash in my pocket for incidentals. If I'm traveling in a foreign country, I like to take a few dollars and some of whatever their currency is. I try to spend all my foreign currency before I leave that country. Usually, I can't quite use it all up, so I end up bringing some back home. At least I'll have a little for the next trip.

You know that pleasant surprise feeling when you put your hand in the pocket of an old coat and pull out a $20 bill? Much to my surprise, before we rode the Rhine, I put my hand in my cookie jar and discovered 160 leftover euros. That's about $174 in American money. That's certainly not enough money for a week-and-a-half in Europe, but I figured it would be enough for me to pay for, you know, the things I really didn't need anyway. After all, how many coffee mugs and T-shirts from who knows where can one person use?

I learned to count American coins at an early age. Euros are still a work in progress for me. That's because we basically have four coins that we use. Yes, we have half-dollars and silvers dollars, but we usually don't carry those. There are eight denominations of euro coins, and they carry them all. Not only do the Europeans have 1-cent coins, but they also have 2-cent coins. I guess that's so they can put in their two cents worth! They also have 1-euro coins and 2-euro coins. We have $2 bills, but we don't spend those either. We give them to our grandchildren...so they can ask, "What is that?"

I found a touristy looking laminated map of the Rhine River. It was a bargain at 7 euros and some-odd change. I pulled out a handful of euros and began trying to count it out to the merchant. Suddenly, he reached in my hand and counted out for himself what he needed. I felt like a kid again. My mind went to back to my occasional visits as a child to Mr. Shirley's Rainsville Five-and-Dime Store.

Money was hard to come by in those days, but when a little did manage to come my way, I managed to make my way to town soon afterward. Rarely did I have folding money, but rolling money rolled my way once in a while. When I did manage to occasionally have a nickel or two in my pocket, Mama often said it was burning a hole in there. I could never find that hole, but I was afraid my money might slip through it before I could get to town and spend it! I had not yet learned the value of a penny saved. I would hold out my hand to show Mr. Shirley my coin, or in lucrative times, my coins, and ask him, "What can I get for this?" He would pick out coins and hand me candy until my hands and pockets were empty.

Finally, I began to realize that it might be a good idea to hang onto a little bit for the next trip.

Bill King can be reached at bkpreach@yahoo.com or 334-728-5514 (office).

Who Hath a Book | By: Wilbur D. Nesbit - (1871-1927)

Who hath a book
Has friends at hand,
And gold and gear
At his command;

And rich estates,
If he but look,
Are held by him
Who hath a book.

Who hath a book
Has but to read
And he may be
A king indeed;

His Kingdom is
His inglenook;
All this is his
Who hath a book.
