Blood drive at Wallace State to honor Sophia Zeigler

Special to The Cullman Tribune

HANCEVILLE, Ala. — Wallace State Community College will host LifeSouth Community Blood Centers and Sophia's Giving Hands Foundation on Tuesday, Aug. 26 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. on the Hanceville campus, for a blood drive held in memory of Sophia Zeigler.

Zeigler tragically lost her life to gun violence at the age of 19, shortly after being accepted at Wallace State to pursue her dream of becoming a sonographer. Her family established a scholarship in her memory with the Wallace State Future Foundation that is awarded twice a year to support minority female students in the sonography program.

Additionally, the Sophia's Giving Hands Foundation was created to continue her spirit of compassion, with a mission to support victims of domestic violence and gun violence.

The Aug. 26 blood drive will be the third blood drive they have held in her memory.

Two mobile LifeSouth units will be parked behind the Garlan E. Gudger Student Center to accept blood donations.

Free drinks, snacks, pizza and prizes will be available, and donors will receive a custom t-shirt.

To make an appointment to donate, visit www.lifesouth.org.

For more information about Sophia's Giving Hands Foundation, visit www.sophiasgivinghands.com.

Auburn to honor Bo Jackson at Iron Bowl to commemorate 40th anniversary of Heisman Trophy season

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. — Auburn Athletics will honor Bo Jackson at the Iron Bowl this fall to commemorate the 40th anniversary of Jackson's 1985 Heisman Trophy winning season.

Widely regarded as one of the greatest athletes ever, Jackson played football, baseball and ran track at Auburn from 1982-86 and later played professionally in the National Football League as well as Major League Baseball.

Jackson became Auburn's second Heisman Trophy recipient 40 years ago after rushing for 1,786 yards, which was the second-best single-season performance in Southeastern Conference history.

The Bessemer, Alabama, native also rushed for 17 touchdowns that season while averaging 6.4 yards per carry.

"Ever since he arrived on the Plains in 1982, Bo Jackson has represented Auburn in a world class manner in his athletic, professional and philanthropic endeavors," Auburn athletics director John Cohen said.

"Bo's 1985 season ranks among the greatest in the storied history of Auburn and the Southeastern Conference. It is our privilege to honor Bo on the 40th anniversary of his Heisman Trophy season."

Jackson finished his four-year Auburn career with 4,303 rushing yards and 4,575 all-purpose yards and 43 rushing touchdowns.

His No. 34 jersey was retired as part of Auburn's football centennial celebration in 1992.

Jackson played eight MLB seasons for the Kansas City Royals, Chicago White Sox and California Angels and was the 1989 All-Star Game Most Valuable Player and 1993 American League Comeback Player of the Year.

Jackson spent four seasons in the NFL with the Oakland Raiders, totaling 2,782 yards and 16 touchdowns before having his football career cut short with an injury in 1991.

Auburn to retire Cam Newton's jersey number

Jeff Shearer
AU Athletics

AUBURN, Ala. — Auburn Athletics will retire 2010 Heisman Trophy winner Cam Newton's No. 2 jersey, making him the fourth player in program history to have his number retired. The retirement ceremony will take place at the Georgia game on Oct. 11 at Jordan-Hare Stadium.

Newton's No. 2 jersey will join Pat Sullivan (No. 7), Bo Jackon (No. 34) and Terry Beasley (No. 88) as former Tiger football players to have their jersey number retired. Sullivan and Beasley's jerseys were retired following Sullivan's 1971 Heisman Trophy season and Jackson's jersey was retired as part of Auburn's football centennial celebration in 1992.

"Auburn will always be home to me," Newton said. "The national championship we won in 2010 was a special moment, and to have my jersey retired alongside legends like Pat Sullivan, Bo Jackson, and Terry Beasley is an incredible honor that I'll cherish forever. War Eagle!"

One of the most decorated players in Auburn and Southeastern Conference history, Newton led Auburn to the 2010 BCS National Championship and SEC Championship with a perfect 14-0 record.

"Cam Newton not only led Auburn to a national championship in 2010, but he produced one of the most prolific seasons ever by a college football player," Auburn athletics director John Cohen said.

"Retiring Cam's jersey number is a fitting way to celebrate his lasting impact on Auburn University and Auburn Athletics for all time."

A native of College Park, Georgia, Newton was a consensus All-American in his lone season at Auburn and won the Walter Camp Award, Maxwell Award, Manning Award, Davey O'Brien Award and was Associated Press National Player of the Year.

During Newton's historic 2010 season, he threw for 2,854 yards and 30 touchdowns while rushing for 1,473 yards and 20 touchdowns, also scoring a receiving touchdown.

He became the first player in SEC history to pass for more than 2,000 yards and rush for more than 1,000 yards in a single season.

"Cam is one of the greatest players to wear an Auburn uniform and it is only fitting that he has his No. 2 jersey retired," Auburn head coach Hugh Freeze said.

"We look forward to honoring and celebrating Cam this season with this much-deserved recognition."

Newton went on to have an 11-year career in the National Football League and was NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year in 2011 and NFL Most Valuable player in 2015 while leading the Carolina Panthers to Super Bowl 50. Newton holds the Carolina franchise record for passing yards, passing touchdowns and rushing touchdowns while leading the organization to four playoff appearances and three division titles.

His 75 rushing touchdowns are the most by a quarterback in NFL history.

The four players are among 54 student-athletes from across the country on the watch list for the Lombardi, which is presented annually to the college football offensive or defensive lineman who, in addition to outstanding performance and ability, best exemplifies the character and discipline of NFL Hall of Famer Vince Lombardi. CULLMAN, Ala. — In June, Sacred Heart of Jesus Catholic Church in Cullman welcomed its new pastor Fr. Linus Klucsarits, OSB, following the reassignment of longtime pastor Fr. Patrick Egan, OSB to St. Michael Catholic Church in Florence.

Fr. Linus, the former Paul Klucsarits, was ordained on June 3, 2017, by Bishop Robert Baker of the Diocese of Birmingham. He became a professed member of the monastic community of St. Bernard Abbey in Cullman in 2012.

The son of the late William and Alice Nilan Klucsarits of Allentown, Pennsylvania, Fr. Linus attended Cathedral School and graduated from Allentown Central Catholic High School in 1983. After graduation, he entered St. Charles Borromeo Seminary in Philadelphia where he earned a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy.

Fr. Linus then started a successful career working with the deaf and hard of hearing as a certified sign language interpreter. He spent 13 years as a tenured professor and director of the Interpreter Education program at Camden County College in Blackwood, New Jersey.

In 2004, Fr. Linus began discerning the religious life and found himself drawn to the Benedictine monastic life.

After first joining St. Vincent Archabbey in Latrobe, Pennsylvania, he ultimately found his home at St. Bernard, where took solemn vows in 2015.

Since coming to St. Bernard, he earned a Master of Arts in Education from the University of Alabama at Birmingham, focusing on teaching English as a second language. He served as both assistant headmaster and middle school director at the Abbey's school. He also served as headmaster of the high school and as the school's chaplain and as the prior of the monastery before being named pastor at Sacred Heart.

Outside of his pastoral duties, Fr. Linus enjoys reading, running and following baseball. He is an avid New York Mets fan and completed his first full marathon in 2015. He has run several half-marathons since that time.

"I had thought about being a priest while in school, but after finishing seminary, I wasn't sure what God was asking of me. I stepped away and pursued another path, but in time I was led back — this time through the monastic life. The Benedictine vow of stability spoke to my heart. I ask for your prayers that, in all things, I may serve my Lord," he said.

Fr. Linus now looks forward to joyfully serving the Lord both at Sacred Heart of Jesus Church and in his monastic community, he said.

The community at Sacred Heart will formally welcome Fr. Linus with a drop-in reception for parishioners at the church on Sunday, Aug. 31, from 10 a.m.-1 p.m.

ANABELLE HOWZE/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

The Aug. 15, 2025, session of Little Farmers centered around Jan Brett's book, "Armadillo Rodeo."

Agriplex hosts 'Armadillo Rodeo' for Little Farmers

Anabelle Howze

CULLMAN, Ala. — The North Alabama Agriplex's Little Farmers Preschool Program gives children an opportunity to explore agriculture, nature and community through hands-on, kid-friendly activities. Children ages 3-5 (with an adult) meet one Friday morning each month throughout the school year. Each month includes storytime, stations, a craft and a snack centered around a different Jan Brett book. August's session was inspired by Brett's book, "Armadillo Rodeo."

Each program includes a mix of STEM, sensory, and creative activities, such as crafts, coloring, movement games, and snack time. Children also work on early learning skills such as numbers, letters, colors and gross motor coordination. Themes often highlight farm animals, crops grown in the garden and seasonal agricultural topics, introducing young learners to farming in ways they can easily understand.

Parents and guardians participate alongside the children, sharing the experience and bonding with other families as well. Many attendees appreciate the connections formed through the program, as they often see the same faces month after month.

The cost is $8 per child, with a $16 family maximum, and registration is available online at www.agriplex.org/WPtest/little-farmers.

CULLMAN, Ala. — The Good Samaritan Health Clinic in Cullman is inviting the community to the inaugural Caring for Cullman Health & Wellness Fun Day, set for Saturday, Sept.13, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. at 118 Veterans Dr. SW in Cullman.

Executive Director Jolanda Hutson said the family friendly event is designed to be both fun and impactful.

"It's going to be a day focused on wellness, healthy living and community connection," she explained.

"We'll have live stage sessions, interactive demos, health and wellness resources, free screenings, food trucks and giveaways throughout the day. It is a free event that is open to anyone who would like to join in on the fun."

She continued, "This is our very first Caring for Cullman Health and Wellness Fun Day, a brand-new event dedicated to promoting healthy living, encouraging collaboration among local organizations and celebrating the strength of our community."

For the past several years, the clinic's primary fundraising event has been the Caring for Cullman Concert, which Hutson called "a cornerstone in supporting our mission."

She said, "Last year, our focus shifted toward raising funds for a major milestone — the construction of our new facility. We're thrilled to share that, thanks to the incredible support of our local community and beyond, we'll be breaking ground in just a few weeks.

"This Health & Wellness Fun Day is not only a celebration of that progress, but also a new way for us to connect directly with the people we serve and to continue building a healthier Cullman together."

When asked what inspired the event, Hutson pointed to two main goals. "First, we're excited to share some big news with the community: Good Samaritan Health Clinic is moving to a new location and building a brand-new clinic, right here at the site of our event. We want everyone to know about this next chapter in our story and to feel connected to it from the start.

"Second, we hope to increase awareness and understanding of what Good Samaritan Health Clinic does and who we serve," she added.

"Many people still don't realize that we provide quality healthcare services to uninsured residents of Cullman County and that our services are available to those who qualify, at no cost to the patient.

"This gives us the opportunity to tell that story more broadly and personally."

Hutson said the day will bring together health and wellness resources in one accessible, family friendly space, showcasing local organizations while offering attendees the chance to learn more about their own health in an engaging, hands-on way.

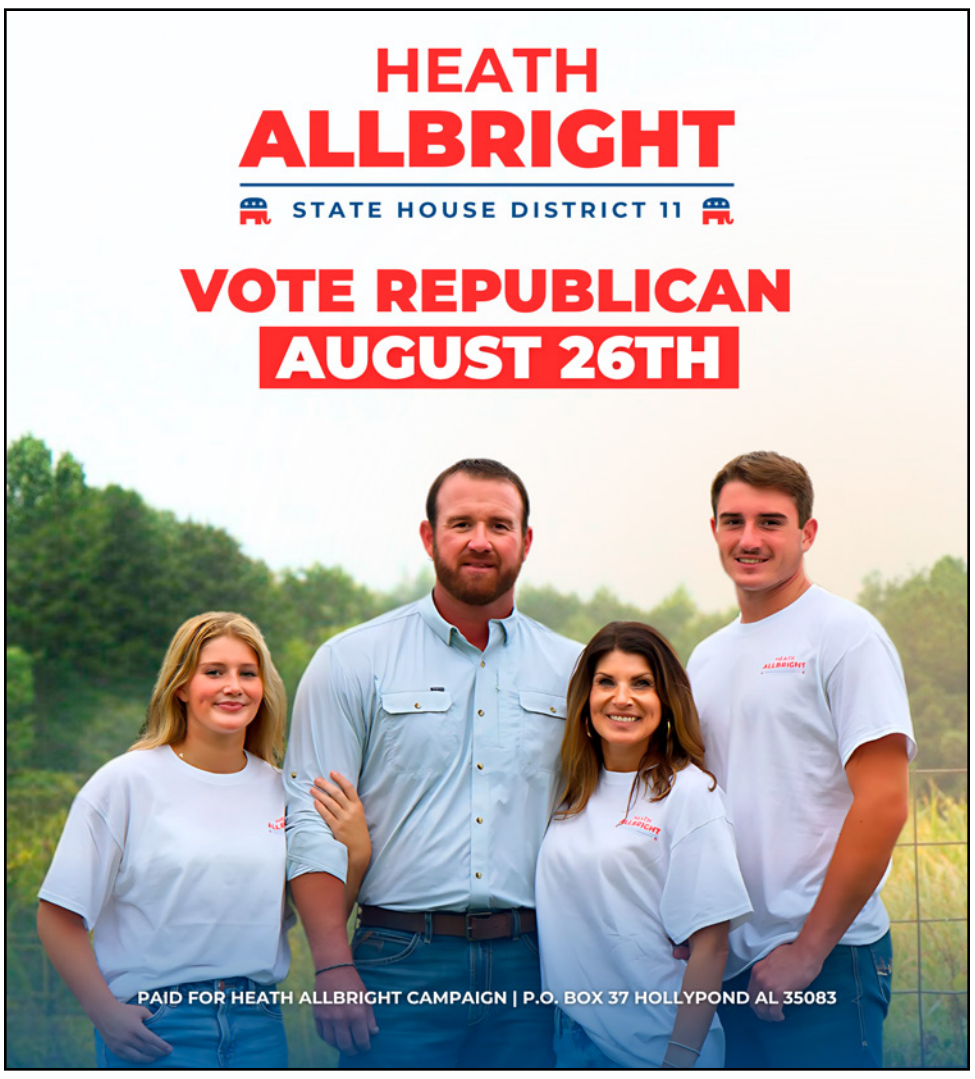

"Whether it's someone discovering a service they didn't know existed, learning something new about their health or simply spending meaningful time with family in a positive setting, we believe this day will be a spark for lasting change," she said.

The Good Samaritan Health Clinic is still accepting volunteers, sponsors and donations for the event.

To get involved, contact Jolanda Hutson at jhutson@goodsamaritancullman.com or 256-255-5964.

All donations help provide healthcare services to those who might otherwise go without.

For more information about the Good Samaritan Health Clinic, visit www.goodsamaritancullman.com or call 256-255-5963 for eligibility details. Donations to the clinic can be made online or mailed to Good Samaritan Health Clinic, 401 Arnold St. NE, Suite A, Cullman, AL 35055.

Prescriptions (from Front)

prescriptions filled at multiple local pharmacies. According to Police Chief Joey Duncan, these prescriptions were used to obtain a range of medications, including controlled narcotics.

"A criminal investigation was immediately launched, led by Lt. Trey Higginbotham, Investigator Hunter Riddlesperger and Investigator Nick Watkins," Duncan said.

"Based on their findings, investigators obtained a search warrant for Infusion Wellness and Spa, the business associated with the forged prescriptions. The warrant was executed on Aug.11, 2025, and key evidence was collected."

Arrest warrants for Cheatham were issued on Aug. 15, 2025. Duncan said Cheatham turned herself in today, Aug. 16, 2025, at 10:15 a.m. She was taken into custody without incident.

Cheatham is facing 25 charges:

- 3 counts of drug trafficking (13A-12-231(3)(c)
- 1 count of criminal conspiracy to commit drug trafficking (13A-4-3)
- 1 count of attempted drug trafficking (13A-4-2(d)(2)
- 6 counts of unlawful distribution of a controlled substance (13A-12-211)
- 1 count of attempted unlawful distribution of a controlled substance (13A-12-211)
- 1 count of criminal conspiracy to unlawfully distribute controlled substances (13A-12-204)
- 1 count of practicing medicine without a license (34-24-51)
- 11 counts of fourth-degree forgery (13A-9-4)

Additional charges and arrests may follow as the case develops.

Cullman County District Attorney Champ Crocker said his office approved the warrants.

"I can confirm that my office approved warrants for drug trafficking and a host of other charges for the arrests of Whitney L. Cheatham," Crocker said.

"These charges stem from the illegal procurement of controlled substances through forged prescriptions originating from Ms. Cheatham's business. I want to thank the local pharmacies that assisted law enforcement, as well as the Cullman Police Department for their outstanding work. While an arrest has been made, this investigation is still ongoing."

Duncan said the investigation was successful because of the hard-working investigators involved.

"I would like to commend Lt. Trey Higginbotham, Investigator Hunter Riddlesperger, Investigator Nick Watkins and District Attorney Champ Crocker for their outstanding work on this case," Duncan said.

"Their dedication, professionalism and relentless pursuit of the truth led to a major breakthrough in what was a complex and evolving investigation. The Cullman Police Department remains committed to protecting the community from prescription fraud and drug-related offenses, and will continue working with partners to ensure those responsible are brought to justice."

The United States Postal Service (USPS) was built on one promise: to deliver the nation's mail, fairly and without exception. But this week in Cullman, that promise was broken.

Subscribers who didn't receive their Tribune on time have one thing to blame — management. District Manager June Martindale reportedly told the Cullman Post Office to prioritize parcels, not mail or newspapers. When questioned, the local supervisor bluntly replied: "We get to choose what goes out."

That is not how the Postal Service is supposed to work. Newspapers are protected under law as essential periodicals, not optional extras. Choosing to leave them behind while pushing out Amazon packages isn't just wrong; it's dereliction of duty.

Local carriers have made it clear: they want to deliver your mail but are being handcuffed by orders from above.

The problem is not the hardworking employees on your street — it's the management who has decided profit trumps public service.

And if they can decide your newspaper isn't worth delivering, what's next? Bills? Prescriptions? Legal notices? Or has that already begun?

This is bigger than The Tribune. It's about accountability and trust. We encourage every reader to contact Sen. Garlan Gudger and Congressman Robert Aderholt and let them know that Cullman's mail service is being undermined.

The USPS does not get to pick and choose. Service to the people is not optional.

If you are frustrated by delayed or undelivered mail and newspapers, contact your elected officials directly. Let them know Cullman deserves reliable postal service.

Elma Frye VanMetre, 88
Elma "Joyce" Frye VanMetre—better known as "Nanny"—was born Dec. 22, 1936, in Elwood, Indiana, to Merle D. Frye and Ethel VanHorn Frye. She passed away peacefully on August 15, 2025, surrounded by family after a short hospital stay. Even in her final days, she stayed true to herself—using some colorful language with the hospital staff and making sure everyone knew exactly what she thought. That was Nanny. No sugarcoating. No guessing games. You always knew where you stood with her, and she wouldn't have it any other way. She loved Elvis, her family, wrestling, cooking shows, and every one of her beloved pets. She spent her working years in the dry-cleaning business before joining Kmart, where she worked nearly twenty years. She was preceded in death by the love of her life, Gerald "Jerry" VanMetre; her parents; two infant sisters; siblings Merle "Junior" Frye, Patsy Niccum, Judith Ricci, and Ronnie Frye; great-granddaughter Madison Paige Thompson; and her best friend, Cindy Stanley. She is survived by her daughters Pam Handley (Donnie) and Jo Dunagan (Richie); her brother Skip Frye (Nancy); sisters-in-law Crystal Frye and Sue Frye; grandchildren Angie Young, Matt Handley, Jenni Lindsey (Tyler), Jason Handley (Telia), Patrick Dunagan (Britney), and Kelsey Cornelius (Eric); great-grandchildren Nathan Weeks, Isiah Young, Abby Young, Madison Lindsey, Kyra Thompson, Cole Green, Brilee Handley, Landon Dunagan, Jayde Handley, Maison Cornelius, Makenna Handley, Kailo Dunagan, Avery Handley, Jagger Dunagan, and Irelynd Dunagan; and two great-great-grandchildren, Jalen Reburn and Beckham Young. She also leaves behind many nieces, nephews, and their families, along with her pets, Penny and Callie. Nanny was one of a kind. She told it like it was, loved fiercely, and left no doubt about how she felt. Her family and friends will carry her stories, her sass, and her love with them always. Services: Visitation will be held at Cullman Heritage Funeral Home at 2 p.m., followed by the funeral service at 3 p.m. Burial will follow at Cullman Heritage Cemetery.

She died on Friday, Aug. 15, 2025, at Cullman Regional Medical Center. Patricia spent her life pouring into others, guided by a heart full of compassion and a steadfast commitment to her community. For several years, she faithfully managed a food bank, ensuring that countless families were nourished both physically and spiritually. She also served as a librarian and worked diligently in clerical services, roles in which her attention to detail, organizational gifts, and strong work ethic shone brightly. Blessed with many talents, Patricia was a woman of creativity and refinement. She delighted in sewing and crafts of all kinds, using her hands to bring beauty and joy to others. Music also held a treasured place in her life; as an avid piano player, she found both comfort and inspiration in the melodies she shared. Survivors include her two sons, Benjamin Ponder and Daniel Ponder; grandchildren, Jake Campbell and Clay Campbell; great grandson, Keegan Campbell; two sisters, Joan Hill and Beverly Dean; and nieces and nephews, Cynthia Bland, Janice Meyer, Valerie Dotson, Jason Mays and Tressie Dean. In addition to her parents, Ms. Ponder was preceded in death by her brother, Paul Dean; and sister, Dot Mays. Hanceville Funeral Home is honored to serve the Dean-Ponder Family.

Elmer Luther Lindsey, 81
Elmer Luther Lindsey, known to most as Luke, was welcomed into Heaven by a loving Father on Sunday evening, Aug. 17, 2025, at the age of 81. Luke was born in Cullman County, Alabama, on Dec. 20, 1943, to John Austin and Dovie Louise Mayhall Lindsey. A selfless man, Luke dedicated his life to our great nation for twenty-eight years while serving in the United States Air Force. Luke loved the Air Force as well as the country he served. As a Defensive Aerial Gunner Superintendent/ Aircrew Instructor and Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Technician, Mr. Lindsey served honorably both stateside as well as overseas. His commitment to our nation included a tour in the Vietnam War where he received commendation for his service and sacrifice. While serving in the Air Force, Luke became a graduate of military education where he earned a bachelor's degree. As a nation, and as a community, may we remember Luke's sacrifice and service to our nation and its people with gratitude for generations to come. Upon his retirement from service, Luke returned home to Cullman County. Luke worked for Americold as a supervisor for twelve years. He enjoyed riding his Harley and catching up with old friends and family. Luke and his wife, Marti, bought a home in Holly Pond where Mr. Lindsey fell in love with farming. As much as Luke loved military life, he loved being on the farm just as much. Following a storm, Luke was introduced to a neighbor, Tommy Murphree, who in turn introduced Luke to another neighbor, Glenn Arrington, and a trio of inseparable friends formed. These three gentlemen helped one another, as well as many friends and neighbors throughout the community. Luke would forget about his own yard to cut hay for someone else. Luke also began mentoring a young man in the community and his friendship with Jessey Morton became something dear to him. Mr. Lindsey's care and concern for his community, and the friendships he offered to others, will be missed greatly by all who had the honor of knowing him. Luke was also a loving husband and father. Marti was cherished by Luke and his adoration for her was known to many. Marti and Luke attended Temple Baptist Church in Fairview where Luke enjoyed worshipping his Savior. Mr. Lindsey also loved his children dearly, and he turned into a doting and proud grandfather when his grandbabies came along. There was nothing Luke would not do for his family, and his love and devotion to those he cared for was evident in many ways. Mr. Lindsey is preceded in death by his parents; three brothers, Jerry Lindsey, Gary Lindsey, and Robert Lindsey; and bonus son, Tim Haynes. Those left to cherish Luke's memory includes his wife, Marti Lindsey; son, Michael Lindsey; daughters, Michelle Padilla (Jose), Maria Coriell, Jacquelin Sorice (Sam); bonus daughters, Angelia Barry (Todd), Tammy Faulkner (Spencer); a multitude of grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and a host of loving friends and family. Luke will be laid to rest in Holly Pond Cemetery following services with full military honors to be rendered. Bee Counted: Pollinator Count Party set for Aug. 22 at Agriplex

Gauge Day
gauge@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. — The Cullman County Extension Office and the North Alabama Agriplex will host a Pollinator Count Party on Friday, Aug. 22, from 9–10 a.m. at the Agriplex as part of the Great Southeast Pollinator Census, a large-scale science project taking place across the region Aug. 22–23. The event is free for anyone who wants to attend.

"The Great Southeast Pollinator Census is a citizen-science opportunity to contribute local data into a much larger pool of data about our pollinator insects in the Southeast," explained Dr. Kira Sims, Cullman County Extension director.

"Similar to the Great Backyard Bird Count that occurs during the winter, this project gets folks out into their yards and communities to help identify and count how many pollinators they see."

So how does someone participate? It's simple: find a pollinator plant, observe it for 15 minutes, record the species of insects that land on it and upload the results at the Great Southeast Pollinator Census website: www.gsepc.org.

The website also offers printable pollinator counting sheets and other resources to help participants identify insects.

For those who prefer to count alongside others, the Pollinator Count Party at the Agriplex will provide hands-on support.

"Participants will receive brief training on insect ID, receive the counting sheet and pollinator seeds will be given away after the count," Dr. Sims said. She added that she and Extension colleague Rachel will be on hand to help attendees choose good pollinator plants and identify insects.

"This is a great opportunity for anyone and everyone to help our pollinators," she said. "The event offers flexibility with time and location — so anyone who can find a pollinator plant and 15 minutes can join in the count. The results will help us better understand what pollinators are out there and what flowers they are visiting, which will help in pollinator conservation."

For more information, visit www.gsepc.org or call the Cullman County Extension Office at 256-737-9386.

The North Alabama Agriplex is located at 1714 Tally Ho St. SW, Cullman.
