It was a magical atmosphere in downtown Cullman Friday night, Nov. 20, 2026, when the Christkindlmarkt Parade slowly made its way down Second Avenue Southeast, Second Street Southeast and First Avenue Northeast. The festive procession's destination? Depot Park, for the lighting of the Christmas tree – "The South's Largest Tree Lighting Show," according to the city. There were lights, fireworks, drones, music, special guests (including James Spann!) and more. Check out Facebook/The Cullman Tribune for more photos!

CULLMAN, Ala. - Cullman County Schools has once again earned an A on Alabama State Report Card, marking the third consecutive year the district has received the state's highest letter grade. The district earned an overall score of 91 for the 2025–2026 school year, matching last year's record-setting score.

The Alabama State Department of Education released the results on Nov. 12, 2026.

Cullman County Schools Superintendent Dr. Shane Barnette said the results reflect the continued dedication of students, educators, staff and families throughout Cullman County.

"We are super excited for our students, teachers, administrators and staff for earning another A on our State Report Card," said Barnette. "This achievement reflects their hard work and dedication, along with the support of our families and community. As we celebrate this success, we will continue to challenge ourselves to improve and help every student reach their full potential."

"Three consecutive A's represent more than a letter grade," the system said. "They reflect a districtwide commitment to student success, strong classroom instruction and a community that values education. From teachers working to meet every student's needs to families reinforcing learning at home, the entire Cullman County Schools community can celebrate this achievement."

The system added: "Cullman County Schools remains committed to its mission of providing Exceptional Educational Experiences for Everyone Every Day (e5). Congratulations to our students, teachers, administrators, support staff and families for making this achievement possible!"

CULLMAN, Ala. – A Cullman County grand jury has indicted former Cullman County Sheriff's Office deputy Charles Jason Dickerson of Empire on two felony charges in a case involving more than $14,000 in allegedly unauthorized fuel purchases, Cullman County District Attorney Champ Crocker confirmed.

Dickerson is charged with using his official position for personal gain and first-degree theft of property. Crocker said the Alabama Ethics Commission investigated the case and referred it to his office for prosecution Oct. 7.

Crocker said the case involves about 500 fuel purchases made in multiple counties over two years. He did not identify the counties or specify when the alleged purchases began or ended.

"These purchases were made with Mr. Dickerson's office-issued fuel card, but were not used for his patrol vehicle," Crocker said.

Under Alabama law, theft of property worth more than $2,500 can be charged in the first degree.

Crocker's statement did not specify when the grand jury returned the indictment or whether a court date had been set.

All defendants are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Pyramid (from Front)

Krystal Corley
krystal@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – There is a certain kind of hush that settles over a crowd just before the lights come on. It settled over Depot Park Thursday evening, Nov. 19, as family, friends and neighbors of all ages gathered at the foot of the Weihnachtspyramide, cocoa in hand, waiting for the moment that has become one of the most beloved traditions of Christmas in Cullman.

Above them, the great German Christmas pyramid stood bathed in red, its tiers of carved figures resting quietly against the night sky.

Then, at the 6 p.m. Pyramid Lighting Ceremony, warm golden light climbed the tower, the star-cut blades at its crown caught the glow and North America's largest Weihnachtspyramide came to life once again.

Phones rose into the air. Children pointed. And for a few unhurried minutes on opening night of the 2026 Cullman Christkindlmarkt, downtown Cullman looked like a page from an old Christmas storybook.

The Weihnachtspyramide, or Christmas pyramid, was first crafted in Germany's Ore Mountains in the late 1700s as an economical alternative to the Christmas tree. Traditional pyramids are turned by the heat of candles at their base. The heat rises to spin a fan-like rotor at the top. Most families know them as small tabletop decorations or pieces hung from the ceiling.

Cullman's is a little bigger.

Standing more than 40 feet tall, it is the largest Weihnachtspyramide in North America, surpassing the Glühwein Pyramid at the Carmel Christkindlmarkt in Carmel, Indiana, according to the Cullman Christkindlmarkt. Rather than candle heat, Cullman's pyramid turns with the help of a motor. It sits next to the Cullman County Museum, crowning the market's main drink hut.

Each level of the pyramid tells part of the Christmas story, and part of Cullman's own.

The first level, at the bottom, holds the Nativity scene: Mary kneeling at the manger, Joseph with his lantern, the wise men and a swaddled baby Jesus.

The second level displays nutcrackers, a German tradition rooted in folklore that says they were given to families as good luck keepsakes to protect their homes.

The third level belongs to jolly St. Nicholas, a bag of goodies on his back, alongside a few dressed-up snowmen.

The fourth level honors Cullman itself, with familiar hometown faces, including city founder Johann G. Cullmann, local law enforcement, first responders and local citizens.

The fifth level shows large winged angels holding candles in both hands, lighting the way to the birth of Jesus.

And at the very top, angels in heaven rejoice at the birth of Christ with harps, trumpets and bells.

It is a fitting picture for a town that has always kept faith, family and community close to the center of its Christmas.

Around the glowing tower, the Christkindlmarkt hummed with the sounds and sights of the season. Man-made snow drifted down over the wooden huts and the shining 108-foot Ferris wheel, Santa Claus made his rounds with hugs and handshakes and the Powerskipping Elves bounded and leapt high into the air near the ice rink, spreading holiday cheer to anyone who stopped to watch.

Banners along downtown light poles wished passersby a "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year," and the wreaths overhead twinkled like they had been waiting all year for this very night.

Ahead of the ceremony, the Cullman Christkindlmarkt invited the community to "grab a cocoa, bring your people and meet us at the pyramid," calling the lighting "one of our favorite moments at the Markt all year." By the look on the faces in the crowd, they weren't the only ones who felt that way.

Earlier this year, Cullman was named one of the Top 25 finalists in Hallmark's Merriest Christmas Towns Contest. But anyone who stood beneath the pyramid Thursday night doesn't need a contest to tell them so. The heart of Cullman is right here in Depot Park, shining gold, and this little corner of North Alabama is every bit the merriest place to be this holiday season.

The pyramid is lit each evening throughout the season, so there is still plenty of time to see it for yourself.

The Cullman Christkindlmarkt is at Depot Park, 107 Arnold St. NW, and runs through Wednesday, Dec. 23. Admission and parking are free; tickets for rides and ice skating can be purchased online.

The market is open Thursday through Saturday from 11 a.m.-9 p.m. and Sundays from noon-8 p.m.

It is closed Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 26. Beginning Thursday, Dec. 10, the market opens daily with the same hours through Dec. 23.

For schedules, maps and more, visit www.cullmanchristkindlmarkt.com or follow Cullman Christkindlmarkt on Facebook. Questions may be directed to 256-734-9157 or info@cullmanchristkindlmarkt.com.

Zoning Board denies sign variance request

Chasady Woods
chasady@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – The City of Cullman Zoning Board of Adjustments & Appeals at its Nov. 17, meeting addressed a sign variance request from Gold Rush Jewelers.

The business presented a request for a sign variance at 301 Second Ave NW. The sign sits against the right-of-way on U.S. Highway 31. Any signs within a right-of-way are limited to 50 square feet in size.

The requested variance was for a lit sign exceeding 50 square feet that would sit close to the neighboring highway, next to a high-traffic intersection.

The Board denied the variance request due to potential safety and hazard concerns.

Cullman Tree Commission prepares for annual Festival of Trees

Leanne H. West
Contributor

CULLMAN, Ala. – The Cullman Tree Commission met Monday, Nov. 16, to discuss final preparations for the upcoming Festival of Trees, a holiday tradition that brings local schools, community organizations and volunteers together to celebrate the Christmas season.

With December quickly approaching, plans are underway for another festive display of beautifully decorated Christmas trees showcasing the creativity and talents of local students.

A total of 12 Christmas trees are scheduled for delivery on Tuesday, Dec. 1. Participating schools will decorate their trees using unique themes, giving students an opportunity to express their creativity while contributing to the community's holiday celebrations. The trees will be judged, with certificates, awards and cash prizes recognizing the participants' efforts.

Local Boy Scouts have volunteered to assist with setting up the trees, and preparations are underway for refreshments, decorations, and other event details. The Commission also discussed community donations and promotional efforts to help make this year's Festival a success.

The Festival of Trees opening ceremony will take place Thursday, Dec. 3, at 5 p.m. at the Cullman Wellness & Aquatic Center (CWAC). The decorated trees will remain on display at CWAC from Dec. 4-27, giving residents and visitors plenty of opportunities to enjoy the festive creations throughout the Christmas season.

In addition to Festival of Trees preparations, the Commission discussed the upcoming Arbor Day Poster Contest, which encourages fifth-grade students to learn about the importance of trees and their role in our communities. Schools have until Jan. 22, 2027, to submit posters for local judging, which will take place Jan. 26, at the North Alabama Agriplex. The winning poster will advance to the state competition.

A ceremony will be held during Arbor Week in February to present prizes to the contest winners and officially proclaim Arbor Week in Cullman.

The Cullman Tree Commission works throughout the year to promote tree preservation, beautification, and environmental awareness. Events such as the Festival of Trees and Arbor Day Poster Contest provide opportunities for students and residents to get involved while encouraging community pride and appreciation for Cullman's natural beauty.

CULLMAN, Ala. – For many children, school breaks mean more than time away from the classroom. For those who rely on free or reduced-price meals during the school year, holidays can also bring uncertainty about where their next meal will come from.

Recognizing this need, Cullman Church of Christ is working to help bridge the gap through its annual Mission Thanksgiving outreach, providing bags of nonperishable food to students before the Thanksgiving holiday.

This year, the church distributed food bags to 950 students across Holly Pond Elementary, Middle and High Schools.

Deliveries took place over three days, beginning Monday, Nov. 16, at Holly Pond Elementary School, followed by Holly Pond High School on Tuesday, Nov. 17, and Holly Pond Middle School on Wednesday, Nov. 18.

CULLMAN CHURCH OF CHRIST

Cullman Church of Christ, through its Mission Thanksgiving outreach, provided Thanksgiving food bags to 950 Holly Pond students.

The idea behind Mission Thanksgiving dates back approximately 20 years to Mayfair Church of Christ in Huntsville, where a similar outreach called "Bags of Blessings" began providing food to children at New Hope School during holiday breaks.

The program was inspired by concerns for children who depend on school meals, including those provided through the National School Lunch Program, which offers free or reduced-price lunches to eligible students during the school year. When classes are not in session, those meals are no longer available, potentially placing an additional burden on families already struggling to make ends meet.

In its early years, the outreach also partnered with Piggly Wiggly to provide turkey vouchers to families, helping them enjoy a traditional Thanksgiving meal.

After the idea was introduced to Cullman Church of Christ, the congregation began its own Mission Thanksgiving outreach at Parkside School, serving students there for two years. Last year, the program moved to Vinemont, where several members of the congregation are teachers. This year, Holly Pond was selected as the recipient.

Over the years, the food bags themselves have evolved to better meet the needs of the children receiving them.

Originally packaged in paper sacks, the food is now distributed in thick, durable plastic bags similar to reusable grocery bags. The change was made after recognizing that paper bags could tear under the weight of the groceries, making it difficult for children to safely transport their food home.

Each bag contains a variety of kid-friendly, nonperishable foods, including two cans of chicken, stuffing mix, macaroni and cheese, mashed potatoes, two cans of corn, two cans of green beans, cranberry sauce and cookie mix.

Preparing and distributing hundreds of food bags requires a considerable amount of planning, coordination and volunteer effort.

Food is purchased in bulk from Sam's Club and Walmart before being transported to the church, where volunteers unload pallets of supplies and organize a large assembly line inside the church gymnasium.

Church members then work together to fill each bag before loading the completed packages onto large, covered trailers for delivery.

Some volunteers even take time off work to help ensure the food reaches students before the holiday break.

This year's outreach served 443 students at Holly Pond Elementary School, 239 at Holly Pond Middle School and 268 at Holly Pond High School.

Funding for Mission Thanksgiving comes in part from the church's annual Harvest Sunday, held each November. During the special collection, congregation members contribute toward various mission efforts, with a portion of the funds designated for Mission Thanksgiving.

Those wishing to support the outreach may also make donations specifically designated for Mission Thanksgiving.

What began as a small effort to provide food to children during school breaks has grown into a longstanding tradition of generosity, bringing church members together with a shared purpose.

Through Mission Thanksgiving, Cullman Church of Christ continues its efforts to help ensure local children have food to take home during the holidays, offering families a little extra support and reminding students that their community cares.

Daystar plans children's wing, 255-seat balcony at Good Hope campus

noah@cullmantribune.com

GOOD HOPE, Ala. - Daystar Church plans to add a children's ministry wing and 255 balcony seats at its Good Hope campus as part of an expansion that also includes a larger lobby, a café and parking improvements.

The project is at 200 Daystar Drive, the location the church calls its Cullman campus. Although the property has a Cullman mailing address, the site plans identify its location as Good Hope .

In its 2026 annual report, Daystar says the work will more than double the size of the existing lobby. Plans also include upgrades to the auditorium's audio, video and lighting systems.

The church's Heart for the Kingdom campaign page lists expanded restrooms, additional parking and improvements to movement around the campus among the planned changes.

In a campaign message signed by pastors Jerry and Leslie Lawson, church leaders describe the need for more room.

"Our kids spaces are filling up. Our lobbies are stretched," the message states.

State records provide additional details about the proposed site work.

The Alabama Department of Environmental Management granted construction stormwater permit coverage Oct. 9, 2026, for the Daystar Church Addition. The authorization followed an application received Sept. 28 and names Cullman-based Eidson & Associates Inc. as the permittee.

The filing describes earthwork, drainage improvements, utility service construction, paving and landscaping associated with an addition to the existing church. It identifies a 13.75-acre permit area within a 40.70-acre property. Those figures describe land area rather than the size of the new building.

St. John & Associates Inc. prepared the civil site plans, which depict a building addition and a relocated playground.

The application lists Sept. 28, 2026, as the anticipated construction start and Sept. 28, 2027, as the anticipated completion date.

Those are proposed dates supplied in the application. They do not establish when work actually began or guarantee when the expanded facilities will open. The ADEM authorization regulates construction-related stormwater discharges and does not serve as a municipal building permit.

The campus improvements are part of Heart for the Kingdom, Daystar's broader two-year fundraising initiative.

The campaign page invites commitments through 2028 and describes projects serving the church's Cullman, Hartselle, Madison and Foley locations.

Daystar's annual report lists a $6 million campaign goal, with $3,657,636 committed and $1,215,401 given. Those are campaignwide figures, not a stated construction budget for the Good Hope expansion.

The church identifies Chris and Micah Dudgeon as its Cullman campus pastors. The campus currently lists Sunday services at 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m., along with children's programming on Sundays and Wednesdays.

A project-specific investment figure, the addition's square footage and a confirmed opening date were not established in the documents reviewed.

The municipal building permit status and any changes to services or campus access during construction also remain to be confirmed.

Records outline $9M rehabilitation plan for Park Manor

Noah Galilee
noah@cullmantribune.com

CULLMAN, Ala. – Housing finance records outline plans to rehabilitate 47 rental units at Park Manor Apartments on Lee Avenue Southwest, with a total development cost of approximately $9 million reported in a 2025 grant award.

The existing apartment community at 1607 Lee Ave. SW is marketed by Morrow Realty Company for residents ages 62 and older or people with disabilities.

The project appears on the Alabama Housing Finance Authority's 2026 approved Housing Credit/HOME application list. The authority identifies $837,776 in housing credits for Park Manor under project number 2026020.

The list names Park Manor Housing, LLLP as the project owner and David Morrow as its contact. It classifies the work as acquisition and rehabilitation, with an elderly tenant population.

Separately, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta selected Park Manor for a $753,439 grant through its 2025 Affordable Housing Program General Fund.

The bank's award list identifies Regions Bank as the participating member financial institution and Hope Enterprise Corporation as the project sponsor. The stated purpose is rehabilitation of 47 multifamily rental units in Cullman.

FHLBank Atlanta announced that year's awards Nov. 3, 2025. Its Park Manor entry gives a total development cost of $9,000,539.

That figure is the development budget reported in the 2025 award record. The public funding lists do not provide a current, itemized construction budget or identify a signed construction contract.

The housing credits and the bank grant are different forms of financial support.

AHFA describes housing credits as an incentive for private investment in affordable rental housing. Investors may receive credits against their federal income taxes each year for 10 years. In exchange, participating owners reserve housing for eligible lower-income residents.

The $837,776 listed by AHFA is a housing-credit allocation, rather than a separate cash grant. The approved-project list does not identify the amount of investor equity that Park Manor would receive through the credits.

CHASADY WOODS/THE CULLMAN TRIBUNE

Housing-finance records outline plans to rehabilitate 47 rental units at Park Manor Apartments on Lee Avenue Southwest, with a total development cost of approximately $9 million reported in a 2025 grant award.

The financing documents describe rehabilitation of the existing community. They do not establish an addition of 47 apartments to Cullman's housing supply.

Morrow Realty's property listing advertises one- and two-bedroom apartments at Park Manor. It lists an on-site laundry facility, community room and gazebo among the community's features.

The award records do not give a construction start or completion date. They also do not identify a contractor, detail the planned improvements to individual apartments or explain whether work would require residents to move temporarily.

Building permit status and a closing date for the acquisition component have not been confirmed for this report. The city's online permit records could not be accessed during the review.

The funding announcements do not specify whether rents or occupancy arrangements would change.

Morrow Realty lists the Park Manor leasing office at 1607 Lee Ave. SW, Suite 100, with a phone number of 256-734-0202.

Obituary Announcements: Nov. 19-20

Janice Kay Watts, 88

Janice Kay Watts, age 88, died on Nov. 12, 2026, in Pensacola, Florida, after a brief acute illness. She is survived by her four children, Kathy (Goggans) Doman, Lynne (Goggans) Miller, Dianne (Goggans) Secola (Rob), and George Goggans, Jr., her six grandchildren, Jamie Secola, Henry Miller, Charlie Miller, Jane Miller, Paul Miller, and Everett Doman, and her two great-grandchildren, Abram Davis and Elias Davis. She is also survived by her brother, Glenn Watts (Earlene), her sister Elaine Watts, and many nieces and nephews. Preceding Janice in death are her parents, Oscar Bernard Watts and Isola Scott Watts, and her brother Tommy Watts. Janice was born in 1938 on her family farm, in Holly Pond, Alabama, a place that was always dear to her heart. It was there that she learned about hard work, and where she developed a love for reading, literature, and writing that would influence her path throughout her life. She was the Valedictorian of her class at Holly Pond High School and attended Sneads College before marrying George Goggans in 1958. After her four children were born and the family moved to Pensacola, Florida, she returned to school and received her bachelor's and master's degrees in English at the University of West Florida. She wrote for the university newspaper and edited its literary magazine. She began her high school teaching career in 1975 at the Pensacola School of Liberal Arts, and continued at Milton High School where she taught English and French until her retirement in 1999. While at Milton High she received the Teacher of the Year Award and was zealous about imparting to her students her appreciation and enthusiasm for literature and language. She was happiest when exploring the classics with her students in her Great Books class. Janice also served for many years as an instructor of English at Pensacola State College. In addition to her profession as an educator, she was also a prolific writer, whose work appeared in Literarily Speaking, and in Emory University's Junction. She published a book of poetry, The Spider's Touch, and wrote The Heart of Jay, chronicling stories of longtime residents of the Jay, Florida, community. She contributed articles to the Jay Tri-City Ledger and the Cullman Tribune. Writing was a passion of hers, and she was tireless in her dedication to it. One of her many favorite authors, William Faulkner, said "If a story is in you, it has to come out." Janice's life was all about telling those stories. She could always be counted on to give a carefully selected book for every birthday, Christmas, or special occasion. She will be laid to rest in her beloved Holly Pond, Alabama, in the cemetery alongside many of her family and friends.

BILLY BOB'S STORIES AND STUFF

The money rock

Bill King
Tribune
Contributor

Did your parents ever tell you that money doesn't grow on trees? I remember thinking that I wish it did. Growing up, I never had much money of my own, so I would have found that money tree and picked myself a crop.

I had plenty of jobs around the house or at my dad's business, but none of them were paying jobs. I asked my dad once why I never got an allowance. He said, "You do. We allow you to live in our house and eat our food." I thought they allowed the dogs and cats to that too, but I had enough sense to not say that out loud. Actually, the dogs lived outside, so I thought I had better leave well enough alone. I did have a warm bed to sleep in.

I soon realized when I heard them say, "Money doesn't grow on trees," that it meant I wasn't going to get whatever it was I wanted. I promised myself that if I ever had children of my own that I would never tell them that. I kept that promise...until mine got old enough to ask for things! Isn't it funny how we end up saying the things we said we would never say?

I have found my parents' words to be true except for a couple of times when churches where I served gave us a small artificial tree with paper money clipped to the branches or leaves. It was a unique way of giving us a love offering. Once they left coins at the base of the tree for our daughter. They called them money seeds. I asked her if she wanted to plant her money seeds in the yard and see if a money tree came up. She was more interested in spending her money than in trying to raise a crop.

While I have never seen a real money tree, as a child I did have a money rock. I don't think it grew money, but it gave me money on several different occasions. It was a large rock that sat a foot or two back from the water's edge of the pond in front of our house. It was about 3 feet by 2 feet in diameter and protruded a couple of feet above the ground. It served as a good launching pad from which to dive into the water.

It was also a perfect natural seat for fishing.

I discovered when visiting fishermen sat on that rock to fish, their loose change sometimes fell out of their pants' pockets. I went fishing almost every day. Sometimes I fished for fish and sometimes I fished for runaway coins. Once when the money rock had gone for a long dry spell without producing any coins, I decided to help it a little. That was not a good or wise decision. My sister had left some change laying on her dresser. Somehow, some of it mysteriously appeared on the money rock. That may have been the first time I ever heard a sermon on "Thy shalt not steal." Other incentives were also given that helped me to not help the money rock again.

I no longer have the money rock and I have never found a real money tree. I have, however, come to realize that the Lord is my Shepherd and I shall not want. That doesn't mean He gives me everything I want, but He has provided me with more than I deserve. For this, I do sincerely give thanks and not just at Thanksgiving.

Vinemont Dispatchers Office Has Been Discontinued on L. & N.

On last Thursday at 12 o'clock noon, the train dispatchers and signal office was closed and the signal board raised for the first time in years and the three men, Messrs. McClanahan, Burks and Wilhite, who have so efficient and carefully watched the movement of the thousands of trains going north and south for all these years, stepped out and closed the telegraph keys for the last time at that station, for the present at least at Vinemont.

The system among the men on the Louisville and Nashville railroad is that whenever a station is closed and there is a young man on the division on which they work they have the right to "roll" the younger man and take his position and so on down the line until all the older again have jobs. By the discontinuance of Vinemont station Mr. Burks rolled Mr. Camp and then Mr. Camp rolled Herman Stinson and as yet Mr. McClanahan and Mr. Wilhite have not called upon any of their younger workers for their job. Mr. McClanahan is one of the five oldest priority men on this division of the L. & N., but at last account had not decided who he would roll.

By the change, Mr. Stinson, who has been for several years one of the courteous and popular ticket agents and dispatchers in Cullman, will have to leave our city and with him, his queenly mother, Mrs. Stinson, will give up her residence in Cullman, much to the regret of their numerous friends and acquaintances.

At present Mr. Burks will still make his home in Vinemont at least until all of the older telegraphers and ticket agents get settled, but we suppose a little later on they will move to Cullman, to the delight of their legions of friends.

Another Chain Store Coming to Cullman—This Time a Drug Store

We learn that the Oscar Fischer building on the corner of East Third street and Third avenue, formerly occupied by the Wells Drug Store, has been leased to a drug store corporation now operating a number of chain drug stores in Birmingham, who will open up a drug store in our city within the next few weeks.

City Drilling New Well

Recently the city of Cullman drilled a well to a depth of 250 feet near the City Light and Water Plant and excellent water fit for drinking purposes in almost unexhaustable quantities.

Methods of pumping the water out of the well in the most unexpensive way were investigated. It was found that an electric rotary pump was more efficient than compressed air. The well was drilled too small for the use of the rotary pump as compressed air was the intended method of pumping when the well was started some months ago. A compressed air pump is about 16% efficient and an electric rotary pump is considered 65% and 80% efficient.

It was planned to ream the well to the necessary size for the rotary pump and it was found the cost was as much per foot as drilling a new well, so a new well within four feet of the well was decided upon.

Work is now under way on the new well and bids on the pumping equipment are being received.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kent Still Make Our City Their Home

J. W. Kent, who has for two or more years traveled for the wholesale house of Harris, Davis & Co., Nashville, in North Alabama, is now traveling for James Reeves & Co., Nashville, in the territory he had formerly represented the old firm.

The Harris, Davis & Co., have sold their wholesale business out to another company and retired.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Kent are pleased to learn they will still make Cullman their home and that Mr. Kent will be calling upon his many friends throughout this district.

POET'S CORNER

Thanksgiving Memories

Randy C. Hale

There are smells and sights that are permanently etched in my heart.

Roasted turkey, sweet potato pies, dressing, and cranberry jelly, devilled eggs, green beans, congealed salad, and old-fashioned macaroni and cheese.

I can close my eyes and see Mom basting the turkey, bathing the old bird in its juices, and watching the Macy's parade on the TV.

I couldn't wait to be with all my cousins.
All of us together outside after dinner regardless of the weather.
Fun and games and hard at play.

Our mothers all sat around the table, laughing and being girls again.
The men are watching a football game.

We bowed our heads before we ate and thanked God for all the blessings He gave.

I am still thankful for those childhood days and all the sweet joy that came.
